(b) We demand a free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1.

(c) We demand the establishment of government savings banks for the safe deposit of the savings of the people and to facilitate exchange.

(d) We demand a graduated income and inheritance tax.

(e) We demand the government ownership and operation of railroads, telegraphs and telephones.

(f) Land and all natural resources of wealth are the heritage of all the people, and should not be monopolized for speculative purposes nor owned by aliens, therefore we demand that all the land now held by railroads and other corporations in excess of their actual needs, and all lands held by aliens be reclaimed by the government and held for actual settlers only.

(g) We demand the election of president and vice president and United States senators by a direct vote of the people.

Second—Obedience to, and enforcement of law is right. It embodies the best citizenship and the noblest patriotism. We demand nothing more and will be satisfied with nothing less, and we insist that this shall be required of all regardless of their wealth or station in life, and we demand that our officials enforce all laws relating to and governing corporations, prohibit trusts and other unlawful combinations and conspiracies against the public welfare.

Third—We demand such legislation as will break up the great combinations which plundered the farmers for 25 years past, and secure to the agricultural population an absolutely free market for their cattle, wheat and other products.

Fourth—While we are ready to defend the general government in all its legitimate functions, nevertheless we regard its powers as limited by the terms of the constitution, and we are opposed to the centralizing tendencies of the age, which are destroying the just powers of the several states.

Fifth—We arraign the Republican party of Minnesota for the immense frauds committed upon the school and other lands of the state, aggregating probably millions of dollars during the past 30 years, and we demand that a thorough investigation shall be made, and that the work already begun, which has returned $30,000 in three cases alone into the treasury of the state, shall be continued until the last dollar has been recovered of the despoiled patrimony of our children.

Sixth—We demand the most rigid economy in the administration of public affairs, together with such adjustment of taxation that the weight will be least on those who have least; that mortgaged land shall not be subject to double taxation; that concealed wealth shall be made to pay its share for the support of government; that the ownership of real estate by non-residents and aliens should be discouraged by proper legislation, and that the time of payment of taxes should be semi-annual.

Seventh—We demand the taxation of the mining lands situated in this state so that they will contribute equally with other property to support the state and local governments.

Eighth—Legislation has been attended with such venality, in the interests of corporations, that we demand that the people shall have the right to initiate needed measures of legislative reform, and that they shall have the right, by referendum, to veto, at the ballot box, any law inimical to their interests.

Ninth—That, inasmuch as the extension of the right of suffrage to women in school affairs has been productive of excellent results, we demand that there be no limitation upon suffrage dependent upon sex, believing in the doctrines of 1776 that representation should accompany taxation.

Tenth—We demand the nationalization of the liquor traffic and its management by the state without profit.

There were a number of additional resolutions offered but none came to vote.

A number of the delegates were desirous of debating the platform, clause by clause, but the question on the adoption of the platform was called and upon motion it was carried by a large majority, and the report of the committee also accepted.

The convention then nominated S. M. Owen for governor by acclimation, a rising vote and a swinging of hats, accompanied by cheers, emphasizing the action. A committee was sent out to bring Mr. Owen, and meanwhile nominations for lieutenant-governor were called for.

Judge McDonald, of St. Paul, nominated State Senator Lommen, of Polk county, and A. J. Hall, of Stevens, and F. M. Currier, of Blue Earth, were also named.

On the first ballot Lommen received 653 votes. The nomination was made unanimous.

The balance of the ticket is as follows:

For Auditor—A. L. Stromberg, of Washington.

For Treasurer—Ferd. Borchert, of Renville.

For Secretary of State—P. J. Seberger, of Stearns.

For Attorney General—J. Arnold Keyes, of St. Louis.

For Clerk of Supreme Court—H. C. Johnson, of Pipestone.

For Chief Justice Supreme Court—Sumner Ladd, of Hennepin.

For Associate Justice—John W. Willis, of Ramsey.

A MIRACLE IN MISSOURI.

The Achievements of Medical Science Far More Wonderful Than the Magic of the East.

The Remarkable Experience of Post Master Woodson, of Panama, Mo.—For Ten Years a Cripple—To-Day A Well and Hearty Man.

[From the Kansas City Times.]

The people of Rich Hill, Mo., and vicinity, have recently been startled by a seeming miracle of healing. For years one of the best known men in Bates and Vernon counties has been Mark M. Woodson, now postmaster at Panama, and brother of ex-State Inspector of Mines C. C. Woodson, of this city. The people of Rich Hill, where he formerly resided, and of his present home, remember well the bent form, misshapen almost from the semblance of man, which has painfully bowed its head half to earth and labored snail-like across the walks season after season, and when one day last month it straightened to its full height, threw away the heavy butt of cane which for years had been its only support from total helplessness, and walked erect, firmly, unhesitatingly about the two cities, people looked and wondered. The story of the remarkable case has become the marvel of the two counties. Exactly as Mr. Woodson told it to a Times reporter, it is here published:

"For ten years I have suffered the torments of the damned and have been a useless invalid; to-day I am a well and hearty man free from almost every touch of pain. I don't think man ever suffered more acute and constant agony than I have since 1884. The rheumatism started then in my right knee, and after weeks of suffering in bed I was at last relieved sufficiently to arise, but it was only to get about on crutches for five years, the ailment having settled in the joint. Despite constant treatment of the most eminent physicians the rheumatism grew worse, and for the last four years I have been compelled to go about bent half toward the ground. In the winter of 1890-91, after the rheumatism had settled into its most chronic form, I went to Kansas City upon advice of my brother, and for six weeks I was treated in one of the largest and best known dispensaries of that city, but without the slightest improvement. Before I came home I secured a strong galvanic battery, this I used for months with the same result. In August, 1892, I went to St. Louis, and there conferred with the widely known Dr. Mudd of hospital practice fame, and Dr. Kale of the city hospital. None of them would take my case with any hope of affording me more than temporary relief, and so I came home, weak, doubled with pain, helpless and despondent.

"About this time my attention was called to the account of a remarkable cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People of locomotor ataxia, rheumatism and paralysis. I ordered some of the pills as an experiment. When I began to take them, the rheumatism had developed into a phase of paralysis; my leg from the thigh down was cold all the time and could not be kept warm. In a short time the pills were gone, and so was the cane. I was able to attend to the duties of my office, to get about as a well and strong man. I was free from pain and I could enjoy a sound and restful night's sleep, something I had not known for ten years. To-day am practically, and, I firmly believe, permanently cured of my terrible and agonizing ailment. No magician of the Far East ever wrought the miracle with his wand that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me."

To verify the story beyond all question of doubt Mr. Woodson made the following affidavit:

STATE OF MISSOURI, } ss.
COUNTY OF BATES, }

I, M. M. Woodson, being duly sworn on my oath state that the following statements are true and correct as I verily believe.

M. M. WOODSON.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 3d day of March, 1894.

JOHN D. MOORE, Notary Public.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50. Bear in mind that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are never sold in bulk or by the dozen or hundred, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form is trying to defraud you and should be avoided. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co.

THE REPUBLICANS.

They Name Their Choice for Official Places.

The Convention a Large One, and Nelson Renominated, and After a Close Fight, Bob Dunn Secures the Auditorship.

For Governor—Knute Nelson.

For Lieutenant Governor—D. M. Clough.

For Secretary of State—Albert Berg.

For State Auditor—Robert C. Dunn.

For State Treasurer—A. T. Koerner.

For Attorney General—Henry W. Childs.

For Clerk Supreme Court—Darius Reese.

For Chief Justice Supreme Court—Chas. M. Start.

For Associate Justice Supreme Court—L. W. Collins.

The Republicans of Minnesota, the 11th, held the largest state convention at St. Paul, ever recorded in the history of the state. When Tams Bixby called the convention to order there were 1,017 delegates present. Upon motion of R. C. Evans, Hon. A. Barto, of Sauk Center, was selected as temporary chairman.

Henry Feig, of Kandiyohi county, was selected as temporary secretary and H. J. Wascott as assistant.

Upon motion of ex-Gov. Merriam the chair was authorized to appoint four committees—upon resolutions, upon credentials, upon permanent organization, one member from each judicial district, and a committee of five upon rules. The convention adopted the plan.

Hon. Roswell G. Horr, of Michigan, being present, upon invitation, addressed the convention. Congressman Tawney, of Winona, followed with a fifteen-minute speech.

At the afternoon session as soon as the committee on credentials had reported, the temporary organization, upon motion of J. M. Crafts, was made permanent. After the matter of rules had been disposed of, it was voted to proceed to name a ticket.

Mr. Haupt of Otter Tail moved that Hon. Knute Nelson be nominated by acclamation. Chairman Barto called for a rising vote and the entire convention came to its feet, cheering at the same time.

D. M. Clough was re-nominated for lieutenant governor by acclamation.

For secretary of state, F. P. Brown, of Faribault county; Albert Berg, of

GOV. KNUTE NELSON.

Chisago; J. W. Peterson, of Vasa, and Capt. Osborne, of Hennepin, were named. On the second ballot, Berg received 566 votes and his nomination was made unanimous.

Gov. Nelson appeared before the convention in a speech of some length and accepted the nomination.

The question of state auditorship set the convention into a buzz. Seven candidates were named, viz.: R. C. Dunn, of Mille Lac, L. P. Hunt, of Blue Earth, W. W. Rich, of Lyon, S. G. Iverson, of Fillmore, A. J. Leonard of Olmsted, P. J. McGuire, of Polk and W. J. Morrow.

On the third ballot R. C. Dunn received 574 votes, and upon motion the nomination was made unanimous, and the convention adjourned for supper.

In the evening August C. Koerner, was nominated for state treasurer on the second ballot.

The third ballot named Darius F. Reese for clerk of the supreme court.

Henry W. Childs was nominated as attorney general by acclamation.

The convention named Charles M. Start as chief justice of the supreme court, and L. W. Collins, associate justice.

The following is the platform:

The representatives of the Republican party of the state of Minnesota in convention assembled deplore the depressed condition of American industries under Democratic misrule by theorists and reckless and dishonest experimenters in statesmanship. Discredited in foreign diplomacy, our home industries prostrate and our people idle, there is no aspect of public affairs which the patriot can contemplate with satisfaction.

We contrast with our present condition the decades when under the guidance of the Republican party we were blessed with honorable consideration abroad and peace and plenty at home; when wages were high, and all our people contented and happy because prosperous.

The Republican party which took labor from the auction block and made it honorable, and which bases its great economic doctrines on the maintenance of an American standard of wages for American producers, is today as always the party of all workingmen. We pledge ourselves in the future as in the past to such care for the interests and rights of all classes of our people that law and order will be maintained; that labor will be assured of its just reward, unrobbed by monopolies and trusts; and industry, secure from danger, shall be again free to resume its activity beneficent alike to employer and wage earner.

First—We favor a protective tariff under which, upon imports competing with the products of American labor, duties are levied equal to the differences between the wages and labor at home and abroad. And as to imports, other than luxuries not so competing, we believe that the same should be admitted free of duty, so far as the requirements of the government may permit. But the principles of reciprocity should be so incorporated in our tariff laws as to give new and enlarged markets for the products of this country.

Second—The Republican party believes in the use of both gold and silver as money, maintaining the substantial parity of value of every dollar in circulation with that of every other dollar. It believes in bi-metalism and that the restoration of silver as ultimate money to the currency of the world is absolutely necessary for business prosperity, proper rates of wages and the welfare of the people.

Holding these views, we believe it should be the policy of the United States to do everything in its power to promote the restoration of silver to the world's currency.

Third—We demand a free ballot and a fair count, and for every citizen the right, unmolested, to cast one ballot in any election, and to have that ballot honestly counted as cast. The mission of the Republican party will not be ended until in every state of the Union all citizens, black or white, native or foreign born, shall be equal in the courts and at the ballot box.

The Democratic party, united in nothing else, was unanimous in the repeal of the federal election laws, thus openly confessing itself the party of fraud.

Fourth—We are opposed to all trusts and combinations seeking to control or unduly enhance the price of commodities, and we are in favor of eradicating or repressing the same by suitable and effective laws. The manufacture of twine at our state prison has been and still is a most effective means to protect our farmers against the monopoly of the twine trust.

Fifth—The laboring and industrial classes are entitled to all proper and necessary protection, and therefore we are, and have been, in favor of the following laws: (1) to protect the health, the life and limb of all employes of transportation, mining and manufacturing companies; (2) to establish and maintain boards or tribunals of conciliation or arbitration, whereby the differences between employers and employed may be settled and adjusted by peaceful means, without strikes or lockouts; (3) to reclaim and to preserve the public domain for actual settlers under homestead laws.

Sixth—All proper and necessary measures should be adopted and enforced to exclude from our shores all paupers, criminals, and other dangerous and undesirable classes of immigrants.

Seventh—The farmers and all other producing classes are entitled to cheap and suitable facilities for storing, shipping and marketing their products, and therefore we are and have been in favor of such legislation as is requisite and essential to secure promptly and without discrimination, and at reasonable rates, convenient and ample elevator and warehouse accommodations, and proper and speedy transportation to all accessible and appropriate markets.

Eighth—Telegraph, telephone, railroad and all other transportation companies, and all corporations or individuals performing any public service or employment are amenable and subject to public control; and we favor the enactment and enforcement of such laws as will compel them to render efficient and approved service at fair and reasonable rates, without favor or discrimination as to persons or places.

Ninth—The pensions awarded by a generous nation to the disabled and unfortunate veterans of the late war, their widows and orphans, should be given them with a fair and generous hand and not grudgingly and with restraint. We depreciate the parsimonious, super-critical and harassing attitude of the present democratic administration in its treatment of the present beneficiaries of our pension laws.

Tenth—The Republican party has always advocated equal rights and privileges for all the people without any distinction as to classes or individuals. We believe in the fullest rights of labor and of laboring men, and are opposed to class privileges of all kinds. The American workmen are the producers of our wealth and greatness, and we are and should be solicitous for their welfare and happiness. We earnestly advocate such legislation as will secure the peaceful adjustment by arbitration of differences arising from time to time between employers and employes, and condemn unqualifiedly capitalists and others who refuse to settle such differences along these peaceful lines. The wanton destruction of property, whether private, corporate or public, should be prevented, and mob violence promptly suppressed at all hazards. We stand for law and order, for the punishment of crime, and for the lawful redress of all wrongs.

Eleventh—Whereas, There are now in this state about four million acres of railroad lands which are held or used for railroad purposes and do not contribute to the gross earnings tax or to any other state or local tax, we demand that said lands be taxed by the ordinary method of direct taxation, and that such tax be in addition to the present gross earnings tax upon railroad property.

Twelfth—We earnestly and emphatically urge the adoption of an amendment to the national constitution, extending the term of office of the president of the United States to six years; and providing that no person who has been president of the United States shall thereafter be eligible to the same office.

We therefore respectfully request congress to propose an amendment to the constitution that will speedily accomplish this end.

Thirteenth—We commend and indorse the wise, economical and statesmanlike administration of the affairs of the state of Minnesota under Gov. Knute Nelson.

We commend the wise and patriotic course of our senators, Cushman K. Davis and William D. Washburn, and our Republican representatives, J. A. Tawney, J. T. McCleary, A. R. Kiefer, and Loren Fletcher, in the congress of the United States upon all questions appertaining to the public interests and the welfare of their constituents. They have at all times fully and fearlessly discharged their duty to the people, and we give them our hearty commendation.

DELANO DIARY

--If you have money to invest read the "Notice of Sale of Delano Bonds."

—Nightwatch Nelson had about 20 assistants last night, traveling men. He says there are lots of them now.

--Delano's enterprising furniture firm Coffin&Babb, shipped a bill of goods to Glascoe, Mont., a few days ago. Surely their fame is abroad in the land.

—Yesterday was neighbor Mowatt's thirteenth anniversary of wedded life. In the evening a small party of friends was entertained all of whom wish the Squire and his wife many returns of the happy occasion.

--The 4th of July caliope, didn't serve to keep people awake in Delano better than did Monday evening's dog chorus. All the big and little, young and old dogs in town seemed to be trying to see which could make the most noise for the longest time, and some of them succeeded admirably.

--The usual complaints about "the dryest year I have ever seen," "chintz bugs are taking everything," "the army worm has come," "we will have no crops at all." "we will have to live on hay," and similar expressions discourgning to crop prospect are heard among farmers in this vicinity.

—For some unaccountable reason the school board seem to have flopped from favoring hot water for heating the school house to advocating steam. For steam we are told an engineer will have to be employed, while for hot water an unskilled laborer can run it; making quite a saving in yearly salary.

—The basement for the new school house is about completed and the grounds have been graded, and arrangements made to push the building to completion as rapidly as possible. The board so far, has acted on its own idea of things the people of the district have not had a chance to express themselves in the matter.

—We understand that our local boord of health have received from the State Board instructions to fumigate and disinfect the St. Peter School where cases of diphtheria occurred recently. This should be done at once before any possible lingering germs find lodgement with some visitor or pupil who may enter the building. The Public School is burned and escapes this.

—The diphtheria quarantine in the Town of Franklin has been raised, and our part of the country is again free from this dreaded diseased. The infested premises have been carefully fumigated and disinfected, and it is hoped that in future there will be no more such fatal spreads of the trouble as has recently occured.

--Dogs are nice pets; they furnish lots of fun for little folks; and serve as substitutes for moustached lips for some young women to practice the art oscultory on. But it is a dog-gonned uncharitable family that allows their members of the canine tribe to disturb the midnight hours of the neighborhood with their continual barking.

—From a gentlemen who quenched his thirst at the town pump opposite our door and then called in to get some newspapers to read we learned that in Dakota where he hailed from crops will amount to nothing except in the Red River Valley; and that there is not sufficient work to keep the men there busy and more are flocking in looking for jobs.

--The Delano Epworth League had a nice picnic on Lake Huey on Thursday.

--The shrill whistle of the thresher engine could be heard early and late this week, as they moved about from farm to farm threshing rye.

—Immersion in the lake is said to b a part of the initiation ceremony into the Campers Out Society, at Lake Houghey. For reference John S. Shrader, M. D.

--A reportof the Woman's Christian Temperance Union Convention held at Howard Lake has been sent us. This is the eighth convention and the women seem determined to make their influence felt in temperance work.

—The best advertised buisness in Delano this week has been the saloons Several specimens of as good work in this line as any town could turn out have paraded the streets and drank from beer bottles, used foul laugnage and have not been arrested.

—The town pump has at last been supplied with a new drinking cup. An old tin can, it leaks at that. It is supposed that some of the many foot travelers through the country left it there. It beats drinking out of a hat as a couple did a few weeks since.

—Henry Schwiren, Assessor for the Town of Franklin, says his valuations of property for taxation amounted to:

|---|---|
| Real Estate valuations, | $195,000.00 |
| Personal Property valuations. | 72,000.00 |
| Total property valuation, | $267,000.00 |

Last year 260 names were on the personal list; now 301 names appeaar.

—Farmers and others should be extremely cautious about allowing fires built on their premises this dry time as the grass is so dry that fire runs even in uncut timber. Just this side of Greenwood fire has burned over a marsh and quite a strip of timber up ot the road. And a few days ago Jos. Cramer undertook to burn a piece of meadow, the fire got into his grain field and made a clean sweep to the road that leads to the slaughter house.

—Minneapolis is trying to have her saloon keepers give something more than straw bonds. The Journal claims that the bondsmen can be held for the law breaking of the principal, and thinks they should be responsibie parties. In Delano bondsmen themselves frequent saloons on Sunday; allow minor children and wards to purchase and drink intoxicating beverages, and occasionally, when they would be liable to arrest under the Shaffer law drink at the bar, themselves, and yet our Village Council accept such men as bondsmen. It does look as if a bondsman was any good and expected to be held liable for violations of the laws he would not assist in breaking them.

--On Sunday night between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock the citizens on south third street were aroused by loud raps on a door followed by boisterous and vile language: which was continued until the whole neighborhood was aroused, and some feared a murder would be committed. Bad beer was in the boys; some of them businees men of the village, and whose names can be learned of most anybody in that part of town. The police force finally arrived and the scene closed. The general verdict was that a night in the cooler and a good round fine should have been given most of the participants.

—A short time ago our Post Master's wife purchased a hen to eat, but concluded to keep her awhile and fatten her; biddy was getting used to her new home and roosted on the fence near the barn. On Sunday evening about bed time the owner heard a squak, and said "someone is stealing my old hen," and sent the village Attorney to investigate; he could find nothing, just like men always do; but the owner hastily followed, in person, with the lamp, and soon found that her neighbor had lost one of her flock a few days before and discovering the lone bird had concluded to bring it in out of the night air, thinking, perhaps it was hers. Matters were satisfactorily adjusted, the lost was restored to her legal owner, and all parties returned to their couches to dream of Thanksgiving dinners.

—The Eagle says there is a prospect of Swan Erickson resigning from the school board so that he may with his partner bid on building the new school house! What can have happened our board? Have they been consulting a lawyer, or simply concluded to draw the line at building school houses? It looks as if an innovation of some sort was about to be inaugurated; and if it is to live up to the strict letter of the law we predict that there will soon be several new faces on the board, while some of the oldest will be conspicuous for their absence. In reading the financial statement in yesterday's Eagle it appears that "law or no law" members of the board gobble everything in sight, financially speaking, as notice the following items:

|---|---|---|
| I. Gutzwiller, Jr., school books | $ 2.10 | |
| I. Gutzwiller, Jr., school supplies and printing, | 149.84 | |
| | | $151.94 |
| Swan Erickson, desk, | $8.00 | |
| Swan Erickson, labor and mat'l | 46.20 | |
| | | $54.20 |
| Brasie & Vorse, insurance, | | 12.50 |
| Maxfield & Erickson grading and removing rui | | 180.30 |

—The houses in town are closed, blinds down untill one is reminded of a Deserted Village. About 40 ladies and children are camping on the lake shore.

—The strike may be made fun of all you please, but on Wednesday afternoon there was nothing in the way of the G. N. freight train from this line pulling straight in to Washington Ave. Minneapolis. Not a switch engine in sight. A couple of freights on the St. Louis road were pulling out among many shouts of "scab," from the few train men on the G. N. A crowded meeting of A. R. U. men in session in the Plummer Post Hall, and there was street talk that the G. N. the strongest A. R. U. road of all would be ordered out. Very few papers were being sold on the streets except to Cicago Times and Penny Press, and the newsies were crying out "scab" to the few that carried other papers.

Personals.

C. W. Kerrick made a trip to Dakota the fore part of the week.

Lyman Rliel's Kittle was boiling at druggist Wittman's on Monday.

Dan McCarter, of Hamline, smiled on his Delano friends Wednesday.

Miss Addie Wittman has returned from her Summer outing at Willmar.

Miss Julia Cunningham is now at Long Prairie, Minnesota, as governess.

Mrs. Minnie Staples, of Howard Lake, was a Delano visitor on Wednesday.

Mrs. Belle Brandon, of Royalton, arrived for a visit with friends, on Tuesday.

Dr. O'Hair, of Waverly, spent a few hours with his Delano relatives, Monday.

Miss Hattie Walker, of Minneapolis, is the guest of Miss Stella Moody, this week.

Miss Vera Mossberg, of Willmar, after a brief visit in Delano returned home Tuesday.

Anthony Noren, of Cokato, made the GAZETTE a brief call on Tuesday on his way home from Buffalo.

Dr. R. O. Fassett, of Rockford, was in town several days this week. He drives one of the finest horses on the road.

C. R. Carlton, of Independence, was in town yesterday. He thinks our democratic congress hasn't given us what we expected.

J. D. Crandall, of North Rockford, was in town Monday to meet his son Clint's family from Pipestone, to spend the summer.

Mr. Rogers, Gen'l Ag't. for the Home Ins. Co., with Local Agent Wm, Ziebarth were looking over their risks here on Tuesday.

Miss Sadie VanEman, Watertown's Milliner made her Delano relatives and friends a visit the latter part of last and fore part of this week.

J. F. McDonnell and W. A. Walsh, of Waverly, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray, of Watertown, were among passengers home from the cities on Tuesday.

Miss Mary C. Catlin returned yesterday evening from a three weeks visit at St. Peter. Her niece, Miss Edna Coffin came home with her to spend the summer.

John Coolen, Jr., and two other young men from Lester Prairie came in on bicycles Sunday about 10:30 A. M., via. Winsted, Howard Lake, Waverly and Montrose.

A. D. Smith who has been visiting at John Cunningham's left Tuesday evening for his home New Castle, Nebraska. His family will remain here for a few weeks longer.

Mrs. Dr. Davis and two boys and Miss Nichols, of Howard Lake were hunting for busman Ball at an early hour this morning on their way to visit the Campers Out Society.

Mrs. Hattie VanEman and her mother Mrs. Woolsey, of Dassel were in town the past week looking after the erecting of ssme tombstones for relatives buried in the Delano cemetery.

Frank Barth, of Watertown, on his way to the city yesterday evening made the GAZETTE a short but pleasant call. Frank says he is a Democrat yet; and don't propose to forsake the principles on account of a few cranks.

County Cullings.

The board of equalization met at Buffalo this week.

Our Pidgeon came home to roost. Our embrgo Judge died a bornin'; the whole mess was Dunn up clean, at the Convention.

John Buckman, of Albion Township on July 16 at 2 P. M. lost his barn and 50 tons of hay by fire; origin unknown. Insured in St. Paul F. & M. for $550.

County Commissioner Ruscoe is reported to have tendered his resignation as a member of the board. The chairmen of the towns interested will select a substitute, in case his resignation is accepted. W. W. Webster may get his old job.

The time for caucuses is here. The town of Franklin and others have already lost their voice in the selection of a Republican State ticket, through negligence in not sending delegates to the county convention. Let Democrats do better, hold your caucus and send your best democrats to the county convention.

Soon the time will come for us to cast our ballots for members of the State Legislature. We should be careful in our choice for candidates. Men should be chosen who are sober, industrious, honest, and who have good solid common sense and are not afraid to stand up for the right every time, men who will be on hand and vote on the right side of the great questions that are to be settled in our own state.

The Buffalo Journal says of Bob Dunn's candidacy for nomination for State Auditr "Knowing Dunn as we do we do not hesitate to say that in our judgement he is wholly unworthy of the recognition which he now seeks at the hands of the republican party and wholly unfit to be entrusted with the duties of State Auditor, and we believe that when the people of this State come to know his record as it is, that they will condemn it and him by their votes at the polls."

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder.

Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

As usual our Wright County Republican friends came home from the state convention empty handed. Although their delegates were supposed to be among the most weighty, and influential members of the party in this county, and they had two candidates of their own. Pidgeon for Clerk of Court and Latham for Distric Judge they could not get their man in eather convention but were obliged to see Bob Dunn, of Princeton lord it over them. Of course County Attorney Culkin got his Irish up by the time he had discovered that all was lost, and told the Judicial Convention about what he thought of them, and, among other things that "it is a good thing to have the appetite of a hog but a terrible thing to act like one," and Billy knows hogs when he sees 'em too. But no go. There will be no Judge Latham this time.

Sixth District Congressional Convention.

The Democratic Congressional Convention, Sixth District, Minnesota, will be held at St. Cloud, Minnesota, on September 11th, 1894, at 10 o'clock a. m., to place in nomination a Democratic candidate for Congress for said distaict in the next general election, and to transact such other business as shall properly come before the convention.

The basis of representation for this convention is one delegate at large for each county and one additional delegate for every 150 votes and major fraction thereof cast for M. R. Baldwin for Congress in 1892.

Each county in said district is entitled to the following number of delegates, namely:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Aitkin | 2 | Lake | 2 |
| Anoka | 6 | Mille Lacks | 2 |
| Beltrami | 1 | Morrison | 11 |
| Benton | 6 | Pine | 5 |
| Carlton | 4 | St. Louis | 29 |
| Cass | 2 | Sherburne | 3 |
| Cook | 1 | Stearns | 29 |
| Crow Wing | 4 | Todd | 8 |
| Hubbard | 2 | Wadena | 3 |
| Itasca | 5 | Wright | 12 |

FRED SCHILPLIN, Secretary.

Anonge our Exchanges.

Cleveland has smashed the democratic state rights ideas to smithereens. On this point the president is a good republican.--Wright Co. Times.

Although Hon. H. C. Bull has a clean and honerable record both as a business man and a legislator so unpopular has the banking class become with the people that his name was hooted at when placed in nomination for state treasurer at the peoples party state convention at Minneapolis.—Cokato Commoner.

The Royalton Banner says that Miss Mae Geer, a school teacher in that vicinity, who wished to visit her home, found that the trains were not running, owing to the strike, and she walked the entire distance of eighteen miles, in five hours. A younge lady with as much energy as that ought to be able to govern a country school pretty well.— Brainerd Journal.

It looks as if the Populists party is the party of lawlessness. This might be expected in our large cities where every corrupt influences is at work but this sentiment can certainly have no abiding place amongst the people who live on their own farms in the country and in their own homes in our small towns and villages. These people have nothing to gain by revolution but every-thing to loose.—Buffalo Journal.

THE LAND OF "PRETTY SOON."

I know a land where the streets are paved
With the things which we meant to achieve.
It is walled with the money we meant to have saved,
And the pleasures for which we grieve,
The kind words unspoken, the promises broken
And many a coveted boon
Are stowed away there in that land some where—
The land of "Pretty Soon."

There are uncut jewels of possible fame
Lying about in the dust,
And many a noble and lofty aim
Covered with mold and rust.
And O! this place, while it seems so near,
Is farther away than the moon,
Though our purpose is fair yet we never get there—
The land of "Pretty Soon-"

The road that leads to that mystic land
Is strewn with fitiful wrecks.
And the ships that have sailed for its shining strand
Bear skeletons on their decks.
It is farther at noon than it was at dawn,
And farther at night than at noon;
O, let us beware of that land down there—
The land of "Pretty Soon,"

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

"BUFFALO GAZETTE."

THE President has named as the Commission to investigate the controversies between certain railroads and their employes, Caroll D. Wright, John D. Kernan, of New York, and Nicholas E. Worthington, of Peoria, Ill,

THE trial of President Eugene V. Debbs and companions has been postponed until Sept. 5th. Their bail has been reduced to $7,000.00 each, in addition to the $10,000.00 already given. They have given the bail and will now be allowed their liberty again.

POSSIBLY some of the week-kneed Democrats who have been led to believe that the Democratic party was dead, and gone to the dogs, could get a little stiffening for their backbones by reading President Cleveland's letter to Chairman Wilson. It is right up to his old style of doing business.

WITH a U. S. Senate containing a bare majority of one; and such men as Hill of New York an Gorman of Maryland favoring more or less protection, it will be necessary for the people to give one more boost at the polls, in the same direction as they have for the past two elections in order to accomplish their object and rid the country of the "protective" theory.

WHATS the matter with the populists and the G. O. P. fusing on the point of government ownership of railroads. Thats what the populists are clamoring for; then they can ride and have their freight shipped much cheaper, they say. And the G. O. P. could have a standing army; a strong government to support them; and this would require lots of men to draw salaries from Uncle Sam, and furnish a home market for farm produce, nothing like it.

HORACE GREELEY PERRY of the St. Peter Journal claims that she is on good enough terms with Gov. Nelson to have lately received his photograph by mail from him. And she is a Democrat! And in St. Peter! Can it be that Knute is afraid she will boom John A. Johnson of the St. Peter Herald for Governor, and scoop him this fall. If thats it Johnson don't be fooling around and let the wiley politician get ahead of you, in your own baliwick.

FROM the present outlook this fall's campaign is going to hinge, as did that of two years ago on the tariff question. Let it come. Democracy has the lever end, having already received the endorsement of the people, and although a few Senators have succeeded in retaining the McKinley bill as the law of the land up to now, they have only given the people a very severe oject lesson on the subject, and they are ready to send men to the legislative halls in sufficient numbers to vote the protective system entirely from the statute books of the country.

THAT Republican from the rural districts knocked some of the leaders of the G. O. P., at the County Seat, completely out of time with his profound wisdom a few days ago, when, after listening to the stereotyped story about the Democrats failing to pass the tariff bill when if it were to become a law it would everlastingly destroy their party, by suddenly propounding the question: "If it is going to kill the Democrat party dead for them to pass that tariff bill, why in the world don't the Republicans there vote with them and help them pass it? That's just what I'd like to see.

IN the Sherburne County Star News we find an article criticizing Grover Cleveland for saying the "benefit of the present tariff on wool is illusory and that it is a tax on the clothing of every man, woman, and child." The article in criticism says Senator Jones, of Nevada, in a great speech, in 1892, showed "that there were 4,000,000 persons directly and pecuniarly interested in the wool tariff." What figure, we would like to know, does that cut, as against 65,000,000 who are looking for the best bargains they can find in nice warm woollen clothing, and many of whom are obliged to use cotton, shoddy or other cheap goods.

THERE seems to be a growing disposition among some people, and more especially those who have sought office and been defeated, either in convention, or at the polls to join a new party: a reform party, and get their names on the ticket for some paying job. This feeling appears to permeate the whole mass of these kind of fellows from the State ticket to the township and even school offices. They love to prate that it makes no difference what a man's politics are so he is a man. Just as if a citizen of these United States, a member of this great nation could be a man, and have no political convictions: higher than to aspire for a paltry office and the pelf it produces. We fear our country is sadly in need of some lessons in patriotism.

THE speech of Cushman K. Davis, in the U. S. Senate, in reply to Senator Peffer and to Senator Kyle's resolution is being forwarded through the mails to numerous places where it is hoped to do the most toward hoisting C. K. into the presidential chair. Its no use Cush; you live in Minnesota, a Republican state, heretofore, on Presidential canidates, and like your predecessor, Hon. William Windom, although the Minnesota delegation is instructed to vote solidly for their own candidate to the bitter end, them fellers at the convention want pay any attention to her. No more than the State Convention or the Judicial convention did to Wright County and her candidates. You will have to be accredited to a doubtful state first. Maybe Minnesota will be that in '96

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has given the country another evidence of his great ability as a statesman in his letter to chairman Wilson, concerning the tariff differences between the House and Senate. The letter is to the point and plainly informs the public that he is where he was before election on this subject; that if the Democrats are going to have a tariff bill it must not discriminate between free wool for the farmer and protected coal and iron ore for the monopolist, but place raw materials on the free list where they promised to put them and where the people voted to put them.

Of course Senator Gorman, of Ind., and a few followers find fault with him for thus expressing himself, just at this time when they had hoped to get their patched up job through the House, signed by him and placed in operation. But Senator Hill, of New York, who has been forninst the administration, wheels into line and manfully defends the President for the stand he has taken. And it now looks as if the Wilson bill would be passed about in the original form, as proposed by the House that has the constitutional power to originate such bells or else we would continue to exist a while longer under the present McKinly protection bill. But the country will now know where the blame belongs; to the Senate, with a bare majority of one for the democrats and with more than that one opposed to free raw materials.

THERE are still several great points in the contest between capital and labor that need to be settled. It seems to be the general belief that people cannot be compelled to work; and that corporations cannot be compelled to employ laborers: that although laborers are free to quit a job when they see fit, they must not interfere with others who wish to work, nor injure or destroy property. It also appears to be the verdict that it is altogether un-American for corporations to ask their employes to sign agreements to keep out of all societies, labor unions, etc., while they, themselves form combinations for their own protection and the governing of their own employes. It looks to us as if a very good solution of the business would be the for bidding, by law of the formation of Unions of all kinds connected with the labor and capital question. The capitalist should do business on his own hook and not conspire, and connive with his fellow in business to grind down laborers to the lowest notch but should give his helpers as fair a compensation as his business will permit, regardless of what his neighbor can do. If he can't get help and run his business as well as some other man can let him find another business, or take hold and do some of the work himself; at the same time everybody knows one man can easily earn a fourth or more in a day than his neighbor can at the same work, he should be allowed the pay for it and not made to accept for a days wages what his employers see fit to call a days work, and put in ten hours a day at what he could do in seven or eight hours.

Democratic State Convention.

Pursuant to the decision of the State Committee the Democrats of the state are called to meet in delegate convention in the city of St. Paul, on

The Major has Duluth

A meeting to organize a Democratic club in St Louis county was held in Duluth last night, and Major Baldwin's friends captured it, electing all the officers, and endorsing the major's course in congress. Major Baldwin will succeed himself, mark the prediction.—The Aitkin Age.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 20, 1894.

He must be a queer sort of a democrat who can get any satisfaction out of the present tariff situation. The report of a general disagreement as the result of nearly two weeks work on the part of the House and Senate conference certainly does not look encouraging, although some of the gloom is lifted by the knowledge that while the disagreement is for reasons satisfactory to the conferees reported to be general it is in fact only over some half a dozen of the Senate amendments, including sugar, coal and iron ore, the House conferees insisting that they should go on the free list, as in the Wilson bill. and the Senate conferees that they shall remain as passed by the Senate. It is not clear just now what the outcome is to be, but I cannot believe that the democrats in Congress will be willing to carry the disagreement to the extent of allowing the McKinley law to remain in force, as is now being jubilantly predicted by the republicans. It would be better if the conferees after annother attempt fail to reach an agreement to call in some prominent democrats from the outside and let them arbitrate. The democratic party has promised the country a tarriff law and it will be suicidal for the democrats in Congress to fail to keep that pronise.

The Senate committee on Territories decided at its meeting this week that although the Utah bill first became a law Arizona and New Mexico should be admitted to the Union at the same time, and directed that bills therefor should be ready by its next meeting.

Political ingratitude is so common in Washington that it seldom attracts more than the passing notice, but the apostacy of Representative Denson, of Alabama, who has written a letter announcing his withdrawl from the democratic party and his intention to act with the populists hereafter, is such a glaring case and his object so plain to all that it is receiving more attentio than it really deserves. Said an Alabama democrat: "The reason given by Denson for leaving the democratic party—his inability to support President Cleveland and his financial policy—is absolutely ridiculous when the fact is remember that he owes his seat in the House to President Cleveland, who, during his first administration, appointed him U. S. District Attorney for the Northern and Middle Districts of Alabama, thus giving him the prominence which enabled him to get nominated and elected to Congress two years ago. Now President Cleveland, as all the world knows, has not changed the financial ideas he held during his first term. It is Denson who has changed, and the reason, while obvious, is not flattering to him. The third party has been strong in his district for several years—he only beat his populist opponent by 1,800 in a total of more than 20,000—and Denson believes it will carry the district this year and is willing to be elected to Congress as a populist rather than to chance being defeated as a democrat. Such men can be spared by the democratic party.

Representative Bailey, of Texas, was made happy this week when the House by a vote of 127 to 81, passed his voluntary bankruptcy bill. He has maintained ever since the Torrey bankruptcy bill was defeated that a majority of the House favored a national bankruptcy law, and that it was only because the Torrey bill put it in power of creditors to force a man into bankruptcy when he considered himself solvent that it was defeated. The vote on Mr. Bailey's bill, which makes a man judge of his own solvency, indicates that his judgment was correct.

Representative Springer, of Illinois, was this week given a hearing, by a subcommittee of th House committee on Labor, on his bill providing for compulsory arbitration of all disputes between employer and employes, by a national board of arbitrators. Mr. Springer claims that his bill covers every possible contingency that may arise, and that if it be enacted into a law a long step will be taken towards the solving of the problem which has been so troublesome of late. A number of bills dealing with the same subject are being considered by the subcommittee.

Representative Bland, of Missouri, proposes to put the newly-found friendship for silver which so many republicans are professing to the test, by getting his bill for the free coinage of silver reported from the House Coinage committee, if he can manage to get a quorum of the committee who are favorable to the bill, together soon. Owing to the absence of members and the nearness of the close of the session the chances are against Mr. Bland's succeeding. Another thing that adds to the chances against him is that a considerable number of members of the House, many of them democrats, are strongly opposed to any further agitation of the silver question at this time, and still more opposed to the taking of a record vote on the Bland bill.

CORRESPONENCE

WAVERLY WINKS.

The Populist county convention was held in the city hall Saturday. W. H. Cutting was elected chairman, and N. D. Vandergon, secretary.

The following ticket was nominated:
Auditor, John P. Olson.
Treasurer, W. D. Thompson.
Sheriff, John Kelly.
Register of Deeds. John S. Johnson.
Judge of Probate, W. H. Cutting.
Supt. of Schools, W. S. Belt.
Coroner, Dr. Stark.
Court Commissioner, H. C. Morneau.
County Commissioners: 1st Dist., Paul Kennedy; 2nd Dist. Herman Vollbrecht, 4th Dist. D. W. Flannigan.

The delegates to the congressional convention to be held at St. Cloud, Sept. 12, are as follows:—E. C. Day, Richard Bennett, Paul Kennedy, J. A. Scott, A. G. Sexton, N. D. Vandergon, Dr. Stark, David Cochran, John Olson, John Giblin Jr., Chas McClatchie, W. H. Cutting, and O. S. Rustad.

Mr. and Mrs. Holliday, of Indiana, are visiting with James Holliday, of Woodland.

Mrs. Cushing, of West Superior, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Deynan of Woodland.

Mrs. T. F. O'Hair, of Wheaton, is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. O'Hair.

Mr. James McGuire left for Atwater Sunday might where he has secured employment.

Dr. Perrinot made a business trip to Buffalo Tuesday.

Mrs. E. A. Westinghouse, of Garretson, S. D. is visiting friends in town.

The school meeting Saturday evening was well attended and the following officers elected:—John Kelly, H. C. Morneau, John Giblin Jr., R. D. Topping, Chas. Kingstedt and John Cruzen. The board met Tuesday evening for organization and elected John Kelly president, John Giblin Jr. clerk, and R. D. Topping, treasurer.

Mr. Owen Beal, of Middleville, buried his only son Wednesday.

Hennepin Co. Politics.

There is talk about a combination being on between Deacon Wilcox and Bayard T Shaver, by which the latter is to be made assistant in the event of the Deccon's election to the superintendency or his appointment to fill out Mr. Lewis' unexpired term. The deacon has been trying to fix the board. Mr. Egan informes the writer that the Deacon gave a supper at the Guaranty Loan to the commissioners and the auditor. Mr. Egan says it was a costly affair. But it is hardly probable that the commissioners will go back on their former action and confirm Shaver, who is really not fit for the place. Shaver's real friends do not wish to see him re-open the fight tor that place, which he is really not qualified to fill. It was through his treachery that Mr. McConnell was defeated for re-election, and the Republicans, more than the democrats, have it in for him, and if he shows his head again, he will get it where the turkey got the ape. The people of the county, without regard to politics, are so sick of Shaver and the whole Chowan gang that Shaver is dead, and he died hard. But the hand that slew him was his own. He has been disloyal, dishonest, and a traitor. There are five republican candidates in the field for the nomination—McConnell, Harter, Henry, Watson, and Deacon Wilcox. None of these save the Deacon, will have anything to do with Shaver politically; they shun him as they would shun a rattle snake. Some of the Shaverites have abused me for defeating Shaver's official aspirations, but they know not what they say. I am aside from politics, a better friend to Shaver than they, by far. My advice to him has ever been to go out on a farm, where he belongs, and make a good home. But he has always scorned the thought of going onto a farm, and regarded those who frankly advise manual labor for him as his enemies. The people of the county have repudiated him: and the Deacon is no true friend of his, or he would not encourage him to re-enter politics.

We have it from good authority that some of the men who have been leaders in the populist party, and stood the brunt of the battle, in this county have been stoood one side; turned down by some of the very men who, as democrats aided them in making up their minds that the old party was too corrupt for them, and so caused them to forsake the paths they had trod, and to which they now look with a wistful eye; and which if the democrats put up the very best material they have, on their ticket from top to bottom; no trading stock will find these disgusted men again treading them in the way they like.

Poultry and Eggs in the United States.

The census report for 1890 shows the value of eggs produced annually to be over $100,000,000, while the value of poultry (chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese) amount to about the same. Or, to make it plain, the total annual production of poultry and eggs amounts to $200,000,000. At the present prices of wheat, the poultry and eggs are more valuable, and the market is at home. It is safe to say that the report does not include all, as a large number of persons were not visited during the enumeration of poultry and eggs, but the figures are sufficient to enable those interested to arrive at a partial knowledge of poultry and egg production. In a single decade the poultry and eggs of the United States amount to enough to pay off our national debt, and the money invested in that direction finds its way into all other buisness channels.—Farm and Fireside.

Anonge our Exchanges.

Wright county was not in it either at the state or judicial conventions. It turned out just as we expected, but now let's all turn in and help elect the other fellows, just as we always have done and then they will pat us on the back some more and say we are loyal republicans. There is nothing like being loyal.—Buffalo Journal.

The Cokato Farmers' Elevator Company elected S. J. Swanson president, C. R. Peterson secretary, S. J. Swanson treasurer, ond John Nygren, J. P. Olson, S. Eckman, P. Stevenson and J. N. Love directors. The capital stock of the company is $4129, and, after leaving a sum of $1,500 as a working fund in the treasury, a dividend of 19 per cent was declared.—Minneapolis Times.

At the instance of Mr. J. F. Bradford, of the Humane Society, the police this morning arrested John Curry, of Haven, Sherburn county, for cruelty to animals. The man, who is a farmer, had a calf tied on top of a hay rack. He left his wagon standing in the sun, and the calf with its limbs tied was suffering from the flies. He was taken before Judge Evans where he plead guilty to the charge and paid a fine of $3.25.—Sf. Cloud Times.

Sixth District Congressional Convention.

The Democratic Congressional Convention, Sixth District, Minnesota, will be held at St. Cloud, Minnesota, on September 11th, 1894, at 10 o'clock a. m., to place in nomination a Democratic candidate for Congress for said distaict in the next general election, and to transact such other business as shall properly come before the convention.

The basis of representation for this convention is one delegate at large for each county and one additional delegate for every 150 votes and major fraction thereof cast for M. R. Baldwin for Congress in 1892.

Each county in said district is entitled to the following number of delegates. namely:

| | | | |
| Aitkin | 2 | Lake | 2 |

LADY bicycle riders are setting an excellent example to the men, who are accustomed to lie down and hold their stomachs as soon as they mount their wheels. The ladies sit upright, and seem to enjoy the exercise. The women do a great many things better than men, and among them they are more graceful riders of the bicycle.

A THUNDERBOLT struck a buggy in which a Pennsylvania man was sitting telling a fish story to a companion and broke off the narrative right at the most interesting part. Here's a chance for the "missing word" fiend—supply the finale of the story, send in four coupons and get the reputation of being a bigger liar than the fellow who was struck by lightning.

THE cable steamer Faraday laid the third Atlantic cable of the Commercial Cable company the other day; but the event did not convulse the world with astonishment as the laying of the first submarine cable did about forty years ago. The laying of an Atlantic cable to-day is quite an ordinary event, and people expect such things to be done. This third cable of the Commercial company was laid in twenty days.

WHILE business stagnation is the rule in most of our cities, it it is pleasant to learn from the Jewish Advocate that Jerusalem is booming. New buildings are being constantly erected and the city is far outgrowing its former limits. On the western side houses have increased so rapidly that a large suburb has arisen where formerly were fields and vineyards. Every available piece of land is being bought up and the real estate agent is happy.

SHOPPERS in large cities have become used to buying icecream freezers and sealskin cloaks, carpets and diamonds under one roof, but live lambs are a commodity that heretofore has not been offered at bargain sales, as they were at a Baltimore department shop the other day. Those who bought the lambs had to take them away themselves, and this the eager women managed to do by grasping the little creatures in both arms.

AN autopsy upon the body of George O. Carkins, who was found dead in a field in Newington, N. H., and who was thought to have been murdered, revealed the fact that death was caused by an ossified heart. Physicians say that the organ showed one of the most remarkable cases of the kind ever seen. The valves were so thoroughly incrusted that it did not seem possible for them to have closed. The heart will be preserved for the New Hampshire Medical society.

UTAH'S admission to the union, making the number of states forty-five, leaves only Arizona, New Mexico, Indian territory and Alaska under the territorial form of government. The two former may achieve the honors of statehood soon, but the treaties with various tribes will keep the Indian territory out of the sisterhood for years to come, and it is doubtful whether Alaska will ever be more than a federal dependency. It is likely, therefore, that, barring the possible division of some of the larger states the present generation will not see more than forty-seven stars in the flag.

THE graduating class at Yale this year numbered 280. Of these 10 were entirely self supporting through the college course, while 150 partially paid their way by doing odd jobs about town. Expenses ranged all the way from $4,000 to $135. While it is quite likely that few of the $4,000 men will be heard of hereafter, the self supporting and $135 men are apt to forge to the front. Young men who are ready to make such sacrifices to gain an education usually know how to make good use of it when they get it. It is probable that a majority of our eminent citizens come from the ranks of the hard working and self denying.

THE old Liberty bell now rests in a new case in the east room of Independence hall, Philadelphia. The case is made of selected quartered white oak, is 5 feet 10 inches square and 10 feet high. Over each of the glass sides is an arch with the names of the thirteen original states carved, that of Pennsylvania being on the keystone. Facing the doorway, leading down from the top, is a carved model of "Old Abe," the famous war eagle, the wings measuring 54 inches from tip to tip. Beneath, on the top part of the case, is the inscription copied from the bell: "Proclaim liberty throughout all the world to all the inhabitants thereof."

FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.
Regular Session.

WEDNESDAY, July 18.—A bill to reserve for ten years in each of several states 1,000,000 acres of arid lands to be reclaimed and sold in small tracts to actual settlers was passed in the senate and the Indian appropriation bill was further considered. In the house bills were passed to regulate enlistments in the army; to authorize the board of managers of the soldiers' home to transfer and maintain the inmates of any branch in case of emergency; to place Maj. Gen. John L. Green on the retired list.

THURSDAY, July 19 — The senate agreed to the conference report on the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill and passed the Indian appropriation bill. The house message on the tariff bill was laid on the table. In the house the tariff bill was sent back to conference with instructions to the conferrees to stand firm against the amendments which the senate placed upon the bill. During the debate a letter was read from the president favoring the house bill.

FRIDAY, July 20.—A lively debate took place in the senate over the tariff bill. Senator Smith (N. J.) spoke for the senate bill, Senator Hill (N. Y.) indorsed the president's letter to Mr. Wilson, and Senator Vest (Mo.) said the amended bill would pass or none other. Adjourned to the 22d. In the house a bill was passed which provides that consuls shall examine immigrants before they are admitted to the United States. The night session was devoted to pension business.

SATURDAY, July 21.—The senate was not in session. In the house a resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution providing for the election of senators by the direct vote of the people was passed by a two-thirds majority. The senate amendments to the Indian appropriation bills were disagreed to and conferrees appointed. A petition from residents of Des Moines, Ia., asking for the impeachment of Attorney General Olney was presented.

MONDAY, July 23.—In a speech in the senate which occupied three hours in delivering Senator Gorman (dem., Md.) charged the president with duplicity in connection with the tariff bill and three of his associates testified to the truth of his charges. In the house no quorum was present and no business was transacted.

THE REPUBLIC OF HAWAII.

Proclamation of the New Form of Government Read by President Dole.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—The Steamship Rio Janeiro which has just arrived from Orient brought the following news from Honolulu:

HONOLULU, July 13.—The provisional government is no more and the republic of Hawaii holds the reins of power. But it is only a change of name; the same people are in power, and the avowed purpose of the government is the same—to obtain annexation to the United States. The new constitution, which was finished on the 3d, was promulgated on the 4th of July from the front steps of the former palace. A large crowd was present and when President Dole appeared he was greeted by a mighty cheer. While surrounded by his cabinet, the military and the members of the late constitutional government, he read the proclamation of the new republic, as follows:

SANFORD B. DOLE.

"I, Sanford B. Dole, president of the provisional government of the Hawaiian islands, by virtue of the charge given me by the executive and advisory councils of the provisional government and by act dated July 4, 1894, proclaim the republic of Hawaii as the sovereign authority over and throughout the Hawaiian islands from this time forth. And I declare the constitution framed and adopted by the constitutional convention of 1894 to be the constitution and the supreme law of the republic of Hawaii; and by virtue of this constitution I now assume the office and authority of president thereof. Long live the republic."

Minister Willis in formally recognizing the republic said that he expected the cordial approval of President Cleveland. The republic has been generally recognized by the various consuls.

TWO FATAL COLLISIONS.

A Disaster on the Big Four—Six Killed in Texas.

CINCINNATI, July 25.—There was a head-end collision on the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis (Big Four) railway at Griffith's station, 15 miles from this city, at 7 o'clock a. m. Three people were killed and ten injured.

The express from Chicago, due here at 7:30 was on time, but the St. Louis express, which runs fifteen minutes ahead of the Chicago incoming train, was an hour late. At Griffiths a light engine was running down to the gravel bank in charge of Engineer Hart. He forgot his orders. Knowing the St. Louis express was late, he pulled out and was met by the Chicago express. Hart will die, probably, without telling how he made the mistake in orders. His fireman, Frank Taylor, of Indianapolis, was killed outright, also Charles Sherman and another tramp who was stealing a ride. There are ten reported injured, none fatally except Engineer Hart.

ATLANTA, Tex., July 25.—A collision occurred Monday evening on the Texas & Pacific road, 9 miles north of here, near Forest Station. Six persons were killed and several wounded. They were Engineer Gremm, Fireman Marshall, two express messengers, the baggagemaster and a passenger, whose names are unknown. Two of the bodies are still in the wreck and a third was torn up and the remains scattered in the debris. One engine is completely wrecked and the other badly disabled. The baggage, express, mail and smoker of both trains were shattered into a mass of splinters.

REPORTED IN THE HOUSE.

Result of the Conference Between Both Branches of Congress on the Tariff.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—On July 2 Mr. Cleveland wrote a personal letter to Mr. Wilson (which he has permitted the latter to make public) in stern and unmistakable terms and with all the vigor of his early utterances on tariff reform, indorsing the original Wilson bill and practically asking the democrats of the house to stand out against the compromise offered by the senate bill. Mr. Wilson made the conference report to the house and made a speech thereon. He then had the Cleveland letter, written July 2, read. After further debate by Mr. Reed (rep., Me.), Mr. Wheeler (dem., Ala.) and Mr. Grow (rep., Pa.) Mr. Wilson's motion insisting upon a disagreement to the senate amendments and asking for a further conference was carried. Speaker Crisp announced Messrs. Wilson, McMillin, Turner and Montgomery (democrats) and Messr Reed, Burrows and Payne (republicans)—the former conferrees—as managers on the part of the house. The senate took no immediate action on the conference report.

FLAMES IN A FORT.

The Historic Fort Pulaski Almost Totally Destroyed.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 23.—An explosion of 400 pounds of powder at Fort Pulaski at 9 o'clock Friday morning shook the earth, fatally wounded Ordinance Sergeant William Chinn, seriously injured Mary Washington, his mother-in-law, and set fire to the fort, causing intermittent explosions of ammunition and doing much damage.

The fort has quite a historic record. It was built by Gen. Gilmore and afterwards bombarded by him from Tybee island until a heavy breach was made in the southeast corner. This was April 11, 1862. It was defended by Col. C. H. Olmstead, of the confederate forces.

No Work at Pullman.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Only two men reported for work at the Pullman shops of the Allen Paper Car Wheel company on Monday. Only seven men went to work in the shops of the Pullman company. Saturday fifty were at work there. But six girls reported to the superintendent of the laundry for work.

Lyman Trumbull Appointed.

WASHINGTON, July 24. — President Cleveland has selected the commissioners to investigate the strike, and it is currently reported that Lyman Trumbull, of Chicago, is one of them.

REVIEW OF TRADE.

Industries of the Country Still Hampered by Labor Troubles.

NEW YORK, July 23.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

"The effect of the two great strikes has not yet entirely worn off, and meanwhile disagreement between the two houses of congress has made tariff uncertainties more distinct and impressive. It follows that the customary tests of the condition of business are less instructive than usual. The financial situation is somewhat less favorable because the exports of gold have been resumed and are $3,300,000 for the week, but the treasury receipts have been $2,046,391 for customs, against $2,951,574 last year and $7,474,553 internal revenue, against $2,979,518 last year. The extraordinary payments to anticipate the increase of taxation on whisky are rapidly locking up a large amount of capital and taking from the government part of the expected increase of revenue, while the current loss in customs receipts is largely due to the postponement of exports in expectation of lower duties hereafter, thus the treasury has been gaining in balance, although at the expense of some loss in revenue hereafter.

"The most hopeful sign noted this week is that failures continue comparatively few and not very important. The aggregate of liabilities for the twelve days ending July 12 was $2,630,306, of which $1,000,821 was of manufacturing and $1,448,204 of trading concerns, which is decidedly below the average for the last half year. The failures this week have been 236 in the United States, against 467 last year, and 44 in Canada, against 25 last year."

Wheat has declined 3 cents during the week. Corn has advanced a shade with no satisfactory reason, for the prospect is excellent for a large yield. A great speculation in oats has begun to liquidate, with the customary losses to the wise men who know all about it. Cotton has declined a fraction, and all indications still point to a material increase of yield.

Bradstreet's says:

"The disappearance of the great railway strike of 1894, the revival of regular freight schedules and the customary movement of produce and merchandise by water and rail have done much to restore something like the preceding volume of trade. The effects of the recent widespread disturbance to transportation and industrial circles are now making themselves felt in bank clearing returns, the aggregate this week being only $820,000,000, a drop as compared with the preceding week of about 3 per cent., and as compared with the third week in July, 1893, of 16 per cent.

"The total volume of trade at Chicago, notwithstanding resumption of railway traffic, is relatively light, that for groceries being most active. Relatively the most favorable report comes from St. Louis, where general trade is said to have much improved, and where frequency of favorable crop reports from tributary territory stimulates an improved feeling among jobbers at others."

IN GREAT DANGER.

Flames in the Forests Threaten Towns and Farms.

DULUTH, Minn., July 25. — Forest fires are getting worse and now threaten to destroy the crops and buildings of hundreds of farmers scattered through the woods near this city. Sunday the fire department was called out to protect farm property and is still at work. The fires run in the stubble and timber with terrible rapidity. Heavy and continuous rains are the only thing that will save hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property of farmers in this vicinity.

VIRGINIA, Minn., July 24.—A forest fire has been raging in this vicinity for the last forty-eight hours. Virginia was entirely surrounded by fire Sunday and barely escaped destruction.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., July 25.—The bridge on the Omaha railroad above Spooner was burned Sunday evening by forest fires, delaying the Duluth train several hours. The forest fires are reported as raging furiously in the northern part of the state once more, the rains of last week having been insufficient to put them out entirely. Around West Superior great damage is feared, several small towns being threatened.

WAR NOT YET BEGUN.

Story That Hostilities Have Broken Out in Corea Denied.

LONDON, July 24.—No confirmation has been received of the alleged private dispatch sent out by a news agency that Japanese gunboats had begun the bombardment of Corean ports. The morning papers of London either deny the report altogether or discredit it. Dispatches were received at the Chinese legation from Tien Tien showing that war between China and Japan has not yet been declared, but it is admitted that the situation is very grave.

BY DIRECT VOTE.

The Houses Passes a Bill for Popular Election of United States Senators.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—In the house the regular order Saturday was the resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution providing that senators shall be elected by direct vote of the people. Although a two-thirds vote is required for measures amending the constitution, the pending resolution was passed by a vote of 187 to 49—thirteen votes to spare. The announcement of the result was received with democratic applause.

LODGING HOUSE HORROR.

Two People Burned to Death in a St. Louis Fire.

ST. LOUIS, July 25.—By the explosion of a gasoline stove in the restaurant of Fred Wyant, 100 North Third street, about 3 o'clock a. m. Monday, the building was set on fire, and before the inmates of the cheap lodging house of William Hancock, upstairs, could be rescued, Mary Maher and John O'Malley were burned to death. John Conrad was dangerously injured, and several others more or less stifled by smoke.

Idaho Has a Destructive Cyclone.

BOISE, Idaho, July 24.—A terrible cyclone, the first in the history of Idaho, swept over Elk county, uprooting trees and killing thousands of cattle and sheep. Hailstones to the depth of 5 inches fell in some places. Some large trees were uprooted and blown hundreds of yards. The territory is sparsely settled or many would doubtless have been killed. Several persons were injured and two prospectors are missing.

Murdered for Their Money.

SENECA, Mo., July 21.—C. L. Moore and his wife, an aged couple living near Tiff City, Mo., have been found dead in their house, both having been shot through the head. There is no clew to the murderers, but the object must have been robbery, as Mr. Moore was quite well-to-do and at times had considerable money in the house.

Switzerland Wants American Beef.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Eugene Germain, United States consul at Zurich, reports that there is an opportunity just now for the export of American beef to Switzerland. The condition is brought about by the failure of the hay crop, which compelled every farmer to dispose of surplus animals.

Lord Clinton won the free-for-all trot at Detroit in 2:09, making a new record for geldings.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Arrested.

Ex-Senator A. J. Whiteman, formerly of Duluth, and at one time a member of the Minnesota legislature, is under arrest on the charge of forgery. He made a full confession. Whiteman lived in Danville, N. Y. His father father, now deceased, had made him executor of his will, without being required to give bond. The result was he had nearly a million dollars at his disposal. Most of the money was invested in good securities in New York state, and part of it belonged to his sister.

While living in Duluth, Whiteman became addicted to gambling. He invested in pine lands that did not materialize and suddenly found himself in financial shoals. His sister, who he says, is the wife of a Duluth banker, had him deposed as executor and it was then found that he had squandered $46,000 of her share of the estate, but he was never pressed on that account.

Whiteman later became associated with a gang of crooks and finally blossomed out as the head of an organized gang that has been doing business all over the United States. He says that his home recently has been in New York City, and that during the past nine months he has made $15,000 out of his forged paper.

More Gold.

Another car load of gold quartz has been shipped from Redwood Falls to Kansas City to be crushed. Mr. Edlund, the lessor of the land, will accompany the car to witness the crushing. Estimates have been furnished to place a crushing machine at the works, which will cost about $20,000. Wealthy Minneapolis parties are backing Edlund. As soon as the crushing machine arrives a large force of men will go to work blasting out quartz with dynamite.

Horrible Death.

Harry Weitzel, of Albany, met with a cruel death. He leaned his arm against a machine for pressing brick, which was in operation. His hand was caught and by degrees his arm and shoulder were drawn into the machine and finally his head passed into its jaws. his body was mangled so badly before he was extricated that it scarcely resembled a human being. Young Weitzel was 16 years old, and the son of ex-Postmaster Joseph Weitzel.

Buried Alive.

Martin O'Connor, a well-digger, was buried under 40 feet of earth without warning, while engaged in digging a well on Dr. Spaulding's farm, near Edina Mills. O'Connor had been engaged at the work for some time, having been employed by the man on the farm. He had been out of and down into the well several times, when the curbing suddenly gave way while he was at the bottom and buried him.

News in Brief.

An open switch caused a wreck of No. 9 west bound passenger at Willmar. The engine, baggage and mail cars and four coaches were derailed. Charles Kemp, fireman, had a leg broken.

John Webber of Champlin, aged 11, found a bottle of giant powder hidden by bridge builders. He set fire to it and it exploded, burning his hands and legs horribly.

A new postoffice has been established at Culver, St. Louis County, with Jules Coulombe as postmaster.

Peter Engdale, a farmer of Washington county, was killed by the limited train on the Soo road near Marine while walking across a trestle. He leaves a family.

SOME DAY.

"Some day, somehow!" The hour is dead
When I looked into loving eyes,
And kissed the whispering lips that said
These words to me. And if the ties
Then made are broken; if the breast
Then warm with life, is pulseless now,
I still will think that God knows best,
And that we will meet some day, somehow!
Until that time I still will know
That whereso'er in Heavenly care
That pure and radiant soul may go,
My thoughts may follow. Everywhere
I'll hear that voice so low and sweet,
Just as I seem to hear it now;
I'll hear the fall of fairy feet,
I'll hear the words: "Some day, somehow!"
Upon the mantelpiece I see
The picture of a fair, sweet face,
And, though the lips are sealed, to me
They speak with more than tender grace.
I question not the mystic spell;
But hark! how clear the accents now!
'Tis not the language of farewell,
'Tis trusting love's "some day, somehow!"
And so I fondly hope 'twill be,
Not now, but some time; after life
Is finished and eternity
Dawns on the soul. The toil and strife
Of time once ended, then comes rest
Such as we do not dream of now;
And thea will come to me the best
Of all, my love, some day, somehow!

'MANDY JANE PENSTOCK.

A Tale of Love and Love Charms in Pennsylvania.

One time when I was up in Pennsylvania Hemlock belt I was going from Overman's Hook to the Barley Run Cross Forks when I heard some one whistle off to one side of the road. Looking in that direction I saw a man peering cautiously from behind a big hemlock tree. He motioned for me to stop, and I did.

"Say," said the man in a suppressed voice, "kin ye see fur behind ye, down the road?"

The road was straight behind me for a mile, and I could see that far, I told the man.

"As nigh as ye kin make out, tha' hain't nothin' that looks like a tall woman in a red calliker dress an' a green sunbonnet nowheres betwixt you an' as fur as ye kin see, is tha?" asked the man.

"No," said I, "there isn't."

"Ye hain't color blind, be ye?"

I wasn't.

"Then a woman in a red calliker dress an' a green sun bonnet wouldn't be liable to look to you like one in a yaller dress an' a blue sun bonnet, would she?"

She wouldn't.

"Tha hain't no raisin' o' dust nowheres that looks as if it mowt be riz by a woman in a red calliker dress an' a green sun bonnet comin' this way pooty fast, is tha?"

The road was entirely free from anything of that sort.

"Ye hain't noways nigh-sighted, be ye?"

Quite the contrary.

"Then if tha was a raisin' o' dust setch as that, not more'n a hundred yards down the road, ye wouldn't be liable to take it fer a haystack a mile away, would ye?"

Entirely out of the question.

The man came out from behind the tree, and with a big sigh of relief sat down on a stump.

"'Cause, ye see I'm a leetle anxious," he said, "fer if ye'd seen a woman with a red calliker dress and a green sunbonnet comin', or a-raisin' o' dust that looked as if it mowt be riz by a woman with a red calliker dress and a green sunbonnet, that'd a ben 'Mandy Jane Penstock, an' I'd a had to take to the woods."

"What's the matter with 'Mandy Jane?" I asked.

The man mopped his face with his sleeve and fanned himself with his hat and said:

"Did ye ever have have a hankerin' fer a gal that didn't seem to keer to hanker fer ye?"

I didn't know that I ever had.

"Jis' keep yer eye on the road, Cap," said the man, "an' if ye see any of them signs o' Mandy Jane jis whistle, will ye?"

I said I would.

"Then I'll tell ye sumpin'. If ever ye take a shine to a gal an' she won't hanker, take a hoot owl's gizzard, dry it, an' grind it inter a powder. Then, unbeknownst to the gal, git some of it in her lemonade or sumpin' 'fore she drinks it, an' ye've jist as good as made four shillin' for the squire, for she can't never say 'No' agin when ye ast her if she'll be yourn. Tha' hain't no red an' geeen loomin' up yit twixt you an' the horizon, nor no shakin' o' dust that mowt have red an' green inside of it, is tha?"

"Not yet."

"If ye'd ever know'd Sallie Magompers, over to the Hook, ye'd a hankered, I'll bet ye! I took to hankerin' fer Sallie more'n a year ago, but tha didn't seem to be no use. Sallie's jest turnin' twenty, now, and mebbe she hain't a caution fer pootiness! Pictur's hain't nowheres 'longside o' her. But somehow she fit shy o' me. So one day I says to myself: 'All right, my lady! If it's got to be left to hoot-owls,' I says, 'hoot-owls it'll be,' an' I went a gunnin' fer hoot-owls. But hoot-owls hain't so durn thick in these here woods, an' I gunned, an' I gunned fer pooty nigh a year 'fore I draw'd bead on one, an' you bet I was more'n tickled when I tumbled him offen his roost!

"'Gals that kin hanker an' won't hanker must be made to hanker!' I says, an' I hung the hoot-owl's gizzard up to dry.

"One o' these days, when I hear that 'Mandy Jane Penstock has passed over Jurdan, I'm goin' back to the Hook an' jest as like as not thump the life outen Sam Brazee. Sam an' me worked on the same loggin' job, an' after I bagged the owl I says to him one day:

"'Sam,' I says, 'me an' you won't hunk in together much longer,' I says.

"'How's that?' says Sam.

"'I'm goin'ter marry Sallie Magompers next week,' I says.

"'No!' says Sam, 'Sallie's give in, has she?'

"'Not yit,' I says, 'but she's goin' ter. I've powdered a hoot-owl's gizzard,' I says. 'Jis' shoot yer eye down the road agin, Cap. If tha's anything mussin' of it up that mowt put ye in mind o' the inklin' I've giv ye o' 'Mandy Jane, gimme the wink an' I'll scoot."

The road was still clear.

"Sam looked s'prised a little when I told him 'bout havin' the owl's gizzard love powder, an' pooty soon he says:

"'Well,' he says, 'I'm goin'ter take Sallie to the picnic to-morrow, an' I s'pose that'll be the last time I kin gallavant her anywheres, 'cordin' to that,' he says.

"'That's what it will, Sammy!" I says.

"'Mandy Jane Penstock mowt a ben a stunner when she was a gal, fer all I know, but I don't jis' recomember when that was. She'll hef to think back a good ways if she recomembers it herself. But, leavin' out bone an' sinner, an' a pooty sharp nose, 'Mandy Jane don't cut much of a figger nowadays. She's consid'able sot in her ways, though, an' when she has sumpin' on her mind that she's goin'ter do she's goin'ter do it or things'll rumble.

"Sam Brazee he took Sallie to the picnic an' I was there with my hoot-owl's gizzard all ready. Sallie kittened consida'ble to Sam, an' it made me squirm to see her, I tell ye, but I says to myself: 'All right, my lady!' I says. 'But wait till the hoot-owl sings to ye!' I says. Bimeby I says to Sam an' Sallie:

"'Come over an' I'll treat ye,' I says. 'Come git some lemonade,' I says.

"An' they come along, an' I bought the lemonade, an' when Sallie wasn't lookin' I tumbled the owl's gizzard love powder inter her glass.

"'Oh!' she says. 'Yonder's 'Mandy Jane Penstock!' she says. 'Mandy must have a treat, too!' she says.

"So she calls 'Mandy Jane over, an' I orders a glass fer her. Now see what what Sallie done. She hands the glass that had the owl's gizzard in it over to 'Mandy Jane herself, an' 'fore I could stop her, 'Mandy Jane had gulped it down, love powder an' all! You're sure ye hain't color blind, Cap?"

"Positive."

"Nor nigh-sighted?"

"Not a bit."

"Ye don't see no more colors on the lan'scape, yet, than ye'd natur'ly 'spect orto be there, do ye?"

"No."

"An' the dust hain't actin' in a way that mowt fool ye into thinkin' it was only a hurricane a-comin'?"

"No."

"It'll go hard with Sam Brazee if it ever gits safe fer me to go back to the Hook ag'in! Soon as I see 'Mandy Jane gulp that lemonade an' owl's gizzard I give one cold shake an' started fer home to pack my trunk. This was only yisterday. When I came out ag'in there was 'Mandy Jane.

"'Asa,' says she, 'arter all these years,' says she, 'an' to think that you'm to be the one,' says she. 'I'll be ready to-morrow,' says she, 'an' me an' you'll go to the squire's. To-morrow at half-past nine!' says she.

"Say, Cap! I tumbled back in the house an' slammed the door an' went upstairs an' hid under the bed. Early this mornin' I crawled out an' snuck outen the house an' jist laid myself out an' dug fer liberty. As I raised the hill I turned an' looked back. There was 'Mandy Jane comin' on my trail like the wocds afire! She's comin' yit! She's only stopped fer wind. Has she hove in sight yit?"

"Not yet."

"Then I'll take to the woods an' mebbe won't see no t'backer for a month, Cap, unless you gimme that plug o' your'n; an' when 'Mandy Jane ketches up with ye if ye'll only jist tell her—"

But I hadn't time to wait to hear what I was to tell 'Mandy Jane and drove on toward Barley Run Cross Forks.—N. Y. Sun.

OPEN TO ENGAGEMENT.

A Horrible Example of the Effects of Idleness.

"Mister," said the greasy wayfarer at the back door, plaintively, "can't you do somethin' fur a pore man?"

"My friend," replied the man of the house, "I am a poor man myself."

"I don't s'pose you know what it is to go all over the country huntin' work?"

"No."

"The trouble with me," said the pilgrim, wiping his perspiring brow with the remains of what had once been a handkerchief, "is nerves. I can't do heavy work. If you was to ask me to hoe in the garden to pay fur my breakfus' I couldn't do it. I won't deceive you, mister. I just couldn't do it. But I'm willin' to do light work. I won't stand back fur no man alive when it comes to light work. An' if you've got any easy job that I can do comfortable like, so as to stimulate my appetite 'thout weak'nin' my nerves—"

"I have told you, my friend," interrupted the man of the house, "that I am a poor man. I sympathize with you, but I am not able to do anything to help you, and I certainly don't know of any light work you could do. I am a lecturer and I make only a bare living."

"Would you mind tellin' me what you lecture about?"

"No. The subject of the lecture I am delivering this season is 'The Industrial Crisis.'"

"Mister," said the caller, eagerly, "don't you want a feller to travel with you as a horrible example of the effects of idleness?"—Chicago Tribune.

OBJECTED TO CHILDREN.

How Some Flat Hunters Found One in a Landlord.

"Perhaps you would like to be landlord of a flat," said the man who had been talking real estate, "and think you had obtained desirable tenants, and were hugging yourself over the delightful knowledge that whatever other landlords had to endure, there would be no children in your flats. I rented to a couple the other day, and as usual asked if the family consisted of adults only.

"'Oh, yes,' chirped the young woman, 'and we don't want any children in the building—that is why we are willing to pay your price.'

"The man didn't say anything, but I thought he looked queer.

"'Any boarders?' I asked.

"'Hardly,' said he, 'in a six-room flat.'

"Still I thought there was something back of it.

"'Pets?'

"No, neither dog, cat, canary nor parrot. They took the flat, and her widowed sister came from Nebraska with five boys to visit them. That was a year ago, and they are visiting them yet, and in consequence all the other flats remain empty. A tornado would be silence compared to the racket those boys make."—Detroit Free Press.

What Could Do It.

To wound a man's pride has often been found to be the most dangerous thing one can do. The feeling of the greater part of humanity is represented by the reply of a Gascon officer to Charles VII., who asked if anything could detach him from the king's service. "No, sire—not even the offer of three kingdoms like yours; but, yes, sire—one single affront."—Youth's Companion.

DEBS IN COURT.

A. R. U. Leaders Answer to the Charge of Contempt.

Another Riot—The Two-Dollar Dividend—The Public Urged to Support the Boycott by Refusing to Ride in Pullman Cars.

ARGUMENTS ARE HEARD.

CHICAGO, July 25.—On Monday President Debs, Vice President Howard, Secretary Keliher and Director Rogers, of the American Railway union, by their attorneys, W. W. Erwin, S. S. Gregory and John F. Geeting, filed their answer to the contempt rule issued by the court against them last week. The case was heard by Judges Grosscup and Wood. Mr. Gregory offered a motion to quash the writ because of insufficient supplemental information. The motion was laid over. Attorney Gregory's suggestion that the hearing be postponed until after this trial under the indictments pending against them was not entertained by the court. The court then heard arguments on Mr. Gregory's motion to dismiss the bill and discharge the defendants. Mr. Milchrist read the information filed by the government reciting the telegrams sent by Debs to other officials of the American Railway union after the writ of injunction was issued.

Attorney Erwin then read the answer of the defendants. The answer denied that the defendants ordered the employes of any road to leave their work. By the laws of the union a strike can be ordered only by a vote of its members. The defendants denied that the organization of unions was carried on other than by generally advising employes to become members of unions and receiving to membership persons so applying therefor. They expressly denied that the organization of such unions conferred upon its officers or directors authority to order strikes as alleged in the information.

Sent But One Telegram.

The defendants deny that after the service of the injunction they or either of them carried on the work of organization other than by generally advising railroad employes to become members of such union and receiving to membership persons so applying therefor as aforesaid. They deny that orders to strike were at any time or in any manner communicated by said American Railway union to said local unions, as alleged in said information.

The defendants deny that any one of the telegrams set forth in said information was sent or caused to be sent by them or any of them, or that they authorized or approved the same or any one thereof, except a certain telegram dated July 6, 1894, as follows:

"We have assurance that within forty-eight hours every labor organization in this country will come to our rescue. The fight is on, and our men are acquitting themselves like heroes. Here and there one weakens, but our cause is strengthened by a dozen going out in his place. Every true man must quit now and remain out until the fight is won. There can be no half-way ground. Men must be for us or against us.

This telegram, defendants admit, was caused to be sent by defendant Debs, as alleged, but save as hereinbefore admitted defendants allege that they had no knowledge or notice whatever of the sending of said telegrams or of the contents thereof until the filing of the information.

Always Counseled Peace.

The defendants admit that upon some of said lines of railway there was exercised upon the part of some persons, to the defendants unknown, violence against persons and property. Upon information and belief they deny that any member of said American Railway union in any manner participated in said acts of violence or any of them.

They allege that they did all said times counsel and advise all members of the said American Railway union, with whom they were in communication, to at all times abstain from violence, threats and intimidation, and to all times respect the law and the officers thereof.

The answer makes other sweeping and more specific denial of the charges and concludes by declairing that all of their actions after the service upon them of said injunction were taken under advice of competent counsel, and the defendants, each for himself, denies that he intended in any way to violate the injunction of this court or to act in defiance or contempt of its authority in any respect.

Attorney Walker then arose and made a short, crisp speech for the prosecution. He first reviewed the facts set forth in the information and then took up one by one the charges of the bill. He said:

"We claim that the transmission of those letters and telegrams was a willful violation of the injunction. Does this answer, although it be verified, purge the contempt and can the defendants go out of court free men? We ought to have the right to bring witnesses to challenge the truthfulness of the allegations of such answer, although we do not charge that the answer is not true.

"Our position is this: The strike and boycott emanated from the officers of the American Railway union, and these defendants were to blame for it. They are responsible for every act of violence, every murder, every assault which followed the issuance of their orders. They say they did not issue the orders—we desire to probe their source. One thing we know—they admit the violence and boast of it."

Laundresses in Peril.

CHICAGO, July 21.—The first attempt to resume operations at Pullman resulted in a riot that threatened bloodshed and wholesale destruction of property. When the whistles sounded at 8 o'clock a. m. about eighty persons walked into the laundry and started to work.

The Mob Gathers.

No trouble was made at the laundry until 12:30 o'clock, when a mob composed mainly of women and children surrounded the place and began to show their displeasure at the fact that the laundry had started up by hooting and jeering at the operatives within. For a time they were content with this method of procedure, but soon noise became too tame for them and they began to throw mud and small stones. This at length palled on the crowd and rocks were called into use.

Chased a Girl.

Suddenly the attack upon the building ceased. The mob caught sight of a woman attempting to make her way past the crowd. She was instantly recognized as a non-union operative. The mob charged upon her with stones and chased her to Market hall, where she found refuge just in time to escape serious injury.

The Militia Appears.

In the meantime the militia had been notified of the disturbance and a detachment under Maj. Sanborn and Lieut. Horton came up on the double quick. The mob lost no time in scattering in all directions but not until a man wearing a white ribbon and who had been active in inciting the women and children was captured. He was placed under arrest and taken to Hotel Florence.

Declared a Two-Dollar Dividend

The Pullman Palace Car company on Friday issued a notice to its stockholders that on August 15 it would pay a quarterly dividend of two dollars on each share of stock. Shareholders of record at the close of business August 1 will receive the allotment. The dividend is declared from the "net earnings" of the company, the circular says.

Switchmen Disband.

At the regular daily meeting of the strikers at Uhlich's hall Friday morning there were speeches by members of the organization all advising the men to remain firm and under no circumstances to return to their places. A committeeman from Pullman told the audience that no one need have any fear that any of the members of the organization there would go back until ordered to do so. He said it was not true that the old men were seeking their places.

Chairman Deegan said that he had been told that all of the members of the directory of the organization had been indicted by the federal grand jury, with a number of prominent members of the union. The men, however, were determined that the strike should not be declared off.

Making Considerable Trouble.

Strikers and their sympathizers at the stock yards continue their lawless acts on a small scale, but the general condition of that district and its industries remains peaceful. Several trains have been derailed, but the damage resulting was trifling.

Hannahan Indicted.

The federal grand jury returned many indictments against strikers on Thursday, among them being a bill against J. J. Hannahan, vice grand master of the Brotherhood of Firemen, charged with conspiracy.

Hannahan is indicted together with Debs, Howard, Keliher and Rogers, the officers of the Railway union. The indictment charges the five with conspiracy to do an unlawful act, that is to obstruct the mails of the United States.

Strikers Will Stand Firm.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—Notwithstanding the action of the A. R. U. lodge in Sacramento in declaring the strike off unconditionally, the Oakland and San Francisco lodges decline to consider it off, and announce they will stand firm. This course was determined by unanimous vote at special meetings held Saturday night.

Debs Appeal.

CHICAGO, July 24.—President Debs and his associates prepared an appeal to the American people asking them to boycott the Pullman cars by refusing to ride in them. The document says that the obstinacy of the Pullman company in refusing to submit to arbitration in any form (even to decide the question if there was anything to arbitrate) is deserving of the severest condemnation. It goes on to say that the Pullman company has robbed its employes and that an investigation would have disclosed a state of affairs which would have horrified the nation. This, the union claims, is why arbitration was refused.

The document continues:

"It is notoriously true that the Pullman company pays its conductors and porters such paltry wages that they are obliged to depend upon the public to support them. Yes, this rich and powerful corporation virtually compels the public to pay the wages of its sleeping car employes, and this notwithstanding extortionate rates are charged for sleeping car accommodations.

Then, after stating that they propose to continue the strike regardless of consequences until justice be done, it says: "The struggle is for humanity and against the most cruel tyranny, and, unless we are dead to every impulse of mercy and fellow-feeling, must be crowned with success."

"We propose that the Pullman company shall be brought to justice and this in a way that will not necessitate a strike with its attendant ills. It may be suggested that this should have been thought of before the great strike was inaugurated. In that case little, if any, attention would have been paid to the appeal we are about to make.

"As one of the results of the strike the country is aroused and any proper appeal will command attention. The Pullman company, still defiant, and as cruel to its former employes as it is indifferent to the public weal, is determined to starve its employes into submission. As remorseless as a man-eating tiger, it waits complacently until their last penny is gone and they are thus forced to crawl back into their heartless oppressor's employ. The spectacle is well calculated to make men and angels shudder.

"Shall the Pullman company have the support of the public in carrying out this hellish policy? Shall the public be a party to the starvation and degradation of the more than 4,000 employes—men and women whose only crime is that they ask living wages? We believe—indeed, we know—what the answer will be. We have faith in the American people. They uphold justice; they love fair play. And now, in the name of justice and fair play, we appeal to the great American public, to every good man and every good woman, not to ride in a Pullman car until the Pullman company does justice to its employes. Let the cars run absolutely empty. No friend of labor, no friend of humanity, will occupy a seat or berth in a Pullman car. Let this policy be inaugurated and we will then see how long the railroad companies will be bound by their contracts, as they have induced the public to believe, to haul Pullman cars.

MAY SOLVE THE PROBLEM.

Plan for a Big Congress of Employers and Employes.

CHICAGO, July 21.—The Civic federation at a meeting held at the Commerce club Thursday night started a movement which its members hope will tend toward a solution of the labor question and will prevent strikes and other troubles of the kind. The plan is to hold a congress of representatives of employers and employes, similar to the parliament of religions held in this city last year. The representatives of these bodies will confer and give the results of their experiences and adopt some measures of conciliation which will avert strikes in the future.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Lyman J. Gage, president of the Civic federation, has appointed the following committee to arrange for the proposed labor congress in this city: A. C. Bartlett, Marvin Hughitt, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Edson G. Keith, M. J. Carroll, J. J. Ryan, George R. Peck and A. W. Small. Telegrams received from labor leaders and large employers favor the idea. The committee includes merchants, bankers, railroad officials and labor leaders.

FATAL FLAMES.

Two Men Lose Their Lives by a Fire in Chicago—Ten Houses Burned.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Two men perished and ten houses, valued at $18,000, were destroyed and much household property consumed by flames in a fire that occurred on Van Horn street, in the heart of the Bohemian colony, Monday afternoon. Moritz Arka and Frank Cizek are dead. Twenty families were rendered homeless by the fire, which was started by four children of Antoine Cizek. They were playing with matches in a shed. The fire was beyond control before the firemen arrived. Arks rushed into the burning mass to save the Cizek children. He got them out in time and returned to help his neighbor, Joseph Platzky, remove the furniture. Reaching the second story he was overcome by the heat and fell from the window, dying soon afterward. Cizek lost both eyes and his body was terribly burned. He died later at the hospital. The houses burned were 1057 to 1065 Van Horn street and five on Nineteenth street. The families which lived in them were all poor and lost all they possessed. Arka left a wife and three children.

GOOD SPIRITS

follow good health while low spirits, melancholia, impaired memory, morose, or irritable temper, fear of impending calamity and a thousand and one derangements of body and mind, result from pernicious, solitary practices, often indulged in by the young, through ignorance of their ruinous consequences. Nervous debility, and loss of manly power, not infrequently result from such unnatural habits.

To reach, reclaim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness, is the aim of an association of medical gentlemen, who have prepared a treatise, written in plain but chaste language and treating of the nature, symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases.

THE happiest life is that which constantly exercises and educates that which is best in us.—Hamerton.

HOG BRISTLES.

THE feed for little pigs should be sweet, and not sour.

LITTLE pigs ought always to have access to fresh water for drink.

LOOK out for the filthy pig sty and disease-breeding troughs and barrels during this hot weather.

ALL wastes from the kitchen and table are wholesome and suitable as feed for pigs, but a swill-barrel that is never empty and never clean injures the system of a hog and his owner's profit.

DON'T be so foolish as to refuse to let the hogs have the clover field until it is too tall and rank. The pigs should be put in the clover field as soon as it offers fair feeding, whether it be the first thing in the spring or after mowing. Then it will not outgrow them and become too old and woody to supply their needs.—Farm Journal.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

SAPOLIO

GOOD COOKING DEMANDS CLEANLINESS. SAPOLIO SHOULD BE USED IN EVERY KITCHEN.

Milk Cans, pans, churns, bottles, everything which is used for milk, even down to the baby's bottle—these are things for which you need Pearline. With Pearline, they're cleansed more easily, more quickly, more economically, and more thoroughly, than with anything else known. The people who know most about milk say just that. We can't afford to print all the testimonials we hold. They're free expressions of opinion—in conventions, in papers, everywhere where milk folks have a voice. Their enthusiasm about Pearline is genuine. And it's natural. For all kinds of washing and cleaning, nothing equals Pearline.

MATILDA.—It was a good turn you did me when you told me of Santa Claus Soap. It makes the clothes whiter than any other, and saves time and work.

MARY.—Yes, and it does not injure the hands or the clothes.

—Rev. Davis will preach at the Presbyterian church Sunday at 10:30 A. M.

—Mrs. Parslow and her Sunday school class held a picnic at Lake Houghey on Thursday.

--There has been some talk of starting a lodge of I. O. G. T's. here in the near future. there is plenty of material.

—Rev. Webb, of Minneapolis, held Episcopal services at the Presbyterian church last night. He organized the Guild in the afternoon.

--The ice cream sociable, at the City Hall last night passed off pleasantly. The weather was hot and people were hunting for something cooling.

—George Florida of Rockford has reshingled his extensive roofs in that place. Something short of a car load of shingles has been used and the mill has not yet been reached.

—Harvesting does not seem to deplete the ranks of the travelers in our section of country. Farmers are short on help and the tramps short on grub, yet they don't seem to come together worth a cent.

—August Berneck is about completing his new addition to his west side residence. The house now looks like an old fashioned hotel, and is a commodious structure, furuishing room for two familes.

--L. W. Terry Cargill's wheat buyer at this place is to move his family to Smith Lake next week. He informs us that the man there took in as much wheat last year as both elevators here did. Probably Charles L. Belt will supercede him here.

—Farmers claim that the Potato crop will be the shortest ever known in this section this fall. Notwithstanding the McKinley bill is still in effect we dont seem to be reaping much benefit. We believe there is a higher power than men's tariff laws that regulates the supply of produce to a certain extent.

—Our Rockford neighbors have awakened to the fact that an improvement in their ways would be advisable; consequently have straightened and graded the road, considerably leading to their depot. The creek near Mr. Ewing's place has been spaned by a high bridge and the trip will be a much more pleasant one in the future.

—The Advocate of Peace, Benjamin F. Trueblood, LL. D. of Boston, Mass. Editor, is a publication in the interest of peace; and the settlement of difficulties by arbitration; and has seen more than half a century of the turmoils of this world. Rev. John S. Merrick, called on us yesterday and intends working Wright County, in the interest of the organization of which the publication is a representative.

—The Delano Post office met with a small robbery on Tuesdey night. A staple was drawn from a back door and three dollars in change extracted from the money drawer; some stamps taken and a coat belonging to the P. M. The burglars tore open several letters and tore up two or three. They left their tracks around the building. and no straw will be left unturned to ferret them out and have the law meet out to them their deserts. If the police force is insufficient or incapable of protecting the village it should be strengthened to meet the demands. Otherwise people should provide guards to their buisness houses to meet prowlers and capture a few of them.

—C. W. Kerrick had a civil engineer at work on the survey for the Village water works on Tuesday.

—The Epworth league meets on Sunday evening at the M. E. Church at 7. o'clock. Church services at 8.

—Joe Merriman lost a small portion of one of his fingers while working at the pump in the well for the new water works system.

—Mrs. Bauman's residence on second street is being finished up and presents a nice appearance. Will says he thinks he will occupy it.

—The St. Peter School has been disinfected under the dirrection of Health Officer Shrader and will be prepared to begin fall work in season.

—Butter is said to be rather a scarce commodity in this vicinity at present, owing to the dry time. Cows are said to be yielding not over half what they have been in the habit of doing.

--Spence Brothers is moving to North Dakota for a few months; where he has a job putting up hay. He expects to return home about Christmas. Mrs. Jos. Brenner is to occupy his residence in his abscence.

—We are in receipt of a pamphlet on "Russian Thistle or Russian Tumble Weed." from the University of Minnesota. Send to the Agricultural Experiment Station, St. Anthony Park and get a Bulletin on the Subject,

--The Camper's Out Society, from Point Lilly, returned home on Monday, having put in a week of solid enjoyment. They claim that if folks were peacable when they came to visit the camp, the ducking part of the initiatory ceremony was dispensed with.

—Two cases of diphtheria in the family of Mr. Kolbe were made known to the Health officer on Sunday last and the premises promptly quarantined. There are now five cases in the house. And a young man named Corpus, on the west side is down with it.

--The well for the supply of water for drinking purposes, near the river has been completed and the plank spout to connect it with the river for use in case of fire has been placed in position, and the work on the Village water works suspended until the arrival of the pipes.

--The old Eagle office near the Danforth House has been fitted up and nicely painted and presents quite a good appearance. We understand Renswick Brothers will occupy it as a Produce Market. Competition is the life of trade. Our farmers may expect to get the best living prices in Delano after this for their farm produce of all kinds.

—Grain stacks now appear in the fields where a week ago the grain waved in the breezes. No finer weather for haying and harvesting ever was seen; and the farmer who is caught with his crop unsaved, by the usual fall rains this season deserves little pity, unless he can give a good reason for his tardiuess in saving them. Thrashing is now in order and is being done in some places.

—Charles W Ingerson an ex-member of the school board and whose name was before the school meeting with two more farmers John Cunningham and Frank Sutton both having served on the board, says; "Though I didnt want the office myself I think the country should have at least one man on the board. The proceedings smack considerably of the Minneapolis Judicial convention style, and seem to have been fixed up.

—It is possible the Delano Board of Education is correct; but it dont seem to be the belief of the whole of the people that it has any authority for hiring each other to build a foundation, to erect a new school house, to suit themselves; to insure it themselves; to furnish it with books and stationery, etc., from their own stores, and never say "boo" to anybody. But if that is what the people elect them for they must take their medicine and not grumble.

—We wouldn't be surprised to see a couple of young fellows making tracks for some other clime; or shedding their shoes at least. As the Village Attorney has preserved samples of the shoe tracks left by the robbers in the rear of the Post office, and cut sticks for measures and has already found some tracks on the streets that fit pretty well to the measure and resemble the preserved specimens. Look out young fellows if Uncle Sam gets his clutches on you, you will probably not have an opportunity to prowl around town nights again for a long time.

—Some of our voters in Delano Independent School District would like to know how it is that 12 years after voting to build a six thousand dollar school house, which district was promised would be all paid for in ten years out of a sinking fund established for that purpose, it now owes $12,800, and has in the sinking fund but $2,000; and has paid more money for interest than the house was ever worth? Also how a better house for the district is to be built out of the insurance money $7,051.62 lately received for the one burned. when the insurance companies are supposed to insure for much less than actual value.

—The Eagle gives Editors Frank Stacy, of the Minneapolis Spectator, and Dr. Catlin of the Gazette some of her "insinuations". They are in favor of law and order, and believe it is the duty of officers elected for the purpose to keep them.

There will be a special service in the M. E. Church next Sundry evening at 8 o'clock, subject of sermon: "The war of Capital and Labor." No service in the morning. Let everybody come in the evening.

—The bids were opened yesterday for building and heating the new school house the following bids were in:

|---|---|
| J. & W. A. Elliott, building, | $4,482.00 |
| B. Cooper, | 7,384.00 |
| A. Horsch, | 5,217.00 |
| Swedebeck & Errickson, | 5,250.00 |
| E. H. Murphy, Heat and Vent. steam, | 1,500.00 |
| Tunstead & Moore, same | 1,482.00 |

We were informed that two other bids, one for $1500.00 and one for $1,600.00 were in.

J. & W. A. Elliott, and Tunstead & Moore got the jobs.

--Some of the matrons who were picnicing at Lillie Point are quite indignant over the advertisement given them by the Eagle. They say only the Bachelor head of the concern called on them, and several of the young ladies of the party nearly ruined their complections trying fish for his insatiable apetite and thats the thanks they get for it. Besides it is hardly to be supposed that he should know the difference between the latest style of young ladie's bathing suit and her brothers base ball breeches.

(Communicated.)

Mr. Buckley, in his last issue, throws out some out some very unjust insinuations about the ladies camping at Lake Huey.

This is an insult to the ladies and their visitors, and will not be forgotten, neither by them, their husbands, nor their friends until apologized for, or retracted.

We all DID have a good time and no ONE but an EVILMINDED person would have made any remarks about us. But "Out of the fullness of the heart the mouth speaketh," and it seems to be very gratifying to Mr, Buckley to publish everything Mrs. Grundy says about persons, ESPECIALLY outside of his own family.

LADIES OF THE CAMPING PARTY.

--The bird up street, with the noble name, says "Judging from his last "GAZETTE," Dr. Catlin must have discovered a "mares nest" when he said that members of the school board gobble everything in sight, etc." We think there is some evidence of an "Eagle nest" judging from some of the feathers, and the way the old bird squirms, and wriggles. Perhaps she never read law "or is following her old tactics "law or no law" We would respectfully ask that the "double header" take the last printed report of the Treasurer and explain it to the satisfaction of her readers if she can. after enlightening herself and her readers by publishing the following:

Penalty for Dealing in School Supplies. No teacher, state, county, township or district school officer, shall be interested in the sale proceeds or profits of any book, apparatus or furniture, used or to be used in any school in this state, with which such officer or teacher may be connected: and any such teacher or officer who shall receive any commission or compensation, either directly or indirectly, for the sale of any book, apparatus or furniture used or to be used in any school in this state, upon conviction thereof, by complaint before a justice of the peace, shall be fined not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars for each such offence.

Statutes of 1878, Chap. 36, § 92,

—A large school meeting was held on Saturday evening at the City Hall, the Treasurers report was read and accepted. The terms of office of I. Gutzwiller Jr., and John Cunningham having expired, it was moved to elect two members of the Board of education one at a time; the vote stood:

|---|---|
| I. Gutzwiller, Jr., | 84 |
| M. A. O'Hair, | 25 |
| Geo. P. Schaffer, | 1 |
| Johnny Arup, | 1 |
| Total vote | 111 |

I. Gutzwiller, Jr., having a majority was declared elected. A ballot was then taken for the second member; nominations having been made as follows: J. E. Borsch, Frank Sutton, C. W. Ingerson and John Cunningham. The vote stood:

|---|---|
| J. E. Borsch, | 72 |
| John Cunningham, | 29 |
| C. W. Ingerson, | 9 |
| Frank Sutton, | 1 |
| Total vote, | 111 |

J. E. Borsch having received a majority of the votes cast was declared elected. As it was stated that the school had been placed on the high school list and would necessarily have to have a nine months school no vote was taken on this matter. And as the board appeared to think it was about iufallible, and its actions unimpeachable, and its powers well nigh unlimited, and evidently feeling itself pretty well endorsed in this high position an adjournment was taken.

—Mayor Kohler, gets a thrust from the bill of the "Old Bird". He's a Democrat.

Personals.

Prof. R C. Dewey was in town today.

Jenner Chance has returned from his Royalton trip.

Paul Knoot is now assistant in the G. N. railroad depot.

J. C. McDonnald was home from Annandale, on a visit, over Sunday.

Dr. R. O. Cady, of Buffalo, was in town a couple of days this week.

Fay Parslow is learning the printing business during the vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Haggerty and daughter visited Grossfather Haffner on Sunday.

T. J. Terry, of Howard arrived in town Tuesday evening, with a load of school books.

Alva Catlin is helping his grandpa John Cunningham in the harvest field, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Parslow drove to Rockford on Sunday to call on a sick relative, Mrs. Levi Thompson.

Commissioners Mattson and Bugbee and Supervisor Ziebarth made the GAZETTE a visit on Wednesday.

Messers C. M. Johnson, Rutherford, McLain, and Covell, were visitors at the Point Lillies camp last week.

Mr and Mrs. Elmer Cruikshank the eloping couple have returned from Marshal, where they were married. They were in town Monday.

James Finnegan, an old resident of this place and now of the Soldiers' Home, spent Sunday in Delano on his way to Watertown to look after farming interests.

Rev. Webb, of Minneapolis, made us a pleasant call on Thursday. He is successor to Rev. Millspaugh, and will look after this charge in connection with his other work.

County Cullings.

Dr. Ridgway, of Annandale, has sent invitations to the regular physicians of the county to meet Wednesday, Aug. 1 at Buffalo to organize a Medical society. It is likely a good turnout will be on hand, and an interesting meeting had.

Rev. Robert Forbes, of Duluth, is mentioned as a probable candidate for Congress from the sixth, on the populist ticket. Robert is a rustler.

Our republican bretheren seem to be pulling and hauling in many directions this fall. There is a good chance for some good straight democrats to get offices this time from the present outlook. The old sore between Sherburne and Wright seems to be gapping open worse than ever. And some of our Wright county friends are digging into it by saying that the Sherburne county delegation was pledged to Bob Dunn before Pidgeon got around to them. Well how could they help that? Pidgeon's friends should fly around faster if they ever expect to get to the front.

Chairman Mattson, Commissioner Bugbee and chairman of Supervisors Ziebarth of Franklin and Crawford of Rockford met in Delano on Wednesday to sign a contract to build an iron bridge in place of the old Sampsell bridge. It seems that after all bids were rejected by the commissioners. A. Y. Bayne put in a private bid for 2900 and some dollars, and the commissioners thought they would accept it. But when they broached the subject to the Supervisors. Ziebarth thought he would not sign such a contract unless he was authorized to do so by a meeting of the Board of Supervisors. So the look at present is, in view of the fact that the County Treasury is about "busted" that a wooden bridge will take the place of the old structure for a few years vet.

The Populists assembled in convention at Wayerly, on Saturday, last, and placed in the field the following partial ticket: Auditor, John P. Olsen; Treas, W. D. Tompson; Register, John S. Johnson; Sheriff, John Kelly; Judge of Probate, W. H. Cutting; Supt. of Schools, Sidney Belt; Court Commissioner, H. C. Morneau; County Commissioners 1st Dist., Paul Kennedy; 2nd W. H. Vollbrecht; 4th D. W. Flannigan.

These are mostly Democratic losses; as several of them have formerly trained in that party and looks as if the so-called populists party, in this county were bent on capturing a few offices, and are depending on the democrats to endorse them for the places the Populists convention has given them on the ticket. We have been informed by parties claiming to know that several of the candidates will refuse to make the run.

MY NEIGHBOR.

My neighbor met me on the street,
She dropped a word of greeting gay,
Her look so bright, her tone so sweet,
I stepped to music all the day.

The cares that tugged at heart and brain,
The work to heavy for my hand,
The ceaseless underbeat of pain,
The tasks I could not understand,

Grew lighter as I walked along
With air and step of liberty,
Freed by the sudden lift of song,
That filled the world with cheer for me.

Yet was this all. A woman wise,
Her life enriched by many a year,
Had faced me with her brave true eyes,
Passed on, and said. "Good morning dear."

—Margaret E. Sangster.

What's the use of growling,
Whats' the use of howling,
What's the use of yowling,
When "the world is going wrong?"
What's the use of sneering,
What's the use of jeering?
Men are sick of hearing
That old dyspeptic song,
See the flowers springing;
Hear the robins singing;
See the glad sun flinging
His light across the sky!
Earth's a sea of gladness—
Brush away your sadness;
Else, in all your badness,
Go, crawl away and die.

—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Fusion in Our's.

POTATOES bring a dollar a bushel and more in our markets, and our farmers haven't a peck to sell. We are not blaming the McKinley bill for this altogether; but perhaps the Higher Power has concluded to show our protective friends the error of their ways.

THE Democratic majority of one, in the United States Senate reminds one of the story of the old farmer, who when asked how many hogs he had, said "I can't tell; I can count them all but one little spotted one, and it runs around so I couldn't count it."

THE Dulutn News Tribune thinks the prospects are good for Major Baldwin to get his Canal Bill through Congress next winter. And says this $100,000.00 appropriations for preliminary survey is but a small part of the project and expects it will be a long time before congress will appopriate sufficient funds to finish the job. It says the wind up will probaly be done by a corporation.

POTATOES are very scarce and are commanding a high price. It was impossible to purchase a bushel of potatoes in this village last satuaday forenoon.—Buffalo Journal.

Perhaps the people of the county seat could procure a carload by sending to Manatoba, and by paying the 25 cts per bushel tariff of the McKinley bill on them and get an object lesson in polit-ical economy that they would remember a few days.

ELITOR STIVERS, of the Brainerd Journal recently visited Duluth and took occasion to investigate the charges that would-be-congressman Towne, of that place is an A. P. A. candidate. He says it is no secret at Duluth, that although Mr. Towne is not a member, his sympathies are with that society. He quotes from the Liberty, the A. P. A. newspaper at Duluth, showing that they have a claim on him, the following:

"Mr. Charles A. Towne, of this city, owes to the American Protective Assoolation the delegation which is to support him in the republican congressional convention. The republican ring of St Louis county was knocked out at the primaries by the efforts of men who belong to this order."

Mr. Stivers further says that many of the A. P. A's have not liked the vigorous protest to being mentioned as an A. P. A. candidate that Mr. Towne has published, and will, if he don't smooth it over, support Rev. Robert Forbes, of Duluth the populist candidate, who is a member of the order.

THE Catholic Church is fast following in the footsteps of some of the other denominations in regard to their treatment of intemperance. Their Total Abstinance societies are doing much to reform those of our citizens it seems hard to reach otherwise than through the church. The society is now in session in St. Paul and advanced stands are expected to be taken. But a few years ago drinks of various kinds were found on the table of christian people; even of ministers of the gospel. Now a minister of the gospel who uses liquors as a beverage is looked upon as behind the times; and many are total abstainers and even prohibitionists. Lately the head of the Catholic church in this country decided that no saloon keepers should be admitted into any of the societies of the church, and no man selling on Sunday will receive the rights of the church. Archbishop Ireland of this diocese is well known for his ardent adherence to temperance prenciples, and it is expected that he will do his best to inforce decissions of his church on this point. Our county being populated largely by foreigners many of them Catholics, and many of our saloon keepers belonging to that church, will of course make a very large stride towards becoming the banner temperance county of the state. The Scandinavians have for several years been working on this line and there are many of them in our county and they still have lots of work to do. It looks now as if the old topers and their children that are following in crooked paths of their fathers. Among those claiming to be native citizens of the United States many falling in the rear in the race. Except those that are affiliated with churches or societies. or are employed by railroads or other companies or firms that require temperance in their employes. Let the good work go on. If every man is his own gaurdian, and totally abstains from all that can intoxicate it will at once settle the temperance question.

Ireland's Strong Words.

Archbishop Ireland delivered the address of the morning. He took for his topic total abstinance, and declared that Catholics should take no middle ground. They should not only be temperate, but they should be total abstainers as well. He referred to the stand taken by Mgr. Satolli in prohibiting saloonkeepers from becoming members of the Catholic societies, and he commended such a course. The Catholic church, he said, was known by its members, and in order to give it the esteem of the public and give it standing, it was necessary that the members be temperate in their habits.

"America has set her face against the saloon," declared the archbishop, "and any church that will not come out for temperance is an ignoble excrescence of the soil. The church has other methods of work and practices of zeal, but foremost among these is temperance. Have your pleasures, but let not your tables bear the weight of alcholic sprits. The greatest self-denial today is in the temperance pledge. Be charitable, but the best charity to practice is to lead your brothers in the ranks of temperance. The church holds up a high ideal to you. Whatever the Catholics may do, the church has done its duty." The speaker closed with the statement that the convention now has 60,000 members, and he thought this was a cause for congratulation.—The Minneapolis Times.

Gorman's Resignation Wanted.

FREDERICK, Md., July 30.—The tariff reform Democrats of Frederick county held a large meeting in Court park tonight, and endorsed President Cleveland and the house of representatives, and condemned the course of the Maryland senators and demanded the passage of the Wilson bill. The Speakers all denounced Senator Gorman in terms most severe for his "pusillanimous" conduct towards President Cleveland and resolutions were adopted calling upon the senator to resign.

John McGary Again.

The question often arises in the mind of the average thinker, what is the trouble with the masses of the people in this country and why are we so perplexed on every hand. From the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth rock, the march of empire has been westward until every avenue of your public domain from ocean to ocean has been settled or explored by the hardy pioneer, and today we haye a nation that excels any other in wealth and resources; And yet our people seem to be unhappy and discontent.

The tariff, the monetary system and the labor question is being agitated so strongly among labor organizations that discontent and confusion reigns on every hand and there seems to be a disposition among the working classes to contend earnestly for their rights. The man of all work thinks he has rights that others are bound to respect "For Mordecai the Jew was next unto King Ahasuerus and great among the Jews." So is labor next to wealth for realy labor is the natural resource of all wealth.

Many of the he goats and bell wether politicians try to cover up their iniquity by making the people believe that they are doing all they can for the common people in way of egitimate legislation, and they endeaver to solace the people by missrepresenting things as they naturally exist.

John Sherman trys to make the people believe that we have only a fifty cent silyer dollar (and thousands acbis solution of the problem), before me I haye a silver dollar and a paper dollar each having the stamp of the government declaring it is legal money of the government. On the back of the paper dollar it says United States one dollar silver certificate that means this paper dollar is redeemable by the government in a silver dollar. The silver costs the government fifty or sixty cents per oz, that the silver dollar is made out of, and the paper that the paper dollar is made of, cost the government we say ½ of a cent, and then Sherman says we only have a fifty cent dollar. To me this sounds like treason, how was it when silver bullion cost $1.29 cents per ounce, did the silver dollar pass for more than a dollar? No it is only the stamp of the government that creates the dollar and makes it a legal tender for all debts, public and private. Many think that our silver dollar is a legal tender only to a certain amount; but not so, the silver dollar is a legal tender to an unlimitep amount, for both public and private debts. All government bonds and the interest thereon are payable in coin, gold or silver dollars; not gold alone as many haye it but in coin. And right here is where comes the kick with the bankers, they are interested in keeping the silver down. There is no paper redeemable in gold except the gold certificate. A considerable portion of the government bonds are made payable in coin of the coinage act of 1870. The act of 1870 provided for the coinage of both gold and silver. The coinage of the silver dollar was suspended 1873; the subsidiary coin, the trade dollar, fifty cent pieces, and all smaller coins ever made a legal tender to the amount of $5. in any one payment. In 1878 the coinage of the silver dollar was restored and was made a legal tender in any amount. The coinage law of 1890 has never been changed, and so every bond and the interest thereon may be paid in silver dollars. We quote you the joint resolution of Senator Stanley Matthews offered in the Senate in December 1877 and subsequently adopted as follows:

"Resolved that all the bonds of the United States issued or authorized may be paid in silyer dollars principal and interest, and is not in violation of the public faith nor in derogation of the rights of the public creditor." Does this look as if the silver dollar was a spurious money. Allow yourselves not to be deceived in this matter for the money manager has a trick in it. Neither is there any law (as many suppose) nor never was creating a gold reserve fund, the gold was held in the treasury a long time, only because it was convenient to do so but there is no law authorizing it. The so called gold reserve fund mounted up to two hundred millions during Cleveland's first administration, and it went down to one hundred million at the end of Harrison's term. The trouble is our Congress has passed laws creating a corporation currency with this and a high protective tariff causes most all our troubles.

The Republican party have laid the foundation of their next presidential campaign with high protective planks but that issue will be burried by that time, and they will be forced to take up the money question, and more than likely McKinley will not be in it, next time will be money and not tariff.

But Mr. Editor, I haye made this article long enough unless it was more interesting. But I get tired and grow sick at heart when I look around and see so much confusion among the masses of the people and hear the cheap talk of the Penny Politician.

Our best people are getting tired of paying enormous taxes, and then seeing the money scattered in prodigal waste by men high in authority. This government was not created for individuals, plutocrats nor arristoracy but for the people. But partisan politics has become too ripe in this country. The idea has become prevalent among party leaders, that we, and only we, are of the Levitical Priesthood, and only through us can the nation be cleansed and receive a renewing of Thomas Jefferson doctrine.

Democratic State Convention.

Pursuant to the decision of the State Committee the Democrats of the state are called to meet in delegate convention in the city of St. Paul, on to put in nomination candidates for the following officers: Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Auditor, Treasurer, Secretary of State, Attorney General, Clerk of the Supreme Court, a Chief Justice and a Justice of the Supreme Court.

Wednesday, Sept. 5th, 1894, at 11 A. M.

The basis of representation adopted is two delegates from each county and one additional for eact 150 votes or major fraction thereof, cast for the democratic candidate for governor in 1892.

On this basis the several counties of the state will be entitled to send the number of delegates set opposite the name of each as follows:

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27, 1894.

The democrats who place the interests of the party and the country above that of individuals, whether those individuals be U. S. Senators or private citizens, have been working manfully since the smoke of the Senatorial explosion, which for a time threatened to make tariff legislation impossible at this session of Congress, cleared away, to bring about a better state of feeling among democrats who differ in the oppinions as to the extent to which tariff reform ought to go at this time. While it cannot be said that their work has yet been entirely successful, it has certainly had a good effect, and the belief is now general that the renewal of the tariff conference will result in an agreement that can be accepted by the democrats of both the House and Senate and by President Cleveland without loss of dignity or prestige on the part of either.

Now that the events of the past week can be calmly considered there seems to be reason for the opinion held by many able democrats, that personal prejudice was allowed to enter into much of the talk that has been indulged in, and that some people have been far more intent upon "getting even" than upon the good of the country or the welfare of the democratic party. However, as the policy of those democrats who are now trying to bring about harmonious action by the party in Congress is to let bygones be bygones the least said about recent party happenings the better. Too much, much to much, has already been said, both in Congress and in democratic newspapers. The principle object of every democrat should now be to "get together," pass the tariff bill and elect a majority of the next House. For certain it is that if the first two things be not soon accomplished the third, already made difficult by party dissentions, will soon become an impossibility.

Mr. Franklin MacVeagh, who enjoys the distinction of having been nominated by the democrats of Illinois to the U. S. Senate is in Washington. Mr. Mac Veagh says the republicans are making a great mistake concerning the attitude of the people towards tarriff reform, and that the people are at this time more anxious for radical tariff legislation than they were either in the campaigns of '90 or '92. He states his own opinion thusly; As between the Senate and House bills, my preference is for the latter, because I am a thorough believer in free raw materials. On this questiou I feel sure the popular verdict sustains the President and the House, and I think we will speedily get a tariff law along the lines of the Wilson bill. Yet I should not feel unhappy in the event that the other view prevails, because to enact a measure like the Senate bill is a great achievement for the democracy. It is a complete reversal of a policy of thirty years standing. It is like a short turning of an army to the west that has been marching due east. It is the begining of a new and better order, and even if only a beginning is not to be condemned.

Should the House adopt the resolution offered by Representative Talbot, of South Carolina, directing the Coinage commitee to report a 16 to 1 free coinage bill, and the Banking and Currency committee to report one of all of the bills proposing a change in the monetary system of the country, a financial debate indefinitely extended would at once begin in the House. There are several reasons why the House is not likely to adopt this resolution at this time, but one of them would be sufficent—the desire of members to adjourn as soon as the tariff bill is desposed of, in order to take part in the congressional campaign

The making of the Wilson bill came near causing the death of Chairman Wilson, and if he persists, in the present condition of his health, in trying to perform the labors in connection with the tariff conference that would prostrate a strong and healthy man his friends fear the consequences. He says he is in the fight to remain until the last blow is struck regardless of his own health or feelings.

Although Minister Willis was some what premature in fully recognizing the republic of Hawaii in advance of instructions to the effect from Secretary Gresham there is little doubt that this action will be approved by the administration. It is not probable that any action will be taken on the formal protest of the ex-Queen against the establishment of the republic in Hawaii.

The bills for the admission of New Mexico and Arizona have been favorably reported to the Senate and as there is practically no opposition to either it is only a question of time when they will become laws.

There are many sensational rumors afloat concerning the testimony taken by the Senate committee that is investigating the sugar trust scandal, but as the committee has not made public any of the testimony verification is impossible; they are to serious to be repeated without

ROCKFORD RIPPLES.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, of Minneapolis, visited W. N. Dorman's family.

John Murphy started Tuesday for Sever City, Iowa, to visit friends and relatives expects to be gone till Christmas.

Forest Gent, G. Hatch and F. L. Mounts visited Buffalo on Tuesday.

Misses Carrie and Jennie Florida returned after two weeks camping out in company with the party that started ftom Anoka in the celebrated "Van"; they report a very pleasant time.

A large number attended the base ball game at Delano, last Sunday.

Wallace Cunningham and his brother started the other day for the Dakota harvest fields. Hon. Wallace will be missed "Oh my!"

Mr. and Mrs. A D. Baker visited his father at Monticello last Sunday, via Buffalo.

James Stoddart started this week on a trip to Ireland.

C. M. Johnson our genial merchant done business in the city on Wednesday.

WAVERLY WINKS.

Messrs J. B. Quinn Jr. and T. F. Kelly made business trips to the cities last week.

Chas Kingstedt was in Minneapolis last Thursday looking over the wholesale trade.

News was received here Saturday morning of the death of Mrs. Godfrey Dalbeck at Hurley, Wis., Mrs. Dalbeck formerly resided here and had a host of friends.

Attorney, Dayid Cochran, was in Minneapolis last Friday looking after political pointers from Populist chiefs.

Victor Brancheat is putting in a glass front in his tonsorial parlors and doing other ornamental and necessary improvements.

Attorney Wendell and Col. O'Leary, of Buffalo, were here the beginning of the week. Mr. Wendell is prominently spoken of for Judge of this District. Mr. Wendell is rated at the head of the bar in this county, and in every particular qualified for the position. If he should accept the nomination he would rally to his support the voters of Wright county irrespective of party, and would be elected by a snug majority.

Mr. John O'Leary leaves Friday for Tomah, Wis., to visit with his children and parents.

Mrs. J. E. Magner left Tuesday, for Sioux Falls, S. D. She has been called there by the illness of her mother who is quite sick.

Attorney M. A. O'Hair, of Delano, was here Wednesday attending to legal business.

Mrs. E. A. Westinghouse, of Garretson, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Dr. O'Hair, left for her home the beginning of the week.

The schoolboard met Saturday evening and appointed the follow teachers for the coming term: Principal, sister Eugene; 1st intermediate, Sister Alphonsini; 2nd intermediate, Annie Barrett; primary, Nellie Barrett.

Hennepin Co. Politics.

Some one has been mean enough to say that Deacon Wilcox gave a wine supper to the county commissioners, with the selfish purpose that he might work himself into their good graces thereby and they would appoint him to fill out the unexpired term of Sup't. Lewis, who is expected to die soon. But the Deacon declares that the midnight festivities in the lofty banquet hall of the Guaranty Loan were planned by him without a single thought of its helping him to place or power in any way whatever. The good Deacon admits that he gave the supper at a considerable expense, but leaves us to marvel what his purpose was in doing so. Let us hope that he did it to show that he "liked Catholics," (Four of the commissioners are Catholics) and not accuse the good man of selfish designs. In charity we will also say that the Deacon is a very modest Christian (?) and he did not wish the public to know about the hilarious time he had with the commissioners that night. The Deacon asks the blessing regularly when he sits down to his meals, but on this occasion the ceremony was neglected, and the vulgar public are also wandering what the good man's reasons were for this strange departure.

Mr. J. H. Green, who has some reputation as a political manager and enjoys a wide acquaintance with the people of the county, says he was accosted by one of the Democratic candidates for Superintendent of schools and asked to name his price to manage his campaign. But Mr. Green is too loyal to Mr. McConnell to desert him for any price.

David Lydiard, of Long Lake, is said to be a candidate for some office this fall. Mr. Lydiard is a good clean man, and no doubt will be a winner at the polls.

If Mr. Favro, of Wayzata, supports Deacon Wilcox, he will support a man (?)who did his utmost to defeat Mr. Favro's candidacy for commissioner in the convention two years ago. The writer was trying to aid Mr. Favro, and the Deacon, who wanted Shaver nominated at the sacrifice of every one else if need be, came and snatched a Favro ticket out of my hand and went into a regular kink about it and acted like a cat with a bone in its throat, so enraged was he.

IT may not be generally known that by the use of the word "limited" the different members of a firm are liable only for the amount of the shares individually held. For instance, if a partner in a limited firm owns but a third of the business, in case of failure his loss is limited to his share alone. In railroading a limited train may mean either a restriction as to number or class of cars.

ONE of the advantages of the trade of type-setting is that a man can work at it up to later period of life than men can work at most other trades. Every now and then stories are printed about working compositors who are 80 years old and over, but there are certainly not many blacksmith or carpenters or engineers or bricklayers who can follow their trade at that age. There are lots of type setters 70 years old, and bigger lots 60 years old, but there are very few of the other skilled trades at which men can pick up a living when they are 60 or 70.

Three or four years ago he died and Julia arose from her bed and once more took up her household duties. Harriet became paralyzed and one side of her body withered to a skeleton. Mr. Winner's brother Sep is the author of "The Mocking Bird," which made for him a small fortune. Curiously the author of the "Jug," one of the most popular of drinking songs, has always been a total abstainer.

FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

Regular Session.

WEDNESDAY, July 25.—The senate agreed to the conference report on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill and further discussed the conference report on the tariff bill. In the house bills were passed placing the widow of Gen. John M. Corse on the pension list at $100 per month, and permitting fourth-class postmasters to administer oaths to pensioners in remote districts.

THURSDAY, July 26 — When the tariff bill was called up in the senate Senator Vilas (Wis.) replied at great length to Senator Gorman's attack upon the president. A motion to place coal and iron on the free list was defeated. A resolution calling on the attorney general for copies of all correspondence with railroad officials in connection with the recent Chicago strike was adopted. In the house the conference report on the fortifications bill was agreed to and some twenty interstate and foreign commerce bills were passed.

FRIDAY, July 27.—In the senate the tariff bill was sent back to conference without amendment. Adjourned to the 30th. In the house a message was received announcing that the senate insisted on its amendments to the tariff bill and had agreed to the request of the house for a further conference. The evening session was devoted to private bills.

SATURDAY, July 28.—The senate was not in session. The house passed a number of measures of a private character and debated a bill to give federal courts additional powers in dealing with violations of the copyright law.

MONDAY, July 30.—A bill was introduced in the senate to provide for the issue of $50,000,000 in treasury notes to be distributed pro rata among the states "for the relief of the worthy poor." The house joint resolution extending the appropriations for the last year until August 14 was agreed to. In the house a bill was introduced by Mr. Boen (pop., Minn.) making it unlawful for aliens to own land in the United States. A joint resolution was presented by Mr. Boutelle (Me.) congratulating the people of Hawaii on the establishment of a republic and recognizing it as a free and independent republic. Referred to the foreign committee.

LATER NEWS

Japs Win Again.

TIEN-TSIN, Aug. 1.—A naval battle was fought Monday between the Chinese and Japanese fleets. The Japanese sank the Chinese battle ship Chen-Yuen and two large cruisers, supposed to be the vessels built for China by the Armstrongs, were captured or destroyed by the Japanese. The Chen-Yuen was a battle ship of 7,400 tons displacement, carrying 14½ inches compound armor at the water line.

The Chinese fleet engaged carried nearly 1,000 men, and a large number of them are reported to have been killed or drowned. Later dispatches say that few if any of the Chinese engaged in the battle escaped. Two German officers in command of the Chen-Yuen are reported to have met death with the crew of that vessel.

The battle was hotly contested, but the Japanese appear to have handled their guns, ships and torpedoes with more skill than the Chinese.

JENNIE JONES, wife of a striking miner, was shot and killed the 31st at Phillipsburg, Pa., by James Myers, a deputy sheriff. Immediately after the shooting Myers fled into a mine. Strikers swear they will avenge the death of the woman.

MAYOR HOPKINS, of Chicago, refused to allow the American Railway union to parade on arrival of President Debs the 1st. Invitations had been sent to all the labor unions in the city, asking them to participate, but upon the mayor's flat refusal to permit the parade, the invitations were withdrawn and parade abandoned.

Two colored children of Peter Gibson, aged 9 and 11 years, the 31st, killed the 6-year-old boy of M. Jackson, of Terrill, Tex., by gouging his eyes out and then holding him in the water until he was drowned.

TOWNS IN RUINS.

Resistless Sweep of Forest Fires in Northern Wisconsin.

Life and Property Go Down Before the Flames—Some of the Heavy Losses—The Terrible Disaster at Phillips—Other Forest Fires.

STORY OF THE DISASTER.

ASHLAND, Wis., July 30.—Loss of property approximating $3,000,000 and heavy loss of life, the extent not yet known, though at least fifteen persons met death at Phillips Friday, is the record of the forest fires which have swept northern Wisconsin. It is almost a certainty that some of the lone homesteaders scattered throughout the burning timber have perished in the flames unless they have in some marvelous way escaped the suffocating flames and smoke.

Estimate of Property Losses.

The losses now seem to be:

The city of Phillips entirely wiped out.

The city of Mason practically destroyed, with White River Lumber company and 30,000,000 feet of lumber.

Headquarters of the Ashland Lumber company near Shores Crossing entirely wiped out.

Special train of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha, consisting of sixteen cars and locomotive, all burned; broke through burning bridge near Ashland Junction.

Camps of Thompson Lumber company burned at White River.

Two bridges on Wisconsin Central railroad, one near Chelsea, another near Phillips, both on main line south of Ashland.

These are the estimated losses, specifically, so far as known:

|---|---|
| Lumber plants | $1,000,000 |
| Phillips residents | 1,250,000 |
| Mason | 700,000 |
| Thompson Lumber company, of Washburne | 2,000 |
| Ashland Lumber company | 6,000 |
| Shores Crossing residents | 4,000 |
| Two bridges C., St. P., M. & O. railroad | 10,000 |
| Two bridges Wisconsin Central | 10,000 |
| Homesteaders | 250,000 |

The Disaster at Phillips.

PHILLIPS, Wis., July 31.—Out of a town of 700 buildings but twenty-seven are left standing. Driven by the increasing wind the fire swept the southwest limits of the city Friday afternoon. Across the miles of swamp where the water was from 6 to 12 inches deep it could be heard roaring for an hour. The firemen were forced to use dynamite. This stopped the progress of the fire, after the north end of the city had been destroyed, including the box factory of the John R. Davis Lumber company and the schoolhouse.

Perished in the Lake.

Driven frantic by the rushing gale of flames, the families of James Locke, Frank Cliss and Dave Bryden gathered hurriedly in their arms all their possessions that they could and made for a floating boathouse that was tied to the town bridge near the box factory. The ropes were cut and the occupants thought the gale would drive them across the lake where the flames would not reach them, but the raft was a rickety affair and overloaded, and, most terrible of all, the fire seemed to create a current of air that pulled them directly towards a great pile of burning lumber on the lake shore. The raft began to sink, and, with death by fire facing them on one side and drowning on the other, the boats were resorted to, but in the gale they capsized almost instantly, and all perished with the exception of Mrs. Cliss, who was found floating Saturday morning on the opposite side of the lake, clinging with desperation to a boat.

Another cyclone of fire struck the western side, sweeping through the main business and residence portion of the city, destroying the rest of the Davis company's plant. The path of the fire took in the city hall, courthouse, county jail and the Wisconsin Central depot and swept everything to the lake. Gov. Peck and his staff arrived from Madison Sunday morning A dozen cars of provisions have arrived from various cities, and the organization for relief has been completed. Gov. Peck met with the committee at the town hall and offered many suggestions.

Other Fires.

The forest fires were still raging to the north and west of here Monday morning, and several small stations between here and Ashland were reported to have been wiped out. Fires of greater or less extent raging between Channing and Prai, Mich., on the Lake Superior division. Lumber camps on the Gibson and Toleen spurs of the road, 4 miles west of Channing reported destroyed and fires running rapidly through the woods in that part of the country. All trains on the Wisconsin Central road in the section of the country where the fire is raging held at various points or picking their way through the burned-over sections slowly and with frequent stops.

Girdled by Fire.

PHILLIPS, Wis., July 31.—For miles around here the forest fires continue to burn. Early Monday morning a fire to the northeast swept in on the back tack and threatened to destroy the poor farm, the fair grounds and all of the timber along the east shore of the lake. An alarm was sent in from the farm and 150 men from Phillips with buckets, shovels and axes were sent to fight the fire. They reached the scene none too soon. The fire was coming over the hills with a roar, and in a short time with the freshening wind blowing from the east would have swept through the poor farm and burned the sick and crippled men who are inmates of the place. A fire brigade arrived also from Prentice. It stretched over a territory a quarter of a mile wide, and fought fire by cutting the brush around the farm and backfiring it. After several hours' work the danger passed.

Phillips is now the safest place in this section for the simple reason that there is nothing to burn except the earth and a few straggling trees on the outskirts of the town. The people of Phillips scattered to all points in the surrounding country and are coming back slowly. It will be impossible to say how many have been lost until all still alive return and the noses are counted. Some of the eye witnesses of the fire say numbers of people who sought safety on the logs in the lake just off the shore must have been overcome by the heat and drowned.

Kindness of Neighboring Towns.

The people of Prentice have been extremely generous. Every house in the town has been open to the people of Phillips who wish to avail themselves of this shelter. They are all crowded, as the Wisconsin Central has carried the fire sufferers free from here to Prentice and return. The Central has also carried free the families of all sufferers who wished to leave Phillips for any point on the line.

The relief continues to pour in here from all points of the state. Eighteen full carloads have been received thus far. The donations of provisions and clothing which have been received have come from:

Weyauwega, Unity, Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, Portage, Stevens Point, Montello, Colona, Loyal, Marshfield, Colby, Milladore, Auburndale, Prentice, Rib Lake, Merrill, Rhinelander, Hewitt, Spencer, Oshkosh, Milwaukee, Dale, Amherst Junction, Sheridan, Stockton, Neenah, Waupaca, Wausau, Watertown, Ashland, Washburn and Fifield, all in Wisconsin; Chicago, Ill., and Bessemer, Mich.

Arising from the Ashes.

The work of rebuilding Phillips has begun. The Shaw Tannery company has ordered in the lumber to rebuild its plant and it will begin to arrive today. Twenty shanties to shelter the unfortunate people were run up Monday, and the work of cleaning away the debris of the fire has commenced in all sections of the city.

Many of the people are undecided whether they should remain at Phillips or go elsewhere to seek their fortunes. If the Davis Lumber company would not rebuild its plant the town would be deserted. Mr. Davis in an address to the people Monday announced the company will rebuild.

A GRAVE CONDITION.

Quotations from R. D. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade.

NEW YORK, July 28.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

"The heavy outgo of gold, the fall of the treasury reserve and of the price of wheat to the lowest point on record, and the increasing uncertainty about the tariff have entirely overshadowed other industries. Business delayed for months by the great strikes now crowds the railroads and swells returns and gives the impression of revival in business. But it is not yet clear how far there is an increase in new traffic distinguished from that which had been merely blocked or deferred. In some branches there has been more activity but in others less, because events early this week led many to infer that no change of tariff would be made.

"Wheat has found the lowest depth and has sold below 55 cents, making the monthly average at New York the lowest ever known. Corn was stronger, with accounts of injury to part of the crop, and the exports are trifling. Cotton declined a sixteenth of 7 cents, though receipts from plantations were small. Textile industries have been perceptibly stimulated, according to dealers, by disagreements which many suppose will prevent change of the tariff and there has been more buying of cotton goods, with slightly higher prices for a few, notwithstanding the closing of some important mills. The stock of such goods is on the whole quite large. In woolens the goods famine, which clothiers prepared for themselves by deferring orders, is such that imperative necessities now keep most of the mills at work and purchases of wool for immediate use are large.

"For the week failures have been 249 in the United States, against 386 last year, and 39 in Canada, against 23 last year."

THE PALACE FALLS.

Japanese Soldiers Defeat Coreans at Seoul—The King a Prisoner.

BERLIN, July 31.—Advices received here from Seoul by way of Shanghai show that upon the refusal of Corea to accede to Japan's demand that the Chinese troops be sent out of the country, the Japanese advanced on Seoul. After a short encounter, in which the Coreans were defeated, the Japanese occupied the royal palace. The king of Corea thereupon asked the foreign representatives to intervene.

A dispatch from Shanghai gives further details of the recent naval engagement. One of the Japanese warships got within a comparatively short distance of the transport Kow Shing and discharged a torpedo at her. The missile was well directed and struck the transport fairly. A terrific explosion followed and the Kow Shing began at once to fill. Prior to the discharge of the torpedo the crew of the transport, which was armed, and the military force on board of her made a hard fight against the attacking force. Many of those on board of her were shot dead on her deck.

The loss of life was very great. Of nearly 2,000 Chinese troops on board of her only forty were saved. They were picked up by the French gunboat Lion that was cruising in the vicinity.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—It is admitted in diplomatic circles here that the king of Corea is a virtual prisoner, but it is insisted that actual possession of his person has not been taken by the Japanese troops. It is stated that the palace of the Corean king is surrounded by large grounds and that around these the Japanese have placed an armed guard, so as to control the movements of the king.

GEN. PLEASANTON DIES.

He Passes Away at His Home in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—Gen. Augustus J. Pleasanton, known as "Blu Glass" Pleasanton, died Thursday night. He was a brother of Gen. Alfred Pleasanton, the famous soldier.

[Augustus J. Pleasanton was born in Washington eighty-six years ago and graduated from the United States military academy in 1826. He enlisted in the Pennsylvania militia and at the outbreak of the civil war was made commander of the home guard of Philadelphia. He was the originator of the theory that the sun's rays when passed through blue glass were particularly stimulating, not only to vegetation but to the health and growth of animals.]

Ruin Rampant.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 1.—A spark from a passing locomotive started a fire in the large lumber yard of the Shevlin-Carpenter company on the west river bank Monday afternoon. It proved to be the third big blaze in the history of the city. It destroyed 25,000,000 feet of lumber, the office of the Shevlin-Carpenter company and twenty-five freight cars, the round-house, and the gas works of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway company. The loss is $500,000, and the insurance will amount to $350,000. The Omaha company is protected by a blanket insurance.

Nebraska Corn in Danger.

OMAHA, Neb., July 27.—For more than two weeks no rain has fallen and there has been an excess of sunshine. Wednesday a hot wind from Kansas swept over the state like a blast from a furnace and corn blades are curled close. The stand that promised so well a month ago now promises a total failure unless rain comes before the end of the week. Many fields are already beyond salvation. The drought is unprecedented in its severity in this vicinity.

Killed by the Heat.

NEW YORK, July 28.—T. S. Wright, of Chicago, the general attorney of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad, was prostrated by the heat Thursday night and removed to the New York hospital, where he died. He was the son of Judge Wright, of Des Moines.

DEBS MAKES A SPEECH.

Synopsis of an Address Delivered in His Native Town.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 31.—There were 1,800 persons in the opera house Sunday night to hear Eugene V. Debs, and 1,000 more could not get in. When the familiar figure of the American Railway union president appeared on the stage there was loud and long-continued applause. A synopsis of his remarks follows:

Mr. Debs began his speech by saying that as a general proposition he is opposed to strikes but there are times when not to strike is to accept degradation. "We are a striking government," he added. "Every star in the flag represents a strike." The revolutionary fathers struck against tyranny and for liberty. If all employes had been treated fairly there would have been no labor organizations. He said he had done all he could to prevent the Pullman strike. Then followed a narrative of the efforts of committees to secure arbitration.

Mr. Debs followed with the story of the American Railway union national convention and its efforts to secure redress for the Pullman employes, but the company would make no concession and the convention by a unanimous vote decided to haul no more Pullman cars. The charge that he had ordered the strike, he said, was absolutely false. In all of his connection with organized labor he had not advised a man to leave his employment. The railway managers met and decided to support the Pullman company in the fight it was making on its employes.

"The managers also decided to destroy the American Railway union," said he, "but that is a contract they would like to sublet now." The American Railway union, he said, simply followed the example of the managers by combining for mutual protection.

Mr. Debs said it had been printed that he was a foreigner and an anarchist. He was proud of the fact that he had been born and reared in Terre Haute. He had no patience with violence in any form. He said it could be proved that at the time of the Buffalo switchmen's strike the companies caused cars to be burned so they could have the militia called out.

"When the truth is known it will be found that the American Railway union was in no-wise responsible for arson or any lawless acts. With the aid of soldiers the managers finally succeeded in operating their roads in a manner."

Workingmen would no longer be suppliants. They would take what was their right, not in an unlawful manner, but they were the people and this was a people's government. He spoke of the failure to enforce the interstate commerce law against the corporations, which called up the same law against workingmen. He denied that he was to be branded as an anarchist because corporations defied the laws. He urged his hearers to bear in mind that they must use the power of the ballot.

He hoped there would never be another strike. He had about made up his mind never again to be connected with a strike. He would do his striking at the ballot box. He did not have much faith in public opinion, but when it gets right the A. R. U. strike would be overwhelmingly vindicated, and he was content to wait for that time.

Whatever action might be taken at the coming A. R. U. convention, the strike on Pullman would go on. There was no ending to that. Pullman must be whipped. He admitted that when a strike was ordered it invited lawlessness, but as there never was a strike without a cause why should not the corporations take their share of the responsibility of rioting? When section men were cut to 67½ cents a day, as they were on the Louisville & Nashville, the railway managers who made that cut were the real anarchists.

He said no word as to the future of the strike, but in his story of it he spoke of it in terms indicating that he thought of it as a thing of the past. He said in closing that if a penalty attached to his actions he would accept his fate like a man. He would not shirk he responsibility for his acts.

WANT CHICAGO TO PAY.

Railway Companies Sue to Recover Losses by the Strike.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Notices were served Monday by Samuel B. Foster, attorney in fact for several railroads, of damages claimed against the city of Chicago and the county of Cook for loss of property during the late strike. The notices were served on the mayor, city clerk, the corporation council, the city attorney and on the president of the county board, the county clerk and the county attorney. The aggregate damages claimed are $38,670. This presents only about one-tenth of the actual damage claimed, many roads having several days left in which to file their claims. The roads which filed claims, with the amount of damages, are as follows:

Lake Erie & Western, $10,000; Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee, $220; Chicago & Northwestern, $410; Chicago Refrigerating line, $1,010; New York Central & Hudson River Railway company, $345; Monon, $330; Flint & Pierre Marquette, $75; Chicago & Erie, $100; Swift Refrigerator line, $300; Armour Refrigerator line, $100; Central Car Trust company of New York, $600; Chicago & Grand Trunk, $12,150; Grand Trunk railroad, $7,785, and Grand Trunk company of Canada, $5,235.

Besides these claims shippers filed through Mr. Foster claims amounting to at least $200,000. This was done by the shippers on the express declaration of the railroads that they will pay no claims whatever made against them by shippers for damages to freight handled during the strike. The general managers' association takes the ground that the city and county in not furnishing adequate protection to the railroad are directly responsible for all damage to freight. The damages claimed by the railroads in the above list are mostly for cars burned after July 1. It is believed many more suits for damages will be filed by shippers who lost heavily on perishable freight during the strike.

At the session of the city council Monday night an ordinance was adopted directing the corporation counsel to immediately begin an investigation and collect evidence which will be used by the city in defending the suits.

IRON HALL CASH AWARDED.

Baltimore Court Turns $100,000 Over to the General Receiver.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 30.—Judge Dennis has decided in favor of the petition of James F. Failey, of Indiana, the general receiver of the order of the Iron Hall, to have the $100,000 in the hands of the local receivers, Charles J. Wiener and Joseph C. France, distributed by himself. Judge Dennis says, however, that while the fund will be awarded the Indiana receiver for distribution, it will only be so ordered after the court has received satisfactory proof of the adoption by the Indiana court of such provisions as will protect the members of the order resident here, and assure to them a fair distribution of all the assets. They must be put upon an equal footing with the most favored class of the creditors in the court of the domicile of the corporation.

Driven by Fright to Suicide.

CARTHAGE, S. D., July 31.—Harry Feathers, adopted son of James Feathers, of this town, accidentally fatally shot his father's hired man last Saturday morning. He was so frightened at the accident that he took poison, dying that afternoon. The man who was shot died Sunday evening.

Many Killed by Earthquake.

BELGRADE, July 28.—Earthquake shocks have been felt in Macedonia, Old Servia and eastern Bulgaria. Many houses at Vahra, Bulgaria, have been damaged and a number of people have been killed as a result of the shocks.

WAR REMINISCENCES.

THE MYSTIC TIE.

Enemies in War But Brothers in Fraternal Bonds.

I was reminded a few days ago of a little war incident in which I was one of the central figures.

It was the 6th of May, 1864, in the Wilderness fight. I belonged to the First brigade, Third division, Ninth army corps. Our command had been maneuvering for some time through the thick underbrush, for which that locality is noted, for a suitable position, and had just succeeded in getting our lines straightened out when we were ordered to charge.

Away we went, but the Johnnies didn't. They held their position, and we were soon engaged in a hand-to-hand conflict. A leaden hail began to pour in from both flanks, showing that we were being cut off, a few of us having advanced further than the rest of the line. Then began the scramble for the rear.

I had been engaged in a private set-to with a big southerner with no advantage on either side, as both our guns were empty. Seeing my companions making for the rear as rapidly as possible I tried to follow but my antagonist objected and I could see a prospective Libby before me. We were parlying with our bayonets, and, becoming desperate, I made a lunge at the southerner, at the same time letting go of my musket. While he was recovering himself I sprang away, but he was too quick for me. With one jump his hand was on my shoulder, and "surrender, Yank!" was yelled into my ear.

Of course there was nothing else to do and I complied. My captor swung me around to start to the rear when his eye caught sight of a little masonic emblem I had pinned to my blouse.

"NOW, YANK, GIT."

"You, Yank," he said, placing his hand upon the little emblem.

I replied with a slight motion which he quickly answered, and then faced me towards our own lines again.

"Now, Yank, git," he cried, at the same time giving me a shove towards our lines.

It is needless to say that I improved the opportunity to "git," and was soon with what was left of the command in a sheltered position awaiting further developments. While talking over the adventures of the day one of the boys asked:

'Sergeant, how did you get away from that big reb? I thought he had you fixed."

"Well," I replied, "it takes two to make a bargain of that kind."

Another year of the war had passed, and many changes had taken place. The federal armies had been victorious; Lee and Johnson had surrendered, and their men had returned home. I had been wounded and spent part of the year in the hospital, and found on recovering that I had been promoted to a lieutenancy in another regiment. My new command had been ordered to Texas, and in July, 1865, I was with the regiment in Victoria in that state.

The men from the disbanded armies of Lee and Johnson, whose homes were in Texas, were making their way across the country to them in large numbers. Many of these men were being picked up in compliance with orders issued on account of a rumor stating that large numbers of confederates, singly and in small detachments, were making their way into Mexico with confederate states property. In fact, it was understood that a whole confederate battery had crossed the Rio Grande and entered the service of Maximilian.

It was in consequence of this that we had received orders to detain every man found with confederate property until the authorities became satisfied that it was all right, and he had no intention of crossing the border.

The men were detained in what we called the "bull pen," and it became my duty one day, as officer of the guard, to take charge of this "pen." At this time there were perhaps twenty or thirty men confined in our crude prison. Some were released and others brought in every day. Many whose homes were in the vicinity would be vouched for by their friends as soon as they were satisfied, and their stay would be short. But those who had no friends near, did not find it so easy to satisfy the authorities.

On this day, as I was passing through the place, I noticed one man looking very despondent. He did not mix with the others, and he seemed to have no acquaintance with any of his fellow-prisoners. I passed him several times, always making some commonplace remark, to which he responded. By the time my tour of duty was nearly over I became quite interested in this particular prisoner and engaged him in conversation.

I found he had served in the army of northern Virginia, so we began discussing the campaign that ended at Appomattox. I soon became satisfied that I had seen him before, and as we were talking about the Wilderness and Spottsylvania battles it suddenly occurred to me that he was my captor of the year before.

"You served with Longstreet?" I said.

"Yes," said he.

"Well, I was in Burnside's ninth army corps, and at the Wilderness May 6, last year." I grasped his hand and gave him one of the masonic grips which brought back to him the little episode of the year before.

After he had recovered from his surprise he told me how he had tried to get home from Virginia. He had no money but had managed to get a very fair confederate horse and saddle and came overland all the way. He lived near San Antonio, about seventy-five miles from Victoria, and had been detained because he could not satisfactorily explain how he came into possession of the confederate property, not having a parole or certificate from any confederate general officer.

"Well, I will see what I can do for you," said I, and going to the colonel commanding the post I explained the matter, also the incident of the year before.

"Bring him here," commanded the colonel, who was also a brother of the mystic tie.

I lost no time in getting him into the presence of the colonel, to whom explanations were satisfactorily made. In an hour I had the pleasure of handing my friend an order for his horse and equipments; also a pass from the commanding officer exempting him or any confederate property he might have in his possession from any interference on the part of the military forces under his command. — Serg. C. T. Jeffers, in Chicago Army Magazine.

GENERAL LEE'S WAR HORSE

Description of the Famous Animal Written by the General.

Few people in this broad land do not know that the late Gen. Robert E. Lee's war horse, Traveler, gained almost as much fame as did the celebrated confederate commander himself. After the war an artist wrote to Gen. Lee asking for a description of Traveler, which Gen. Lee wrote to him. A copy of this description was made by Miss Mildred Lee, a daughter of the general, for a St. Louis friend, who gave it to the Gleaner. This is what the general wrote about his favorite horse: "If I was an artist like you I would draw a true picture of Traveler, representing his fine proportions, muscular figure, deep chest, short back, strong haunches, flat legs, small head, broad forehead, delicate ears, quick eyes, small feet, and black mane and tail. Such a picture would inspire a poet whose genius could then depict his worth and describe his endurance of toil, hunger, thirst, heat and cold, the dangers and sufferings through which he has passed. He could dilate upon his sagacity and affection and his invariable response to any wish of his rider. He might even imagine his thoughts through his long night marches and days of battle through which he has passed. But I am no artist and can, therefore, only say he was a confederate gray.

"I purchased him in the autumn of 1861 in the mountains of Virginia, and he has been my patient follower ever since—to Georgia, the Carolinas, and back to Virginia. He carried me through the Seven Days' battle, around Richmond, the second Manassas, at Sharpsburg, Fredericksburg, the last day at Chancellorsville, to Pennsylvania, at Gettysburg, and back to the Rappahannock. From the commencement of the campaign in 1864, at Orange, till its close around Petersburg, the saddle was scarcely off his back as he passed through the fire of the Wilderness, Spottsylvania, Cold Harbor, and across the James river. He was almost in daily requisition in the winter of 1864-'65 on the long line of defenses from the Chickahominy, north of Richmond, to Hatcher's Run, south of the Appomattox. In the campaign of 1865 he bore me from Petersburg to the final day at Appomattox Court House. You know the comfort he is to me in my present retirement. He is well supplied with equipments. Two sets have been sent to him from England, and one from the city of Richmond, but I think his favorite is the American saddle from St. Louis.

"Of all his companions in toil—Richmond, Brown, Roan, Ajax and Quiet Lucy Long—he is the only one that retained his vigor to the last. The first two expired under their onerous burdens and the last two failed. You can, I am sure, from what I have said, paint his portrait."

This ends the description, signed with the name of the famous Gen. Robert E. Lee, Lexington, Va., the summer before he died.—St. Louis Republic.

ATHLETIC BEEF.

Some From Texas That Stumped Even Hungry Soldiers.

In the fall of 1862 we occupied the camp of the Johnnies who, previous to our arrival, got "marching orders," and could not wait for us to come up. Some enterprising quartermaster discovered a lot of Texas beef, which the Johnnies had left on purpose for us, I suppose. They couldn't eat it, nor could we. Nevertheless our quartermaster got several barrels for us. We cooked it, but it was "no go." It was as strong as Goliath of Gath; it was as fragrant as a gas leak, as red as the sun the beautiful fall days. We tried to do it every way, even by seasoning it. Even hungry as we sometimes got, we could not make it go. So after the cooks had tried to prepare it in several ways, we gave up. So one night the boys rolled what was left (several barrels) into one of the sinks which the Johnnies had also left, by mistake, I suppose. Our officers took offense at such insubordation, and had a number of the boys arrested, and court martialed the ringleaders, four in number. Their punishment was to wear a ball and chain several months. —Andrew M. Trunk, in Toledo Blade.

A War Relic.

A short time ago Mr. J. C. Fetzer found on the Groveton battlefield in the vicinity of the Henry house, Prince William county, Va., a double-case gold watch, which, no doubt, was lost during the war. It was once a very fine timepiece, but when picked up nearly all its steel parts had been eaten away by rust, and, while some parts of its inside case are as bright as they were when it first left the shop, the outside case shows discoloration, occasioned by fire. As a timepiece it is worthless, but the gold in it is said to be worth between forty and fifty dollars.—Richmond Dispatch.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Religion at a Race Track.

Evangelistic services were conducted by the Epworth leagues of St. Paul in the pavilion at the Hamline race track. Jockeys, stable boys and all the attaches of the track who are living at Hamline showed their appreciation of the efforts of the leaguers in their behalf by assembling in large numbers to hear the gospel preached. In front of the empty grand stand and before the deserted track where on week days the calling of races and the confused announcement of bets keeps the human pulse as restless as the racers, there floated subdued sounds of prayer and sacred song. The services were superintended by E. N. Wolever, chairman of the department of spiritual work of the Epworth league.

A Court House Fight.

A large crowd of men from Olivia and Sacred Heart entered the court house at Beaver Falls, seized a part of the county records and transported them with 26 teams to Olivia, a distance of 16 miles. At the counting of the votes for county seat removal 83 votes were thrown out and Olivia was declared to have won by 24 votes. An injunction from the district court arrived four hours later, which will compel the return of the books, to remain until the question is finally settled in court.

Rainy Lake Gold.

The first gold brick from Rainy Lake even though small proves that the rock is free milling and that it contains some gold beyond what may be found in assay samples. Half a dozen new mines, or more properly explorations, are being opened, mostly on the Canadian side, and largely on the river Seine, which enters Rainy Lake from the northeast, and which is the outlet for the Atik-okan lakes and river, where vast deposits of iron are known to exist. It begins to appear that later developments in this region may be some distance from Rainy lake proper.

News in Brief.

There are 15 cases of typhoid fever at the insane hospital at Fergus Falls.

Coal of good quality has been discovered two miles east of Morton. The indications are that large quantities of it will be found, as the vein is rapidly increasing in size. Although the vein has been opened but a short distance the quality of the coal is much improved. It was tested at the Norton flour mills, and burned equal to the best Iowa slack.

Steamer City of Winona, owned by the firm of Youmans Bros. & Hodgins of Winona, went on the rocks near Chimney Rock, opposite Fountain City, and sank.

C. F. Buck has been nominated for postmaster at Winona.

Matt Mattson, a Finlander, was killed and James Timlinson, a Cornishman, had his thigh broken by a fall of earth at the Biwabik mine.

Nearly 2,000,000 feet of lumber belonging to Jourdain & Matthews, Holyoke, was destroyed by fire. The loss is about $20,000, almost covered by insurance.

Two brothers, Sherman and Sumter Braley, died in a well on the Alfred Clark farm near Redwood Falls. They had gone into the well to clean it and were overcome by gas. Both were married.

Wm Wells, a brakeman, was killed near Baker. It is thought he fell between the cars or was thrown off by tramps. He had just fallen heir to $15,000, left by his parents, near Louisville, Ky, and was going home the first of the month.

Hiram Frank's home at Hastings was struck by lightning and badly injured.

Hugh O'Brien, of South St. Paul, is in jail at Hastings on the charge of burning the bridge on the Chicago & Great Western railroad at Inver Grove.

At the school election in Mankato a light vote was polled, although the ladies turned out in large numbers. Three young attorneys were candidates in the first three wards but all were defeated.

Parties from Iowa have been prospecting for coal in Mower county. They claim to have discovered the commodity in paying quantities in certain sections of Udolpho township.

Mrs. George Willard, a colored woman living on East Seventh street, St. Paul, was severely burned about the face and hands by the flames from a gasolene stove explosion.

An unknown tramp on a Great Northern freight was killed near Elk River. He was riding on a car loaded with car wheels, one falling on him and crushing him.

Charles Gunn, a conductor employed on the White Bear electric road, was held up and robbed of $5 by a lone highwayman between the Harvester Works and North St. Paul.

Herman Effertz, a boy of about 16 years, while pulling bundles out of a binder near Norwood that did not work well, was caught and the needle of the machine went through his hand.

Fire destroyed the lumber yards of Reed & Sherwood at Anoka. The yards contained about 4,000,000 feet of lumber. The loss is about $60,000.

Knute P. Anderson, a blacksmith of Minneapolis, killed himself on account of hard times. He placed a small rope around his neck, tied one end to the head board of his bed and swung himself into eternity.

The state auditor issued loans from the permanent school fund to the following amounts: District 96, Jackson county, $400; district 50, Douglas county, $350; St. Charles district, Winona and Olmsted counties, $6,500; district 79, Nobles county, $450; district 53, Isanti county, $389.

Beatrice Rivers, a lady about 30 years old, fell down an embankment at Minnehaha Falls, sustaing serious internal injuries. She was walking along not noticing that she was close to the brink, and the ground suddenly gave way beneath her feet. She struck on her head and shoulders and remained insensible for a short time.

A postoffice has been established at Dumfries, Wabasha county, with Russels Parsons postmaster.

Wm. Minke, a saloon keeper at Mankato, was drowned in the Blue Earth river while bathing.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed Chas. Pullman's livery barn and the People's Ice company's ice house at Little Falls. Pullman's loss, $2,000, insurance $600; ice company's loss, $1,100, no insurance.

John Jenkins, the 16-year-old St. Paul boy who was employed by Leslie & McCaffe, Minneapolis, was killed by a descending elevator.

MONOPOLISTIC BUNCOMBE.

How the McKinley Doctrine Is Preached by Pampered Panderers.

No rogue e'er felt the halter draw with good opinion of the law or the district attorney, and the Manchester Mirror and Farmer, chief protection bunco steerer for the state of New Hampshire, protests most earnestly against my kicking its large protection paunche. In reply to my indictment, it assures the republican voters whom it is misleading and befooling on this question:

1. That I am a hired writer for the sugar trust, paid by it to defend its thefts.

2. That there is now no tax on sugar; that the McKinley bill put sugar on the free list, and that the wicked democrats are now trying to put a tax on sugar that will benefit the trust by $2.80 per ton.

3. That there never was a sugar trust under republican legislation, or while the republicans taxed sugar, and that it is under the law putting sugar on the free list, under the abominable "free trade" in sugar of the McKinley bill, that the sugar trust has grown rich and insolent.

4. That every man (except one) in the sugar trust is a democrat, and that all the contributions of the sugar trust have been made to the democratic party.

There are many more statements of this kind with which it proposes to hoodwink the ignorant and vicious republican voters of New Hampshire—too ignorant to refer to the law and see for themselves what the facts are; too vicious to even care what the facts are when the truth has been shown them. Each republican vote which this protection bunco-steerer can retain for the republican party next November is worth $110 in crisp greenbacks to the league of four hundred and fifty American protected trusts, and if bluffing will keep even one vote from straying, it does not propose to lose that one, or its percentage on anyone it can steer into the game for its employers to swindle. That it is criminally dishonest, that it is a partner of the protection thieves, sharing their plunder, must be the unbiased opinion of any honest man who reads its answer to my straightforward statement of facts and figures, not one of which it attempts to impeach.

"This World hireling of the gang that has planned and is about to execute this stupendous robbery calls the pending bill one to reduce the profits of the trust three-fourths, and says he proposes to plant his well-shod heels square in the stomach of all who oppose it. 'The well-shod heels' of that animal are the heels of an ass that is staggering under the load his brutal owners have piled upon him, and whose voice is badly broken by the braying which a cruel keeper extorts from him with the goad. But listen further to the noise that comes echoing from among the bats that nest in his stomach up through the vacuum in his skull and out through the orifices of his vile nose."

That is its only answer to my statement that the McKinley bill "protects" the sugar trust with a duty of $11.20 per ton; that the proposed senate bill reduces this McKinley protection of the trust to a duty of $2.80 per ton. It cannot deny that the sugar trust yearly receives under the McKinley law $20,000,000 blood money and blackmail. It cannot deny that the senate bill substitutes a tax of one-eighth of a cent in place of the present tax of one-half of a cent, as the protection of the trust. It cannot deny that the senate bill compels the sugar trust to pay into the treasury $15,000,000 of the $20,000,000 blackmail now paid to it yearly by the people, and that all other taxes on sugar levied by the senate bill go into the treasury. It does not deny, and cannot deny, that under the McKinley bill we must pay to the sugar trust $20,000,000 blackmail yearly, as we have done since 1890, and it does not deny that the defeat of a democratic reform measure which cuts this blackmail down is what the trust is working for. It cannot meet facts or figures. It dare not quote the present law or the proposed law. There is nothing left but to denounce me as the paid advocate of the sugar trust! Between 1886 and 1890 there was not a fact or a figure in connection with the exposure of the sugar trust's thefts used in any newspaper or in any public utterance that I did not supply; no other writer furnished anything; and this same defender of protection then denounced me for my persistent attack on the sugar trust, as "the paid clerk of a gang of foreign importers," as "a liar hired by British gold" to defame honest men. The exposure that I made of the sugar trust blackmail between 1886 and 1890 forced a reduction to the present theft of $20,000,000. Because I am fighting now to either cut this blackmail off altogether or reduce it to $5,000,000, this protection bunco-steerer denounces me as the paid agent of the trust, in order to defeat any change and keep the $20,000,000 blackmail for the trust. It is an old trick of the pickpocket to shout "Stop thief" at his accuser. This editor has such confidence in the stupidity and ignorance of his readers that he knows it will be successful in diverting attention from himself to call me a "hireling of the sugar trust." Not one of his readers cares enough for the truth to pin him down to the figures and facts, if he had sufficient intelligence to understand them.—Tariff Rule, in N. Y. World.

DEFICIT PRODUCERS.

Incompetency of the Republicans as Shown by the Harrison Administration.

The receipts of the government from all sources for the fiscal year ending June 3, 1894, were $296,960,336, and the expenditures, $366,593,359. This shows a deficit of $69,633,023. The dull times had much to do with the discrepancy, but the important fact to be considered in relation to it is the inadequacy of the existing revenue laws. When the McKinley bill was passed it was the boast of its friends that an increase of the revenue would be the result. It increased the taxes, but materially reduced the revenues, and the consequence is the deficit.

That this is true may be proved by the records. There has been no defalcation on the part of any of the collecting agencies. No complaint comes of a lack of zeal in the collections. No money collected has been withheld from the treasury. The plain inference, therefore, is that the law is defective, and the obvious remedy is in the change of the statutes. It will not do to rely on withholding payments, as the Harrison administration did during the closing months, or to issue bonds now and then as the present administration was obliged to do once. The laws must be adjusted on such a basis as will meet the conditions.

No better evidence could be presented of the incompetency of the republican party to administer the government than the present condition of the finances under the laws passed by that party. It will be claimed, no doubt, that during and for many years after the war, that party displayed its capability. But that was before the control of the party passed from the great men who organized it into the hands of the boodlers who now direct its affairs. It is neither unfair nor unjust to say that now there isn't a man in the leadership of that party sufficiently equipped in statesmanship to frame a revenue law that would serve the purpose of bringing the receipts and expenditures of the government anywhere nearly together.—Kansas City Times.

PRINCIPLES DON'T COUNT.

Republicans Resort to Any Means to Gain Votes.

It is anything to win with the republicans this year. Principles don't count. Nothing counts but votes—twice if possible. Nothing matters except to get back to power, staked recklessly and lost on McKinleyism. To that end no deal will be surprised, no concession of principle refused, no fusion untried, no straddle too great to be attempted.

As to the silver question the republicans propose to be all things to all men, but with a decided tendency to abandon former declarations in favor of sound money, and join hands again with the silver extremists in an effort to save protection at the expense of the currency.

As to the tariff they will reaffirm only so much of their devotion to McKinleyism as they think they can win on. Should they win by a pledge of moderate protection, their treatment of former promises of this character leaves no doubt of what they will do when they have the chance. They are prepared to trick the country if they can, by any pretense of repentance and reform, such as they made at the time of their famous tariff commission.

One republican member of the house from Pennsylvania was frank enough to say the other day that in his judgment his party, in selecting a presidential candidate and constructing a platform in 1896, "would be governed, not by what is right or wrong in an abstract sense or by what this or that candidate thinks, but by considerations entirely apart from either morals or statesmanship"—probably very far apart and partly financial. These considerations were further explained in this simple fashion:

"The democratic party is going to pass a bill which will be moderately protective, but will impose lower taxes on the whole than the McKinley act. If business revives next winter and keeps up pretty well the republican national convention will undoubtedly adopt a moderate protectionist platform, contending that the revival is due to the fact that the protective principle has been preserved in the democratic bill. If times continue hard, however, the convention will insist that the reason of this is to be found in the fact that duties were reduced too far, and will accordingly adopt a stiff tariff programme, outdoing the McKinley act if anything."

And so they hope to catch us "a-coming and a-gwine," and pen us between the sea and the iron works, where the blundering cowardice of our leaders has placed us. At any rate, this utterance, and the demand of the Ohio republican state convention, that the McKinley rates be left untouched unless they can be made higher, express the real purpose of the republican leaders, whatever may be the promises by which, before the election, they may seek to bamboozle the voters. They are for protection, the highest they can get, and to get it they will promise tariff reform, free silver coinage, more pensions, comfort for the populists, offices for everybody, and anything else that is good for votes.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

OPINIONS AND POINTERS.

——McKinley has always contended that the presidential nomination should seek the man. He is keeping himself as prominently exposed as possible in order to minimize the difficulty of finding him.—Detroit Free Press.

——Ben Harrison will be sixty-three years of age at the time of the next nomination. This is a little too old for a president unless he has great ability or has rendered conspicuous service to his party or the country. All of which lets Ben out.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat (Rep.).

——Conger, of Ohio, in denouncing McKinley and McKinleyism, is calling down the wrath of party manipulators and narrow-guage organs on his devoted head. What hurts and galls is that he is telling the truth, a potent force in political discussion with which the g. o. p. leaders have as little as possible to do. Conger is stirring up the animals with a cattle puncher; and the people are opening their eyes to the meaning of the resulting exhibition.—Detroit Free Press.

——It is no new or extraordinary thing for congress to extend the appropriations for carrying on the government for a period of thirty days. It has been done repeatedly before now and without such a valid excuse. The time of the senate has been all taken up with the consideration of the tariff bill, and properly so. The protest of Senator Hoar against the adoption of the concurrent resolution extending the appropriations was only another expiring grasp of McKinleyism.—Boston Herald.

——What does our distinguished fellow-American, Gov. McKinley think of his handiwork as he takes a bird's-eye view of the country in its present condition? The Conger stripe of republicans are intelligent and honest enough to acknowledge that McKinleyism is a more drastic system of robbery than the country can long survive; but the tin-armored champion of high protection is Druid-like in his idolatry and hopelessly blind in a faith, which, if dominant, wrecks the government that adopts it.—Detroit Free Press.

—— "The amount of income tax President Cleveland would have had to pay," says a journal which holds that everything the democrats do is wrong and everything the republicans do is right, "would have been over one thousand dollars annually. The sugar trust senators on the motion of Senator Hill have relieved him from the burdens of this taxation." "The sugar trust senators" is one of those shafts of truth which "find mark the archer never meant," for the republican senators voted solidly for Senator Hill's motion. —Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Yes," howled the ardent republican orator; "the police of New York are a fair sample of rampant democracy—venal, bribe taking and corrupt!"

"They were all right, though, until they imbibed the pernicious principles of 'protection,'" aswered a steady voice from the rear of the hall. And even the band couldn't drown the tumultuous applause.—Puck.

DELANO DIARY

--Blue berries, 20 bushels, fresh from the field. Leave orders early.
C. H. GREEN. & Co.

—Several bicyclists from the Saw Dust City visited Delano, on Sunday, on their wheels. Two bifurcated dresses were among the party. They returned to the city in the afternoon.

—A car load of stone from the City arrived on Tuesday, for the foundation of the Village Power house. And while waiting for the pipe to arrive for the water works the house will be built.

--A letter found in the Post office the morning after the robbery had been torn open and the envelope had entirely disappeared. It was from Winsted, to Dear Mamma, and signed Tory. Perhaps some one can find by this to whom it belongs.

—The evening train west on Friday evening set the grass on fire on the west side as they were pulling out of town; the flames soon spread to the adjoining field of John Langosh and consumed a shock of oats before it was extinguished by a crowd of men and boys from town.

—In a published list of State High Schools appearing in the Pioneer Press a few days ago Delano didn't show up. Whats the matter, after all the talk? And after one member of the board drawing a good price for printing a neat little pamphlet containing the curiculum, officers, etc. several years ago? Why can't Delano have a high school?

—Al. Sexton, Cokato's Populist lawyer, visited Delano on Saturday in the interest of I. Donnelly's paper. the Representative. He has the same story to tell about the populists taking the country that he had two years ago. We don't know whether it will come as near being true this time or not. That remains to be demonstrated at the polls, on election day.

—The Eagle says: The south half of Wright county is in fairly good shape as to the condition of crops. Now if we only could get "good old Republican prices", then we would be in good shape." Is it possible that the old bird don't know that the present are the McKinley bill prices; 25cts. per bushel tariff on wheat; the best kind of old Republican doctrine as to making farmers prices?

—In commenting on our article concerning the Delano School Board's infractions of the law, the Buffalo Journ has to say concerning the editor of the Eagle. "It is a little surprising that the board should thus ignore the law but most of all that the great reform editor should be a participant in the crooked work. This surely, ought not to be thus." The editor of the Journ must have forgotten something of his acquaintance here;

—A game of ball was played here on Sunday, by picked up players from several towns. The team representing Delano was considerably wiped out by the visitors. Good enough if they are bound to play Sundays. Several of the participants belonged to families whose friends believe in keeping the Sabbath day holy. And when they took part in the game disregarded the pleading of their wives, mothers, and other friends as well as the ten commandments. We understand another game will be played at Montrose on Saturday when Delano will be strengthened by some players who keep Sunday, and we wish them better success.

—A. W. Wittman has received the outfit for the base ball club.

—The Watertown Mill Company shipped a car load of flour from here on Wednesday.

—Rev. Powell is now proprietor of a cow and calf lately received from Mrs. Henry Marsball, of Montrose.

--Charles L. Belt now smiles on the farmers when they come in to sell wheat at the Cargill elevator.

—Mrs. William Ziebarth is still confined to her bed. Her sons and daughter were telegraphed for this A. M.

--Superintendant Lindsley has secured the City Hall, in the absence of a school house, to hold his Teachers examination in.

—J. D. Young drove over to St. Peter this week to visit with his wife for a few days, and take her riding about the country.

—Paul Plotnick says he raised some very fine potatoes in his garden this summer: but that some body dug them for themselves on Monday night.

—John Jacobs, in Greenwood, now has a large part of his farm under shingle root. Nothing like plenty of shelter for stock. machinery, etc, etc.

--Master Georgie Wiese appeared in pants yesterday. As usual in such cases there was considerable trouble getting him to trade back for dresses. Nothing like first pants.

--Three of the graduating class from the Delano school expect to teach this summer; one of them Emery Cunningham intends being among the University students this winter.

—T. H. Dearborn moved a lot of farm and other stuff into the Rosen Opera House, yesterday which with several head of blooded horses are to be sold at auction we understand soon.

—On Saturday, Mrs. F. H. Lindsley, who had been sick for about a week at Buffalo was brought home somewhat improved but during the night grew worse and on Sunday her life was well nigh despaired of.

—Prof. F. N. Leavins, of Faribault has been secured as principal of the Delano school for next year. He is expected to move his family here in time to begin as soon as the new School House is ready Oct. 1.

—B. Gould, of Greenwood, passed through town Yesterday with his Advance separator, Steam Engine, and threshing crew. His engine furnished a means of locomotion for the outfit except the separator which was handled by horses.

—Twelve true and tried citizens, peers of the accused, sat on a jury Wednesday while County Attorney Culkin, and Village Attorney O'Hair argued the case of the State of Minnesota vs Twarta, for calling Mrs. Anna Matzko names. The jury acquitted the accused.

—S. A. Thompson, of Mound View lost eight barns, a lot of grain, and farm machinery, by fire on Sunday. Mr. Thompson is an old resident living there since 1849. His farm adjoined that of J. J. Hill, and he is one of Minnesota's wealthy agriculturalists. His daughter Mrs. Elmer Babb is one of the residents of Delano.

--The pasture has been opened up and a lot of people have to herd their cows or keep them up. while the new street is being opened up as an extension to Elm street. When the road is worked and opened to travel to the Hennepin county line it will be a convenience to several families living out that way; as well as make a nice drive for village folks.

—If Mgr. Satolli's decissions concerning the prohibiting of liquor vendors belonging to Catholic societies, and the nongranting of the rights of the church to such as sell on Sunday are carried out there will be several fewer Catholics in Delano: or all the saloons including the wholesale house will change proprietors; or laws will be obeyed better than they ever have been here.

--Neighbor Buckley has our thanks for a neat little phamplet of 136 pages. 'Microbes and Men" by I. H. Orcutt, M. D., Ph. D., of Owatonna. The work is illustrated and is neatly printed by the Eagle. We have not had time to make an intellegent review of the whole work; but it is well written and contains much useful information, and we presume had some thing to do with the Eagle's change of front on the unhealthfnlness of river water.

—Wonder if Dr. Catlin can't find a statute, or invent one himself, to prohibit the school board from rebuilding the school house and hiring teachers. He ought to try, it might catch a vote for him when he tries next time to run for school director.—The Delano Eagle.

Surely the Old Bird must have been havsng another nightmare. There are statutes enough governing the conduct of school officers if they were only lived up to. Aud as for Dr. Catlin trying to catch votes "when he tries NEXT time to run for school director" what can she mean? Did any body ever hear of the Doctor trying to run for that position? He was elected once when he was absent, on business, from the school meeting, and several times was nominated for the office for various reasons; once by I. Gutzwiller, Jr., when he knew there was but few votes for him, and the Doctor aware of the same fact declined "under the circumstances" to run.

—The water in the river is now so low that there is scarcely any movement. Out of the current it has become stagnant and the odor it emits is very disagreeable. We need a good rain to flood the river and carry off the standing water.—

Wait until the water works are completed and then see. Perhaps the course of the stream may be turned through the village and the stagnant microbes and bacchali cooked and eaten by some of our citizens. A good well away from the river would please the patrons of village water much better.

STORY WITH A MORAL.

For a score of years, or more,
Its been a standing joke
For the "Old Bird," to soar,
And pick upon the folk
So long as she content.
Preyed upon a few;
The others gave assent
And looked for victims new.

But, since she's old enough to vote
People begin to take more note.
And she, having bolder grown,
Seems her beat to have outflown;
And now, her capacious maw
Must be filled with morsels raw.

She flops down upon a flock,
Of the gentler sex, in frock;
And insinuates, so bad,
As to make them all mad.
A retraction! They demand:
And, on this ground, firmly stand;
Resolving to "have their right;"
Or else "there will be a fight.

Then comes the Bird; as of old:
Putting on a front, quite bold:
Gently taking back a little,
From the ugly roasting spittle:
Until the females are appeased:
The turmoiling minds eased;
And the summer outing; thing past,
Remembered no more till the last.

MORAL.—
Old Birds will always find it best,
To bite off no more than will digest;
A good plan to keep near the nest;
And give to the people a rest.

County Cullings.

The republican delegates are to meet at Annandale Saturday, Aug. 25, to nominate a Legislative Ticket. W. E. Culkin has announced himself as a candidate for nomination for Senator. Hon. Craig, of Sherburne expects a renomination, and editor Dare of the same county is looking on with a wistful eye to a nomination while some of the Wright county politicians as usual can't see how they are entitled to two men on the ticket and hint that they don't really deserve what they are entitled to. There seems some danger that either the Wright county republicans will allow a democrat or a populist or a prohibitionist to slip in before they will send to Sherburne county men and possibly they will try to kill off all of them, and in this case democrats are more in sympathy with the under dog, usually, and Sherburne may conclude to "reciprocate" just once.

Wright County Medical Society.

On Wednesday, Aug. 1, a meeting of Wright county physicians was held at Buffalo; present Doctors Ridgway, Annandale; Cady, Ilstrup, Shannon, Buffalo; Catlin and Shrader, Delano; Chilton. Howard Lake; O'Connor, Maple Lake; Wakefield, Monticello; O'Hair and Reisonnett, Waverly. The meeting was called to order by Dr. Wakefield nominating Dr. Catlin for Temporary Chairman; Dr. Chilton was elected Temporary Secretary. Dr. Ridgway stated briefly the object of the meeting; a general discussion follwed: all favoring a permanent organization; and several advocating a Lospital, in the county, so that people want flock to the cities for treatment, when they can have it at home. Dr. Cady moved a society be organized to be known as the Wright County Medical society, seconed by Dr, O'Connor, carried, with the understanding that physicians whose fields of practice extended into Wright county be invited to become members. On motion by Dr. Ilstrup, the Society proceeded to elect officers: Dr. Cady, of Buffalo, Pres.; Dr. Wakefield of Monticello, Vice Pres: Dr. Chilton, of Howard Lake, Secretary; Dr. Catlin, of Delano, Treas. On motion the President appointed Drs. Shannon, Catlin and Chilton a committee on constitution and by-laws. On motion of Dr. Catlin it was voted that when we adjourn it will be to meet on the first Wednesday in September. On motion of Dr. Catlin it was voted the sense of the meeting that the Initation Fee $2. and yearly dues $1. papers for the next meeting were volunteered by Dr. O'Hair on Cholera Infantum; Dr. Ridgway, Typhoid Fever; Dr. O'Connor, Scarlet Fever; The papers to be followed by general discussion.

Among our Exchanges.

The annual school metings are over for this year and it is not likely that so many as one tenth of the people of the state attended or took any interest whatever.—We have heard of one district not far from here where nobody will serve as officers, because there is no salary to it.—Buffalo Journal.

When you have checked off the senators who represen the sugar trust and the Pacific roads and the Troy cuff shops and the Pennsylvania factories and the tobacco combination and a few other Large Interests, there is nobody left to represent the people in the senate but one or two democrats--possibly—and the three Populists, who are manifestly unequal to the task. The Commonwealth.

Republican Inharmony.

The Sherburne county delegates were awful sorry they could not support our man for clerk of court, but they had promised the other fellow before we asked them and they were so sorry. —Buffalo Journal.

As usal, the Journal man talks through his hat. There wasn't an instant that the Sherburne county delegation wavered in the support of Mr. Pidgeon, and we venture the statement that he was fully as sure of the votes of Sherburne county delegation as he was of Wright county delegation.--Sherburne County Star News.

THE PLEASURES OF OF "IFFING."

If all our bones were funny bones,
Oh, wouldn't it be jolly?
If all our tones were sunny tones
There'd be no melancholy,
There'd be no melancholy if
Our tones were always sunny,
And life would be so jolly if—
If all our bones were funny.

If all our skies were cheerful skies
Oh, wouldn't earth be gladdened?
If all our eyes were tearful eyes,
Oh, wouldn't life be saddened?
Life would be sadly saddened if
Our eyes were always tearful,
And earth be gladly gladdened if—
If all our skies were cheerful.

If this or that were thus and so
Oh, wouldn't it be clever?
But "ifs," my dears, won't make it so,
Though we may "if" forever.
But while ifs won't our wishes bring,
We'd all be less contented
And life would be a prosy thing
If "iffing" were prevented.
—Nixon Waterman, in Chicago Journal.

Home, Sweet Home.

Let home be first. No matter how high your ambition, no matter how far your talents or your influences may reach, before everything else build up a true home. Be not its slave; be its minister. Let it not be enough that it is swept and garnished, that its silver is brilliant, that its food is delicious, but feed the love in it. Then from its walls shall come forth the true woman and the true man.

What honor can be greater than to found such a home? What dignity higher than to reign its honored mistress? What is the ability to speak from a public platform or the wisdom that can command a seat on the judge's bench, compared to that which can insure and preside over a true home? To be the guiding star, the ruling spirit in such a home is higher than to rule an empire.—Sel.

Small Potatoes.

Save the small potatoes for the hens. After they are cooked they will require no preparation, as the hens can easily pick them to pieces. In the winter season they will serve greatly to assist in keeping the hens in good condition, and as such potatoes are unsalable, they can be made just as valuable as the large ones if converted into eggs and sent to market. –The Farm and Fireside.

Music as a Healing Power.

The Guild of St. Cecilia, in London, is about to build or hire a large hall, in which musicians, specially trained to sing and play the very soft music which alone should be administered to those whose nerves are weakened by illness, shall perform by day and night in telephonic connection with certain wards of hospitals.

A Simple Remedy.

A noted physician says: "If a child has swallowed anything that will not digest, particularly if it is sharp, let him eat immediatly two or three pieces of dry bread. This is very apt to surround the object swallowed with a sort of coating. In addition, let the food for several days be more solid than usual and under no circumstances give purgative medicine.—The Ram's Horn.

No Fusion in Ours.

THE 15th birthday edition of the Ortonville Herald Star comes to our table as an illustrated number, neatly gotten up, and shows enterprise and thrift of the papper and the town.

MAYOR EUSTICE, of Minneapolis, is reported to have found a 12 year old boy, in an alley drunk, and that on Sunday; snd to be hunting for the saloon that sold the beer, with the intention of revoking the proprietors license at once.

THE Minneapolis Times says of the present city government; "It is difficult to go behind the records and the police records and workhouse records show that there have been fewer arrests for drunkenness and the minor crimes arising from drunkenness during the present administration than at any other time in the history of the city since it has been anywhere near its present size. Does this show fewer causes for arrest; or a winking at offences?

WHAT is to be gained by fusing with the populists if they hold views so diometrically opposed to true democracy that they must nominate a ticket and have a platform of their own, where are we to be benefited by joining with them? If they are so much like democrats that we can't tell the difference why not go over in a body and give up the old democratic party entirely? Why go to all the trouble and expense of running two parties populists and democrats to vote as one? It is downright foolishness and thats all you can make of it.

CONGRESSMAN BALDWIN, of the sixth Minnesota district is evidently going to succeed himself from appearance of things. First he is with the people on tariff and other democratic principles; an economical expenditure of the nations wealth in improvements that will benefit the country. Second, the republicans are terribly afraid he will be re-elected; as is evinced by the determined fight they are making against him. McKinley in his own interests presumably most, but incidently to knock out Baldwin has been at Duluth, so early, and promises to return and give them a speech before election. The Pioneer Press devotes about a quarter of a column to him trying to get a laugh on him because he takes a little happier view of life than does the great republican organ.

SIDNEY M. OWENS four years ago sent a letter to the Democratic Convention, in session, refusing to allow his name to come before that assembly for nomination as Governor, though he was already in the field as the Populist's candidate for that position. For the reason that he represented principles and desired to stand on them. For this act, though not agreeing with his principles, in whole, we respected him then; and in case he adheres to his convictions we respect him now; but if he is to come down from his high moral stand, and truckle to scheming and designing politicians forsaking principles for the sake of getting a few votes to help boost him into the governor's chrir we fear he will prove no more satisfactory in case he is successful this far, than have his predecessors in several states that have done the same things before. It would be expected of him, of course to pay off his supporters in the party fusing to a much greater extent than in the rank and file of his own party; and this of course would diplease those who have all along advocated his principles. He would find his worst critics, and fault finders among men claiming to have voted for him; and a very unsatisfactory position he would have. If he is to have a plurality of the votes cast in the state, let him get them because the people approve of him and his principles and not because they are forced for lack of a candidate of their own to vote for what they consider the least to be dreaded of two evils. If he ever takes the chair of the executive officers of the State let him do so as a high moral man adhering to his principles and in a position to enforce his views to the fullest limit possible.

Fusion a Flat Failure.

It may appear to leaders among democrats in state politics that fusion, at this time, with the populists is the proper thing; and they may be honestly working for what they believe is the best interest of the party in Minnesota; but it is very hard for them to make the average democratic voter in the rural districts believe in their doctrines and theories. This thing has gone far enough; yea too far, already for the good of the party; and of democratic principles. If we are to keep our party together we must have leaders, true and tried from among our own ranks. When renegade republicans, or democrats who have simply left the ranks of the faithful for the meagre chance of obtaining an office, and who care nothing for democratic principles; in fact are just about without principles themself are by "fusion" placed on the ticket for democrats to vote it, throws a damper over the whole business. Interest in politics is lost. democrats will not be driven, nor led to the ballot box with this kind of treatment. It may do for the leaders to sit in caucus and theorise, and "count theis chickeus before they are hatched" but the thing has been tried too many times, you can't even fool all the democrats all the time. In the country you talk to a good straight democrat and he is where he has been for years save that he has lost faith in the leaders from repeated "fusions" "sell outs" "trade offs" etc., etc.

If democracy is to longer exist in this state, individuals must first make up their minds that they are democrats; then they must talk over with their neighbors and send delegates to county conventions who are democrats, not fusionists. Then the county convention must send straight men to the state convention and they will find a ticket that can win.

Holst high the banner "Equal rights to all, special privileges for none" rally the forces all along the line and we have nothing to fear.

Seem Never to Learn.

Some of our party leaders seem never to learn ahything. Whether they really don't want to; or purposely refrain from acquiring knowledge we are not quite prepared to say, but it looks a l-e-t-l-e suspicious to say the least. In 1872 democrats took up Horace Greely, who had abused them about as much as the populists of today have, for their Presidential candidate and he was defeated by a larger plurality than any straight democrat that ever ran for the office. A few years ago I. Donnelly was placed on the democratic ticker for Congressman from this district, he had tried all parties before, and was no more successful with this. And came no nearer being elected than any good democrat would, most likely. At the last presidential election nothing would do but we must fuse our electorial ticket with the populists: Minnesota did not give a single electorial vote against the republican nominee; in many counties our party still feels the effects of the fusion; some good democrats became disgusted with a party that dared not stand by its own principles, but surrendered them in this way, and have gone over to other parties; many others are waiting for the party to repeat the bitter dose when they too will flock over to the majority. Democrats have principles as well as they ever had. They favor tariff for rev enue only; or free trade; they favor good money; the use of both gold and silver; every dollar as good as every other dollar; they believe in the civil authorities being superior to the military. They believe in home rule; that people have a right to sell where they can sell to the best advantage and buy where they can get what they want for the least money. They believe that the citizens of the United States are entitled to and should have EQUAL RIGHTS FOR ALL AND SPECIAL PRIVILEGES FOR NONE." And where and when they honestly, and earnestly stand by their principles and work for them they succeed; but where they are turned aside by every gentle zephyr that blows; and are led to fuse with even republicans it can hardly be expected that the party will thrive very well. Let us have things perfectly straight, this time and see if we can't succeed in getting all our disaffected brethren back into the fold with enough more to elect our men and our principles to govern our state, and to help make laws for us and our country.

Baldwin vs. Davis.

Special Telegram to the Times.

WAASHINGTON, D. C., Aug., 3.—"Senator Davis has announced," said Congressman Baldwin tonight, "his intention to fight the bill permitting the secretary of the iterior to sell the pine timber on the Red Lake reservation as soon as 1,000 acres are estimated. If Senator Davis wants to make a fight on this bill he may do so, but it will be hard for him to explain that it is not in the interest of some large lumber combine that wants to monopolize all the pine land. It is not a question whether this land is to be stripped of its timber or not; the law as it stands provides for the sale of this Indian pine stumpage; but whether it shall be sold as the timber is needed or kept until it has all been surveyed and then thrown on the market at once. Senator Davis, I understand, opposes the bill because there is nothing in it about giving the state the school sections. This is all moonshine, because the bill could readily be amended to that effect, if Davis so desired."

Baldwin says that Senator Washburn is favorablie to this bill, and with Washburn's aid he expects to see the bill passed in spite of Senator Davis' opposition.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 3, 1894.

The so called "conservative" democratic Senators have it in their power to end the tariff deadlock in an hour, but they have so far declined to make use of their power. It is now apparent that the democratic conferees on the tariff bill can easily reach an agreement on the bill if they could be assured that the agreement would receive the votes of the 43 Senators necessary. The lack of that assurance is the only stumbling block at this writing. They naturally hesitate to report an agreement when they are in doubt whether it would be excepted or rejected by the Senate, knowing that its rejection would mean a failure of all tariff legislation. However, the pressure is becoming so strong on the rule-or-ruin democratic Senators from the outside that it is the general belief that they will soon consent to give in to a sufficient extent to get a bill through that can be accepted by all good democrats. So strong is this belief that the House democratic caucus, which was to have been held Thursday, has been deferred for a few days, when it is hoped that an agreement will render it unnecessary.

President Cleveland very properly declined to officially receive the commission sent to Washington by the ex-Quenn of Hawaii for the purpose of trying to prevent the recognition of the Hawaiian republic. They saw Secretary Gresham, but merely as individuals. This whole Hawaiian business will probably be left in the hands of Congress, where President Cleveland placed it many months ago, and when Congress directs the formal recognition of the republic—a resolution to that effect is now pending in the House—it will be done, and not before.

Senator Voorhees who has been too ill to take part in the tariff conference, is now much better, although not yet well enough to resume his duties.

Representative Hutcheson, who is a lawyer of high standing in addition to being a texas democrat of deserved prominence in the House, has grown tired of seeing veary attempt to control or abolish trusts, by a national law, wrecked by a collision with the Constitution, and has offered a joint resolution proposing this amendment to the Constitution: "Trusts and monopolies dealing in agricultural products, or other articles of prime necessity, shall not exist in the United States, and Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation." This is short, but there is no doubt of its covering the ground, but, in view of recent exhibitions of the influence of trusts in Congress, there is much doubt of its receiving the necessary two-thirds vote of Congress.

Representative Bryan, of Nebraska, has received a letter from the executive committee of Democratic Free Coinage League of the State, asking him to announce his candidacy for the U. S. Senate and to make a personal canvas of the State. While Mr. Bryan has not himself yet so announced, there is little doubt among his friends that he will in a few days accede to the requests of the committee.

There is one reform that should be forced on Congress by public oppinon, and that is the absolute prohibition of the attachment of new legislation as amendments to the general appropriation bills. No better example of the viciousness of the system need be sought for than was presented by the Senate this week when an amendment to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill providing for the purchase of the "Mahone site," upon which to build a new government Printing Office, was adopted. It would be impossible to get the House to agree on this purchase if presented in a seprate bill; hence the action of the Senate, upon which Mahone has a "pull," to force the House to agree or to see an important appropriation bill fail. It is generally admitted that the Mahone lot is unsuited for the purpose and excessive in price, and were it not for the persisten lobbying of Gen. Mahone it would never even have been seriously considered as among the eligible sites. It remains to be seen whether the House will allow itself to be bulldozed into voting a gratuity of public money to Gen. Mahone just because certain Senators want to help him along.

The members of the strike commission—Hon. Carroll D. Wright, U. S. Labor Commissioner; John D. Kernan, of N. Y., and N. E. Worthington, of Ill.— called on Presidett Cleveland, after they held a prelinary meeting and decided to begin their investigation of the recent strike in Chicago on the 15, of this month, and had an extended talk on the slope of the investigation and the authority given by the authority given by the law under which the commission was appointed. The President impressed upon the minds of his callers his desire that the investigation should be through and without fear or favor.

Democratic State Convention.

Pursuant to the decision of the State Committee the Democrats of the state are called to meet in delegate convention in the city of St. Paul, on to put in nomination candidates for the following officers: Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Auditor, Treasurer, Secretary of State, Attorney General, Clerk of the Supreme Court, a Chief Justice and a Justice of the Supreme Court.

Wednesday, Sept. 5th, 1894, at 11 A. M.

The basis of representation adopted is two delegates from each county and one additional for eact 150 votes or major fraction thereof, cast for the democratic candidate for governor in 1892.

On this basis the several counties of the state will be entitled to send the number of delegates set opposite the name of each as follows:

CORRESPONENCE

BUFFALO BUSINESS.

Last Thursday Profs. Wharton and Brewster took a trip to Minneapolis on their wheels.

Threshing is well under headway at present. Oats are turning out from 35 to 38 bushels to the acre; rye 30 to 35. Potatoes are $1.00. Thursday night Jack Frost visited some of our gardens nipping the tender vines.

The County is building a new vault at the Court House for the Probate office.

There is a case of Scarlet fever in the south part of town; quarantined in charge of Wat Cady.

A horse belonging to Nathan Warner took fright at Violet's Engine and came near getting away from Mrs, Warner; but by the aid of A. E. Sturgese and one of the threashers the horse was quieted down without any damage.

Dr. Ilstrup assisted by Dr. Ridgway of Annandale and O'Conner of Maple Lake and Cady of Buffalo performed the operation of Laparotomy on Mrs. Mons Nelson of this place last Friday, Mrs. Nelson passed through the operation nicely with the exception of a little bother with the anesthetic; but on Saturday night was taken worse and died on Sunday morning. Her funeral was held at the Swedish Lutheran church on Monday afternoon, Rev. Isaacson officiating.

BORN, to Mr. and Mrs, Chas. Pitt of this village on Wednesday, Aug. 1, a girl.

MARRIAGE LICENSE, granted Aug. 1 1894 to Fred Lindsley and Tilla Hafer both of Wright Co.

INDEPENDENCE INCIDENTS.

H. C. Dickey is still absent receiving treatment.

E. Cleveland drove to Marksville last Friday.

Ball games and dancing parties are quite plenty if it is hard times.

J. N. Potter preached at Coffins school house ast Sunday and will preach there in two weeks again, at 2 P. M.

The farmers will put out a goodeal of rye this fall if the ground gets so as they can plow it.

The country seems to be full of threshing machines, can here them in all directions.

Wm. Budd, who has been on the sick list for a long time, is improving slowly.

Some say they have plenty of chinch bugs but they are not so dangerous as the gold bugs.

Some say times are looking up, but persons with their eyes wide open do not see bright prospects in the future: the coming wintar is bound to be a hard one and nothing will prevent it only tropical weather through the winter months.

Farmers are threshing and many fields of wheat and oats are turning out better than expected so it is hoped we will have bread and seed any way, but corn and potatoes will be short, the ground is so hard it is doubtful if farmers can plow until we get rain.

The dry and hot weather does not seem to stunt the politician and office seeker for they spring up promiscuously in every fence corner saying "I am of the tribe of Benjamin."

The elevator company at Maple Plain has been taking in quite a lot of new wheat they say all of it is of very good quality.

E. A. Conover and W. H. Kendy is just finishing up repairs on their dwelling houses.

Henry Foglemen has been laid up with a lame leg but at this writing is much better.

A good many young men and some of the older ones to have gone out west threshing.

LONG LAKE LINKS.

The people of this locality are mostly through harvesting and the threshing process has begun. The yield of wheat and oats thus far threshed, proves to be greater than anticipated some weeks ago under the prevailing drouth, some early sown crops comes up nearly to the usual average, while the general crop of wheat and oats may be considered as being about a half crop which is much more than was expected a month ago.

This locality has had, during the last month a few cases of quinsey, amongst the most severly afflicted were, Miss Mary Reiser, B. E. Walsh and Frank Green. The latter for a time showed diphtheric symptoms. Happily all have now recovered their usual health.

This community was pained to learn of the death of Arthur S. Stafford's only son, a lad of ten summers, which event occurred on Monday.

There has been frequent visits of republican candidates to this village of late, of whom there were about seventy five? seeking the republican nomination for sheriff of Hennepin Co. From latest indications it would seem as if republicans were not so numerous here as formerly many having become populists. The populists are claiming the earth including democrats as well as republicans.

Mrs. Getting and Mrs. Wentworth of Minneapolis were visiting relatives in this village recently: Mrs. O. T. Olson and Mrs Schmitz; also Miss Ida Walsfeld of Minneapolis is visiting relatives here at present.

The Ruth Lodge, Order Rebecca, I. O. O. F. has recently been removed from Maple Plain to the Odd Fellows hall in this village where it seems to have taken on new life.

C. J. Buell visited our village on Monday in the interest of the Minnesota democratic Association. Mr. Buell is also an advocate of the Single Tax theory and being an able public speaker delivers many lectures on the latter question.

Superintendent Lewis has so far recovered from his recent prostration as to be able to take short out of door wrlks.

Hennepin Co. Politics.

Hon. Stephen B. Howard, of Minneapolis who has represented the 34th district in the Minnesota legislative assembly during the past two years, apparently with great acceptability to his constituents, and who is now a candidate for State Senator, with admirable prospects of an election, says he favors the enactment of a law at the next session of the legislature giving schoolteachers the right of appeal to the state superintendent when they have incurred the enmity of little superintendents and had their certificates revoked on mere pretexts. The way the law now stands teachers have no rights which county superintendents are bound to respect. The county superintendent is vested with almost autocratic power in the matter of issuing or revoking teachers licenses: and this power is often abused by little men who want to get even with teachers who have, in common with hundreds of other citizens, opposed and defeated the political or official aspirations and designs of such superintendents.

Miss Lena Grave, of Long Lake, is attending the summer school at the University. Miss Lena taught the school in the Jacob Spurzen district, near Loretto, the past year. The patrons say she was well liked and has been re-engaged for the coming year.

McConnell, with Green for assistant; Henry, with Harter for assistant; Deacon Wilcox, with Shayer for assistant. These are the teams now pulling vigorously for the Republican nomination for superintendant of schools. The 15 inst. will tell the tale.

Mr. J. H. Green, who figures conspicuously in the superintendency fight this time, has been almost constantly engaged as a teacher in our rural schools for many years. He has saved his money and is now the possessor of considerable valuable property in the county. He is a single man and lives in his own house, at No. 927, Thomas Ave. N., Minneapolis, with his three sisters. In point of education and general fitness for the position of assistant superintendent, he is popularly conceded to be so much the superior of Deacon Wilcox that there is no comparison at all. During the past four years, when Hennepin county may be said to have been worse than without a superintendent of schools, Mr. Green has been almost constantly consulted by the farmers about school district business. He has not always had his way in the nominating conventions, but he has always been loyal to the republican party.

THE area of the United States, including Alaska, is 3,501,404 square miles, with a population of 62,982,244 inhabitants.

A MYSTERIOUS shower recently fell at Cambridge, Mass., of frogs with very prominent eyes. Scientists say they had been seeing stars.

THE recent visit of the cruiser Chicago to England has called anew the attention of our cousins there to the American navy, and they are saying some eulogistic things of it.

NO RECEPTACLE has ever been made strong enough to resist the bursting power of freezing water. Twenty-pound steel shells have been burst asunder as if made of pottery.

HENRY CLAY'S only daughter died and was buried at Lebanon, O., in 1825. Her remains have just been removed to Lexington, Ky., and they now rest in the Clay vault beside those of the great Kentuckian.

WHEN it comes to costly toys the latest present to the boy king of Spain may be said to cap the climax. It is nothing less than an infant regiment comprising 400 warriors, ranging in age from 5 to 8 years.

MRS. LYNN LYNTON, the novelist, is said to have been the first woman who wrote for the daily newspapers. Since her first novel appeared, forty-six years ago, she has written over fifty volumes. She is also very clever in embroidery and designing on wood.

JOHN HUNT, of Providence, R. I., who died recently at the age of 70, had not spoken to his wife for twenty years and did not even repent on his deathbed. For the last twenty-five years of their married life his father and mother had not spoken to each other.

ALUMINUM drums are said to be growing in favor, as they are more durable than those constructed of wood. It is to be hoped, however, that they will never become popular for boys' use, as the present style is altogether too durable to suit the adult generation.

IT is the opinion of Gen. Schofield that the best disposition that can henceforth be made of the greater part of the regular army is to establish strong garrisons at or near certain points throughout the country, that bid fair to be "storm centers" in future disturbances.

IN China if a man commits a crime his schoolmaster suffers the same penalties as his pupil, on the ground that he should have taught him better. If the same law were in vogue here it is to be feared that the profession of pedagogy would not be as popular as it is at present.

OF the thirty odd European sovereigns Queen Victoria alone has a great-grandson in the direct line of succession. Of the others only five have even grandsons in the direct line, namely, the sovereigns of Sweden and Norway, Denmark, Greece, Mecklenberg-Strelitz and Saxe-Meiningen.

GOV. GREENHALGE, of Massachusetts, who was for several years president of the Lowell Humane society, tried to buy a horse in Boston the other day, but was told at every place he visited that it was next to impossible to obtain an animal with an "undocked" tail. "Then," said the governor, "I will walk."

THE ex-premier of Newfoundland has been disqualified from holding office because at the recent election he spent a good deal of money in paying the expenses of electors while they were in attendance at the elections. No bribery other than this, which is merely a constructive offense, was charged against him; but the laws of the province are imperative in their application to such cases.

IT is estimated that the yearly passage trips between New Jersey and New York number 70,000,000; that the total for all New York ferries will exceed 170,000,000; that the number of boat trips equals 1,800,000, and the number of teams carried 5,000,000. All this immense traffic is carried on with remarkable safety. The accident to a Staten Island ferry-boat some twenty years ago and a single collision afforded the only cases of death from accident on record among North river ferry passengers.

ACCORDING to the report of the commissioner of labor in Washington the actual losses caused by strikes and lockouts in the United States from 1880 to 1886, inclusive, were as follows: Loss of wages to employes, $59,972,440; loss of profits to employers, $34,162,814; assistance furnished strikers, $4,430,559; which makes a total of $98,566,813 for six years, or an average of nearly $16,500,000 every year, and this does not include incidental losses to those involved in the strikes or the loss suffered by the community in which they occur. These cannot be calculated.

THE American Indian, who is so fond of hiring himself to a showman to be taken abroad for the amusement of Europeans, will learn sooner or later that the place for him is the reservation provided by the Great Father. There he is sure of his rations and occasionally he may be permitted to indulge in the ghost dance. The cadaverous braves who have just returned from their engagement with Pawnee Bill, who exhibited and starved them at the Antwerp exposition, will be able to tell their tribe a story when they get back which will put a stop to the business.

THE agricultural department furnishes statistics of fruit production in the United States for the latest census year, which it notes to have been less than an average year in its fruit yield. The totals show a production of more than 143,000,000 bushels of apples in forty-eight states and territories. Michigan and Ohio lead. The production of peaches was 36,000,000 bushels, Georgia and Texas leading with more than 5,000,000 bushels each. In pears the production was little more than 3,000,000 bushels, New York and California leading. Plums and prunes exceeded 2,500,000, half being grown in California

THEIR JOBS GONE.

Chicago's Striking Switchmen Find Their Places Filled.

Over 7,000 of Them, It Is Stated, Will Have to Seek Work Elsewhere—Other Strike News—The A. R. U. Resolution.

LOOKING FOR WORK.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—On all roads except the Santa Fe and Eastern Illinois striking employes presented themselves Monday as applicants for reinstatement. The great majority found that their places had been filled and were told that there was no work for them. In some instances the strikers were informed that they would not be received back under any consideration, but the roads which have adopted this policy are in the minority. Many of the old men who had walked out when the strike was ordered, and who were told that there was no work for them, were taken aside and quietly informed that in a week there would be vacancies in the yards and to call again. On information furnished by officials of railroads with terminals in Chicago, it is estimated that over 7,000 of former employes of railroads in Chicago who struck, and whose places have been filled by new men, are permanently out.

The General Managers' association has a list of the names of the men who took part in the car burning and upsetting and of the leaders of the strike. It was said by a superintendent Monday that the general managers had decided that not one of the men whose names were on the blacklist would ever again find employment on any railroad in Chicago.

About 2,000 men applying for work at the stock yards were sent away Monday. The Switchmen's association took charge of the switch engines in use about the yards, the old men being placed over the new ones to give instructions to the latter.

Troops All Called In.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Gov. Altgeld has ordered the troops at Chicago relieved from duty this morning. The troops relieved are three companies of the First infantry, on duty at Pullman, and four companies of the Second infantry, on duty at stock yards. This order ends the strike services of the Illinois national guards.

Pullman Rents Not to Be Remitted.

Vice President Wickes, of the Pullman company, says that the company will not entertain the proposition from the strikers to return to work if the company will remit the past due rents of houses in Pullman.

Off at St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 7.—At a meeting of the local organization of the American Railway union the strike on the St. Paul & Duluth, Omaha, Burlington and Milwaukee systems at this point was formally declared off.

Declared Off.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—With the exception of the unions on the Santa Fe and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroads the local organization of the American Railway union, through their delegates in Uhlich's hall Sunday afternoon, declared the strike off as far as Chicago was concerned.

It explains the cause which brought the organization into existence to be the protection of railroad employes from the aggressions and impositions of their employers. No effort was made to destroy the older brotherhood, the intention only being to bring about a more perfect union. It says the employes of the Pullman Palace Car company were taken into the union at their own request.

The resolution scores the federal authorities as follows:

"We regret to say that the federal government gave some color to the corporations' claim that the authorities were coming to assist them in a partisan conflict, both by the unnecessary sending of troops without warrant of law and without request of the constitutional local authorities, by the one-sided and offensive acts of the public prosecutor, late from a snug berth as a corporation lawyer, by the blatant mouthings of the United States commander, and the no less tyrannical utterances of the president himself; that the workingmen throughout the nation understood it was evidenced by their almost unanimous action in supporting the strike, and it is to be feared that a greater gulf than ever has thus been put between the people and their government."

The resolutions are concluded with an appeal to the people to desert old political parties which have shown themselves equally inimical to the interests of the common people and friendly to the great vampire corporations of the land. These people are in this land of the free the sovereign whose peace should not be disturbed and whose interests should be preserved. The sovereign people should assert their right to rule. We, therefore, citizens of the republic, appeal to you, fellow voters of our common country, to support the party which bears the name of the sovereign people, which party stands ready to pledge itself that when into its hands is given the government disputes between employer and employe will be no longer the only exceptions in the various states and the nation from the jurisdiction of the established courts.

After reviewing the prosecution of the officers of the union for conspiracy and contempt of court the report takes up the Santa Fe road and maintains that the authorities are so busy punishing workmen that they have no time to attend to the Santa Fe case.

The decision to declare the strike off was in harmony with the action of the convention on Friday, which declared that it had no authority either to order a strike or declare one off that had been ordered under the laws of the organization, which specifically say that no strike shall be ordered excepting by a majority vote of the members of the union on the system on which the strike is to take place.

Will Continue the Strike.

SPRING VALLEY, Ill., Aug. 7.—A mass meeting of miners was held near here and it was unimously decided to continue the strike for last year's scale.

A. R. U. Resolutions.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—The report of the special committee on resolutions of the American Railway union which was submitted to the convention last Friday, and which was referred to the board of directors and the lawyers of the organization for revision, was completed Saturday evening and given to the public:

Here follows a description of the town of Pullman and the conditions under which the workmen are said to be employed. It is said that while wages were reduced the price of rents remained the same, and that at the time the strike of the Pullman employes began they were indebted to the company in the sum of $70,000 for rents. "Thus the workingmen," says the resolutions, "found themselves in worse condition than did the workingmen in chattel slavery, inasmuch as they did not receive their board and clothes for their labor, but found themselves in debt to their employer after faithfully laboring for him."

On the subject of violence the report says that it is the belief of the railroad men that these acts were committed by persons mentally irresponsible or else at the dictation of those who were the enemies of the workingmen. It is said that the only ones who could profit by such acts were the railroad companies.

PERISHED BY FIRE.

Fatalities Reported from Various Points—Senator Daniels' Son Killed.

WILLMAR, Minn., Aug. 7.—The farmhouse of S. O. Ostenson, of the town of Dover, about 2 miles north of here, was burned to the ground at 2 o'clock a. m. Mr. Ostenson and four children lost their lives in the flames. Mrs. Ostenson narrowly escaped cremation, but is crazed over the awful event. No one knows how the fire originated, but it is believed lightning was the cause and a fierce wind fanned the flames.

LINWOOD, Ark., Aug. 7.—Peter Williams and his wife left their two children locked in their house while the parents attended church, and upon their return found the house a heap of ashes with the charred remains of the children therein.

MASCOUTAH, Ill., Aug. 7. — Henry Lutz, a well-known farmer residing near Georgetown, was instantly killed by being caught under a traction engine, which ran off a bridge and crushed him.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 7.—A traction engine belonging to Deinlein Bros., & Hudson fell through a bridge on the Clear Lake road at the crossing of Sugar creek, about 5 miles east, Monday morning. The engineer, Charles E. Hudson, aged 27, and William Deinlein, aged 23, one of the crew, were instantly killed. The engine fell to the river bed, 20 feet below, pinioning both men under the wheels and crushing out their lives. Accidental death was the verdict of the coroner's jury. Both men were unmarried.

PRINCETON, Ill., Aug. 7.—Chetis Anderson and Oscar Hokenson, sons of farmers, were run down by a freight train of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad Sunday night. Anderson was killed instantly and Hokenson is yet unconscious, with no hopes of his recovery. They awaited the passing of the east-bound train and starting across the tracks were struck by a west-bound train. The train did not stop and the remains were found by a tramp, who notified a number of the citizens. The coroner's jury exonerated the railroad company.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Aug. 8.—William Patton Daniel, the 8-year-old son of United States Senator John Daniel, was frightfully bruised and fatally injured Sunday afternoon by being dragged about suspended from the stirrups by a frightened horse.

ON THE MEND.

"Bradstreet's" Sees Signs of a Revival in General Business.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—"Bradstreet's" says of the trade conditions:

"While little significance is attached to the moderate improvement in trade at San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Augusta and Atlanta, when it is added that clearing-house totals for July report twenty-nine cities with larger aggregates than in July last year, contrasted with the June report, which contained only sixteen cities with aggregates larger than those in June a year ago, it is perceived that there are influences at work at the interior favoring an increase in the volume of business.

"Wool remains steady at last week's 1 cent advance, speculation having been stimulated by differences of opinion as to the tariff outlook for that staple. Wheat has advanced in sympathy with corn on increased orders and reports of crop damage from abroad, while corn's sharp advance is due partly to exaggerated notions of damage from drought. There is little likelihood of the corn crop being smaller than in either of the two preceding years, notwithstanding our advices of 25 per cent. damage in Kansas and 40 per cent. in Nebraska. Southern crop prospects generally are excellent.

"Improvement announced in general trade at San Francisco is in part based on interest manifested in the war in Asia, provision dealers particularly anticipating largely increased trade. War between China and Japan has not affected the price of tea here yet, although an increased demand is noted in New York, Boston and at Chicago."

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

The Trial at Lyons of President Carnot' Assassin.

LYONS, Aug. 4.—Cesario Santo, President Carnot's assassin, was placed on trial in the assize's court. M. Breuillac presided over the court. The prisoner's account of his actions was given with brutal coolness.

The assassin replying to a question by M. Breuillac, if he did not know the penalty of his act would be death: "I am an anarchist, and I hate the bourgeois, society and the heads of the state."

LYONS, Aug. 6.—It took the jury only fifteen minutes to agree upon a verdict. The verdict was "guilty without extenuating circumstances," and immediately after the reading of it the presiding judge pronounced the sentence of death by the guillotine.

Ex-Gov. Blair Dead.

JACKSON, Mich., Aug. 6.—Ex-Gov. Austin Blair, Michigan's "war governor," died at his home in this city Monday morning. During the last three weeks he had failed rapidly, and his end was peaceful. Austin Blair was 76 years of age at the time of his death. He was a prominent factor in organizing the republican party in Michigan. In 1860 he was elected governor, and also served three years in the lower house of the national legislature.

Zimmerman Wins in England.

BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 8.—A ten-day bicycle tournament began here Monday. In the quarter-mile race, riding alone, from a flying start, A. A. Zimmerman, the American, finished in :28 2-5. George Banker, of Buffalo, N. Y., made the distance in :29 2-5, and H. Wheeler, of New York, in :31.

CHINA AND JAPAN.

Story of the Great War Being Waged in the East.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—A dispatch to the Times from Shanghai says that reports have been received there from foreign officials at Seoul that the Chinese, under Gen. Yes, on Sunday last defeated the Japanese forces near Asan. The Japanese withdrew to Seoul. An official Shanghai dispatch says that 2,000 Japanese were killed at Yashan. It is believed that this refers to the same battle.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 4.—It is officially announced that Russia, desiring a settlement of the war between China and Japan, will act in complete accord with Great Britain in an effort to secure an immediate solution of the difficulty. Failing this, Russia will not allow any power to take even partial possession of Corea.

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 4.—The Chinese minister at Tokio has demanded his passports. The Chinese residents in Japan are being placed under the protection of the United States legation.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Times' correspondent at Yokohama telegraphs that the Japanese minister at Seoul, after the collision there between the Japanese and Corean troops, placed Tai-In-Kun, the king's father, at the head of the Corean government. The people of Yokohama are in raptures over their naval victory. Following the example of the sovereign they will contribute toward the expense of carrying on the war.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6.—Dispatches have been received confirming the report that the emperor has divested Viceroy Li Hung Chang of the order of the Yellow Riding Coat, which is the highest order in China, allowing the wearer privileges next to the emperor. The emperor, the dispatches say, has freely expressed his anger at the viceroy's having allowed Japan to get ahead of China in preparing for war. The act of the emperor in divesting the viceroy of this order does not necessarily imply his deposition from office.

The action of the emperor in divesting Viceroy Li Hung Chang of the order of the Yellow Jacket has fallen like a thunderbolt here, as it is feared that the incident will lead to his complete overthrow. He is regarded here as the only leader capable of coping with Japan in the inevitable long war.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A dispatch to the Times from Tien-Tsin says: The preamble of an imperial edict, just issued, recites China's claims in Corea, its hundreds of years suzerainty to that country and the constant assistance it has rendered the vassal king to subdue rebellions. China, it continues, recently sent forces to Corea with this object in vew. Japan without right also sent troops and refused to withdraw them. She has further sunk a transport carrying Chinese soldiers, and her action has been condemned by other powers. The emperor places all the military authorities under Viceroy Li Hung Chang, who will protect the rights of the empire. He also orders the capture and destruction of Japanese ships wherever found.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6.—The soldiers beheaded at Tien Tsin for desertion pleaded in extenuation of their offense hunger and exhaustion. Before they were executed they were stripped of their uniforms and their pigtailt were cut off. The example has terrified the army.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Tokio says: "It is reported that there has been a fresh collision between the Japanese and Chinese troops in Corea. It seems that after their recent defeat the Japanese assembled their whole available strength and took the offensive, achieving a decided victory over the Chinese."

DISASTROUS FIRE IN IOWA.

Business Portion of the City of Marion Swept by the Flames.

MARION, Ia., Aug. 6.—Shortly after 4 o'clock Friday morning fire broke out in a lumber pile adjoining the electric light plant and rapidly spread to adjoining buildings. In two hours all but two of the buildings of one entire block were in ruins. Twice the fire was under control before it reached the business blocks, but the water failed at the critical moment owing to the trouble with the waterworks machinery. Assistance came from Cedar Rapids and the fire was then brought under control. The principal losses are as follows:

Electric light and gas plant $30,000, no insurance; Daniels estate, buildings, $10,000, insurance $3,500; H. I. Elliott, photographer, $2,800, insurance $1,000; Keyes estate, building, $5,000, insurance $2,200; Lillis & Wilson, drugs, $6,000, insurance $3,500; B. H. Nott, building, $7,000, insurance $2,800; First national bank building, $7,000, fixtures, $3,000, fully insured; Joseph Coenan, building, $7,000, insurance $3,800; Ancient Order United Workman hall, furniture, $1,000, insurance $400; J. W. Jayne, billiards, $1,700, insurance $1,000; Mrs. Burroughs, millinery, stock saved, building, $2,000, insurance $1,500; Dumont & Son, furniture stock, $8,000, building, $2,000, insurance $3,500; Shumack Bros., groceries, $6,000, insurance $4,000; Smith & Thompson, office furniture, $500, no insurance; S. W. Rathbun, Register office, $5,000, no insurance; J. W. Kendall, hardware stock, $10,000, building, $8,000, insurance $4,200. Numerous other small losses with small insurance swell the total loss to $115,000, with aggregate insurance less than one-third that amount.

BURGLAR SHOT DEAD.

Vernon Riley Killed While Forcing Entrance to a House.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 8.—Vernon Riley was instantly killed Monday evening while forcing an entrance into the residence of Clifford Eddy at No. 306 South street. Robert Hodges, Eddy's brother-in-law, did the shooting. The house had been entered twice recently and Hodges was sleeping there, the family being away. He heard the man entering and fired four shots in the dark. Riley was shot through the brain and John McGowan, his companion, was shot through the shoulder. Hodges was arrested, but immediately released.

VIGILANT WINS AGAIN.

She Handily Defeats Both Britannia and Satanita.

COWES, ISLE OF WIGHT, Aug. 8.—The American yacht Vigilant defeated both of her British rivals, the Satanita and the Brittannia, in the great event of the Royal London Yacht clubs. The course was around the Isle of Wight, a distance of 55 miles.

It was estimated when the Britannia finished that the Satanita was nearly half an hour astern of the victorious American. Time at the finish: Vigilant, 5:04:35; Britannia, 5:12:48; Satanita not in. As on Saturday, the whistles of the yachts and the voices of the multitude were silent when the white sloop swept across the line

WINE TANKS IN FRANCE.

All the Country Needs Is Pipe Lines to the Coast.

The railway tank is introduced in France for the conveyance and distribution of wine from the vineyards after the manner in which petroleumm has in this country been conveyed from the wells to market, says the New York Tribune. The vintagers would be lucky if they could likewise adopt a system of pipe lines as the oil producers have done, and so diffuse their cheering product with the maximum of celerity and at a minimum of cost. A network of pipes spreading under the soil from the Pyrenees to the British channel, running full with the crimson tide of St. Emilion, Haut Barsac, Hermitage and Chambertin, with spurts and gurgitations of the commoner mixtures, according to the fluctuations of demand, would be a subterranean development of extraordinry interest, and would be almost certain to be tapped by the thirsty here and there; but it is not likely to come about, and the railway tank represents what is probably the final reach of economy in distribution. The vinegrower gets little for his product, the profits being consumed by the middlemen, who take tribute from it at every step, from the time it trickles out of the press till it goes down the throat of its consumer; and the industry, which is one of the most important in France, is reaching out here and there for remedies. Wine at the press is now sold at eight cents a quart. Last year the production was so abundant that the ordinary storage receptacles were unequal to it, and anybody who would bring barrels might carry away the overplus free. Such an abounding harvest is rare, but it comes now and then, and in such cases the railway tanks will be a godsend, as they will doubtless be useful in all times to the normal movements and operations of the trade.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Heavy Storm.

The territory four miles west of Hills near the Dakota line, was visited by a terrific cloud burst. Water stood four feet on the level, and did great damage to grain in the shock. The cloud burst was followed by a heavy hail storm that thrashed out the wheat in the shock and cut down hundreds of acres of corn. Hail laid in winrows next morning eight inches deep. The damage by hail and water is enormous.

Lightning struck a barn belonging to James Fitzgerald, living six miles east of here. The barn, 30 tons of hay, 500 bushels of oats, 200 bushels of corn and all his farm machinery were burned. The barn was one of the best in the county. The loss is about $4,500, partially insured.

Great Northern Changes.

Official circulars have been issued announcing the following changes on the Great Northern: Charles H. Warren is appointed general manager, vice C. W. Case, resigned. R. I. Farrington is appointed comptroller, vice C. H. Warren, promoted. Both appointments went into effect Aug. 1. Mr. Warren will have entire charge of the operation of the Great Northern, Willmar and Sioux Falls, Duluth, Watertown and Pacific and Montana Central Railways. Mr. Farrington's jurisdiction extends over all the lines embraced in the Great Northern system. It is understood that a number of other changes will be made.

Farm Mortgages.

Labor Commissioner Powers has completed that part of his forthcoming report which relates to farm mortgages and tenancy, and gave the substance of the results of recent investigations in a short interview. Mr. Powers says that attention has been directed of late to the fact of the increase of farm tenancy. The number of tenants in Minnesota in 1880 was 8,653, while in 1890 it was 17,982. One theory in regard to this increase is that it indicates the creation of a permanent tenant class, the result of excessive debt and excessive mortgage foreclosures, and that the men who are now tenants are those who have formerly owned their farms.

Gold.

The long-expected report of gold quartz which was sent to Kansas from Redwood Falls to be crushed and converted into bullion has been received. The yield was $68 to the ton, larger than expected. Alfred Edlund, geologist, of Minneapolis, went to Kansas to oversee the crushing. The second car which was sent has been lost and a tracer will be sent for it. Work will now commence on an extensive scale in removing gold quartz. Investigation shows there are large quantities of quartz in the vicinity.

Narrow Escape.

A huge stone was thrown at W. F. Starkey, one of the newly employed switchmen in the East St. Paul yards of the Omaha road. The miscreant stood on the Mississippi street bridge, and Starkey was riding under it on top of a freight car. The stone broke through the roof of the car, descending with such violence, but fortunately missed the fireman. He fired twice at the man, but failed to hit him. Once before this same man was attacked and pounded nearly to death by strikers.

Incendiaries at the Transfer.

It has been made public that an attempt was made to burn the buildings at the Minnesota Transfer. The buildings were smeared with oil in several places, and waste saturated with the same inflammable liquid was placed under them. Fortunately the fire was discovered before serious damage resulted, and since that attempt the force of guards has been increased.

News in Brief.

A shocking accident occurred at Fosston recently. The 8-year-old son of J. K. Melland, a farmer living just outside the village, was set at work cutting hay. The oxen became unmanageable and the boy was flung under the machine and terribly mangled. One arm was cut off and was found with the lines fastened to it. He died shortly after he was found.

The conspiracy case against Engineer Best & Fireman Kellett, who deserted their engines near St. Paul, during the Great Northern strike, was dismissed because of insufficient evidence. ## A THIN TIN SCHEME.

How the McKinley Tariff Protects Infant Industries.

Since the veracious Eli Perkins visited those tin mines at Harney Peak and overtaxed his very elastic imagination in a written description of their fabulous wealth, scarcely anything has been heard of them until now, when some rather ugly legal proceedings brings them once more before the public. If our memory serves us, Eli went to Harney Peak as an agent of the American Protective Tariff league. He was unable to make a thorough examination of the vast deposits of metal because the tin lying on the surface over an area of about sixty square miles, was so dazzling in the bright Dakota sunlight that his power of vision was injuriously affected. His truth-telling faculties were not paralyzed, however, for his report was as dazzling as the resplendent surface of the great tin deposits had been when he gazed at them. If we recall accurately the substance of his report, he found that sixty per cent. of the surface of the earth in the neighborhood of Harney Peak was pure tin.

The Harney Peak Tin Mining, Milling and Manufacturing company has had a hard time of it trying to utilize the vast deposits that burst upon the enraptured vision of Perkins. The company is ten years old, but it has sold no tin in commercial quantities. There was a time, we think, when a few small bricks of metal were made and distributed as specimens or manufactured into campaign badges for the followers of Mr. Benjamin Harrison. But no pile of tin bars was erected in the Black hills in order that the president and presidential candidate might rest one hand on it, and, in that interesting attitude, make a few remarks about the beneficence of the McKinley tariff. It was reserved for the English owners of the great San Jacinto tin mine in California to make such a contribution to the history of McKinley symbolism, but where is the San Jacinto tin mine now? Where is the Harney Peak mine, for that matter? Where is the tin the dazzling sheen of which almost blinded Mr. Eli Perkins?

The San Jacinto mine is stored away somewhere with the Harrison campaign banners and badges and torches of 1892, and for the latest information about those marvelous deposits at Harney Peak we must refer our readers to the suit brought against the company and the officers of it by certain stockholders in England. The lawyer who represents these plaintiffs tersely describes the condition of the concern, as it appears to him, in the following words: "Twenty millions to its debit; a lot of unproducing and abondoned alleged mining properties to its credit, and not one cent in its treasury." A very interesting chapter of the company's history may be disclosed by these proceedings. The plaintiffs, who have already procured the appointment of a receiver, assert that $15,000,000 in stock and $4,850,000 in bonds were issued upon mining properties valued at only $253,000. Other curious allegations are made on that side, and the defendants tell an interesting story for their side of the case. It is probable that all the facts will come out before we hear the last of the suit, and that we shall know what has become of that principality of tin ore, sixty per cent. pure metal, that also blinded poor Eli Perkins when he incautiously looked at it.

The American people have a bone to pick with the promoters of this company, but they can more easily reach the senators and representatives who rivaled Perkins in their descriptions of the richness of the Harney Peak deposits, and the great political party that, under the influence of these senators and representatives, imposed upon tin, the metal, a duty of four cents a pound. The arguments to which the makers of the McKinley tariff yielded when they loaded this duty upon the raw material of many important industries were those of certain legislators who covered pages of the Congressional Record with stories of the fabulous wealth of the Harney Peak company's mining claims. Some of them even asserted that these deposits would soon "supply the world" with tin.

We have yet to discover how these persons were induced to tell these stories and just what motives impelled them. But every manufacturer who uses the metal knows what the effect has been. In the ten months ended on April 30 these manufacturers and the consumers of their wares paid nearly $400,000 in duties for the "protection" of the Harney Peak tin mines, so called. The sum would have been much larger if a great quantity of the metal had not been imported before July 1, 1893 (when the duty went into effect), in order that the tax might be avoided. Our normal rate of consumption requires from 40,000,000 to 45,000,000 pounds of the metal per annum, and this would involve a tariff tax of from $1,600,000 to $1,800,000, but the imports last year rose to 61,000,000 pounds, for the reason just given, so that about a six months' supply was carried over. In the pending tariff bill the metal is on the free list, from which it ought not to have been taken and where it would have remained if Eli Perkins, the protective tariff league, and a little group of republican senators and representatives had not demanded the imposition of a duty for the protection of the Harney Peak company.—N. Y. Times.

A SIGNIFICANT SHOWING.

Money Squandered Under the Harrison Administration.

In 1889 the ordinary expenses of the government, exclusive of interest on the public debt, were $299,288,978. On March 4 of that year President Harrison was inaugurated, and the fiscal year ended June 30, three months later. For the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1892, the last complete year of the Harrison administration, the ordinary expenses of the government, exclusive of interest on the public debt, were $365,773,905, an increase of $66,465,927.

When President Harrison entered upon his duties there was a surplus in the treasury of upward of $100,000,000. At the end of his term there was a deficit of $50,000,000, besides over-due and unpaid obligations amounting to about $10,000,000. These figures show that during the four years, in addition to spending all the current revenues of the government, about $160,000,000 were squandered. In other words, the Harrison administration spent $40,000,000 a year over and above the receipts of the government. The receipts this year were very nearly equal to the expenses of the year previous to the Harrison accession, and if there had been no increase of expenses made by the Harrison administration there would have been no deficit this year.

Any intelligent person may readily figure the consequences of the expenditure of $40,000,000 more than the receipts. But to make it plainer, suppose it was a bank with a capital of say $200,000 that was concerned, and the excess of expenditures was $40,000 a year instead of $40,000,000. In four years the excess would amount to four-fifths of the capital, the credit of the concern would be ruined and bankruptcy would be inevitable and only a matter of a short time. That is precisely the situation in which the Harrison administration left the government. The panic was an inevitable consequence, and the work of recuperation has been going on since.—Kansas City Times.

SOME TARIFF TRUTHS.

Republican Farmers Duped by McKinley Bunco-Steerers.

The republican farmer has not sufficient intelligence to protect himself from the green-goods swindler and bunco-steerer. No matter how carefully the game is explained to him, no matter how plain the swindle may be made, as soon as the steerer offers him a share in the plunder he believes everything the thief says and nothing an honest man may say to dissuade him from buying. Unable to judge of motives, he believes only those who flatter him. The man who tells him bluntly that he is a fool to part with his money, the man who by no possibility can benefit by the advice he gives, is regarded as an enemy, as a swindler, as a man employed by somebody to keep the farmer from enjoying the benefits of the green-goods game. The only way the republican farmer can be protected from loss is the illegal one of punishing the bunco men. The latter are working in the interests of morality and good government, as well as their own. To benefit themselves they are engaged in finding out what men have saved up money, with the object of swindling their neighbors by purchasing counterfeit bills. They steal from him this money to be used in crime, sending him a package of sawdust or green wall-paper in place of the expected counterfeit money. The republican farmer would use this money paid to the bunco man in buying tools for a burglar in backing any other safe-criminal operation as quickly as he would invest it in counterfeits, and to deprive him of this money for criminal purposes is a meritorious act, a public service on the part of the green-goods men. So far from closing the mails to the green-goods men, the government would be on the side of morality if it encouraged them in every possible way, and it would not go far afield if it should even pay them for their work. It aids in every other branch of the government to detect and punish criminals except in this matter of finding out the men who wish to purchase counterfeit money. But there are so many of these republican farmers that it assumes all are willing to cheat their neighbors, and it prefers to save them from loss by arresting those who would prevent their crime by stealing their money. The federal courts protect them from being swindled out of the money they have saved for crime by prosecuting those who would deprive them of it.

The only way to "protect" the republican farmers from the protection bunco steerers is to prosecute the latter. It cannot be done by any appeal to their own intelligence or common sense. If they had the faintest spark of intelligence to appeal to they would know that they were lied to when they were offered protection on wool, corn or potatoes in exchange for protection on iron, steel and cloth. But even when they find out that they have been lied to, it makes not the slightest difference to them, provided the lie is something they want to believe. As one republican farmer said not long ago in the World: "I prefer to be lied to by a republican than to listen to the truth from a democrat." That is the kind of a man a republican is, and the democrats should not expect results from conversion. It is not enough to show him the truth. He does not care for that. If he did, he would not swallow the contradictions of the republican newspapers, in which there is neither honor nor decency. The only way he can be protected from the protection bunco-steerers is by punishing them for false pretenses.—Tariff Mule, in N. Y. World.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

——The alarm of republican organs for fear the passage of the income tax measure will work the defeat of the democratic party is fast approaching the intensity of hysteria. — Detroit Free Press.

——It is becoming more and more evident every day that at the Denver meeting of the republican league they made a football of Mr. Harrison's emergency and kicked it out of bounds. —N. Y. World.

——McKinley carried the republican convention at Denver. But Denver is too far west for the holding of the next national republican convention which will nominate a presidential candidate.—St. Louis Republic.

——"I see that the British yacht rather got the best of us this time." "Well," growled the man who runs everything into politics, "what else could you expect under this administration?"—Indianapolis Journal (Rep.).

——The Illinois democrats promulgated a solid truth when they condemned republican partisanship for prolonging the business depression by fighting a reform of the tariff. On this proposition their platform says: "We condemn the contemptible partisanship which seeks to prolong for party advantage the period of financial depression."—Kansas City Times.

——The tariff bill has been sent to conference after a vain attempt on the part of the republicans to delay action. The conferrees of the house are Wilson, McMillin, Turner and Montgomery, democrats, and Reed, Burrows and Payne, republicans. This is a committee that is likely to insist on democratic principles against Gormanized McKinleyism. Chairman Wilson's ringing speech was full of both courage and hope.—N. Y. World.

——Vermont republicans let a whole army of cats out of the political bag. In their state platform they denounce the democratic Wilson tariff bill because it "increases the tax on the poor man's breakfast table." At the same time they say the bill "decreases the tariff on luxuries." And so the great tariff for the "protection of American labor" is, after all, a "tax on the poor man," according to Vermont republicans.—N. Y. Post.

PAPER CARPETS ARE COMING.

They Will Be Welcome in a Land Where Dust and Moth Prevail.

We have had a great variety of carpet materials, first and last, and a good many uses have been made of paper, but the two have never before been identified. Now, however, we are informed that carpets are being made of paper, and the following description of the process is made public:

The stock used must be of long fiber, says the Paper World, in order to give strength to the paper. All such as are to be colored must be dyed in the pulp to obtain uniform color throughout. Colors must be fast.

Every lot of the same color must match to shade, as it cannot be changed when once done. The paper must be of uniform thickness throughout the width and length of the roll, for though color may be right, coarse yarn will not shade alike. As the yarn is twisted on a long frame, the utmost cleanliness must be observed not to stain the yarn with oil or dirty fingers, for, unlike the other yarn, it is not cleansed, hence, if dirty and not discovered by subsequent handling, it goes into the carpet and to the consumer. . . . When the rolls of cut paper are the desired height, the shaft is taken out, the nut removed and the shaft drawn out, leaving the paper, each strip with its ring to be separated from the other by a knife for that purpose. After separation these little rolls are soaked in water until thoroughly impregnated, then taken out and left to drain, when it is ready for the spinning frame, and it is twisted like any other yarn. The yarn is then dried, wound into cops, and is then ready for the loom.

LAUDANUM FIENDS.

How They Scheme to Obtain Their Favorite Drug.

"Will you fill that bottle one-third full of sweet oil, the other two-thirds with laudanum?" This was the request that the Gleaner of the St. Louis Republic heard as he was standing at the counter of a well-known drug store. Turning around to get a glimpse of the author of the request, he saw a young fellow about twenty-two, well-built, with a florid complexion, sleepy-looking gray eyes, a smooth face with a pleasant but dissipated cast of countenance. "What did he want with oil and laudanum mixed?" asked the Gleaner, out of pure curiosity, after the young fellow had left the store. "To drink, I suppose," answered the clerk. "He comes often enough for the sickening stuff." "How does he manage the oil in such quantities?" "Of course, he pours the oil off and drinks the laudanum, but I can't sell him laudanum alone and he got some doctor to give him a prescription for the two mixed, and they don't mix separate, so that he can pour the one from the other. He used to come for it once a week, then twice, and now he comes every day, and I expect that all his salary goes that way, for the landanum drunkard spends more money often than the whisky toper."

ELECTIONS IN GREECE.

Held on Sunday in the Churches with a Box for Each Candidate.

"In Greece," says an American, "elections are held in churches on Sunday. In the church to which I succeeded in gaining access on one election day there were ranged around the wall forty-two boxes, that being the number of candidates to be voted for. These boxes were about the size and shape of a cracker box, one-half painted white, with 'Yes' on them, and the other half black, with 'No' on them. Beside each box stood a representative of the candidate and over the box was hung the candidate's picture. Each voter as he entered the church had his name registered and a check given him. In passing around the church the voter is given a ballot, or vote, by the representative standing beside the box of each candidate. Negative votes, as well as affirmative, must be cast—that is, if a voter objects to a candidate he must cast a negative bullet. Great care is exercised by the representatives of the candidates that there is no stuffing of the ballot boxes.

THE SUEZ CANAL.

In 1893 3,341 ships, of 7,659,000 tons, passed through the Suez canal.

Sixty-eight million francs were collected in dues from ships passing through the canal last year.

Of the 3,341 ships 186,495 passengers were carried, yielding an income of 1,864,000.

Of the 3,341 ships the English sailed 2,405, German 272, French 190, Dutch 178, Austro-Hungarian 71, Italian 67.

The Norwegians sailed exactly half a hundred, the Ottoman 34, Spanish 29, Russian 24, Portuguese 10, Egyptian 5, American 3, Belgian 1, Brazilian 1, Japanese 1.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

A "RUN DOWN"

and "used-up" feeling is the first warning that your liver isn't doing its work. With a torpid liver and the impure blood that follows it, you're an easy prey to all sorts of ailments. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures every one of them.

PIERCE Guarantees a CURE.

Mrs. Bransford.

I can truthfully say that I believe your Golden Medical Discovery saved my life. When I began your treatment two years ago, I had been given up by the Doctor, and my friends had lost all hope of my recovery. I had suffered for years with torpid liver; I had chronic pleurisy and catarrh in a very bad form. Attended with hemorrhages—was confined to my bed two months. In a few days after beginning your midicine I could perceive a slight change for the better; in three months I felt almost like a new person. Yours very gratefully,

Mrs. MAGGIE E. BRANSFORD,

TO REMOVE STAINS.

Take ink stains from a carpet with javelle water.

Dip an iron rusted spot in tartaric acid and hang in the sun.

Remove ink from white goods with oxalic acid, and then warm water.

Rub a fruit stain with yellow soap, putting on wet starch, and hanging in the sun several days.

Take out paint from a garment by wetting with benzine, rubbing with a woolen cloth, then wetting and rubbing again.

For taking all stains out of fine clothing apply benzine in a circle around the spot, working to the center and sponging off.

DELANO DIARY

—Timothy Gleeson Esq., has been superintending a crew of men engaged in digging a ditch and laying pipe from Dad Gast's engine house to the railroad watertank for a few days past.

—The winter term of school is to begin at the usual time in September, in the City Hall, the two higher grades only; the lower grades waiting for the completion of the new school house, at least that is the present arrangement.

—The Secretary of the Board of Education informs us that on Saturday, last he received a letter from inspector of High School, Geo. B. Aiton, that through the misplacement of some papers, Delano did not appear in the printed list of High Schools but would draw their $400 next June.

—We are informed that a short time ago some movers stopped to pump some water at John Sherry's pump north of town; but that the pump would not work and the handle broke. After a day or so Mr. S. took it up to examine it and claims there was a "doam weasel" in the pipe between the sucker and the valve and he don't see how he ever got there.

—Delano Public school appears to be getting some queer names among its teachers and applicants for positions. Last year it was Dewey; this year Frost and Snow were applicants, but the Board hired the Leavens. Among the others employed one is sharp as Steele; one bears the cognomen of a wanderer in in a desert land; one is as sweet as Sherry; while another is quite Cheeley.

—The premises of Joseph Masanz have again been quarantined. The baby taking sick on Sunday grew worse on Wednesday when its father was summonsed home its brother taking his place in a threshing crew; some one suspected it might be a return of diphtheria; the authorities were notified and on inspection found that it was so, and the ordinary precautions taken to guard against a spread. The utmost efforts should be exerted to see that all clothing and other articles that may serve as a resting place for disease germs are thoroughly disinfected about a house where patients have been. Even the dog and cat that have frequently visited the sick room should not be allowed to go un-disinfected.

—Misses Rebecca White and Stella Moody expect to move to Albert Lea in time for Stella to begin at the first of the term in the school. We are informed that before his death, at the time Bruce White gave $500 to the Presbyterian church, and $500 to the Methodist church, in Delano, he gave $500 to Macallister college and $500 to the Young Ladies Seminery at Albert Lea; getting a membership ticket in the latter institution which his relative, Miss Stella, Moody will now take advantage off.

--People don't all seem to see things exactly alike; concerning the story with a moral in last week's GAZETTE one of our subscribers from the rural districts says: "It seems to a disinterested person that the moral is this: If a female person wants to be called a lady she must carry herself and behave herself in a lady like manner." We agree with the subscriber from the rural district in his advice to female persons in general; also in his statement that in the particular case referred to that all he knows about it is heresay. Our s. f. t. r. d. further says: "If the Delano base ball club lost their game because they played on Sunday, I would like to know on what day the other clubs played?" Possibly the "wives, mothers and other friends of the visitors" didn't object to their playing on Sunday.

—Some correspondents came to late and could not be published.

—Service in the M. E. church next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, none in the morning, subject, The Christain Sabbath.

—Several car loads of lumber arrived yesterday and have been hauled to the school grounds prepatory to building the new School House.

—While Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf Kretschmer, of Montrose, were on their way to attend the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. William Ziebarth on Tuesday their horse took fright at the fly net and overturned the buggy bruising both of them considerably.

—Desmond Dugan was appointed constable to fill the unexpired term of Charles L. Belt.

—On Monday morning more than the usual number of men out of a job were seen walking about town; most of them strangers, from the city, going west.

—Hi Dyer insists that so long as he is on the Village Council he will endeavor to discharge his duty and see that existing laws are respected and lived up to so far as is in his power.

—Buffalo parties are trying to work up a match game of ball between Maple Lake and Delano to be played at the County Seat. Mr. Ash informed us some time since that he had spoken for the grounds for any day but Sunday. To the credit of the press of the county, usually in the lead of public sentiment, they are opposed to breaking Sunday laws by playing games on that day. How much better people would feel if they would obey the law and gospel and do their ball playing on week days, and attend church and read their bibles and pay some attention to what is to become of them hereafter at least one day in seven, might easily be learned by trying it a few Sundays. It is a bad example for the rising generation to see every Sunday, Village, school, and even church officers present at games of Sunday base ball.

Hon. Lars M. Rand was a passenger on the G. N. Monday morning for Benson to try a law suit. Some one suggested for his health, as the Democratic committee was to meet that day.

County Cullings.

Dr. Pieronnet of Waverly assisted by Dr. Ilstrup of Buffalo performed a Laparotomy on James Holtby, of Waverly on Tuesday. A yoscaler tumor was found on opening the abdominal cavity which it was thought best not to remove. Drs. O'Connor, Shannon. Cady, O'Hair and Catlin witnessed the operation.

The committee apointed at the meeting of the Wright County Medical Society to draw up constisution and by-laws are already preparing the documents to be presented at the next meeting. The society seems to start out with a better prospect of living, and doing something in the world than its predecessors did.

Democrats if you don't want to vote that populist ticket, with the addition of a few more democrats that you don't like any better, that was put up at Waverly the other day, turn out to your caucus early, and stay till it is over, and be sure to send to the county convention nobody that is not a good, honest, straight, democrat.

Among our Exchanges.

Aitken county is the first to elect delegates to the Congressional convention which meets in St. Cloud September 11th. They are instructed for Maj. Baldwin.—St. Cloud Times.

By the refusal of the populist U. S. Senator to vote the other day, although he was in the cloak room of the Senate when the vote was taken, the sugar trusts was substained. Every republican voted against the trust, and it remained for a populist to sustain it.—Wright County Times.

The coming State Fair will be held Sept. 10th to 15th. The dairy department are offering about $800 in premiums: and making an effort to induce everybody to bring out their butter and cheese to contest for prizes. Wright county ought to show up well in this department. Write for particulars about making exhibits, to E. J. Graham, St Paul, Minn.

The Andrews Opera Co, are certainly sharing their troubles in this world. While giving one of their concerts at Peoria, Illinois, on Monday evening, the theatre took fire and all of the property of the company, including the magnificent costumes of the members. was a complete loss, The many admirers of the company here will be pained to hear this news.--St. Peter Herald.

The Editor of the Delano Eagle is in trouble. It is all because the paper had an item about a camping party, in which it was stated that: "It is also a matter of discussion as to whether some of the costumes worn by certain of the sportive nymphs were just the proper thing." The ladies said this was an insult and "no one but an evil minded person would have made any remarks," and now Editor Gutzweiler is trying to explain.—St. Cloud Times.

Fusion? Did any party ever gain any permanent advantage by fusion? Is it desirable to annihilate one party by giving yourselt up body and soul to another which pretends to hate you more? Is office so sweet that it must be purchased for a few individuals at the sacrifice of party principles and party honor? Democracy may never be able to win in Minnesota but she can preform all she advertises for all that, and that, too by maintaining her individuality, her dignity and her honor. Democracy in Minnesota at least since 1859 or 60 cannot be charged with corruption. Do not let them charge her now with idiocy. Fusion? For what? For office perhaps but certainly not for principle.—St. Peter Herald.

D. W. Lawler, J. J. McCafferty, F. G. Winston, L. M. Rand, Titus Mareck and David B. Johnson, of the Democratic State Central Committee, have issued a card, which is published elsewhere, stating that the resignation of Chairman Cutcheon and Secretary Smalley wts due to the rejection by the committee of a plan of organization of the political committees of the State; but these members utterly refrain from explaining why the committee rejected or refused to pass, the resolution endorsing the President and House of Representatives. This is what Democrats want light upon! It is of small concern whether or not Cutcheon and Smalley resign, but, it is of momentous importance that Minnesota's Democracy stand true to Democratic principles in this time of great party peril.

Why did these men reject the resolution? That is what we want to know. —St. Cloud Daily Times.

Woman's Column.

EDITED BY MRS. E. A. STACY.

We propose to repeat the statement over and over again that he who fails to take hold and vote the saloon out of the country is responfible for its continuence.

Sam Jones, in a letter to the Atlanta Journal the other day, uttered some great truthe regarding the present status of the liquor question in America. In part he says, "Rings, rascality and rum are the three links in the chain that bind us to the devil and destruction. Most every municipality has its rings and cliques. A ring does not run long until it develops rascals, and rascals cannot run anything without rum. The three Rs have debauched our politics and wellnigh degraded our manhood.

I declare it to be my honest conviction that unless the ministry of this country, of all denominations, shall read and think and preach along the lines of political economy, governmental principles, purity of politics and fairness of elections, that our country will go down and our institutions be forever ruined. If there is anything that the average politician, brewer, distiller and strictly party editors and politicians want the preacher to do, it is that the preacher shall preach the gospel, attend to their own business and let the world go on to hell. Let every man stand or fall before his own master: how ministers of religion can wink at the crimes of the parties of their community and fall in line and run and vote with them, and yet keep in harmony with God and a conscience void of offence, is a mystery to me so profound that nothing but the eternal light of final judgment can ever make it plain.

Three significant utterances at the great Christian Endeavor convention deserve special notice. The first was by Rev. Smith Baker, of Boston, who said: "What justice is there in forbidding an intelligent, cultured women, possessed of property, who is conversant with the history of her land, paying taxes to support the schools of her land; what justice is there in allowing a poor penniless, illiterate foreigner to vote when such a woman is not permitted to do so? I do not propose to discuss this question, but when the woman who is capable of being president of a college, when the woman who is capable of presiding over business affairs, when the woman who is capable of teaching boys and girls the principles of our constitution, when tue woman who is capable of taking care of a home and children, and, oftentimes, her husband also, shall have justice done her she will have the right to vote. These are truths which any Christian democracy and which Christian citizenship must claim for everybody." Our great hearted brother, John G. Woolley, said in his marvelous address, given in full in our last issue: I will hold no politician's coat while he stones a prophet or denies full citizenship to a woman. By the grace of God I will be a Christian Christian and a manly man. I will confess Christ before people and on election day, which in this land of equal rights is man's day. I will show myself a Christian voter, fit to represent unfranchised womanhood at the polls. I will go to Him, hear His words, and whatsoever He says unto me I will do it. Upon that rock I will build my politics and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." Samuel Gompers, today the most trusted labor leader in America, had these words in his address to the country in which the Federation of Labor declines to strike: "We reiterate the fundamental trade union principle that working people, regardless of sex, creed, color, nationality, politics or occupation, should have one and the same interest in one common cause for their own political advancement."—Union Signal.

HOW A PUZZLE WAS SOLVED.

When you want a certain article, you want the best make of that article, don't you?

But how to determine which make is best is what puzzles you, isn't it?

And when the puzzle is solved for you, by authority which cannot be questioned, you are pleased, aren't you?

And you would like to hear of one puzzle that has been solved for the people of the whole world, wouldn't you?

Well, we will tell you about that very puzzle, and its solution.

At the Universal Exposition of 1889 at Paris, France, the best sewing machines of the world, including those of America, were in competition. They were passed upon by a jury composed of the best foreign mechanical experts, two of whom were the leading sewing machine manufacturers of France.

This jury, after exhaustive examination and tests, adjudged that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best of all, and awarded that company the highest prize offered, the GRAND PRIZE, giving other companies only gold, silver and bronze medals.

The French Government, as a further recognition of superiority, decorated Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler, president of the company, with the Cross of the Legion of Honor, the most prized honor of France.

That is how the puzzle of the best sewing machine in the world was fully solved by the most competent authority in the world in favor of the No. 9 and No. 12 Wheeler & Wilson machines.

The No. 9, for family use, and the No. 12, for manufacturing uses, are the best in the world to-day.

And now, when you want a sewing machine, if you do not get the best, it will be your own fault.

Ask your sewing machine dealer for the No. 9 Wheeler & Wilson machine, and if he does not keep them, write to us for descriptive catalogue, prices and terms.

Agents wanted in all unoccupied territory.

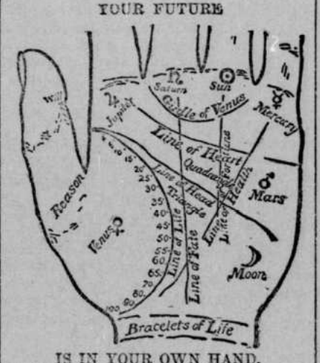
YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked; keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $300; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion plates are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition: that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

The Dead and the Living.

There were two brothers fought at Roanoke
Shoulder to sholder through that fiery hell
That storm of shot and ball and bursting shell,
Fought as tWo heroes, till one brother fell
Dead in the swamp, his shroud the battle smoke.
Now every year fair children deck the grave
Of him who died their country's life to save,
And mothers weep, and fathers call him brave—
It was a hero fell at Roanoke!

The other one who fought at Roanoke
Lived on—by chance is living still today—
Old and unknown, bent, beggared, crippled, gray,
And children mock him in their thoughtless play.
None weep for him. No orator ever spoke
Of him as noble. No one says he gave
His best in life his country's life to save,
And yet, God knows, the living was as brave
As he who fell that day at Roanoke.
—Fred B. Appleget in Philadelphia Press.

THE SPELLING MATCH.

Ten little children standing in a line,
"F-u-l-y, fully," then there were nine.

Nine puzzled faces, fearful of their fate,
"C-i-l-i-y, silly," then they were eight.

Eight pairs of blue eyes, bright as stars of heaven,
"B-u-s-s-y, busy," then there were seven.

Seven grave heads, shaking in an awful fix,
"L-a-i-d-y, lady," then there were six.

Six eager darlings, determined each to strive,
"D-u-t-i-e, duty," then there were five.

Five hearts so anxious, beating more and more,
"S-c-o-l-l-a-r, scholar," then there were four,

Four mouths like rosebuds, on a red rose tree,
"M-e-r-y, merry," then there were three.

Three pairs of pink ears, listening keen and true,
"O-n-l-e-y, only" then there were two.

Two sturdy laddies, ready both two run,
"T-u-r-k-y, turkey, then there was one.

One head of yellow hair, bright in the sun,
"H-e-r-o, hero," the spelling match was won.

4tn JUDICIAL CONVENTION.

The Judicial Convention of this the 4th District will be held at the rooms of the Hennepin Democratic League Minneapolis Sept. 6, at 10 o'clock a. m. to nominate four candidates for the District bench. Hennepin county has 40 delegates; Wright, 7; Anoka, 5; Isanti, 3.

IT looks a good deal as if the Minnesota Democratic Central Committee are now trying to get in line with the newspapers and the people by endorsing Cleveland.

SOME are questioning what Cleveland will do with the tariff bill being forced upon the people by the few senators interested in protection. Of course he will not break his record: but veto the bill.

CONGRESS has, at last, on the advice of men who have before beeu accused of leaning to protection, voted to adopt the Senate tariff bill. It is not what the people had a right to expect of them. It now remains for old Grover's backbone to come to the aid of the people and veto it.

REPUBLICANS howled awfully when C. K. Davis wanted binding twine on the free list; and when Knute Nelson voted for the Mills bill, because they did not want to yield an iota of the "protective principle" but now they howl because a democratic president don't hurry up and sign the protective Senate tariff bill.

HON. CORNELIUS WILLIAMS, M. D. of St. Paul is expected to be a candidate on the Democratic ticket for the State Senate this fall. The doctor is a good hand to diagnose a bad law and knows how to remedy it as well as to make new laws that will live and not be dead on the statute book. The doctor will doubtless be elected.

JOHN A. JOHNSON, editor of the St. Peter Herald has been mentioned as a candidate for state auditor on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Johnson is one of the self-made young men of our state. He can boast of having come up from the bottom of the ladder as well as can Governor Knute Nelson, and is in a fair way to get to the top. He is a rustler, and is now editing one of the leading Democraic papers of Minnesota. He would hustle his fellow editor Bob Dunn about as lively as it could be done.

The name of Mr. Leavitt of Meeker is also before the people as a possible candidate for that position. Mr. L. has been Senator from Meeker, and is a worker also.

THE G. N. Railroad elevators at West Superior, Wis, (office Duluth Minn.) are now handling grain at greatly reduced rates.

THE Minnesota Editors and Publishers Association will take an outing Sept 7 and returning home Sept 14. The trip is to Duluth and via the lake, aboard the steamship Northwest, to Buffalo and Niagara Falls. This will be a rare treat to those who take advontage of the offer og the company owning the line.

THE coming state democratic convention is looked forward to as likely to be one of the most interesting held for years. Democrats of the good old Jacksonian kind are coming to the front. Everybody feels that something not only must be done; but that now is the time and something will be done. Politics must be purified, and the proper place to begin is in one's own party. The party must nominate men in whom the rank and file have confidence; they must stand on a good solid platform of Jeffersonian principle: they must have peace, commerce, and honest friendship with all political parties: entangling alliances with none. They must declare their belief, in a ringing platform, and they must unitedly stand by their promises to the people, no wishy-washy, Demo-pop, platform will go. No ticket put up to trade on will catch many voters. Democrats haye stood this kind of thing just as long as they will, and keep quiet. If they are furnished by their delegates to the convention with other than the purest of democracy with the simon pure, true and tried men of the party to vote for, they will certainly not be led by their leaders, longer; such a scattering of votes as neyer was known since old Horace Greely was hoisted up for them to vote for, will be the consequence.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 10, 1894.

"It is the hour before day that is always the darkest." Just when democrats almost despaired of any agreement ever being reached on the tariff and the outlook was at its darkest, the day of tariff reform began to dawn, and now the sun is brightly shining upon an agreement which, if it does not meet with the enthusiastic approval of every democrat, can be honestly and conscienciously supported by every democrat without loss of dignity or smirching of party principles. The agreement is not a victory for either House or Senate: it is victory for the great democratic party of the country, which made its wishes known in Washington, and there should not be any doubt of its prompt acceptance by both House and Senate. There isn't as far as the House is concerned, but, unfortunately, things do not look so promising in the Senate, where threats have been made which may be carried out and the will of the party be defeated by the votes of members of the party. However, let us not borrow trouble when we should be rejoicing over the end of the long deadlock. It may be that the threats referred to, which were made before the agreement was reached by the conferees, were merely for bluffing purposes, and that the only danger the agreement will have to meet in the Senate will be the attempt of the republicans to postpone a vote by dilatory tactics. Next week will probably tell the story.

The House Judiciary committee has unfavorably reported Representative Everett's bill to enable persons of Japanese descent to become citizens of the United States. The committee couldn't see any good reason for granting to the Japs what has been denied to the Chinese.

In response to several petitions asking that Judge Ricks, of the Northern District of Ohio, be impeached for misdemeanors in office, the House Judiciary committee has, through Representative Bailey, of Texas, reported a resolution authorizing that committee to investigate the charges and the House has adopted it.

Senator Butler, of South Carolina, has returned to Washington from his sensational joint stumping tour with Gov. Tillman. The Senator expresses the greatest confidence in his re-election to the Senate.

President Cleveland's veto of the private bill for the relief of Eugene Wells, late captain in the Twelfth Infantry, is approved by army officers, and it is moreover based upon principles of the highest justice. This man retired from the army in 1870, to avoid a court martial that would have resulted in his dismissal; was appointed a second lieutenant in 1885 and court martialed and dismissed the service in 1887, for drunkenness and other causes. The vetoed bill provided that he should be appointed a second lieutenant of artiliery and placed on the retired list without the usual examination. In plain words, that a man who had been officialy found unfit to be an officer should be paid a salary for the rest of his life as a retired officer. The fact that Wells has influential friends merely adds to the credit to which the President is entitled for vetoing the bill, and brings out the strongest trait in Grover Cleveland's character—his absolute determination to do what he believes to be right regardless of whom it may please or displease.

The rebublicans in Congress who were deluded into contributing money to the Kolb campaign in Alabama—there are a number of them—in the hope that the movement might be made the entering wedge to break up the solid democracy of the South, were a deeply chagrinned lot of individuals when the returns were received. Needless to say that the democratic colleagues of Governor-elect Oates were delighted at his success, and doubly so because he has always stoutly opposed anything like concessions to the populists. President Cleveland also had good reason to feel gratified, as Col. Oates from the beginning of his campaign for the nomination had been classed as the Cleveland candidate. This electeion has thrown a wet blanket over the loud-mouthed, but poorly-informed, individuals who have been prophesying tremendous gains to the populists in the South at the expense of the democratic party. It has also convinced many that the democrats will retain control of the House at the coming Congressional elections.

Senator Jones, of Alabama, was not speaking at random when he said: "It is absurd to talk about the sugar trust owning the Senate. I believe that the trust would willingly give a million dollars to be assured that there would be no tariff legislation, as under the existing McKinley law its profits would be vastly greater than under any democratic tariff."

CORRESPONENCE

ROCKFORD RIPPLES.

H. W. Dorman is moving his residence upon the hill, he tore down the old Lodge House that stood, for 51 years, it will make a very nice place.

William Gent folded his tent, took lots of rations, including 5 loaves bread 2 hams 40 boiled eggs. and bee hunting, stayed one night and came home in the morning claiming he could not sleep, he claimed he had company in his tent, said it went "tick tick" and his wife informed him it was ants.

A young man at the station claims he got froze out the other night it being a cold night, but it took 2 girls and 2 married women to complete the job; he soon tumbled and departed, ha, ha, ha!

Glad to say H. E. Pitt stage driver is rapidly recovering from his late illness.

C. M. Johnson spent the Sunday in the flour city.

Among those who took the Soo train were George Bugbee, J. Benner, L. F. Thompson.

A large party of the young people went to Maple Lake to witness the ball game, they report a very pleasant time, and everybody seemed to enjoy themselves.

S. D. Fuller returned from Devils Lak N. D. after spending a few months with relatives, very much improved in health.

J. D. Drayne moved his family to Delano to take charge of the hotel, Amos Kinney retiring.

M. Karney Sec. foreman and his men saw a black bear near Dickenson's siding, three miles west of Rockford station, it took for the woods.

FRENCH LAKE FACTS.

W. C. O'Laughlin is the happiest man in town now-a-day.

Mr. and Mrs. James Madigan, of Maple Lake were visiting friends and relatives here a few days this week.

C. M. O'Laughlin returned from Litchfield Saturday after spending a month there.

Mrs, James Mooney, of Maple Lake, visited in town part of this week, and quite a number of the young folks of that place spent Sunday with Thomas O'Laughlin's family and enjoyed an ice cream social in the afternoon.

Maple Lake and Annandale base ball clubs played a game Friday on the Maple Lake grounds; the game was played close; on the ninth inning it was a tie; and on the tenth, score stood 15 to 18 in favor of Annandale. The Maple Lake boys say that the reason they got beat was on account of eating too much green corn Thursday.

An exciting, interesting game of ball was played Sunday at Maple Lake between that club and Delano. The game was very evenly played up to the seventh inning, then the Delanoites begin to pound every pitcher that they had, and gained the victory; score stood 10 to 18, the Maple Lake boys are sorry that they did not take Prof. Sennett's advice to sell their new pants before they got them spoiled; or turn them over to men.

The school children nine, of Maple Lake is now thoroughly equipped and will play the first nine of this place as soon as they get over the effects of the green corn.

BUFFALO BUSINESS.

Last Thursday Mrs. Nettie Cole, wife of the late Mort Cole who died last April, was taken suddenly ill and died in a short time. A post mortem examination was held and heart disease found to be the cause of death. The funeral was held at the Presbyterian church, Rev. Noyes officiating. She leaves a little boy less than two years old an orphan.

Beginning Friday Aug. 17 there will one hundred train loads of cattle pass through this village from Montana for eastern markets. Parties have been getting special rates and have done best with the Soo Line. The cattle are to be shipped as fast as they can be got from the herd to the railroad stations.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Podas lost their little six weeks old son last Friday with cholera infantum. The remains were taken to Cokato for burial after prayer at the house by Rev. Noyes.

Last Monday Mrs. Wilheminae Smith from Delano was brought to Buffalo and lodged in the county jail. She was fined five dollars and cost, or five days in lail for an assault in the third degree, on Frank Zierman.

Fire Monday night in this village burned the barn belonging to Louis Krack: three horses, harness, binder, granary and other articles went up with the flames: partly insured. Mr. Gillmer lost four stoves, some bedding, buggy, dog, etc., etc. The fire company and citizens had a hard time to save surrounding buildings.

INDEPENDENCE INCIDENTS.

This is good weather tor threshing but rather to dry for ploughing.

James Personett has returned from Ind., and will teach the school at Maple Plain the coming winter Mr. Personett's mother came with him and will remain six or eight weeks visiting relatives and friends.

Yesterday a long party lett here for Sauk Center to engage in picking cranberries.

Ad Wright and wife returned from California Tuesday morning.

H. J. Breen was in our town yesterday looking after politics. He is seeking the nomination of the Democrat ticket for superintendent of schools for Hennepin county.

Democratic State Convention.

Pursuant to the decision of the State Committee the Democrats of the state are called to meet in delegate convention in the city of St. Paul, on to put in nomination candidates for the following officers: Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Auditor, Treasurer, Secretary of State, Attorney General, Clerk of the Supreme Court, a Chief Justice and a Justice of the Supreme Court.

Wednesday, Sept. 5th, 1894, at 11 A. M.

The basis of representation adopted is two delegates from each county and one additional for eact 150 votes or major fraction thereof, cast for the democratic candidate for governor in 1892.

On this basis the several counties of the state will be entitled to send the number of delegates set opposite the name of each as follows:

J. Adam Bede Complimented.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Marshal J. Adam Bede, of Minnesota, was introduced to President Cleveland today by Representative Baldwin. The president complimented him very highly upon his conduct during the late strike, and said that but few of his appointees had proven so sitisfactory. Atty.-Gen. Olney also expressed his satisfaction at the good record Minnesota's young marshal has made. Bede is having his accounts satisfactorily arranged with the department of justice.

Democratic County Convention.

A Democratic County Convention will be held in the village of Buffalo on Thursday, Aug. 30, 1894, at 11 a. m., for the purpose of electing 13 delegates to the state convention to be held in St. Paul, Sept. 5, 1894; also to elect twelve delegates to the congressional convention to be held at St. Cloud on Sept. 11; also to elect seven delegates to the Fourth judicial district convention to be held in the city of Minneapolis on Sept. 6.

The basis of representation to this convention is one delegate at large and one for each 30 votes or major fraction thereof cast for D. W. Lawler for governor in 1892. On this basis the several towns and villages will be entitled to send the number of delegates set opposite the names of each as follows:

PLEASANTRIES.

From the Methodist Herald.

The railway strickers won't get much credit outt of the strike; but they seem to be having a good deal of Deb it."

Wife (at breakfast): "Henry will you ask a blessing?" Henry (examining hash: "we've blessed everything here before, dear."

Would-be Settlers—"How is the death rate about here?" Old Citizen.—"Waal, it's pretty cheap jist now since the town doctors got to cuttin' prices."

Lawyer: "It is true that my client called the plaintiff an ox; but considering the present high price of beef, I do not consider that a very great insult."

Pat had called on the doctor. "Well, Pat, what can I do for you?" asked the physician. "Faith, shure, if, I knowed thot I'd not be payin yez $2 fer tellin' me"

Sweet girl: "Do you enjoy taking me to church?" Lover: "Not so much as riding with you on the street car. " Goodness! Why?" "The sexton never yells.' Sit closer, please.' "

Haughty lady (who has just purchaced a stamp): "Must I put it on myself?" Stamp clerk: "Not necessarily. It will probably accomplish more if you put it on the letter."

The Audience Came Late.

Last Sunday evening Rev. Geo. West found no choir at his church, the members being out of town on account of the warm weather, and as the audience consisted of ouly a few persons, he advised those present to go to other church sevices in town, and he locked up the church and went over to the Congregational church to hear Bro. Edmans. After the Congregational services were over he returned and was greatly surprised to find his church open, brilliantly lighted and filled with a very large audience which was listening to a stirring sermon by Rev. Archibald Speers.—Brainerd Journal.

No Comfort for Gorman.

BELAIR, MD., Aug. 11.—A largely attended tariff reform meeting was held this afternoon. Resolutions denouncing the senate bill were passed. President Cleveland's name was heartily applauded and the course of the Maryland senators sharply criticised.

Baldwin's Walkaway.

Crookston Times.

Congressman Baldwin has done more real good for the Northwest than all the members from that part of the state combined. He will have a walk away next November and the A. P. A. advocate will wonder whether he was in it at all or not

Black Bears Numerous.

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 15.—Black bears are more numerous in this locality this season than ever been known before, and they are shot almost daily close to town. Bear meat is one of the common articler of the markets.

POETRY WITH A POINT.

In-Cant-Ation.

You can lead a horse to water,
but you cannot make him drink;
You can send a fool to college,
but you cannot make him think:
You may keep your daughter strummering,
from morn till afternoon,
But you can't make her a player
If she hasn't any any tune,
You can never make a farmer
of a boy who loves the sea,
Though you may make him plow and plant and whoa and haw and gee.
It's no use to swear and bluster
because your only son
Prefers the girl he met in the car to your selected one;
You might as well switch off that track,
for love is lord of pelf,
And, besides, it's more than likely,
that you know how 't is yourself.
You cannot make a citizen,
let him be blask or white,
Of the man who doesn't know enough to cipher, sead and write.
You cannot change the rooster's strut
nor make the layers crow,
Though you may honestly believe it would be better so.
You cannot make a parson
of the stage struck, Romeo lad.
Ahd if you ever do succeed,
you'll wish you never had.
There is only one thing meaner, and that's to have to see
The name of your neighbor's numbskull finished with M. D.
But all these things, and more besside,
we may expect to bear,
Until the numbskull kills us,
and the Romeo says the prayer.

THE old nobility of Japan is called the Samurai. These are about 200,000 members of this class. Every one of their families have a coat-of-arms which belongs to it, and which no one else can use. The order is governed by sixty dukes. The leading principle of the Samurai is patriotism to the death.

THE new French law against anarchy is extremely drastic in its provisions, and only the most urgent necessity would warrant its enforcement. It deprives accused persons of the right of trial by jury, and imposes the severest penalties upon those found guilty of anarchistic acts or of sympathy with anarchy.

THE Century calls attention to a fact seldom thought of and little experienced. It is the benefit of "walking for a vacation." There are multitudes of people with more legs than money this year, and there could be no better time to inaugurate this well-nigh forgotten method of travel. If you want to go some place, walk.

HERE is what Abraham Lincoln said of the law:

"Let reverence of law be breathed by every mother to the lisping babe that prattles in her lap; let it be taught in the schools, seminaries, and colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling books, and almanacs; let it be preached from pulpits, and proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice; in short, let it become the political religion of the nation."

A FRENCH statistician says that the number of men and women in France is more nearly equal than in any other country of the world, there being only 1,007 women to 1,000 men. In Switzerland there are 1,064 men to 1,000 women, and in Greece only 933. The conditions in Hong Kong, according to this authority, are "appalling," there being only 366 women to 1,000 men.

THERE are more thunderstorms in Europe, according to the president of the French Meteorological society, than in equatorial regions. They occur in some parts of France every day of the year, and in six or seven months of 1892 as many as 328 were counted. But in Sumatra, where there are storms during the six months of the southeast monsoon, thunder is never heard, and Peru has only one or two thunderstorms in a century, that of 1877 having been the only one since 1803.

AN estimate regarded as reliable places the aggregate wealth of leading countries at the following figures: United States, $60,475,000,000; Great Britain, $43,600,000,000; France, $40,-300,000,000; Germany, $31,600,000,000; Russia, $21,715,000,000; Austria, $18,-065,000,000; Italy, 11,755,000,000. No other nation is credited with more than $10,000,000,000. The next in rank to Italy is Spain, with $7,965,000,000, while Greece, the last and lowest in this classification, is given but $1,055,-000,000.

EDISON'S latest marvel, the kinetoscope, rivals his phonograph in its suggestiveness of possibilities in the permanent recording of fleeting activities. Unlike the phonograph, however, it does not embody the discovery of a new principle, but is an elaboration of the same ideas as to the instantaneous photographing of rapid movements developed in the work of Maybridge and others. But Edison has carried the idea to a stage hitherto only dreamed of. By an elaborate mechanism he has succeeded in photographing movements in every phase visible to the human eye.

CHINA'S war with Japan is likely to be an expensive affair for some business men in this country if the order against cipher dispatches hold. One cipher word may stand for a dozen words in the "plain English" mentioned in the order. These from the cipher code of a banking house will illustrate the matter: "Abigail" in this cipher means "Arrived well; stormy trip; was not sick; proceed to-morrow." "Accession" means "Procure letter of credit and send it to me at ——." "Acetate" means "When do you expect to return?" "Acacia" means "How shall we direct your letters?"

CAPT. BLAKE, of the revenue cutter Hamilton, has the distinction of having fired the first shot of the rebellion from a government vessel. The place was Charleston harbor and the date April 12, 1861, and the captain at the time was in command of the revenue cutter Harriet S. Lane. A steamer (the Nashville) attempted to enter the harbor, carrying supplies for the confederates. It received a warning from the Lane but did not heed it, and, on it persisting on its course, the Lane sent a shot across its bows. This sent it scurrying out to sea. On the same day the bombardment of Fort Sumter was begun.

FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

Regular Session.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 8.—A bill was introduced in the senate to "prevent professional lobbying." Bills were passed to provide for the opening of certain abandoned military reservations and to further encourage the holding of a world's exposition at Atlanta, Ga., in 1895. In the house a bill was introduced to regulate the cutting of timber on public lands. Most of the session was taken up in considering public building bills. A resolution for an investigation of the effects of machinery on labor was adopted.

THURSDAY, Aug. 9.—The session of the senate lasted only a little more than an hour and a half, during which no business of any importance was transacted. In the house a favorable report was made on the bill to make oleomargarine and all other imitation dairy products subject to the laws of the state or territory into which they are transported, and a bill to prevent the free use of timber on public lands was introduced.

FRIDAY, Aug. 10.—A resolution was offered in the senate directing the committee on privileges and elections to investigate the recent election in Alabama and ascertain if frauds were committed. Senator Hill offered a resolution for information as to the work of the conferees on the tariff bill, which went over for the day. The remainder of the session was devoted to the consideration of the Chinese treaty. In the house the time was occupied in discussing projects for a government exhibit to cost $200,000 at the Atlanta exposition and to give each of the arid land states 1,000,000 acres of arid lands to encourage the reclamation of these deserts.

SATURDAY, Aug. 11.—In the senate no business of much importance was transacted beyond the discussion of Senator Hill's tariff resolution, it being antagonized by a motion for an executive session, for which the vice president cast the deciding vote. In the house the time was occupied in the discussion of a proposition to give each of the arid land states 1,000,000 acres of surveyed arid public lands to be reclaimed by irrigation, and the bill to appropriate $250,000 to purchase a site for the government printing office.

MONDAY, Aug. 13.—There was no business of importance transacted in the senate beyond the confirmation, in executive session, of the Chinese treaty, the vote standing 47 to 50. At a caucus of democrats of the house members, shortly before convening, a resolution was offered by Speaker Crisp, which was carried, advising the recession from the disagreement to the senate's amendments to the Wilson bill, the passing of the amended bill, and the introduction of separate bills making coal, iron, sugar and barbed wire free of all duties. When the house convened in regular session the resolution was carried by a vote of 130 to 21. At a session held in the evening it passed separate bills for free sugar, iron, coal and barbed wire.

THE HOUSE YIELDS.

Acting on the Caucus Decision It Passes the Senate Bill.

It Then Passes Separate Bills Placing Coal, Iron, Sugar and Barbed Wire on the Free List—The Proceedings.

END OF THE LONG FIGHT.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—A few minutes before noon the house democratic caucus passed a resolution, proposed by Speaker Crisp, advising the recession from the disagreement to the senate's amendments to the Wilson bill, the passing of the amended bill, the introduction of separate bills making coal, iron, sugar and barbed wire free of all duties.

In the House.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—When the house met five minutes after the democratic caucus adjourned there were more members on the floor than at any time since the tariff bill was passed. The anxious public who thronged the corridors before the doors were thrown open crowded into the galleries in anticipation of the final scene in the long tariff battle. The greatest confusion existed on the floor. Members were standing about in excited groups discussing the situation, the general understanding being that resolutions to agree to the senate amendments and probably to consider the bills for free coal, iron, sugar and barbed-wire would be brought in.

Republicans Raise an Objection.

At 2:15 p. m. Mr. Catchings was recognized and presented the report of the rules committee providing for the immediate consideration and passage of the senate tariff bill, to be followed by the separate bills for sugar, coal, iron ore and barbed wire.

Mr. Reed made a parliamentary objection to the procedure, claiming that the tariff bill was not before the house, and indicated the republican intention to fight the bill and report in every proper way.

Speaker Crisp held that the resolution was in order and before the house. The previous question was ordered without division.

The Rule Adopted.

At 3:20 the motion on the adoption of the rule was put. Mr. Reed called for a division after Speaker Crisp had decided it was carried. The rule was adopted amid great shouts from the democrats by a vote of yeas, 188, nays, 3. The negative votes were cast by Messrs. Cockran and Warner (N. Y.) and Mr. Robertson (La.)—all democrats. The republicans did not vote.

The special order setting apart limited time for the consideration and vote on the senate amendments to the tariff bill, was adopted by a vote of yeas 176, to nays 97. Among the democrats who voted against the rule were Messrs. Capehart (W. Va.) Johnson (O.), Warner (N. Y.) and Robertson and Meyer (La.).

The house proceeded immediately to the consideration of the question of concurring in the senate amendments, on which two hours' debate was allowed, and Mr. Wilson (dem., W. Va.) proceeded to address the house.

Mr. Wilson's Speech.

Mr. Wilson said he did not pretend to feel gratified at the outcome of the prolonged controversy. Up to the last moment he had cherished the hope and faith that a more satisfactory and better conclusion might be reached. He had hoped and believed until there seemed no further ground for hope and belief that some honorable compromise between the two houses might be achieved which could have been accepted with a feeling that congress had responded to the mandates of the American people. Whatever the measure of shortcomings of this bill in its present form—whatever be its demerits in mere schedules—this he did know—that it is better than the McKinley law. He knew, he said, that in a part of it it does afford some relief to the taxpayers of this country and does clip the wings of the gigantic monopolies that are now oppressing them and blocking legislation. He continued:

"Take even those portions of the bill over which this contest between the two houses has been waged; take iron ore and coal, upon which we have confronted, and, to a certain extent, unsuccessfully confronted, the great railroad syndicates of the country; yet we have reduced them both nearly 50 per cent. below the McKinley law. Take the sugar schedule, over which the greatest of all the contests between the two houses has been waged. Vicious as it may be, burdensome to the people as it may be, favorable to the trust as it may be, it is less vicious, less favorable to the trust, less burdensome to the people, than is the McKinley law, under which this trust has grown so great as to overshadow with its power the American people. If for no other reason, then, those who believe that when they cannot take the full step which they desire, when they cannot do that which the people commissioned them to do, they must take the best they can and step as far as they can, may find some justification for an unhesitating choice between the two bills."

Will Produce Sufficient Revenue.

In reply to Mr. Hudson (pop., Kan.), Mr. Wilson said he had no hesitancy whatever in saying that when the schedules of the bill, with the senate amendments, get into normal operation it will produce sufficient and more than sufficient revenue for the support of the government. He would add to the answer that perhaps in the beginning the bill will not produce as much revenue as will result from it later on under its ordinary working, because he was informed, whether it be true or not he did not know, that the sugar trust, in anticipation of the passage of the bill, has imported about $100,000,000 worth, or, it has been said, even in excess of that quantity, of raw sugar.

Mr. Reed Is Humorous.

Mr. Reed (rep., Me.), the leader of the opposition, took the floor. He said his feelings were divided by two emotions. One, an emotion of regret for the democratic party, and for its position, and the other is a feeling of equal regret for the country in its position. So far as the gentleman from West Virginia was concerned, and his compatriots, there was not the slightest necessity of commenting on the difference between this scene of sorrow and the triumphal procession which carried him out of this house. He is not so joyous now, having been carried out in another branch, and more effectually. Mr. Reed continued:

"The gentleman from West Virginia and his compatriots appear before us now, not as the triumphal reformers marching to glory to the sound of their own sweet voices. They are little babies in the wood, and it will be found pretty soon that they were left there by their uncle in the white house. And I can hear the coming of the pinions, of the little birds bearing the ballots that are to bury them out of sight.

"But their fate is of small consequence. Their disappearance is the least of this event. I told this house, speaking on the tariff question, that one of the great misfortunes of this attempted action would be the fact that whatever basis was reached it would not be a permanent basis on which this country could do business; that that was only an effort on their part to do something, an effort which they were going to continue; and the gentleman from West Virginia (Mr. Wilson) signalizes his departure from history by talking about this being a step in the onward march. So, not even content with this senate bill, not even content with what attacks it makes upon industries, these men at the moment when they feel their personal discredit by submitting to the bill, announce to us that it is only the herald of future attacks upon the business industries of this country. Great God! Has not this country suffered enough during the last twelve months that these men should come and assure it that their ravages are to continue? I tell you that when the people of this country get an opportunity to express their opinion of you, you will listen to it more intently and with sadder hearts than you have to-day, even.

"We shall not write its epitaph. That has been done by a nearer and dearer personage. That has been done by the man whose name must be affixed to this bill before it can be a discredit to the statute book. His name must be added to it. He tells you this bill is an instance of perfidy, injustice and dishonor. Out of your own household has come your condemnation. Nay, out of your own mouths has your condemnation come. For we shall read that bold and uncompromising declaration of the chairman of the committee on ways and means that we were to sit here until the end of our term to put down the sugar trust.

"What do we have instead? Why, we have a proposition to fire one of those popgun tariff bills for which the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Springer) was deposed from the ways and means committee. His successor, after filling the atmosphere with his outspread wings, finds his nest in some other bird's premises.

"Why not rest on it if you were to adopt the action of the other person? I congratulate the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Springer) upon his personal triumph. I wish I could congratulate the country upon something, and I will upon the speedy departure of incompetency."

Ex-Speaker Reed was then followed by Mr. McMillan (Tenn.), who criticised Mr. Reed for not discussing the question at issue, and proceeded to point out, as he claimed, some good features of the senate bill—free wool, free lumber, free hemp, etc.—and the reductions in the general schedules. Mr. Burrows (rep., Mich.) spoke in the same vein as did Mr. Reed. He declared that the action of the caucus which the house was about to endorse was not compromise; it was unconditional surrender.

Cockran Is Heard.

Mr. Cockran (dem., N. Y.) made a strong protest against the consummation of this tariff legislation, which recalled his famous speech of protest at the Chicago convention. Mr. Cockran said:

"Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the question before this house has been somewhat overlooked. The vital point at issue here is whether the American congress is to legislate or whether some unknown, unmentioned force can block the wheels of legislation and make the representatives of the people cower in the dust and surrender they know not to whom.

"On one momentous occasion the gentleman from West Virginia, borne upon affectionate and loyal shoulders, was the central figure of a demonstration which evidenced the depth of feeling throughout the American people, long pent up, at last fondly considered triumphant over all obstructions. To-day no more pathetic figure in the history of the world can be observed than that same leader, shorn of his support, walking down these aisles, disdaining to prevaricate or misrepresent the actual condition which confronts us, confessing that he has been deserted by those in whose support he had every reason to confide, asking us to record our betrayal of every principal which the house under his leadership has maintained.

"We are told that three, four, five, six, seven or eight individuals have managed to make such a combination in the other branch that any change in its terms will be vital to the passage of the measure. If that be so, in the name of the American people, in the name of liberty and honor, let us know who they are.

"We are hopelessly discredited because our cowardice makes our surrender disgraceful.

"Mr. Speaker, I desire to state here that in my humble judgment the measure which we are now asked to pass is a more obnoxious protective measure than the McKinley act, which it is designed to supplant." [Cries of dissent on the democratic side and jeers.]

Mr. Cockran ridiculed the action of the house conferrees in having gone forth to meet the senate conferrees, and then having turned and fled at a shadow without having met the enemy in conflict at all. Said he:

"Thus you stab tariff reform in the house of its friends. You surrender the dignity and independence of the house to secure the passage of a bill which will so firmly entrench protection in popular favor that this generation may never see another successful effort to overthrow it.

"If we are to swallow this whole obnoxious bill then in the name of fair play, in the name of propriety, in the name of decency, in the name of American liberty and American freedom, let the gentleman from West Virginia (Mr. Wilson) tell us to whom we are surrendering, tell us who they are who constitute the new force in this government to which we are to pay tribute; tell us fully and without reserve the character of the action which he asks us to take, that we may judge the depth of the infamy into which we are invited to descend." [Applause.]

Speaker Crisp Takes the Floor.

Speaker Crisp was recognized amid much applause, Mr. Tracy (N. Y.) being in the chair. Mr. Crisp said he wished to publicly assume his full share of responsibility for the action about to be taken, and expressed the belief that it was in the best interest of tariff reform. He referred to the gentleman from New York (Mr. Cockran) as spending but little of his time in attending to the business of the house, and as indulging in pyrotechnics about principle while plain practical business men were seeking to obtain some relief for a suffering people. "'Half a loaf is better than no bread.' Therefore we will take the senate bill." Mr. Crisp, continuing, said:

"We will send to the senate crystalized into the form of acts passed in this hall bills making sugar free, making coal free, making iron ore free and making barbed wire free. I want to say, so far as I am concerned, I was willing to continue the contest for a better bill so long as there was any hope of obtaining it. But when the conferrees on the part of the house, in whom we have the utmost confidence, who are familiar with all the facts, tell us that in their judgment we must take this bill or be remitted to the penalties of the McKinley law, I do not hesitate a moment. I take the senate amendments.

"If there is a sugar trust in this country which is dominating legislation the republican party created it. And though this bill does not destroy that trust, as we wish it did, it takes away more than one-half of the protection to that trust.

"If there is a coal combine the legislation of the republican party built it up, and, though we do not make coal free in this bill, we reduce the duty from 75 cents to 40 cents. If there is a steel and iron combine the same remark applies. Going through these schedules, while they are not all we wish, they are (and we want the country to understand it) the best we can now get. The moment we get this we intend to move forward: we do not intend there shall be any backward step in tariff reform."

Cockran Hits Back.

As the speaker closed Mr. Cockran (N. Y.) excitedly arose and asked to make a statement of personal privilege. There was great confusion. The chair declined to recognize the privilege as contrary to the special rules. Mr. Cockran persisted in his demand for a privilege statement, and with some asperity he said with reference to the speaker's reflections upon his absence that "it was an evidence of the growth of Georgia chivalry, since Alexander Stevens was replaced in the speakership by the present occupant of the chair."

The speaker disclaimed any intention of reflecting on Mr. Cockran, but the incident caused much confusion and it was many minutes before order could be restored.

Mr. Wilson Makes a Correction.

After this exciting scene Mr. Wilson arose and corrected a statement he had made in his opening to the effect that $100,000,000 worth of raw sugar had been purchased by the sugar trust in anticipation of the passage of the sugar schedule of the senate bill. He had been mistaken, he afterward learned. The trust had purchased 448,000 tons.

"How much is that in dollars and cents?" called out a senator.

"About $25,000,000," replied Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson then demanded a vote on the resolution. Yeas and nays were then ordered. The vote on the motion to concur in the senate amendments and pass the bill resulted: Yeas, 182; nays, 105.

Coal on the Free List.

Mr. Wilson offered the first of the separate free list bills, in accordance with the resolution adopted by the caucus. It provided for the free admission upon its passage of bituminous coal, shale, slack and coke. The vote by tellers showed 78 for and 47 against. Mr. Reed raised the point of no quorum, and Mr. Wilson demanded a yea and nay vote. The free coal bill was passed—yeas, 160; nays, 104; answering present, 1. Twenty-one democrats voted against the bill as follows:

Alderson (W. Va.), Bankhead (Ala.), Boatner (La.), Burnes (Mo.), Crain (Tex.), Davey (La.), Deason (Ala.), Edmunds (Va.), Kribbs (Pa.), McKeig (Md.), Oates (Ala.), Reilly (Pa.), Robbins (La.), Swanson (Va.), Tucker (Va.), Wise (Va.), Weadock (Mich.), Wheeler (Ala.), Wolverton (Pa.) and Epps (Va.).

For Free Iron.

Mr. Wilson then said he was directed by the democratic caucus to present the bill placing iron ore on the free list. Mr. Blair (rep., N. H.) demanded that Mr. Wilson give the names of such republican senators as had relinquished opposition to the tariff bill on condition that their interests in the bill were looked for. Mr. Wilson said he had heard the charge, but could give no names. Representative Cannon (rep., Ill.) spoke against the bill, the democrats not claiming their time. As soon as he concluded the bill was passed.

The democrats voting against free iron ore were:

Alderson (W. Va.), Bankhead (Ala.), Beltzhoover (Pa.), Boatner (La.), Davey (La.), Denson (Ala.), Edmonds (Va.), Meyer (La.), Oates (Ala.), Price (La.), Reilly (Pa.), Robbins (Ala.), Robertson (La.), Swanson (Va.), Weadock (Mich.), Wheeler (Ala.) and Wise (Va.).

Barbed Wire Made Free.

The vote to place barbed wire on the free list was: Yeas, 187; nays, 84. The following democrats voted against free barbed wire: Graham (N. Y.), Reilly (Pa.), Sperry (Conn.), Stevens (Mass.). Republicans voting for it were: Wilson (Wash.), Pickler (S. D.), Marsh (Ill.), Lucas (S. D.), Doolittle (Wash.). Mr. Haughen, of Wisconsin, was the only republican voting for free coal.

Sugar Discussion.

After the free sugar bill had been reported Mr. Robertson (dem., La.) offered an amendment reducing the bounties on sugar one-eighth yearly, from July 1, 1895, to July 1, 1901.

Mr. Springer (dem., Ill.) began the discussion of sugar amid great confusion, claiming in refutation of the statement that the senate bill gave the trust greater protection than the McKinley law; that the trust had received nearly $78,000,000 during the three years and three months the McKinley law had been in operation.

Mr. Price (dem., La.) said he would ask for consideration, even for pity, at this late day for 200,000 agriculturists threatened with destruction. If duties could not be retained he asked at least to leave the bounty this year.

Mr. Boatner (dem., La.) said the bounty was a legal obligation for this year.

Mr. Wilson concluded the discussion, charging that the republican party was responsible for the creation of the sugar trust and the power it had manifested in this contest. He expressed sympathy with the Louisiana men, saying he always had believed in a revenue tax on sugar, that the agriculturists were welcome to the incidental protection therefrom, and he stood ready to cooperate with his colleagues in giving a revenue tax.

Free Sugar Adopted.

The ayes and nays were then ordered. The republicans, as stated, joined with the democrats in voting for the free sugar bill. It passed, 276 to 11. This was the largest affirmative aye and nay vote ever cast in the house of representatives. Those who voted in the negative were:

Messrs. Boatner, Davey, Meyer, Ogden, Price and Robertson (dems., La.); Everett and Stevens (dems., Mass.); Harmer and Rayburn (reps., Pa.), and Sperry, dem., Conn.).

Adjournment.

After the announcement of this vote Mr. McMillin (Tenn.) was recognized to move an adjournment of the house until Wednesday, and there was not a dissenting voice to his suggestion.

THE NEW TARIFF.

Provisions of the Measure Which the House Indorsed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The senate bill which the caucus action (barring the presidential veto) insures as the law of the land in place of the McKinley act, provides the following rates of duty upon the great staples which have been the bones of contention:

All raw sugars, 40 per cent. ad valorem; sugars above No. 16 (refined) ⅛ per cent. additional; sugars produced in bounty-paying countries, 1-10 per cent. additional to these rates. Hawaiian sugar is still free under the reciprocity treaty.

Iron ore, 40 per cent. per ton; pigs, $4 per ton; iron or steel rails, 7-20 of 1 per cent. per pound.

Lead ore and dross, ¾ of 1 per cent. per pound; silver lead bearing ore, the same duty on the lead contained therein.

Tobacco for wrappers, $1.50 per pound unstemmed, $2.25 per pound stemmed; cigars and cigarettes, $4 per pound and 25 per cent. ad valorem.

Coal, bituminous and large slack, 15 cents per ton.

Precious stones, cut and unset, 25 per cent. ad valorem; set, 30 per cent.; uncut, 10 per cent; glaziers and miners' diamonds free.

Logs and sawed lumber and timber (save tropical woods) and wool are free.

Tin plate, 1-15 cents per pound after October 1.

Marble, rough, 50 cents; dressed, 85 cents per foot (cubic).

White and red lead, 1½ cents per pound.

Under the internal revenue sections of the bill, playing-cards are taxed 2 cents a package.

An income tax of 2 per cent. on incomes above $4,000 is provided for; also a tax on corporations of 2 per cent. Whisky is taxed at $1.10 per gallon and the bonded period is fixed at eight years.

THE SERPENT'S GAZE.

Strange Muscular Power That Assists Them in Fascinating Their Victims.

The power of continuing motionless, with the lifted head projecting forward for an indefinite time, is one of the most wonderful of the serpent's muscular feats, and is one of the highest importance to the animal, both when fascinating its victim and when mimicking some inanimate object, as, for instance, the stem and bud of an aquatic plant; here it is only referred to on account of the effect it produces upon the human mind as enhancing the serpent's strangeness. In this attitude, with the round, unwinking eyes fixed on the beholder's face, the effect may be very curious and uncanny.

Ernest Glanville, a South African writer, thus describes his own experience in the Fortnightly Review. When a boy he frequently went out into the bush in quest of game, and on one of these solitary excursions he sat down to rest in the shade of a willow on the bank of a shallow stream; sitting there with cheek resting on his hand he fell into a boyish reverie. After some time he became aware in a vague way that on the white, sandy bottom of the stream there was stretched a long, black line, which had not been there at first. He continued for some time regarding it without recognizing what it was, but all at once, with an inward shock, became fully conscious that he was looking at a large snake.

"Presently, without apparent motion, so softly and silently was it done, the snake reared its head above the surface and held it there erect and still, with gleaming eyes fixed on me in question of what I was. It flashed upon me then that it would be a good opportunity to test the power of the human eye on a snake, and I set myself the task of looking it down. It was a foolish effort. The bronze head and sinewy neck, about which the water flowed without a ripple, were as carved in stone, and the cruel, unwinking eyes, with the light coming and going in them, appeared to glow the brighter the longer I looked. Gradually there came over me a sensation of sickening fear, which, if I had listened to it, would have left me powerless to move, but with a cry I leaped up, and, seizing a fallen willow branch, attacked the reptile with a species of fury. Probably the idea of the Icanti originated in a similar experience of some native."

The Icanti, it must be explained, is a powerful and malignant being that takes the form of a great serpent and lies at night in some deep, dark pool, and should a man incautiously approach and look down into the water he would be held there by the power of the great gleaming eyes, and finally drawn down against his will, powerless and speechless, to disappear forever in the black depths.

ANGLO-INDIAN WOMEN.

There Are More Sorts Than Mr. Kipling Has Introduced to Us.

The Anglo-Indian woman is a more varied type than ever Mr. Kipling's versatile pen has made her. According to the description of one sojourner in the land of the Hindoos, says the New York Recorder, the Mrs. Aaukshees are no more common than the women burning for a desire for knowledge and parading views on the education of the native women. She goes about armed with a notebook in which she dots down the information she receives. She insists upon visiting "Purdah" ladies and gives them advice about the abolition of child marriage and the necessity for intellectual development for women. She always wears a solar "topee," with a gauze veil around it, even at afternoon parties, where everyone blossoms like the rose in gorgeous apparel. She converses with the native butler concerning the status of his people and quotes him largely among the people who display a shameful indifference on the subjects which interest her.

The athletic young woman does not flourish to quite the same degree in India as in England. The climate is against it. But a modified form of the athletic girl in the "man's woman" is a prominent feature of society. She rides well and has a graceful seat and a pretty figure, but long rides and long walks tire her. She dresses beautifully, whether in tailor-made gowns at the meets, or sheeny ball gowns, or graceful tea robes. It is in these last that she is most herself. In them she manages to seem more cordial, more hospitable, almost more tender than in anything else.

But the commonest type is the simulated simpleton. She cannot ride her own pony. She is afraid of him; he once shied and she fell off, but she thinks she might manage to mount that dear little Arab of Capt. Ward's if he would take her for a short and very quiet ride. She feels the heat dreadfully. Madras is such a trying climate, but she could not possibly undertake the journey to the hills alone. She never traveled alone but once, and then her traveling bag and ticket and all her money were stolen by some "horrid native, and Jack was so cross!" She would rather wait until she could find some manly escort. It is so much pleasanter to have a man to look after you and your luggage, and she even shrinks from the care of her own purse. The simulated simpleton is not so simple as she seems, and she has one great advantage over her sisters—a considerable knowledge, innate or acquired, of the weakness of man. Not for her the toil and trouble of daily life.

A DETROIT BUILDER.

He Tells a Remarkable Story of His Life.

CAME TO DETROIT ABOUT FORTY YEARS AGO.

Levi Elsey's Experience Worthy Serious Attention.

[From the Detroit Evening News.]

Away out Gratiot Avenue, far from the din and turmoil of the business center, there are many attractive homes. The intersecting streets are wide, clean and shaded by large leaf-covered trees, and the people you meet are typical of industry, economy and honest toil. There are many pretty residences, but none more inviting in its neatness and homelike comfort than that of Mr. Levi Elsey, the well-known builder and contractor, at 74 Moran street just off Gratoit. Mr Elsey is an old resident of Detroit, having moved here about forty years ago. He has erected hundreds of houses in different parts of the city, and points with pride to such buildings as the Newberry & McMullan and Campaw blocks in which he displayed his ability as a superintendent.

"I have seen Detroit grow from a village to a city," he observed yesterday in conversation with the writer, "and I don't think there are many towns in America to-day equal to it in point of beauty. I know almost everybody in the city, and an incident which recently happened in my life has interested all my friends.

"It is now about eight years ago since I was stricken down with my first case of illness. One cold, blustering day I was down town and through my natural carelessness at that time I permitted myself to get chilled right through. When I arrived home that evening I felt a serious pain in my left leg. I bathed it that night, but by morning I found it had grown worse. In fact, it was so serious that I sent for my family physician, and he informed me that I was suffering from varicose veins. My leg swelled up to double its natural size and the pain increased in volume. The agony was simply awful. I was laid up and never left my bed for eight weeks. At times I felt as though I would grow frantic with pain. My leg was bandaged and was propped up in the bed at an angle of 30 degrees in order to keep the blood from flowing to my extremities.

"I had several doctors attending me, but I believe my own judgment helped me better than theirs. After a siege of two months I could move around, still I was on the sick list and had to doctor myself for years. I was never really cured and suffered any amount of anguish.

"About two years ago I noticed an article in the Evening News about my friend, Mr. Northrup, the Woodward Avenue merchant. In an interview with him he stated that he had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and that they cured him. I knew him very well, having built his house out on Woodward Ave., and I thought I would follow his suggestion. I must confess I did so with marvelous success. From the time I began to take the Pink Pills I felt myself growing to be a new man. They acted on me like a magical stimulant. The pain departed and I soon was as strong and healthy as ever. Before trying the Pink Pills I had used any amount of other medicine without any noticeable benefit. But the Pills cured me and I was myself again.

"When a person finds himself relieved and enjoying health he is apt to expose himself again to another attack of illness. Some three months ago I stopped taking the Pink Pills, and from the day I did so I noticed a change in my condition. A short time since I renewed my habit of taking them with the same beneficial results which met me formerly. I am again nearly as strong as ever, although I am a man about 56 years of age. I tell you, sir, the Pink Pills are a most wonderful medicine, and if they do as well in other cases as they did in mine they are the best in the world. I freely recommend them to any sufferer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

CAUSED BY PROTECTION.

The Present Strike the Result of Republican Legislation.

The promise that the president will appoint a commission to inquire into the origin and nature of the controversy out of which the great strike grew ought to have a quieting effect on all the parties to the controversy, and on the country as well. Primarily, of course, the commission will have to deal with the conditions at Pullman and Chicago; but it cannot perform its work satisfactorily without going back of all that to ascertain what produced these conditions.

If the inquiry is made as broad and inclusive as it should be, and probably will be, it can hardly fail to show that one of the most important factors in the production of the unfortunate conditions referred to has been the protective policy of the government for the past thirty years. The panic of 1893, from the effects of which the country has not yet recovered—if it can be said to have fairly started on the road to recovery—was due very largely to the culmination of that policy in the McKinley tariff. The immediate effect of the adoption of that iniquitous measure was the undue stimulation of all branches of industry which had been made beneficiaries under it. Foreign competition being shut out and the right guaranteed to the American producer to control the market and charge what he pleased for his wares, he promptly availed himself of the privilege and proceeded to bleed the consumer for his benefit. For a time he fought off the natural colsequence of such a course—the provoking of competition—by resorting to combinations and trusts; but the inevitable result followed. The unhealthy stimulus overstocked the market; prices fell; and even while the devotees of protection were shouting that this fall in prices was the real intent and purpose of their policy, it proceeded so far that stagnation came. Work ceased; and tens of thousands all over the country were thrown out of employment and became burdens on a public which was in the worst possible condition for bearing increased burdens. The bursting of the McKinley bubble—to which while it was full the protectionists pointed with so much pride—brought widespread disaster; and the only hope of the country is in that return to right principles for which the country hopes as a result of tariff legislation by the recent congress.

But it is not in its direct results only that the protective policy has proven disastrous to the country, or that it is to be held responsible for the existing conditions. It has done more harm, probably, by indirection than it has directly, though that is putting the case very strongly indeed. During the past thirty years it has been misleading the people to their hurt as to the true province and function of a government, and especially of the United States government. One-half, at least, of the present trouble—if not one-half of the other half—is due to the mischievous notion that it is part of the business of the government to legislate for the benefit of classes. Considering what the government has been doing in this way for the past thirty years, it is not at all surprising that this mischievous notion should have entered the heads of a great many people. It is perfectly natural that the workingman, when he finds that the government has been passing a law for the express and avowed purpose of enabling the Carnegies or the Pullmans or any other of the manufacturers in the country to enrich themselves, should conclude that it is not only in the power, but that it is the duty, of the government to pass laws for the express purpose of enriching him also. He has been told all his life that this is a government of the people, by the people, for all the people, and not for a part of the people—not for the manufacturers alone, but for their employes as well; and he very naturally wants his share. There is no answer to such a demand but a stern retracing on the steps that have been taken in a wrong direction. The only doctrine to which appeal can be made from the demand of the workingman is the doctrine of "equal rights to all; special privileges to none," and this means the uprooting absolutely of the protective policy.

It is to be hoped that the commission which is to be appointed by the president will be able to take up this branch of the subject and report to the country upon it.—Detroit Free Press.

THEY ARE NOT DEMOCRATS.

Why the Tariff Reform Has Not Been Brought About.

The democratic party is not in power at the national capital. It cannot control legislation in congress. It is helpless to pass an important and vital measure, which was promised in the democratic platform of 1892, and which by an enormous majority the people demanded at the ballot box.

The plighted faith of the democratic party stands unredeemed. It has been powerless to fulfill its pledges. The work which it was appointed to do—which declared should be done—has not been done. One year and four months ago a democratic president was sworn into office, and the term of a national congress began with a nominal democratic majority in both the senate and the house.

There was no such majority. Eight or nine senators elected as democrats have acted in alliance with the republicans. They have not cast a democratic vote on the tariff bill. They have voted just as McKinley would have voted had he been in the senate.

It is an error to say that the democrats are in power while a faction of senators classed as such—enough in number to destroy the democratic majority in the senate—are casting republican votes, conspiring with republican leaders to defeat the democratic tariff bill and are in open insurrection against the democratic sentiment of the country.

The president and the house of representatives are united in a determination that the demociatic pledges of 1892 shall be kept in good faith with the people. They have presented a tariff bill which was the best that the necessities of the case would authorize—not perfect, but a long step in advance—a measure of practical reform.

The senate refused to accept this measure. Under republican control—by a majority composed of the regular corrupt republican forces and a guerrilla contingent of bogus democrats—the democratic tariff bill appears destined to defeat. If anything shall be saved, it will be merely what the house and the president can extort from a hostile, undemocratic senate.

The coal senators, the iron ore senators, the sugar senators and the collars and cuffs senator have repudiated democracy, repudiated the platform of 1892, repudiated the popular instructions adopted at the ballot box, and are determined to force on the country a tariff dictated by trust deed, by the monopoly combine and by and by the republicans, or they will prevent the passage of any tariff bill. These recalcitrants and renegades are not democrats. They are republicans, bearing a false name and carrying false colors.

These senators misrepresented their states, the democratic constituencies of the country and the body of the people. They are a bushwhacking detachment of the party of trusts, monopoly, protection and organized fraud. They have betrayed the country. They have been false to the duty which they were instructed to perform.

If these false democrats shall be successful now in defeating reform tariff legislation the result will not be chargeable to the democratic party of the nation. It will be simply another republican victory—a victory of the party of trusts, monopolies, class legislation, of corporate greed and extortion, reenforced by a group of sordid and faithless politicians who have violated party allegiance and ferfeited the name of democrats.

This will be a calamity. But it will be no reason for giving up the fight. It will be a reason for fighting the future battles of reform with increased vigor, courage and zeal.

The people have been betrayed. But the cause is not lost. The contest will be continued. The faithless, the cowardly, the trimmers and the traitors will be driven to the rear.

This reverse will be retrieved. Better men will be clothed with the trust to which these recreants were untrue, and it will be discharged in the spirit of the instructions given by the voters to their representatives. — Chicago Herald.

THE TAX ON SUGAR.

Why the Republicans Stick So Closely to the McKinley Bill.

It is obvious that the alluring shibboleth, "a free breakfast table," is the influencing cause of much of the opposition to the sugar tax in the pending tariff bill. There is a fascination in the idea that the essential elements of the poor man's matutinal meal shall be exempt from all elements that might add to its cost, and there is a more or less widely diffused delusion that under the present law sugar is free from taxation. But, as a matter of fact, it is taxed to an extent without parallel. The two cents a pound bounty to the growers of raw sugar and the five-tenths of a cent tariff on all the products of the sugar trust combine to create an enormous levy, and, though it is collected on the clothing and blankets of the people, and is presented bodily to the beneficiaries, does not in the least degree alter the facts in the case. It is a tax just the same, and a tax that is criminal because it is an unconstitutional robbery.

The plain truth of the matter is that because of republican profligacy and the inefficiency of the McKinley bill as a revenue law, the country is confronted by an impending treasury deficiency. To avoid such a calamity it is necessary to discover new sources of revenue. With that idea in view, the pending bill provides for withdrawing the unconstitutional gratuity to the sugar growers and the sugar trust and divert an equal amount of the money that is taken from the pockets of the people into the treasury. The bounty to the sugar growers will amount this year to about $25,000,000. The "protection" to the trust is $20,000,000, making a total of $45,000,000 of taxation on sugar, comparatively little of which goes into the treasury. The pending bill will draw about an equal amount from the people, but every cent of it except that which goes for expenses of collection will go into the treasury and be available for the ordinary expenses of the government, relieving the people of taxes on other necessaries to that amount.

We would be glad if it were possible to secure this reform in the revenue system without affording protection to the sugar trust, but the democratic majority in the senate is so meager that the defection of a single vote would put the whole measure in jeopardy. The sugar trust, like all other trusts, is obnoxious to the democratic party, and any legislation that would destroy it would be welcome to the democratic people. But according to the best information attainable it is not possible to accomplish this result. One or two senators who hold title to their seats through democratic suffrage declare their intentions to bolt unless the odious concessions are made to them. The consequence would be the continuance of the McKinley bill, which is what the sugar trust and the republican party desires. The late Gov. Moses once said, by way of encouragement to his carpet-bag associates in the south: "There are a couple of years good stealing in the south yet." It is an analogous sentiment that influences the republicans to adhere to the McKinley bill with such marvelous tenacity.—Kansas City Times.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Gold.

Dr. Rider, of Rainy Lake City, who arrived in Duluth brings the first news of a very important clean-up made at the Bevier stamp mill there a few days ago. It was the fourth clean-up made since the mill started up about a month ago, and was far better than any of the others. Dr. Rider states that as a result of four days' work of the mill, and from the crushing of 152 tons of rock, there was cleaned up from the plates 148 ounces of free gold, while the concentrates amounted to 10 tons. No disinterested persons have given the value of these concentrates, but Jeff Hildreth, of the milling company, states that they will run $300 to the ton. If they will do anything like this the mill has made a run that is remarkable, and extremely flattering. About $4,000 in free gold has so far been stamped out at the new mill according to the reports from Rainy Lake City.

Work has begun at the Big Canada mine, on Seine river, and it is the intention of the owners to put in a stamp mill of their own as soon as possible.

The Coliseum Burned.

The coliseum, located at Twelfth avenue southeast and University avenue, on the state university campus, in Minneapolis, was burned to the ground in an hour's time, entailing a loss of $65,000, according to the figures of Ex-Gov. Pillsbury. The building was 150x200 feet in dimensions, and was erected in 1884 at a cost of $45,000. It was built with the state's money, appropriated to the state university, and only $15,000 insurance was carried on it. The contents of the building consisted of $10,000 worth of United States arms—400 rifles, two large cannon, cadets' uniforms and 2,000 rounds of ammunition—and 10 car loads of exhibits from the world's fair. The exhibits were comprised of fancy woodwork, valuable samples of stone, and a valuable school exhibit, including drawings, etc. Mr. Pillsbury said that he took out $5,000 insurance on the exhibits only two days before. There was no insurance on the arms, ammunition, etc. The total loss was $45,000.

More Bonds.

State Treasurer Bobleter returned from New York, where he completed the investment of the surplus of the permanent school fund of the state. He brought with him $558,000 worth of Tennessee and Alabama state bonds, making $908,000 of the securities of these states now in the vault in the treasurer's office at the capitol, all of which are the property of the state school fund. The investment in these bonds leaves available only enough of the permanent school fund to provide for the requirements of the several districts throughout the state.

Held by Tramps.

The Great Northern passenger train that was held up by tramps at Anoka had quite an experience. The tramps were well acquainted with what to do, and as the train approached the yard limits displayed the danger signal and the train came to a standstill. Two hundred dirty, unkempt, ragamuffins scrambled aboard, and didn't intend to pay for their fare either. By resolute stands taken by the train's crew, the men were finally persuaded to get off, and board a freight.

DELANO DIARY

—Considerable stock was sold on Fair Day. Mostly calves, cows, and sheep; also several coops of chickens.

—Ex-Sheriff John C. Nugent was in town a couple of days this week looking after the crops on the Bentz farm he being administrator of the late Mrs. Bentz estate.

—Prof. and Mrs. Leavens, of Fairbault, were in town on Saturday, looking after a house. They intend occupying Tiff Hitsman's residence this winter.

—Work on the village waterworks and electric light plant is being pushed this week and from the present outlook we will soon be putting on metropolitan airs equal to the finest.

—The new school house is being built quite rapidly, and will probably be done in time for school to begin a month late. The upper department are to occupy the City hall beginning Sept. 10.

—The village authorities have drained the marsh back of Kolbe's, where diphtheria has been, this week. That's right. This is a splendid time for draining, it is so dry that what is drained properly now is not apt to give much trouble again soon.

—People are almost learning to get along without vegetables here; for a few years past, the seasons have been so dry, or so short that little garden stuff grew, and consequently people have partialy been weaned from such things as grow in gardens.

—A few mornings since some of ou citizens wandered at the beer kegs that were planted about town. It was soon learned that the man that did the planting was a temperance man, and had not planted them to raise beer, but to fill the holes until the electric light poles were placed in them; beer kegs being by all odds, the handiest thing he could find in town for the purpose.

—The St. Cloud Times says the Sauk Rapids summer school was the finest ever held in that part of the country 174 teachers in attendance. A vote of thanks was voted the instructors and resolution drawn asking that the same corps be sent them next year. Our fellow townsman Willis E. Johnson comes in for his share of the praise as follows:

"Messers. Willis E. Johnson, P. P. Colgrove and Miss Mary E. Patterson deserve praise for their untiring efforts The confidential way in which teachers moved among them meant much to the observing eye."—St. Cloud Times.

—It seems as if people would learn the necessity of keeping children away from those who have or have recently had diphtheria, until they are thoroughly disenfected. From the experience of neghbors parents should learn this valuable lesson; before their own households are affected. Also that if one child gets sore throat when the disease is about, it should be kept in a room with no one but its nurse; and even she should be extremely careful lest she carry the germs to others.

—Before school is begun in the new school house fire escapes of some kind should be provided for the exit of scholars and teachers in case they should happen to be needed. There is but one door to come in and go out at, and in case of a fire in the hall or on the stairs preventing the use of this means of getting out, there would be a very slim chance of saving the entire school without loss of life or injury to some A back door and back stairs would be useful adjuncts to the building.

—John Klich held an auction at his store on Fair Day.

—Watermellons have been quite plentiful and sold rappidly in our markets for a week past.

—The men engaged on the village water works and electric plant find exceedingly dry picking.

—On Friday night our part of the coultry was visited by a fine rain for a couple of hours; but the ground was so dry it made little impression on it. Ploughing is done with difficulty, and little is being done as yet.

—Some of the cities that have electric light poles about their streets are sorry they didn't have their wires underground. It might have been economy for our village to have run the wire along the water course and saved the expense of poles and setting them.

—We are in receipt, with compliments of the publishers, of the standard Township map and Gazateer of Wright county, showing all carriage roads, rail roads, legal descriptions of every farm, the owners name of every piece of land outside the village limits, with its assessed value, also value of the improvements, the boundaries of every school district, and the location of every school house and church; also a description of the business interests of every yillage in each township. The description of each piece of land has been carefully compared with the records. The roads and township plats are certified to by H. T. Moland, County Surveyor. Copyrighted 1894. This publication is something similar to the Wright County Maps sold a few years ago but is down to date. Like most things new some improvements can be made in the next one, but the work is one that every body wants, all should be acquainted with their immediate surroundings; with county affairs and Geography and there is at present no better way than by haying a copy of the Township map and Gazeteer.

—Rev. J. W. Powell preached on the Christian Sabbath, at the M. E. church on Sunday evening to a fair sized audience. He handled his subject in a manner to carry conviction with him. His text is to be found in Isaiah 58 chap. 13th. and 14th. verses; he advised his audience to read the whole chapter. The preacher claimed that the Sabbath was the first institution common among nations. It furnishes the division of time into periods of seven days each; has been copied on down through every dispensation. It is incorporated in the moral law. Take out the Sabbath said the preacher and all Christianity falls. It was more strictly observed in this country 50 years ago; it was thought too strictly so: now they lean the other way as badly, or worse. Three things help to make it hard to strictly observe the day holly in this country now. The foreigners, many of them have been learned to observe Sunday as a day of recreation rather than of rest, and have brought their ways with them to this country; the Roman Catholic church has for four fifts of its membership foreigners, and they do not keep the day as a day of rest; they go to church and then spend the balance of the day in enjoying themselves. Railroads are permitted to run on Sunday and keep their million employes at work, and carry thousands to lakes summer resorts and such places of amusement; young men are led to spend the day in going with a crowd instead of attending church. Man's physical nature demands rest; one day in seven should be observed on this account if for no other. Men who work six days and rest the seventh can do more than those that work every day. I would join any party, he said, that will incorporate in its platform a plank prohibiting the sale of liquor and the disecrution of the Sabbath day; favor national Sabbath, and would have 8 hours for work 8 hours for enjoyment 8 hours for sleep on other days of the week.

Among our Exchanges.

The chances are that Bob Dunn will have a newspaper man as his competitor for the auditorship this fall. The democrats are talking of running John A. Johnson, of St. Peter.—Litchfield News Ledger.

If they do they will have before the people a first class man, compentent, honest and sober. —Buffalo Journal.

And a Scandinavian by birth that can cope with Knute Nelson in drawing votes in Minnesota. He would make things lively for Bob.

The Republican committee for the 4th Judicial District has been appointed. The members for Wright county are J. J. Woolley and Wm. E. Culkin. We learn that Mr. Culkin has declined to serve on account of other duties. It is well understood however, that he will support the entire Republican Judicial ticket.—Buffalo Journal.

Govenor McKinley made a short speech to the citizens who welcomed him to Duluth last week. Among other things he told them that what we want now is good times, plenty of work, good wages and sound money. About four years ago Mr. McKinley gave us a law to maintain these very things. The law is still in force, but just think of the result.—Bede's Budget.

Personals.

Mrs. Erbe visited friends at Montrose on Tuesday.

Dr. Shrader came home from the cities on this mornings train.

Capt. John Sibel and John Belden and wife were in town Saturday.

John E. Borsch and Dr. Catlin and son John visited the cities Tuesday.

Robert Dixon, of Greenwood, drove over on Saturday, to Delano, on business.

Van Clark, of Howard Lake, is visiting his cousin Joe Merriman, this week,

Uncle Joe Bland, of Marysville, was in town today disposing of some of the surplus products of his farm.

Dr. Catlin, Miss Edna Coffin, Ignatius Gutzwiller, and William Ziebarth were among county seat visitors on Monday.

Sim Gunn, lately returned from the Pacific coast, was in town Saturday. He is now working for Maxfield at the Jim Hill farm.

Bud Reeve, democratic candidate for Congress, from N. D. passed through town Tuesday evening on his way home from St. Paul.

County Cullings.

On Monday while at the county Seat we were pleased to meet J. V. I. Dodd an old fellow townsman, of St. Peter, now an attorney in West St. Paul. Mr. Dodd was attinding some Probate matters for a client of his.

The county Commissioners met on Monday at Buffalo, Mr Ruscoe's resignation having been accepted Mr. Butwell of Clearwater was duly installed in office, and the buisness proceeded with as usual.

The Wright County agricultural Society is busy at work arranging for the best fair Wright County has ever had. It will be held at Howard Lake from Sept. 11 to 14 inclusive. Our county is one of the best farming and dairying counties in the state, and our fair should show it.

Some of the County Seat people are not satisfied that an inquest was not held over the remains of Mrs, Cole who died, suddenly one day last week. Some claim that suspicions of poison are present while the M. D's who assisted at the postmorten, rendered as their opinion that she died of heart disease.

In another column will be found an announcemeut of a Democratic County Convention to be held at Buffalo, on Thursday Aug 30. Be sure and be at your caucus, and help send good straight Democrats to the Convention unless you want to vote for a fusion ticket which we believe a large majority of the rank and file do not wish to do. Let every precinct be represented by its best men.

The Journal says: "The Delano Eagle has announced that it can not support the republican nomination for the district bench "unless something is done." On Monday the Eagle editor in chief was in Buffalo, and late in the afternoon the Chairman of the Republican County Committee publicly announced that "I. Gutzwiller will be found supporting the full Republican ticket." What has been done?

The Republicans of Wright county are mad about several things and threaten to bolt this that and the other thing. But especially are they sore on the Judicial ticket; that is they claim to be. It may be only a ruse after all to get the Democrats to put up a nominee or two for the county and then see the city fellows vote for city men and elect them all from there. No matter of what party they may be, if that is made the issue. All you will have to do to get a mans living in Minneapolis to vote for a Minneapolis man, is to read to him from a lot of county papers of the Republican persuasion, abusing the city nominees and their friends, and asking for some country lawyer to be nominated. The Democratic Judicial Convention will contain 40 delegates from Hennepin county and 15 from the ballance of the district and it is hardily to be expected that unless these 15 are a unite for a country delegate that any attention will be paid to and it is hardly in the nature of things to get 15 delegates from three counties that may each haye a candidate to agree on any one without some manipulating.

Polticts in Wright county are some what mixed. Eyen the G. O. P. does not harmonize; And the Legislative district is still worse; Sherburne county has been the tail of the district and has not hardly been allowed to wag itself, let alone wagging the district. The Republicans of Wright and Sherburne don't seem compatable, by any means; and the mixture doesen't seem to grow any clearer, and if the Democrats attend to their knitting this time and don't forsake their own party and trot off after some illusion and neglect their opportunity, they may elect some legislators. People have tired of veting for legislators to sit as an electorial college for United States Senator and then allow state laws to be manipulated by a few scheming lawyers; to become so complicated that they must even be declared unconstitutsonal by the Supreme Court, and the Republicans have concluded not to try that scheme openly; but to run on national issues. Of course State legislators do not make laws for our nation; they have nothing to do with that more than to elect the U. S. Senator and, of course, it is the same old game over under a new name. If you are for protective tariff you must vote for legislators that will send a man to the U. S. senate to uphold that doctrine; not Knute Nelson, because he voted for the Mills bill; but Mr. Washburne, or his kind, and so long as you do that you must expect to have trouble with State laws.

A Fair This Year.

The Minnesota State Agricultural Society will have a fair this year on its magnificent grounds midway between St. Paul and Minneapolis. No fair was held last year, and the exhibit will mark more particulary the agricultural progress of the state in two years. The managers of the fair already haye the assurance of a big exihbit. The stock growers have in particular shown a desire to bring their herds, flocks and studs together for comparison and competion, and breeders from outside the state are going to bring the best products of their stables to Minnesota to show them to the Minnesota farmers. The dairy exhibit will also be large. In Steele, Freeborn, Mower, Olmsted and other of the southern counties of the state, where the dairy interest has developed so rapidly, there friendly rivalry between the different cheese and butter manufacturers is very sharp The rank the state took at the World's Fair in this industry has stimulated the interest in this exhibit. There will be the usual races, daily balloon ascensione, and the fact that there is going to be no exposition in Minnerpolis this year promises to result in buildings devoted to the exhibits of merchants and mnufucturers being large. The fair will haye the hearty support of both St Paul and Minneapolis this year the dates of the fair are Sept. 10 to 15th, inclusive.

Woman's Column.

EDITED BY MRS. E. A. STACY.

The Gin-Mill Responsible.

After all, if we hunt vice and crime back to their lairs we will be pretty sure to find them in the gin-mill. Drunkeness is the profile mother of most of the evil doing.

So says Superintend Byrnes, head of the New York police force. This is his summing up of the causes of crime which he gives in a somewhat lenghty interview recently published.

Probably no man in America has had a larger experience with crime and crimnals than Supt. Byrnes. For many years he has been in a position where he came in contact with the criminals of the metropolis and could study the causes of crime as perhaps no other man could.

His conclusion is that vice and crime have their origin in the saloon; that drunkeness is responsible for most of the evil doing. Other men of prominence in police affairs have made the same assertion, so that we are forced to believe that but for the gin mill there would be comparativelv little vice and crime. The saloon is the nursery of crime, and from it go forth great classes of graduates in crime to prey upon the wealth and industry of the people.

If it be true, as Supt. Byrnes affirms, that the gin mill is the cause of most of the vice and crime; should we not make it our first duty to close the gin mill and cut off the supply of criminals? If his statement is true then no other question compares with the prohibition of the liquor traffic, for its success would almost annihilate both vice and crime.

Prohibitionists have made some very strong assertions regarding the saloon. They have denounced it as a breeder of paupers and criminals, as an enemy of the home, as a traitor to the government, as a law breaker and a law defier, but they never made a more radical condemnation of the saloon than has New York's superintendent of police.

Tax payers, you are interested in this matter. The millions upon millions of dollars spent each year to watch and arrest criminals, to try them, to punish them, come from your pocketbooks. The millions of dollars expended each vear to feed paupers, to care for the insane, to feed and clothe the wiyes and children of drunkards are collected from you Are you contented to pay all this year after year and make no effort to save yourselves?

Girls, be Sensible.

Many girls are making a fatal mistake by thinking they are getting a man by linking themselves to anv kind of a fellow. Nothing can justifv a girl for marrying a drunkard. In order to be sure that your husband will never be a drunkard, make him promise before you marry him that he will never indulge in intoxicating drinks. Single blessedness is far better than double cursedness. You cannot expect a man who has lost self-respect to respect you, however much he may love you.

We heard of a young English lady who came to New York to marry a young man to whom she was affianced in England: He had come to this country two years previously to be engaged in business. She had known him as a sober young man. During the time she was preparing her wedding outfit he came to see her one evening when just drunk enough to be foolish. She was greatly shocked and pained. He admitted that occasionly he drank to excess. She immediately stopped preparations, and told him that she could not marry him. He protested vehemently, and made great promises, but she declard positively that she would not dare trust her future happiness to a man who had formed such a habit. "I came," she said: "three thousand miles to marry the man I loved, but rather than a drunkard I will return." And so she did, and proved herself strong and wise.

A thousand times better dissolve the tenderest ties than be linked to that body af death called a drunkard. Do you believe it, girls? Go and ask the drunkard's wife what she thinks. Do not vacillate, hesitate, or yield when a drunkard offers you his hand, but

Learn to say a decided "No!"
Which may spare you an untold woe.

Do not have faith in a drunkard,s word, for he is unreliable. Too many have already done so whose throbbing hearts only ceased their hopelss achings in the chilling silence of the sepulchre. Let every young woman take a firm stand on the side of total abstinence, and it will do more to prevent intemperance than any preseut human means can accomplish. You cannot afford to be indifferent. It has to do with your temporal and eternal welfare. Then be up and doing all you can for the promotion of the temperance cause.—REV. JONATHAN EDWARES.

Mgr. Satolli has ruled sustaining the decree issued by Bishop Watterson of Ohio, that no saloonkeeper or other person engaged in the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor shall be permitted to join the societies affiliated with the Roman Catholic church. When Bishop Watterson issued his decree it was regarded as a decided step in advance, which, if sustained by catholic authority, would result in a radical change for the better. This decision of Satolli has the same effect as a supreme court decision on a question of law before it has been settled. It applies of course only to the diocese of Columbus but it indicates the position the papal represntative will take on this question when it comes before him. The plenary council of Baltimore admonished catholics to beware of the evils resulting from the use of liquor. It advised and urged all catholics in the liquor business to leave it and earn their living in an honorable way. Therefore this decision is right in line with the action of the council and may be considered authoritative, The moral influence of this action will reach far and wide. Undoubtedly it will not please the thousands of catholic saloonkeepers who are in the liquor business for the money there is in it, and they cannot but feel that a stigma is placed upon them and their families and this may result in many of them seeking a business which the church will commend.

THE WAY TO REFORM.

My ways may not be suited to meet the popular will,
I'd have to be a dummy to completely fill the bill,
O a moral coward; vice the thoughts of otherr men,
True or false in anything, shout out my amen!
I have some ideas of my own I will not give away
To satisfy the public, no matter what they say.
I'd rather meet the kicks and cuffs, endure the rich man's slur,
Than be like a poodle dog or a sneaking cur,
I do not ape the rich man's tricks, his hands with fauning lick,
When truth and justice are at stake, right there I'm shure to kick.
But my kicking don't amount to much, that can be plainly seen,
But I'd like to kick the devil out of everything that's mean.
I'm not a chronic grumbler, see nothing that is good,
But believe in doing what is right, let it pinch who it would.
I presume I'd get a squeeze myself, if every rotten spot was found.
But I'm trying hard to rout them, wherever they are found.
The way to start reform, is to at first begin
To strive to live a nobler life rather than a life of sin.
We can't reform the scoundrel, who values truth as dross,
And shouts aloud with ghoulish glee at other people's loss,
He's a hopeless case, yet something can be done,
If we'll try and make improvements on the case called number one.
If number one will toe the mark, keep on an upward course,
There's one thing quite certain, "twill make number two no worse,
Number two may get no better, yet we must all confess
That instead of having two big rogues, we have just one rougue less.
All of us are bad enough, at least that's what I think.
There's no one so good, but what has some little kink,
In his make-up somewhere if it was pointed out;
That he would be much better if it was straightened out.
Yet with all our meanness, though it is rather vile,
If we keep on trying hard we'll get better all the while.
We may differ on many things, the way it should be done!
But when it comes to justice we all should be as one.
Nothing short of this will do, if we live a life upright
We must all join hands together in doing what is right.
—W. Byron Smith in Kaws Mouth.

J. H. McGary on the Situation.

INDEPENDENCE, Minn., Aug. 21, '94.

EDITOR BUFFALO GAZETTE:—"And the Lord said: I have surely seen the affliction of my people which are in Egypt, and have heard their cry by reason of their taskmaster for I know their sorrows." In the five books of Moses there is much to be learned—how to govern a nation or people; and much of our statutory laws of today are founded upon the writing of Moses notwithstanding Bob Ingersol's trying to make the writings of Moses appear as an old fable. In my early youth while a Sunday School scholar on attending picnics, on Independence day my heart was filled with patriotism and love of country; and I hope I breathe the same spirit today although there are many things in our everyday surroundings to allure and draw us away from the love of patriotism. The chief men in politics and those high in authority have so confounded politics and patriotism that it is hard for those that are unlearned and full of prejudice to distinguish one from the other.

The foundation of this government was not builded upon partisan politics, but upon principle, justice and equal rights to all men.

The constitution of the United States and the declaration of Independence being the two chief corner stones but by the manipulation of unprincipaled leaders, the masses of the people have become confused and have left the true worship of their fathers and have turned unto idols.

We often hear it repeated nowdays that politics is becoming corrupt, men will sell their birthright for office and run their chances for the next world. Many times we are made to feel sick over the condition of things, sicker than was the fish when he spewed Jonah out upon dry land. We are in need of a Jackson and a Lincoln to see that matters in the political arena are properly adjusted. The people are getting tired of their one horse power waspy politicians going over the country making speeches in school houses and upon street corners in our villages telling them how they must vote, etc, when they themselves have little or no conception of what is for the best interest of the country, many of them are filled with deception; they have tongues as flip as the serpents tail, their heads are as clouds without rain. In our opinion this coutry has had her best days for the masses of the people. Our country is big; her resources immense and there is plenty of chances for the knave to play his hand. There is difference of opinion in regard to what was the great cause in bringing this financial distress upon our country, some of our republican friends can only solve the problem in this way, that it was the democratic party that did it. Now if the democratic party has been the whole cause of this financial distress and hard times. We say hang them by detail; or put the whole party in exile that framed our laws and put them on the statute books, by which we have been governed for the last thirty years. No doubt some of the democrats have sold their birthright for a mess of pottage, in order to keep in the ring; hopeing time and opportunity would give them a chance to squeeze out an inheritance some other way. It is a fact that when silver was demonatized in 1873 depositors made a rush upon the banks and they were compelled to close their doors. and wait till they could squeeze enough out of their customers by calling in loans to tide the matters over and business men were ruined, workingmen thrown out of employment etc. etc. all this happened during Grant's administration. It was estimated that in 1850 the farmers owned 70 per cent of the wealth, and yet pay 80 per cent of the taxes. It is a fact that during the last thirty years our country has made great progress in way of improvements. The buffalo trails over the Rocky mountains have give place to 5 or 6 transcontinential lines of railroads, and we have direct communication from sea to sea, our borders have been enlarged until there is but little of our public domain compariatevly left.

Now Mr. Editor, I hope you will bear with me a little in this matter for I have no ax to grind or any interest in the matter whatever, only the interest of the whole country at heart. I tell you partisan politics will never save the patient there must be a parallel line drawn and to that line we must come if we ever expect to see eye to eye; let us adhere strictly to principle regardless of party affiliation. Must say I yet have hope in my country "For there is hope of a tree if it be cut down, that it will sprout again and that the tender branches thereof will not cease" The masses of the people want a country governed by the people and to be a free county, but the question is, should we be wedded to orthodox politics or be governed by principle and decision of character. There are too many men nowday seeking office. or recognition of some kind, the the hight of their ambition is office and if they could only be 2nd Lieutenand of a torch light procession; vice president of a chewing gum factory or usher at a conference camp meeting, all their hopes would be realized.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

President Cleveland does not like the Senate tariff bill any better than he did when he wrote that letter to chairman Wilson—few good democrats do—but, like the sensible man that he is, he prefers it to the McKinley law, and has according to the best obtainable information, made up his mind that it shall become a law but has not yet fully decided whether he will sign it or allow it to become a law without his signature; nor whether he will send another special message to Congress on the subject, urging the passage at this session of the seperate House bills providing for free coal, iron ore and barbed wire. So far as the action of the Senate is concerned, it makes little difference what the president may do, as enough republican Senators have gone away from Washington to break a quorum and they left for that very purpose, so as to make sure that the Senate could not pass any other tariff bills.

Secretary Carlisle has written a letter to Senator Harris, showing that the revenue to be derived from the tariff on sugar is absolutely necessary to avoid a deficit in the Treasury for this fiscal year, and stating that if the bill for free sugar, which passed the House with only 11 opposing votes, is passed by the Senate, some other bill to raise the $43,000,000 which it is estimated will be collected on foreign sugar must also be passed. That letter has made the passing of the free sugar bill out of the question, even if the Senate were in a position to do it, notwithstanding the fact that a majority of the Senate favors free sugar. Secretary Carlisle's letter contained the latest revised estimates of the revenues of the government under the Senate tariff bill. The total estimated receipts are $378,000,000 and the expenditures, $368,000,000. An estimate surplus of $15,000,000 is entirely to small to stand any further reduction.

The wisdom of the House in accepting the Senate amendments to the tariff bill, although it involved a seeming surrender on the part of the House, is becoming more apparent every day. It is now clear as day that there was a plot to prevent any tariff legislation at all and that only the prompt action of the House democratic caucus prevented its being carried out. Had Senator Hill's resolution directing the Senate conferees to report a disagreement to the senate been adopted before the House acted, it would have been followed by a motion to postpone the whole matter until next December, and the motion would have been carried. Senator Vest, in a speech defending the Senate from the numerous charges made against it in connection with tariff legislation, said: "Men said the question was between the Wilson bill and the Senate bill. That statement was as false as the assertion that this was a democratic Senate. On the question of tariff reform it never was and never can be a democratic Senate as at present constituted. The question was between the Senate bill and the McKinley law. There the choice was to be made, and every one conversant with the situation knew it!! That is as plain as it could be made.

Senator Walsch is a good democrat and a good editor. Hence his advice is good, He says: "The democratic press should use its influence to create a just public opinion as to the real merits of the Senate bill. When properly presented as the best measure of tariff reform attainable, the conservative sentiment of the country will settle down to the conviction that very substantial progress has been made in the direction of real tariff reform and freer trade among nations." That is the proper way to look at it. The Senate bill is a great improvement on the McKinley bill.

Representative Breckenridge, of Arkansas, resigned his seat in the House this week and qualified as Minister to Russia, to which position he was nominated and confirmed some weeks ago. Minister Breckinridge expects to start for Europe in a few days, but he will travel leisurely, stopping at a number of places, and does not expect to reach St. Petersburg until about October 15.

Managers of the Presidential boom of Senator Camerom are hard at work trying to get their grip upon the American Bimetallic League, which is this week holding a conference here, but they haven't met with much success. Even the republican members of the League are not solidly for Cameron, and he has few supporters among the populist members and none among the democrats. There is no longer the slightest doubt about Cameron being in the field for the republican nomination, his claim being based solely upon his friendship for silver and his willingness to pay for support.

How the Country Came to be Ruined.

In 1850 the proportion of lawyers to the mail population in this country was one to 404 and in 1880 it was one to 698. The number of lawyers in legislatures has always been greater than their proportion of the population would warrant. In Maine there has been on the adverage one lawyer for each ten members; in Vermont and Rhode Island, one in each twelve; in Connecticut and New Hampshire, one in sixteen; and in Massachusetts, one in nine. Of the entire number of United States senators since 1787, 2,068 out of 3,122 have been lawyers. Seventeen of the twenty-three vice-presidents, and 218 of the 232 cabinet officers have been members of the bar.

Now there have been and are some splindid lawyers—Jefferson was one, Lincoln was another;—we have some lawyers that any state might be proud of, but have not the legal brotherhood had too much to do with the making of our laws? I. D.

CORRESPONENCE

LONG LAKE.

School Superintendent Lewis is now in Minneapolis taking treatment for his cancerous affliction under Dr. Vanderhorck.

Herbert Williams who was here temporarially during the last month as G. N. Station agent has been transferred to some other point on the G. N.

This station is now in charge of Nels Martinson.

Wm. Heberlein who has been in the employ of B. F. Christlieb as salesman left here last week for Briggsville, Wis. He carries with him the good wishes of this community including his last employer.

Mrs. A. S. Gardner accompanied her brother Mr. Heberlein to Briggsville, Wis. their former home to visit relatives.

Wm. Hursch returned recently from Minneapolis and is now in the employ of B. F. Christlieb as salesman.

Ed Hursh and James Wiley were delegates to the democratic conventions held at Minneapolss the 17th and 18th. Those conventions evolved a good ticket which may be successful next November despite the assertions of populists and republicans to the contrary.

Respectable Saloons.

Every man owes to every other man in this country to be the best citizen that he can be, and to use his influence to his uttermost to put down everything that tends to corrupt the people. every citizen is under obligation to do these two things,—first, to be the best possible citizen, and second to do all in his power to put down, destroy, and utterly overturn every influence and every institution that tends to corrupt and debauch the people. If I should be called upon to name the one thing that seems to embody in itself all those evils which tend most powerfully to corrupt the people of this country, what would that thing be? I hear some body whisper, "The Saloon" and that is true it is the saloon, the licensed rum-shop, that stands for all that is vile and corrupting in this country When our friend Mr. Stead was here, he told us the way to settle the liquor question was the way to leave it to, say, two thousand of the keepers of the best saloons. I did not know we had any "best" saloons; did you? Those that he calls best,—that is, the respectable saloons,—in my estimation are the worst; that is, they do more harm, they are more injurious than the low-down saloons. Vice is more dangerous when you make it respectable. Let it stand out in all its hideous deformity, then it is shorn very largely of its power. But these respectable saloon, where they have every thing attractive and inviting, these are the dangerous saloons,—these are the places into which your boys will be tempted; so if we do have saloons, let us have them in all of their horrid deformity. I say that there are no such things as "best" saloons. They are evil, always evil and only evil. Now the duty of every citizen is to do all that is in his power lies to overthrow the saloon and to break down its power. Above all, don't go into the saloon. I see so many nicely dressed men going into saloons. They would pass for good citizens. I wonder how a good and respectable citizen, who thinks anything of his family, who thinks anything of his country,—I wonder how a man of that kind can go into a saloon, and thus incurage it by his presence and prtronage. So I say, friends, stay out of these places. Do not patronize them. Use your influence against them. Pray against them, and, above all, vote against them.

It is said that an old general rode before his soilders drawn up in line of battle and with his drawn sword said: "Yonder are the enemy. Kill them, or they will kill you." So we say of these saloons, seven thousand of them in Chicago, kill them, or they will kill you. Let them do their work, let them exert to the utmost their influence for evil, and they will utterly destroy this country. They are trying to break down and destroy everything that we Christian people are trying to build up. —J. W. ALLEN, D. D.

Democratic County Convention.

A Democratic County Convention will be held in the village of Buffalo on Thursday, Aug. 30, 1894, at 11 a. m., for the purpose of electing 13 delegates to the state convention to be held in St. Paul, Sept. 5, 1894; also to elect twelve delegates to the congressional convention to be held at St. Cloud on Sept. 11; also to elect seven delegates to the Fourth judicial district convention to be held in the city of Minneapolis on Sept. 6.

The basis of representation to this convention is one delegate at large and one for each 30 votes or major fraction thereof cast for D. W. Lawler for governor in 1892. On this basis the several towns and villages will be entitled to send the number of delegates set opposite the names of each as follows,

FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

Regular Session.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 15.—In the senate the conference report on the civil service bill was presented and adopted. A letter was read from Secretary Carlisle in regard to the four pending bills—free iron, coal, sugar and barbed wire—declaring that if the four bills became laws there would be a deficit at the end of the present fiscal year of about $30,000,000, of which over $28,000,000 would be caused by the free sugar bill alone. In the house no business of importance was transacted beyond the introduction of a resolution by Gen. Black in regard to silver coinage, who asked for unanimous consent for its immediate adoption, but it was referred to the committee.

THURSDAY, Aug. 16.—In the senate a joint congratulatory resolution from the United States to Hawaii was adopted. Tariff bills relating to sugar and other articles in dispute were referred to a committee, and Senator Hill's measure providing for the exclusion and deportation of alien anarchists was passed without division. In the house there was but a bare quorum present. The deficiency appropriation bill was further considered, as also was the silver coinage resolution.

FRIDAY, Aug. 17.—A motion was made in the senate to appoint Senator White to the vacancy on the finance committee caused by the death of Senator Vance. Senator Murphy was also put in nomination, but under the rules the nominations went over. The conference report on the deficiency bill was submitted. There was hardly a quorum in the house, as members were anxious to get away and were leaving on every train. No business of importance was transacted.

SATURDAY, Aug. 18.—In the senate it was decided that there should be no further legislation over which there is a contest at this session of congress. The resolution to appoint Senator White to the vacancy on the finance committee was adopted. A resolution was adopted to instruct the finance committee to report back an amendment to the free sugar bill providing for the McKinley bounty on raw domestic sugars. After the passage of the bill for the relief of the Oklahoma settlers, the senate adjourned. The house was in session but a short time, no business of importance being transacted.

MONDAY, Aug. 20.—The amended sugar bill and the coal, iron ore and barbed wire bills were reported in the senate. The bills placing wool, coal and iron on the free list were ordered placed on the calendar. The senate then went into executive session, but owing to the lack of a quorum adjourned until the 22d. No quorum could be got together in the house, consequently no session was held.

THE INVESTIGATION.

Proceedings of President Cleveland's Labor Commission.

Light Is Sought Upon the Causes Which Resulted in the Late Strike—Debs' Version Is Given on the Fifth Day.

MANY UNION MEN TESTIFY.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—On Thursday was opened the second day's proceedings of President Cleveland's Labor commission.

George W. Lovejoy, former yardmaster at La Salle, Ill., for the Rock Island, te stifle that he was discharged June 19 for reasons unknown to him. The employes of the Rock Island struck because of a local grievance and of the Pullman troubles. The Rock Island people, the witness declared, will not employ a member of the American Railway union. His plan for preventing strikes was government ownership of railroads. He thought compulsory arbitration unsatisfactory.

Sylvester Keliher, secretary of the American Railway union, was the next witness. He thought that the cause of the boycott was the grievance of the Pullman employes. The Pullman employes were organized as a lodge of the American Railway union. To a committee of the American Railway union which waited on them Manager Wickes and Mr. Pullman said the grievances would be investigated, and these gentlemen promised that the members of the grievance committee of forty-three should not be discriminated against. Notwithstanding this, the members of the committee were discharged the next day. Then the Pullman employes went out and the convention of the American Railway union voted to sustain them.

Mr. Keliher said he thought the best preventive of strikes on railroads would be government control of all railroads; the next best thing, compulsory arbitration.

B. B. Ray, who was assistant yardmaster for the Rock Island road at Rock Island, Ill., but was discharged previous to the strike because he joined the American Railway union, was the third witness. He gave the usual account of what led to the strike. The remedy for strikes, he thought, lay in compulsory arbitration.

At the afternoon session T. W. Heathcote, who was chairman of the Pullman strike committee, was the first witness. He presented to the commission the wage scale that obtained at Pullman in 1893 and compared it with that in force at the time the strike was inaugurated. In June, 1893, he said he knew first-class mechanics who made between $43 and $45 in two weeks. A year later he said it was necessary for the men to do four times as much work to get the same pay, there having been a reduction of about 60 per cent. in the pay of the men. While wages were reduced to this remarkable extent Mr. Heathcote said there was not the slightest reduction in the rents collected by the Pullman company out of the wages of its employes. Mr. Heathcote also presented an official copy of the "black list" prepared by the Pullman company and forwarded to other corporations with the request that the men whose names it contained be not employed.

Jennie Curtis was a seamstress for five years in the repair shops of the Pullman company, president of the girl's local union 269, American Railway union, at Pullman, and also a member of the committees that called on Mr. Wickes and Mr. Pullman on behalf of the girls employed at the carshops town. In her department, she said, employes made in June, 1893, $2.25 a day, and at the time of the strike from 40 to 80 cents a day. "My father worked for the company for thirteen years," she said, "and last fall he died. He was a tenant of the Pullman company. He owed $60 rent, and out of my small wages I had to pay that $60 or leave the employ of the company."

R. W. Combs has been a car carpenter in the freight department of the Pullman works for ten years. He testified: "A year ago my wages averaged $2.20 a day and in March, 1894, they were 68 cents. The cut commenced in November, 1893.

Proceedings of the Third Day.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—The first witness before the labor commission at the opening of its third day's session was Ray Goodwin, one of the directors of the A. R. U. Mr. Goodwin was somewhat inclined to be uncommunicative, and occupied the stand but a short time. He thought the way to prevent strikes was to have a cooperative commonwealth.

Vice President Howard, of the A. R. U., again became a witness, and created something of a sensation when he informed the commission that the United States government is boycotting 3,000 of the A. R. U. men and the strikers in the courtroom became interested. The Union Pacific road receivers are United States officers, and they have refused to reemploy the 3,000 men who struck on that road. This, according to Mr. Howard, is a boycott of the men by the United States.

The commission did not consider the statement of Mr. Howard relevant, but heard him on. He proceeded to say that half a dozen roads are engaged in a boycott on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas road on account of a passenger rate made by the latter road. Yet the government had not interfered as it had in the boycott on Pullman cars. It should let the railways and their employes fight out their differences just as it does not interfere in disputes between one road and another.

There was a volley of hand clapping as Mr. Howard finished. The commission decided, however, that the matters he referred to were not germane to the investigation.

E. W. Bemis, associate professor of political economy in the University of Chicago, appeared as a witness. Arbitration, he said, seems to have worked well in the settlement of disputes in private industries in Massachusetts, where there is a state board of conciliation and arbitration. In cases where either side refuses these conciliatory measures the board may make an investigation. Where the parties consent to arbitrate the commission has the right to compel employers to show the books as to wages, but they cannot be compelled to testify as to profits.

As to railroads, it was likely that some time in the future they would pass into government control and that civil regulations would prevail. But that time is remote, and as a present remedy Prof. Bemis suggested the creation of state courts for the settlement of disputes between company and employes on interstate roads, and of a federal court of inquiry, conciliation, and arbitration for the adjustment of labor difficulties on interstate railways. These courts should have power to make exhaustive inquiry and compliance with their decisions should be obligatory. He thought it would be a good plan to license all railway employes, just as lake and river engineers and pilots are licensed.

H. F. Griswold testified in regard to blacklisting. He is a switchman, 28 years old, and had been a railroad man about ten years. He was one of the American Railway union organizers for the Northwestern road. "I applied for work less than a week ago at Altoona, O.," said he. "I wrote out my name and then the trainmaster turned to a book, and, finding my name there, said I was blacklisted and could not have work on that road. The same experience was met with at Columbus, O."

A. B. Connors, the next witness, also had some experience with the black list. He learned of it for the first time when he applied to the Union Stock Yards & Transit company for work. His name was upon a list, he said, which the company had in the office, and he was turned away because of his participation in the strike.

Rev. William H. Carwardine, of the Pullman Methodist Episcopal church, testified at the afternoon session. After stating briefly the origin of the strike, Mr. Carwardine said:

"After the strike was declared I felt in justice I must state my views on the question, and I discussed the matter in the pulpit. The wages were cut severely and unequally. There was dissatisfaction with the local administration and with the abuses of the foreman. The men did not have a reduction of the rent when the wages were cut, and the men felt that justice could not be received. Mr. Pullman and Mr. Wickes are not so much to blame for the present state of affairs. The difficulty is with the local administration. If Mr. Pullman had been in closer relationship with his men and if rent had been reduced when the wages were the strike would have been averted. I don't know how much the rent should have been reduced. The Pullman company starts out with the idea of a system of paternalism and the system was founded to improve the workingmen. I contend that the company should not cut the wages of their old employes, but act from the standpoint of the paternalistic system."

Mr. Carwardine went on to explain how he had met the committee of the Pullman strikers and had interviewed Mr Debs and endeavored to have them declare the boycott off. He was not an advocate of strikers, was inclined much in favor of arbitration and the government management of railroads. He had been charged with being an anarchist and a socialist. It was impossible to be both. Anarchy he repudiated entirely; he was what might be called a Christian socialist. Referring to the strike he said he thought the conduct of the strikers had been remarkably good. He said he knew sixty-four families were soon to be evicted at pullman, and after he left the stand said he was in the city to raise money some way to stop the ejectment proceedings.

Eugene V. Debs has telegraphed the commission that he is recovering from his recent illness, but on account of the sickness of his wife, he will not be able to appear for examination before the middle of next week.

Additional Testimony.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—The first witness before the labor commission at the opening of the fourth day's session was Thomas W. Heathcote, chairman of the Pullman strike committee, who had been recalled. He said that the Pullman company's statement that the company's books might be looked over by the employes was merely a statement by one of the clerks. When the employes went to investigate the books they were refused. He said that the Pullman branch of the American Railway union was formed during the last of March and the month of April. Nearly all of the 4,000 employes of the company joined the union. Each man paid one dollar for the privileges of membership. Of all the employes between 2,500 and 3,000 lived in the houses of the company.

Miss Mary Abbott Wood, who worked in the electrical department at Pullman, was the next witness. She said she was a member of the American Railway union and was one of the Pullman strikers. Her father had died some time ago in the company's employ. She had to support her mother on the one dollar a day she received from the Pullman company. She lived in one of the Pullman houses and paid $17.71 a month. Miss Wood showed the commission a notice of eviction, dated May 3, she had received from the company. She testified that she had paid her rent to April 30. The company, by mistake, had credited the rent to her sister. When she asked for a rectification she was refused. She had not yet been evicted.

Frank P. McDonald, a locomotive engineer on the Chicago Great Western was next called. He said that sometimes he was compelled to remain on continuous service from sixty to seventy-two hours without rest. Mr. McDonald went into an extended account of the trouble on the Chicago and Great Western. It was caused by a refusal of the company to restore wages, which had been cut.

Mr. McDonald said he opposed the recent strike because he thought the American Railway union was not strong enough to fight the general managers in the hard times when so many men were out of work. He did not think the strike would be successful. He voted for the strike only because he was so instructed by his local union.

"I am opposed to strikes in general," said Mr. McDonald, "but when the federal government will do nothing for us, and we have no weapon but the strike, we must use it. If it were not for strikes the railroad men in this country would be working for one-half the pay they are now getting."

Asked what he knew about the stoppage of mail trains the witness said that the Chicago & Great Western mail train No. 3 on June 28 last was "killed" by the management of that road and its crew was used to take out an excursion train to St. Claire. This mail train was obstructed by the railway managers and not by the strikers or the members of the American Railway union.

McDonald told how it was impossible for him to obtain employment after the Burlington strike, when he was blacklisted. The company's influence was used against him, he said, even to the extent of protesting to Gov. Francis, of Missouri, against McDonald's appointment as oil inspector at St. Joseph, Mo.

Miss Jane Adams, superintendent of Hull house and member of the board of conciliation of the civic federation, was next called. She recited the efforts of the civic federation to bring about a settlement of the trouble. The employes of the A. R. U. were always willing and anxious to arbitrate, but Pullman and his officials would say to the committee only that they had nothing to arbitrate.

Arthur M. Wilson and Nettie M. West, employes of the Pullman company, testified as to the reduction in wages.

H. W. Pearson, a real estate agent who operates at Kensington, Roseland, Southwest Pullman, and other localities adjacent to Pullman, said houses which rented for $17 in Pullman could be had for $10 a month in Kensington. In all cases, in his judgment, rents were about 75 to 100 per cent. higher in Pullman than in the adjacent towns.

The commission adjourned to 10 o'clock Monday. Application has been made the commission to hear statements by representatives of unorganized labor. All persons who think they can give the commission any information as to the conditions of labor, organized or unorganized, will be heard.

President Debs' Testimony.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—On the fifth day of the proceedings President Debs told his story. After relating the situation as he found it early in May, Mr. Debs said he was satisfied that the employes were justified in striking, and he resolved to do all in his power, under the law and in justice, to help right their wrongs. Mr. Debs then recited the history of the strike, relating the various attempts to induce Pullman to submit to arbitration.

Mr. Debs denied that he had sent or ordered sent any inflammatory telegrams. Explaining the telegram, "Save your money and buy a gun," he said it was written by a clerk named Benedict to a former employer at Butte, Mont., as a joke and nothing whatever to do with the strike.

Mr. Debs severely criticised Gen. Miles for calling at the offices of the General Managers' association on the day he came to Chicago as being vulgarly out of place, and maintaining that his only duty here was to maintain order and preserve the peace.

Continuing, Mr. Debs desired the commission to understand that he as president of the American Railway union did not and could not order strikes which were decided on by the local unions themselves. "I am not shirking any portion of my responsibility," said he. "I heartily concurred in the action taken and if I had had a voice in the ordering of the strike I would have ordered it."

"Five days after the strike was declared we had the railroads completely beaten and at our mercy, as we believed," continued he. "They were paralyzed. They could not get men to take the places of our men who were out. Then I and my associate officials were served with a sweeping injunction issued by the United States courts restraining us from performing our functions as officials of the American Railway union. Similar injunctions were issued at all terminal points. A few days afterward we were arrested for alleged contempt of court. We were unable to direct the men, and that defeated the strike.

"We protested against the presence of the federal troops. We did not object to state troops or the police. If I am correct, all the trouble, except some minor disturbances, took place after the arrival of the federal troops, the coming of whom angered and inflamed the men. The police have reported to me that our men were entirely law-abiding."

"Did your men intimidate other men not members of the American Railway union?" asked Commissioner Wright.

"We did not. Intimidation is against the policy of the American Railway union. We told our men that we had the right to quit work and there our rights absolutely ceased; that other men had the absolute right to take their places and that any one interfering with them would be punished by our order and the civil law."

At the afternoon session Mr. Debs opened his testimony with a denunciation of the unfairness shown by some of the Chicago papers in their treatment of himself and the strike generally. He said that some of the papers had purposely misrepresented the facts until, if there had been a revolution, the press of Chicago might properly have been held responsible for it. Said he: "I was persistently misrepresented in interviews with the order-in-proved. tention of alienating public sympathy from us and disorganizing our men by discrediting us."

"Do you claim," asked Mr. Wright, "that the railroads were responsible for the strike because they insisted on hauling Pullman cars?"

"No, sir. The American Railway union was responsible for it, but under aggravating circumstances. The general managers are united to reduce wages. The employes are united to resist such reductions. In case of a reduction that leads to a strike we think the company is responsible."

"What is your opinion as to methods of averting strikes?" asked Commissioner Worthington.

"Of course submission would avert strikes. That is the plan of the old brotherhoods. If a general manager wants to make a cut of 10 per cent. he gives notice of a cut of 20 per cent., and then they meet and compromise. The history of the organizations shows that their system tends to inevitable and gradual reductnon of wages. My own idea, and it is the idea of the American Railway union, is to unify all the railroad men of the country. A power like that prudently managed would avert strikes. The railroad managers would recognize the wisdom of treating it fairly and meeting it in a conciliatory spirit. But even if we had such a unification the men would not win a strike. All the forces of the government would be against them the moment the strike interfered with the convenience of the public."

"Do you believe a strike is justifiable that interferes with public convenience?"

"I believe strikes are justifiable, no matter what the result, when it is to resist degradation and enslaving conditions. If it were not, the tendency of our civilization would be constantly downward. If railroads and corporations generally treated their employes fairly there would be no labor organizations. Their origin in almost every case is traceable directly to the tyranny of the employing classes.

"Do you believe in government ownership of railroads?" asked Mr. Kerman.

"Yes, sir, I believe the government ownership of railroads is decidedly better than railroad ownership of the government."

The reply caused much merriment. Then the witness said compulsory arbitration was a contradiction of terms. To be effective arbitration must be voluntary. In local troubles state courts might be established to compel an adjudication of troubles, but it would be impossible to enforce an award in a great territory such as the railroads covered. The witness also said that he believed a government license for railroad employes would be a good thing.

R. G. DUN & CO.'S OPINION.

Report on the Business Situation in Many Cities.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

"The new tariff, if signed by the president as expected, provides a definite basis for business. No supplemental legislation is thought possible until next year at least. Large improvement has been expected from any settlement, the more because of a vast amount of business deferred from week to week in the hope of more definite conditions. The rush of such business, or even a part of it, might easily double transactions for a time. It is not to be overlooked that the effect of new duties upon many branches of industry and trade is problematical, and may be determined only after some months of experience, and meanwhile the serious injury to corn and some of the conditions exercise a restraining influence. It is too early to look for effects of the new situation in the great industries, but the gradual recovery which has appeared for some time is seen in a better demand for products.

"Resumption by iron and steel works which were stopped by the strikes continues to depress prices of some finished products, but with more furnaces operating prices of pig iron are not lower. Comparisons given to-day show a fall in prices ranging from 20 to 44 per cent. in iron and its products since 1890, which sufficiently accounts for the idleness of more than a third of the works.

"Speculation in corn has been active, the price falling 4 cents, rising 3½ cents, and falling 2 cents, with varying reports of injury, which in some of the states is undoubtedly severe. Pork has advanced 50 cents and lard 35 cents per 100 pounds, with justification in the injury to corn. Wheat is about 1 cent lower.

The Week's Failures.

"Liabilities of firms failing in the week ended August 9 are a little larger than of late, $3,294,689, of which $1,041,491 were of manufacturing and $1,603,198 of trading concerns. Full returns for July show an aggregate of $11,291,305. The failures this week have been 226 in the United States, against 455 last year, and 45 in Canada, against 27 last year."

CELEBRATE WAYNE'S VICTORY.

Centenary Anniversary of the Battle of Fallen Timbers.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 22.—About 5,000 people assembled on the battlefield of Fallen Timbers, on the Maumee river, 12 miles above this city, to celebrate the centenary of Wayne's victory. Here on August 20, 1794, he defeated the Wyandot, Ottawa and Delaware Indians, breaking the power of their confederacy, and securing peace to the then northwestern frontier. A national salute was fired at sunrise. At 10:30 the Maumee Valley Monumental association held a meeting and listened to a historical addresss by Col. D. W. H. Howard. A picnic dinner followed. The afternoon exercises consisted of music, the adoption of resolutions asking congress to mark the spot by a suitable monument, followed by the address of the day, by Gen. Samuel F. Hunt, of Cincinnati. Short addresses followed by Department Commander E. E. Nutt, of Ohio, and Gen. P. S. Slevin.

FAILURES IN NEW YORK.

Theodore S. Baron & Co. Go to the Wall and Carry Another Firm with Them.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—There were two assignments Friday, one the outcome of the other. Theodore S. Baron and Samuel Baron, copartners under the firm name of Theodore S. Baron & Co., manufacturers of knit underwear in this city, and their mill in Clyms street, Brooklyn, assigned. It is said the liabilities will reach $125,000, with nominal assets to equal that amount. The firm has paid out during the last three years about $50,000 for improved machinery. This failure forced the firm of S. Baron & Co., comprised of Samuel Baron and Max Straus, manufacturers of knit goods at the same address, to the wall, and they also assigned. The liabilities are said to be about $150,000; assets, $125,000. The assignments are attributed to the uncertainty of the tariff legislation, the general financial depression and the inability to make profitable sales.

FAST EXPRESS DITCHED.

Trainmen Injured, But No Passengers, Near Pocahontas, Ill.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—The New York fast express on the Vandalia road from New York to St. Louis was ditched 2 miles west of Pocahontas, Ill., Monday evening and all on board had a miraculous escape from death. Six persons, all trainmen, were injured, none fatally. While running 45 miles an hour the engine, three mail and one baggage car left the tracks and turned over. Two coaches and the parlor car kept the track. Engineer Menifee, Fireman Dickinson and four postal clerks were injured more or less seriously, but none of the other trainmen or passengers were hurt. No reason for the wreck is known. The track was so badly torn up that the remainder of the train had to be brought to the city over the tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern.

Mars Has No Atmosphere.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 20.—Prof. Campbell, of Lick Observatory, has demonstrated with the spectroscope that the planet Mars presents no evidence of having an atmosphere. Prof. Holden says that if any atmospheric pressure exists it is not as great as on our highest mountains and that popular fancies concerning that planet are thus disproved.

Aimed at Alien Anarchists.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The house committee on judiciary has decided to favorably report Senator Hill's bill for the exclusion and deportation of alien anarchists which passed the senate. The anti-anarchist bill will be called up in the house next week, and it is predicted that it will be passed.

CONFEDERATES IN CONGRESS.

Only Twelve Men to Be Found in Both Branches—Passing Away.

The men who enjoyed prominence in the military and civil service of the confederacy are rapidly passing from the arena of national politics, says the Augusta Chronicle. Below is a record of such as are still in active life at Washington: The senior United States senator from Alabama, John T. Morgan, was a brigadier general in the confederate army; and her other senator, James L. Pugh, was a member of the confederate congress. Joseph Wheeler, who attained the rank of lieutenant general in the confederate service, has for twelve years been the representative in congress from the Eighth Alabama district. The senior senator from Georgia, John B. Gordon, was likewise a lieutenant general in the army of the confederacy. Edward C. Walthall, of Mississippi, a major general in the confederate service, and of late the junior United States senator from his native state, while not now in active politics, having resigned for the balance of his present term in the upper house, has been elected for and is confidently expected to take his seat in that honorable body in March, 1895. The senior United States senator from Missouri, Francis M. Cockrell, was a brigadier general in the confederate army; and the other senator from that commonwealth, George G. Vest, held positions in both houses of the confederate congress. The present senior United States senators from both North and South Carolina, Matt W. Ransom and M. C. Butler, were major generals in the confederate service. The representatives from Tennessee in the upper house of congress are Isham G. Harris, the senior, and William B. Bate, who is the junior senator from that commonwealth. The first mentioned was a war governor of his native state and the last named was a major general in the confederate army. And lastly, Eppa Hunton, who saw service as brigadier general in the confederate army, at present occupies the position of junior senator from Virginia in the congress of the United States. Thus do we perceive that of the multitude of those who distinguished themselves in the military and civil annals of the confederacy only twelve remain in national halls.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

More Suits.

Atty. Gen. Childs has commenced an action in conversion against Albert H. Powers and Anthony J. Dwyer, members of the Minneapolis firm of Powers & Dwyer. The suit is brought against the individual members of the firm and is to recover $40,000 damages for the alleged cutting of pine on state lands. The complaint is similar to those upon which the pine land investigating committee of the last legislature brought the other suits, upon which $20,000 has already been recovered, and simply alleges that the state is the owner of section 16, township 36, range 23, in Itasca county, and that between Sept. 1, 1890, and July 15, 1894, the firm sued had cut and removed 5,000,000 feet of saw logs from the section named. The logs, it is alleged, were run into the boom of the Mississippi and Rum River Boom company. The complaint alleges that the logs cut are valued at $8 per thousand, aggregating $40,000 in value.

Funeral Without Burial.

The unusual spectacle of a funeral unattended by an interment was witnessed by the people of Excelsior. The little daughter of George Schuck has been ill for some time past, suffering from spinal menengitis, and gradually declining, she died. The arrangements for the funeral and interment were perfected and the services were held over the remains at the church at Excelsior, near Mr. Schuck's home, but when it came to placing the body in the earth the parents held back and would not allow the burial to take place, fearing the little one might not be dead but only in some kind of a trance. The body of the child was therefore returned to its father's home, to await developments.

Prison Census.

The eight semi-annual prison census for the state of Minnesota, compiled to June 20, has been issued by the Board of Charities and Corrections, and, contrary to expectations, shows a marked decrease in the prison population, notwithstanding the hard times. The total number of prissners is 980 as compared with 1,198 on June 20 of last year, and the total number of state convicts for this year is 554 against 493 of last year, this being the only increase. Of petty convicts Hennepin has 48, a decrease of 100, Ramsey 110, a decrease of 85, St. Louis 29, a decrease of 29. The board in its report states that it is unable to assign any reason for the remarkable decrease.

Expenses.

The following expense lists of the state prison and reformatory were presented to the state auditor for payment:

Prison—Current for July, $7,884.52; revolving fund, $13,416.42; repairs, $550.81. July earnings amounted to $15,541.64.

Expenses of Reformatory—Farm and stock, $56.61; repairs, $13.78; current for July, $3,028.14. The secretary of state's fees for July amounted to $117.25.

An Award.

A certificate of award to the state of Minnesota on the high school board system and 30 volumes of work was received by Supt. Pendergast from the Columbian exposition authorities. The following three points are designated in the awards: The superlative excellence of the library system; the meritorious school board system with high grade illustrative work, and the effective methods of showing the actual school working in the souvenir manual.

News in Brief.

H. C. Olliver, a well known railroad man of St. Paul, committed suicide by drowning himself in White Bear lake.

The contract for the superstructure of the wagon bridge at Red Wing was awarded by the city council to the Toledo Bridge company. Bid, $29,561.81.

Johannas Weber, of Duluth, aged 50 committed suicide by taking Rough-on-Rats.

A man named Nelson was arrested at Forest River for having a stolen watch in his possession. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a fine of $10 and 20 days in jail.

Hiram Matson, who recently lost his position as chief of the newspaper department at the Minneapolis postoffice, is said to have been a forger.

George Neidhart of St Cloud attempted to commit suicide in Lake George. The police were summond and he was rescued.

Patrick Galvin was found on the streets of St. Paul with a bullet hole over his right eye. He was taken to the city hospital, and though conscious refused to explain how the injury had been inflicted. The wound was found to be a very dangerous one, but is not thought to be fatal.

All of the great elevator companies doing business on the Duluth board of trade have met the cut made by the Great Northern elevators. This affects 27,000,000 bushels capacity and will undoubtedly compel Minneapolis and possibly Milwaukee and Chicago elevator systems, 65,000,000 bushels more, to follow.

An infant female child was found near the Soo railway shops in St. Paul. The child was wrapped in an old shawl and had apparently been left there to die, as no one lives in the vicinity. The police were notified, and the patrol wagon was sent to the place and the babe was sent to Bethany Home.

Maud Arlington, claiming to be from Milwaukee, was arrested at Stillwater for passing a forged check, purporting to be signed by the St. Croix Lumber Company. The check was for $11 and the job was a neat one.

Thomas Garner, one of the oldest residents of Washington county, died at Oakdale, more than 100 years of age. Garner had served in the English army and fought at Waterloo.

TRUE DEMOCRACY.

Principles Which Prompted the President's Letter to Chairman Wilson.

The president's letter to Chairman Wilson is full of sound democratic doctrine. It is refreshing to read it after the weary weeks of democratic silence in the face of a betrayal of the party's pledges by senators who hold democratic commissions but who place their own interests above those of their party and their country.

Mr Cleveland wrote the letter as an appeal to Mr. Wilson in this crisis to "insist upon party honesty and good faith and a sturdy adherence to democratic principles."

The question as presented to the conferrees is in Mr. Cleveland's words "whether democratic principles themselves are to be saved or abandoned." In view of his belief that democratic principles are imperiled by the senate bill, Senator Smith's protest against the interference of a democratic president in behalf of his party by writing a letter to the democratic chairman of the ways and means committee is of a piece with his insistence on no tariff bill at all unless the sugar trust shall be amply provided for.

What are the democratic principles in behalf of which Mr. Cleveland has done an unprecedented thing under unprecedented circumstances? He states them in his own terse way in the letter. He says:

"It must be admitted that no tariff measure can accord with democratic principles and promises or bear a genuine democratic badge that does not provide for free raw materials."

This is absolutely true, absolutely sound, absolutely democratic. As Senator Hill said the other day in his remarkable speech upholding the president:

"It expresses better than I can hope to do the true, sound and logical position of the democratic party upon this question. * * * Upon the question of free raw materials the president is right, and you know it. You cannot answer his arguments. You cannot successfully dispute his propositions. You cannot doubt his sincerity and patriotism. You must yield in the end to his views. You cannot stand up against the sentiment of the great democratic masses of the country which will rally around the president in his contest with you upon this particular branch of the subject."

Again the president says, in speaking of the senate bill, which leaves the wool of the farmer on the free list and proposes to protect the coal and iron ore of the capitalist:

"How can we face the people after indulging in such outrageous discriminations and violations of principle? It is quite apparent that this question of free raw materials does not admit of adjustment on any middle ground, since their subjection to any rate of tariff taxation, great or small, is alike violative of democratic principle and democratic good faith."

If this is not democratic, and if Mr. Smith's "sweat-leather" statesmanship and his and Gorman's and Brice's sugar trust statesmanship are democratic, then those who have made the democratic party what it is, those who have led it through its hard but patriotic struggle for tariff reform, those who have won its triumph, those who have given Smith and Gorman and Brice what power they possess, have been basely deceived. It was Cleveland's democracy, not Smith's, for which the people supposed they were voting in 1890 and in 1892.

And this again is theirs as it is Cleveland's democracy:

"The democracy of the land plead most earnestly for the speedy completion of the tariff legislation which their representatives have undertaken; but they demand not less earnestly that no stress of necessity shall tempt those they trust to the abandonment of democratic principles."

Rather than a bill dictated by the sugar trust and the money-bags of the senate it would be better to have no bill at all. We will then at least save the issue for which the democratic party has been courageously and hopefully struggling for twenty years.

In conclusion we quote once more from Senator Hill's speech, because of the force and eloquence with which he emphasizes the point made by the World since this bill went into conference:

"The house of representatives, fresh from the people, which represents more distinctly and peculiarly than we do the taxing power of the people, repudiates our bill, and a democratic president has emphasized that repudiation, and the condition which confronts us is one of extreme embarrassment. Shall we retreat or advance? Shall we surrender to the house while we can do so honorably, or shall we wait until we are driven to it?"—N. Y. World.

FAVORS NO SECTION.

The Tariff Bill Is Intended to Treat All States Alike.

The attempt of the McKinley organs in both parties to arouse sectional prejudice against the tariff bill because the democratic conferrees are mainly from the south is not warranted by the measure itself.

The bill as it stands provides for free wool and free lumber. Texas alone had 4,234,551 sheep in 1893. This is three times as many as New York had. It just about equals the number of sheep in the five great western states of Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa. Missouri and Kentucky, two other southern states, have nearly as many sheep as all the New England states and New York together.

Are not Georgia, North Carolina and other southern timber-producing states as much affected by free lumber as any northern states?

As passed by the house the bill made coal and iron ore free. It is hoped that the conference will result in a restoration of the democratic policy. Are not Alabama, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland large producers of these articles?

The sugar bounty, of which Louisiana is the chief beneficiary, was voted by a republican congress and is repealed in the pending bill.

Whatever may be the defects of the compromise measure it is not a sectional bill.—N. Y. World.

——Senator Hill is known as one who has no superfluous admiration for President Cleveland and no one can believe that he would deliberately approve the president's action in this matter if he were not constrained by his conviction of right and of the president's soundness. Senator Hill's testimony is substantially what the lawyers call testimony against interest, and when he says that "no democrat can controvert the position taken by Mr. Cleveland in that letter" he is unanswerable. It is well to note also that Senator Hill bears testimony upon the other point considered when he declares that "the president violated no clause of the constitution when he penned that letter."—Detroit Free Press.

——The people of the country are substantially united in a conservative measure which will reduce the burdens of taxation, remove the oppression of the McKinley tariff and make a great step in that direction of absolute tariff reform which is approved in the democratic platform.—Albany Argus.

DUTY AND TARIFF TAXATION.

Conditions Which Render Immediate Action Necessary.

It is true that ninety-nine per cent. of the democrats of the country prefer the house tariff bill to that which passed the senate, and it is not surprising that the preference is so overwhelming. The house bill wasn't a perfect measure, but it very closely approached the lines which had been laid down in the minds of the democrats of the country. It suostituted in nearly all cases ad valorem for specific duties, which is in the interest of justice and reason, and in all material instances put raw materials on the free list in obedience to a well-understood democratic demand. Its only grave fault was that it held out the menace of a treasury deficiency, which, if realized, would have been calamitous.

The senate bill is much less perfect, though in the taxation of sugar it avoided the danger which lurked in the house measure. But it is safe to say that that is the only point of improvement. It is objectionable in that it restores the odious and unjust specific system of duties. It violates the democratic pledges in continuing the tax on raw materials. It is offensive in that it preserves the unjust and injurious protective system. In fact, the only thing that can be truthfully said in its favor is that it is infinitely better than the McKinley bill. Its adoption would repeal that agency of robbery and destroyer of prosperity and save the people of this country millions of dollars in taxation.

These are the conditions that confront the democratic congress and people. In the face of them what is to be done? There is no use in flying off on a tangent over it. Reason the question out. Summon the arguments on both sides, and weigh them. On one side it may be said that the failure to legislate for the relief of the people will forfeit public confidence in the democratic party. It will continue the needless burdens which have exhausted their resources, prostrated their energies and destroyed their prosperity. It will put the democratic party on the defensive in the impending congressional contest, and a defensive fight is a losing battle. Moreover, it will justify the accusation that the democratic party is incapable of governing the country.

What is to be said on the other side? President Cleveland has said it all, and said it well. It is simply that the senate bill fails to fulfill the obligations of the democratic party, and that the failure is so emphatic and inexcusable that it amounts to a betrayal of faith. That is a serious objection, and one which should bring upon the heads of those responsible for it the most severe execration. But, after all, if the condition is a choice between the senate bill and the McKinley bill, the senate bill should be passed, and that accomplished, every agency of punishing the recreants should be invoked. The interests of the people are entitled to consideration first. After that matters of politics will be in order.—Kansas City Times.

POINTS AND OPINIONS.

——Under democratic institutions there is a force stronger than senates, more powerful than presidents, more potent even than the press. It is the force of public opinion.—N. Y. World.

——The republican party of Iowa has become a party of extravagance. It is heedless of the necessities of the people and reckless in the expenditure of their money.—Ex-Gov. Boies' Speech.

——An exchange asks: "Why do fishermen lie?" Perhaps for the same reason that republican editors do: they can catch more suckers by lying than by telling the truth.—Kansas City Times.

——A proper tariff bill must, as the president says, be largely the result of honorable adjustment and compromise. But it need not be the result of barter and sale.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

——The president's letter to Mr. Wilson is the utterance of an earnest, honest advocate of a principle who sees that principle endangered; it is the utterance of an earnest party man who dislikes to see his party going wrong or failing in its duty; it is a timely and patriotic deliverance which ought to bring the democratic leaders to their senses.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

——Gov. McKinley is unnecessarily alarmed. The possibility of Gen. Tracy or Chauncey M. Depew carrying New York state this fall, thus casting the McKinley boomlet into the shade, need cause him no uneasiness. If his chances for the nomination are threatened only by a republican victory in New York he can go to work on his speech of acceptance at once.—Chicago Herald.

——Over confidence has taken full possession of the republican party this year, and in politics over-confidence is a most dangerous thing. It is almost two years now since the last national election, and Whitelaw Reid hasn't fully recovered from the terrible nightmare of seeing a sure thing slip through his fingers. Over-confident republicans should consult him.—Kansas City Times.

——There are thirty-five democrats in the United States senate who stand for tariff reform. There are nine democrats who are traitors to their party and to the people. The nine traitors would not have the power to put one nickel in the treasury of a thieving tariff trust were it not for the fact that thirty-eight republican senators stand in solid phalanx in defense of the trusts. Yet the republican press is trying to make party capital out of the situation.—Chicago Herald.

——The will of the American people has been twice expressed, each time with the emphasis of more than one million majority, in favor of tariff reform based on free raw materials and cheaper necessaries. The obstructing senators should yield because they are few, because they are wrong, because the people are against them, and because their attitude is opposed to the principles and the pledges of their party. Politicians who persist in defying public opinion will surely be crushed by it.—N. Y. World.

——It seems to shock some of our esteemed republican contemporaries that President Cleveland had no precedent for his letter to Congressman Wilson. But if they will overhall their histories they will find that John Hancock and his associates had no precedent for the declaration of independence or Abraham Lincoln for the emancipation proclamation. Notwithstanding that drawback both these documents have been largely approved by the civilized world.—Detroit Free Press.

ARISTOCRATS IN TRADE.

From Æsthetic Seclusion Into the Arena of Commercial Conflict.

Not so very long ago the line between the aristocracy and other classes of the community was very decidedly drawn at trade. A poor family might lay claims to gentility, and one or more of its members might now and then figure at, say, a country ball, but a tradesman's family—never. Now it is otherwise, the aristocracy themselves having stepped over the dividing line. Lord Shrewsbury and Talbot, for instance, who takes precedence of all other Earls, unblushingly became a cab proprietor; "Lord Rayleigh" is the inscription that may be read on the signboard of one or two London dairies. The marquis of Londonderry is prepared to deliver coal by the ton. "No agents"—such are the final words of this nobleman's advertisement, put in just as any trader born and bred might put them in. This decent from aristocratic seclusion into the arena of commercial conflict is not confined to the male portion of our nobility. Titled ladies under disguised names carry on millinery establishments and run cafes. Their dainty fingers, too, are not above manipulating flowers for profit. So generally, indeed, has the sacred thirst for gold infected the upper ten, that whereas they were wont to be accused of living in idleness, they are now accused of taking the bread out of the mouths of those who depend entirely upon business for their support.

Far beneath these noble ranks can be traced a similar descent. Street music, for instance, used to be discoursed by the utterly abject and broken-down; now men and women, warmly clad and well fed, go about with organs. Troupes of men sing, rattle the bones, and do a breakdown in the public thoroughfares to the tune of not less than the better part of a sovereign a day per man. Two hundred pounds a year in an assured situation was the salary that one young man threw up last summer to join a nigger troupe at the seaside, and he doesn't regret it. At the end of the season he had more money than he ever had before and during the season he ate better dinners and drank better wines than he had ever eaten or drank before. Hawking matches, or laces, or any other trifle in public house bars used to be and still is a way of evading the law against begging. Indeed the custom of singing on the streets arose out of the same necessity for those in want not to incriminate themselves. Now you will be in the saloon bar of a first rate refreshment house. In comes a top-hatted, well-dressed man with a bag. Some successful stock broker, you think, if it be in the city. You fancy you are the victim of a delusion. Here is this man, as well dressed as your principal, holding his open bag before you and asking you to buy a box of vestas! Well dressed women are going about from public house to public house pursuing similar callings. They speak well, too, do these people, betraying a fair amount of education. If tradesmen have any grounds for complaining of the aristocracy trenching on their territory surely the poor and needy have grounds of similarly complaining of having the instruments of their profession thus confiscated by an apparently superior class. Of course, with such a downward trend the poor and needy are driven lower still, and this in a measure is seen in the ever increasing charitable institutions, relief agencies, soup kitchens, and so forth, and the ever increasing strain on the resources of such establishments.—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

TWO HUMANITARIANS.

They Meant All Right, but Their Philosophy Was Bad.

An observing person who rides on the street cars is liable to run across a good many interesting things in the course of time, and when an individual with the gift of perception rides regularly upon the cars in pursuit of a living and either punches the fares or directs the vehicle he is a good man to meet occasionally. The man of this character is a conductor on an F street car, and one day last week the writer was chatting with him on the rear platform. Two ladies and two children climbed aboard and the conductor went in to collect their fares.

"See that?" he inquired when he returned to the platform.

"See what?" queried the reporter.

"Why, those two women who got on just now with the children. When they paid their fares the little ones were sitting in their laps and they only gave up two tickets. Now you see they have deposited the children in the seat in front of them and they occupy it all. Of course, as the car gets crowded I will have to demand fares for those two kids, and then there'll be a rumpus as sure as you are born."

"The funniest thing, though, that has come under my experience in the past four or five months occurred on my car yesterday," he went on, as he rang up a fare. "You know it was pretty hot. The fact is, it was about the hottest day I ever felt in my life, and I wouldn't have been surprised to have seen the horses topple over at any minute. A couple of mighty sweet-looking young ladies got on my car near the Shoreham as I was coming down town and took the last seat. I couldn't help hearing their conversation, and I found out pretty soon that they were both members of the Humane society. Every horse and other dumb animal that came along the street was an object of their pity, but I didn't hear them say much about the human beings who were plodding along, sweltering and suffering in the sun. Well, sir, when the car got down near Twelfth street, one of them says to the other: 'Now, Minnie, I'll get out on this side of Eleventh street and you get out on the other side, because in that way, you see, the car will have to stop twice, and so the poor horses will have two rests.'

"And there isn't any doubt in my mind," concluded the conductor, "that those two girls thought they were just showering kindness on the horses. If they had only known that the animals which pull these cars would sooner drag one five squares than to have to start it up once they'd have had another kind of an idea of what humanity is."—Washington Star.

Largest Spring in the World.

The largest and most wonderful spring of fresh water in the world is on the Gulf coast of Florida, in Hernando county. The water is said to be remarkably pure.—N. Y. World.

A BENEVOLENT BARON.

His Big Winnings on the Turf Distributed Among the Poor.

Rather more than a year since, says the London Telegraph, we gave a list of the charitable donations bestowed by Baron de Hirsch in 1893 upon the hospitals, homes and benevolent institutions which he had selected as recipients of the large sums of money won by him upon the turf in public stakes in 1891 and 1892. In the first of these years the baron won about $25,000 and in the second year about $175,000, including such small items as moneys paid to the second in selling races and the prizes attaching to second and third places in general races. Altogether the sum amounted to about $210,000, and this munificent gift represented the baron's gross winnings in public stakes, from which no deduction was made for the expense of training a large stud of horses, for traveling charges, forfeits, stakes, jockey's fees and other items comprised in the large and swollen bills with which owners of race horses are but too familiar. It was universally admitted that the fortunate owner of the famous mare La Fleche, by whom the greater portion of the above named large sum was won, had displayed great generosity in giving away all his winnings for charitable purposes without subtracting his expenses. What is to be said, however, when, as in the present instance, the example set by the baron in 1893 is not only followed but duplicated in 1894? During the racing season which close in November last Baron de Hirsch's horses won in public stakes about $37,500. This seemed to him, and to the kindly almoner through whom in both cases the baron's bounty has flowed, to be but a small sum for distribution in comparison with the noble contribution to London charities made in the previous year. Under these circumstances the baron remarked that, without establishing a precedent, he had made up his mind to double the sum that his gross winnings amounted to in 1893, and accordingly he drew a check for $75,000, which he handed to his friend for distribution. It was his wish that this sum should be divided among London hospitals and charitable institutions, and $66,500 was thus disposed of, the balance remaining having been reserved for sundry smaller calls.

"Palace Cars."

Under this head are comprised sleeping, hotel, dining, drawing-room, private, hunting and composite cars. As long ago as 1836, the first attempt to provide sleeping accommodations on a train was made on the Cumberland Valley railroad, in Pennsylvania. The train from Harrisburg arrived at Chambersburg at night, and many travelers desired to go immediately through to Philadelphia. A car was fitted up with stationary bunks, such as are in use on steamboats, and was divided into four sections, each having three berths, upper, middle and lower. Each passenger was expected to furnish his own bedding. The first regular sleeping car, built according to present ideas, was constructed by a man named Thompson, at Springfield, Mass., in 1857 or 1858. This car was bought from Thompson by the late Webster Wagner, then a wagon maker, and from this has developed the great Wagner Palace Car company. Geo. M. Pullman is another of the pioneers in the business of making travel luxurious, and his cars are known all over the world. Another early inventor was Woodruff, who made considerable money on his patents, by royalties paid by both the Pullman and Wagner companies. Sleeping cars were first used in the state of New York in 1858-9. The Burlington Route trains contain the finest products of the Pullman company in the way of sleeping cars of the most modern kind, and as to dining cars, they long since had the title of peerless bestowed on them by the delighted public. For tickets, maps and time tables of this route apply to your home agent, or address W. J. C. KENYON, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

DELANO DIARY

—The five o'clock tea, at Mrs. Chances last night was well attended.

—WANTED—to borrow $250.00, good security, Delano property, will pay 10 per cent interest.—Apply at this office.

—Capt. Sibel's barn was struck by lightning and burned on Wednesday evening. Several tons of hay went up in flames.

—The Delano Stars expect the second nine of Howard Lake to come and play a game of base ball, in this village, tomorow afternoon.

—Miss Julia Cunningham will reside in Minneapolis this winter and keep house for her brother Emery who will attend the University.

—The third Quartely Meeting will be held at the M. E. Church on Sept. 1 and 2. Rev. Dr. Chaffee will preach on Sundayt a 10:30 a. m.

—On Monday the residence of Nick Frank was quarantened on account of diphtheria, his 8 year old daughter being down with the disease.

—Secure your seats for the Royce enentertainers at Wittmans drug store. The best entertainment that Delano has had for several years is promised. Adv.

—Reports from Minneapolis say that Harry Nelson and Willie Kubon former Delano boys have been arested for stealing bicycles. Kubon is out on $200. bail.

—From the Norwood Times we lean that ordinances have been passed in that village taxing dogs and fining and imprisoning the users of abusive or obscene language.

—Mr. Elliott with a good crew of men is building our school house as rapidly as any house was ever built in Delano. From the looks of things it will be a much warmer house than the old one, —Councelman Dyer was herd to remark the other day that if any body else had droye into town like a couple of teams returning fram the S. S. picnic everybody would have said they were all drunk.

—This would be a good time for I. Gutzwiller Jr. and the city council to blow in 30 or 40 more dollars of the village money to learn the "horse power" of the raging Crow. An experienced man says he thinks it is about equal to a sucking colt power at present.

—John Cunningham was seen one day this week, hauling home a bran new sulkey plow. He do'nt intend to foot it around any longer when he can just as well ride. Wm. Ziebarth is to have one too, we understand. Who says Franklin farmers are not rising in the world.

—The road from Delano to Watertown is now in better shape than ever before but, there is a few rods of what, during the last wet spell, was a bad mud hole, located opposite Mr. Ingerson's place that should be nicely graded and graded now so people could travel there when it rains again.

—Democratic caucuses are called for both the Village of Delano and the Township of Franklin, at the City Hall on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. If you are a democrat and desire to have your voice heard in the selecting of the State, Congressional or Judicial tickets, be on hand and help send delegates to Buffalo, that you can depend on, to pick out good men. If you can't find time to attend the caucus, don't complain if the ticket don't suit you.

—Several of Delano's citizens were listening to lectures on "Arnachism" yesterday.

—On Wednesday night our village enjoyed the finest rain it has had for months. Every body was glad to see it.

—The quarentine of the Joseph Masang premises was raised on Tuesday. This leaves the township free from the epedemic that has been so long troubling the citizens.

—Budd Reeve, candidate for Congress, from North Dakota, on the straight democratic ticket, says he tried his first law suit for James Finnegan of Delano, about some pigs.

—The Barnum and Bailey Greatest show on earth will exhibit at Minneapolis Aug 27 and 28; At St Paul, Aug. 29. Menagerie, circus, and other amusements. Reduced railroad fare.

Buffalo Gazette $1.00 a year.

County Cullings.

The water in Crow River is the lowest it has been for years, even Vollbrechts Mill, at Hanover, is now running by steam power.

P. T. Barnum used to say that the "bigger the humbug the better people liked it." W. H. Cutting tells us that the most "attentive audiences" he ever faced turned out to hear him on the populist's doctrines.

Democrats who desire to have any say concerning who shall be the party candidates for the State officers; for Congressman; or for Judges for our district should make it a point to attend the caucus and help send to Buffalo to the convention on the 30th of Aug. delegates who are reliable, and who will see to sending none but the best men in the party as delegates to the State, Congressional and Judicial Conventions.

Politics have begun to simmer a little about the county seat, and in various parts of the county small individual fries have been placed on the coals. There seems to be something of a scarcity of candidates among the populists. The rebublicans appear to have too many cooks for the broth. Just how the democrats will come out remains to be seen. They will probably find good material enough from which to select a ticket, and as there seems to be a disposition among the solid men of both populists and democrats to stick to their respective principles regardless of the importunities of the cronic office-seekers to have everybody fuse to down the republicans, and there will doubtless be an opportunity for every loyal democrat to vote for a democrat if he chooses so to do. Prohibitionists are very quiet for some reason.

Everything seems to be made an issue for a candidate for office among our republican friends who seem sure that it is only necessary to receive a nomination to be assured of the office. Wright county wants all she can get and more too: If Hennepin county want give her a judge, she will take the senator and three legislators while poor little Sherburne kicks, and screams, as Wright did, when she couldn't have what she wanted. One county wants it because she is entitled to it; the other takes it because she can; on the theory that might makes right." One man wants an office because he happens to reside in one of the four corners of the county; another, because he lives in the center. One clamors for a nomination because he is "Dutch," "Irish," "Scandinavian," or "Yankee;" another because of his being able to swing into line the "saloon element" while another thinks he can be elected for his "temperance principles." Another wishes to run because he has a "lot of money to put up in the campaign." another because he believes in the "honesty of his fellow men and that paltry pelf is useless as a getter of votes, and the principles upon which it is used are wicked and tend to corrupt the community and the government." Some think because they belong to this, that or the other church, or social society they can surely win; while another expects because of his exceedingly liberal views, he can command a majority of the votes in his county or district. Some run on promises "if I am elected this fall I'll look after the interest of our town." Or "the interests of Tom, Dick, and Harry," anything to get there. Few advertise themselves to do their best; to make the best laws possible for our whole state. Some even say "I'll vote for Washburne for Senator if I am elected, send me." People have had enough of this kind, they want men in office that will discharge their duties fearlessly and without favor; they want men to whom they can go and seek information on the subjects appertaining to their office, and feel, after their visit that we have a man in that position of whom we are proud, we know he is honest, sober, and we do not fear to trust our affairs in his hands. They want the best men of every party nominated, and the best men in the county will be apt to fill the places.

The Cokato Commoner has joined the republican ranks. Peter Skooglund will be editor.

The Annandale Post wants it understood that it is no party organ; but for the man of principle.

A man to represent the 38th district in the Minnesota Legislature should be well enough informed in the business of the State to take an intelligent part in the legislation being enacted. He should see that county laws are in the best interest of the people. A lawyer is not a necessary qualification.

Tomorrow the republicans will hold their Legislative Convention at Annandale, and of course nominate a solid delegation, five strong, to set as a part of the great Washburne electoral commission, intended. It is about time that other qualifications for a legislator, than the ability to cast his vote for Washburne, Donnelly, or any other man to go to Washington for a year's fun, at the governments expense, should be taken into consideration.

Amusements.

The Ray L. Royce entertainers are billed for Aug. 27th. (next Monday) at the City Hall. This is said to be a company of genuine artists and the entertainment they present is filled with good things in the comedy and musical specialty line. Mr. Royce is an impersonator and commedian of national reputation and in his company are Lottie Vaters a clever singer, dancer, and mimmic, Art G. Moore, a wonderful banjo and mandolin soloist. Lizzie Royce a versatile actress, vocalist and instrumentalist. Comedy sketches of the refined order, impersonations, and musical specialties, of all kinds are included in the performance. Seats are on sale at Wittman's drug store at 35 cts. Admission will be 25 cts. children 15cts. Adv.

A Democratic Caucus.

A Democratic Caucus will be held at the City Hall in Delano, on Tuesday at 8 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of electing four delegates to the county convention which meets at Buffalo on Thursday, Ausust 30, and which chooses delegates to the State Convention and Judicial Conventions.

PER COMMITTEE.

Democratic Caucus.

A democratic caucus for the Town of Franklin will be held at the City Hall on Tuesday at 8 P. M. to elect 5 delegates to the County Convention which meets at Buffalo Aug. 30, 1894 and which elects delegates to the State Congressional and Judicial Convention. PER COMMITTEE.

Among our Exchanges.

The republican editors, those that are in the combine, are soon to be fed a big feed moistened at a big wet and smoked at a big smoke in St. Paul. It will be a gay old time.—Buffalo Journal.

There will not be any fusion this year so far as St. Louis county is concerned. The democrats and populists are opposed to it. We do not know if anybody else favors it.—The Commonwealth.

Eiditor French, of Monticello, was in Elk River Tuesday. Mr. French says it is the general understanding over in Wright county that Sherburne will be conceeded two representatives on the legislative ticket.—Star-News.

Thus far no good reasons have been advanced why Major Baldwin should not succeed himself. He has been a hard-working member and has accomplished more for his constituents than any member from Minnesota.—Milaca Times.

For the benefit of people in general, and our neighbors of Wright county in particular, we reproduce the resolution adopted by the Republican county convention last June:

Resolved, That, believing Sherburne county to be rightly entitled to two representatives in the legislature, the delegation to the legislative convention is hereby instructed to present the names of Hon. H. E. Craig and A. N. Dare as Sherburne county's choice for representatives and to insist on the nomination of both.

That resolution was adopted by a rising vote and undoubtedly voices the feeling of Sherburne county Republicans on the subject. That the claim of our county is entitled to the careful and calm consideration of our big neighbor over the river goes without saying, and after giving the matter such consideration we feal convinced that they will conceed the claim as just and fair. It will be good politics, produce harmony in the district, and insure the election of the whole legislatiye ticket as against any combination that can be made.—Sherburne County Star-News.

LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE.

A farmer, so the story goes
Near Massachusetts Bay,
A comfortable team of mules
Drove into town one day.
'Tis true that they were but common mules,
Uncommon common, too,
They hadn't even paint-brush tails,
As mules are wont to do.

Yet they were useful in their way,
They haul a heavy load.
And though they were not very fast
They'd get along the road.
'Tis true, also, they had a bray
Of tennor most forlorn,
A wild, weird, penetrating sound,
Like Gabriel's final horn.

The farmer, on that summer day,
As to the town he went,
Looked on his patient, trusty mules,
With serious discontent.
He had been reading much of late
Of progress, art and schools,
And somehow thought it not the thing
To drive a pair of mules.

His discontent grew, as the way
Was shortened to the town.
And when he reached the market place
He thought he was a clown,
To ride behind a team of mules,
When other folks he knew
Behind a team of thoroughbreds
In speedy grandeur flew.

"Ho, here," he cried, "who wants to trade
Two horses for my mules.
"I do," replied a Yankee shrewd,
Who had an eye for fools.
And so the farmer made his trade,
That pleasant summer day,
And with his fancy thoroughbreds
Took up his homeward way,

About a half a mile from town
The thoroughbreds took fright
And all along the country road
There was a painful sight
Of broken wheels, and broken man,
Of straps, and stuff, and tools,
And everything to teach a man,
He'd better stick to mules.

—Toledo Blade.

Democratit Town Caucus.

Pursuant to the call of the chairman of the Democratic County Committee, a caucus of the Democratic voters of the town of Middleville will meet at the School House in the village of Smith Lake on Saturday August 25th 1894 at one o'clock P. M. for the purpose of choosing three delegates to the Democratic County Convention which convenes at the Court House in Buffalo on Thursday August 30th, 1894.

A Fair This Year.

The Minnesota State Agricultural Society will have a fair this year on its magnificent grounds midway between St. Paul and Minneapolis. No fair was held last year, and the exhibit will mark more particulary the agricultural progress of the state in two years. The managers of the fair already have the assurance of a big exhibit. The stock growers have in particular shown a desire to bring their herds, flocks and studs together for comparison and competion, and breeders from outside the state are going to bring the best products of their stables to Minnesota to show them to the Minnesota farmers. The dairy exhibit will also be large. In Steele, Freeborn, Mower, Olmsted and other of the southern counties of the state, where the dairy interest has developed so rapidly, there friendly rivalry between the different cheese and butter manufacturers is very sharp The rank the state took at the World's Fair in this industry has stimulated the interest in this exhibit. There will be the usual races, daily balloon ascensione, and the fact that there is going to be no exposition in Minnerpolis this year promises to result in buildings devoted to the exhibits of merchants and mnnufucturers being large. The fair will have the hearty support of both St Paul and Minneapolis this year the dates of the fair are Sept. 10 to 15th, inclusive.

HOW A PUZZLE WAS SOLVED.

When you want a certain article, you want the best make of that article, don't you?

But how to determine which make is best is what puzzles you, isn't it?

And when the puzzle is solved for you, by authority which cannot be questioned, you are pleased, aren't you?

And you would like to hear of one puzzle that has been solved for the people of the whole world, wouldn't you?

Well, we will tell you about that very puzzle, and its solution.

At the Universal Exposition of 1889 at Paris, France, the best sewing machines of the world, including those of America, were in competition. They were passed upon by a jury composed of the best foreign mechanical experts, two of whom were the leading sewing machine manufacturers of France.

This jury, after exhaustive examination and tests, adjudged that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best of all, and awarded that company the highest prize offered, the GRAND PRIZE, giving other companies only gold, silver and bronze medals.

The French Government, as a further recognition of superiority, decorated Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler, president of the company, with the Cross of the Legion of Honor, the most prized honor of France.

That is how the puzzle of the best sewing machine in the world was fully solved by the most competent authority in the world in favor of the No. 9 and No. 12 Wheeler & Wilson machines.

The No. 9, for family use, and the No. 12, for manufacturing uses, are the best in the world to-day.

And now, when you want a sewing machine, if you do not get the best, it will be your own fault.

Ask your sewing machine dealer for the No. 9 Wheeler & Wilson machine, and if he does not keep them, write to us for descriptive catalogue, prices and terms.

DIED.

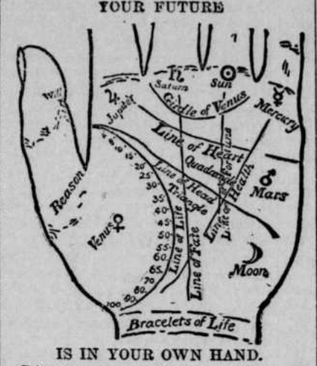
O'DAY.—On Tuesday, Aug. 21, at the Soldiers Home, Minnehaha, Michael O'Day. The remains were taken to Watertown for burial.

FRANK.—On Friday, Aug. 24, Lena, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Frank, age 8 years, of Diphtheria.

YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE, fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked; keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $300; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

No Fusion in Ours.

BY the expiration of the ten days in which the President is permitted to decide on what he will do with a bill coming before him, for his approval or rejection the new tariff bill has become a law and will take the place of the famous McKinley bill under which our country has been trying to do business for the past four years.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND, in a letter to T. C. Catchings gives his views on the condition of affairs that now affronts us in his usual terse style. He says: "When the formulation of legislation which it was hoped would embody Democratic ideas of tariff reform was lately entered upon by the Congress nothing was further from my anticipation than a result which I could not promptly and enthusiastically eudorse. It is, therefore, with a feeling of the utmost disappointment that I submit to a denial of this privilege," although the bill is not what the President, the party, nor the people approve it is considered a great improvement, in many respects over the one now relegated, after four short years of oppression on the average citizens of our country, to the shades of the past, Cleveland Says: "And yet notwistanding all its vicissitudes and all the bad treatment it received at the hands of pretended friends, it presents a vast improvement to existing conditions. It will certainly lighten many tariff burdens that now rests heavily upon the people. It is not only a barrier against the return of mad protection, but it furnishes a vantage ground from which must be waged further aggressive operations against protected monopoly and governmental favoritism." According to the President the war on protection is but just begun. It is a hard matter to lop off the big incomes of monied men and allow poorer people privileges of which they have long been deprived. It requires time, talent and tireless persistence in the fight to bring about the desired "Justice and equal rights for all and special privileges for none."

THE Populists are now haying their customary anti-election row. I. Donnelley has discovered that if the populists pull Owens through for Governor and the republicans elect Dave Clough, for second place; and, next winter Owens is chosen U. S. Senator, that Lieut. Gov. Clough would then blossom out as a full pledged republican Governor. And the Sage don't propose to stand by with hands down, and allow such a thing to happen; not if he can help it. So he now in a lengthy public letter asks S. M. Owens to say that he will serve out his time if elected Governor, and not accept the office of Senator if elected to that position. Isn't this asking considerable of the candidate for Governor? If his party can, and see fit to send him to the Senate, should he not be left as free as any other man to accept an office in which the people think he can best serve them? Or which office he can fill better than any other man in their ranks? Mr. Donnely also complains that a Mr. McDonald and others are trying to break up his cherished hope, the Representative, by starting a new daily in St. Paul, and securing the endorsement of a majority of the State central committee. The Senator from Dakota county has done a heap of hard work in building up this stalwart party organ, and his party should give him all due credit for this, at all events. He has done considerable stumping for the party, incidently, and I. Donnelly in particular, on numerous occasions, and if he has not had sufficient remuneration by way of the big round silver dollars handed in and the frequent cash accompanyments to orders for the Representative, and advertising, he should have some sympathy also, for his self imposed wear and tear of body and mind.

But from the previous history of Ignatius we think he is given to streaks of working up sympathy for I. Donnelly at certain times when he thinks it will best further his ends. When he was defeated by Washburn for Congress he took exceptions to the election and tried to oust W. D. but failed, When he was around lecturing a few years ago he tried to make out that he was supposed to be such a terrible fellow that a conspiracy was being formed to remove him from the face of the earth: on the whole he seems to think the sympathy dodge quite a good one: but like a pretty good race horse it allows him to come out behind about every time.

Who knows but what the Sage has hit upon a scheme to ensure the election of a populist Governor; and possibly a populist U. S. Senator? If, as he charges Owens is to have republican aid, and the Sage of Niniger can, by hook or crook, get the democrats to put him up for Governor, and his populist followers to aid him he might stand as good a show as Owens; and one of them be pretty sure of defeating Nelson, for governor. Then the defeated one could try for U. S. Senator. Great head our I. D. has.

The State Ticket.

For Governor we want a true and tried democrat; a faithful follower of Thomas Jefferson. No fusion with populists. We want to march to glory or the grave, as democrats; not as mongrels. We believe not in "wandering after strange gods, and in by and forbidden paths; but in following the precepts and principles of our party.

For Lieutenant Governor, Joseph Leicht, of Winona, is brought forward by his delegation, as the very man.

For Auditor. J. A. Johnson, of St. Peter, is a straight democrat and would fill the bill. Senator Leavitt, of Meeker county, is also mentioned as a possible candidate for that office,

For treasurer, and Secretary of State we have heard of no candidates so far; but want straight men.

For Attorney General. J. V. I. Dodd of St. Paul would make a good man.

For Clerk of Supreme Court, we have heard of no candidates; want a good democrat.

For Chief Justice we consider Hon. Charles E. Flandreau, the strongest, by all odds, of all the candidates for that place, of whatever party. He is a pioneer democrat of Minnesota: an Indian fighter of repute; an able lawyer; and a good all around man and would be a credit to the state.

For Justice of the Supreme Court we are in favor of an able, honest, good straight democrat.

For Congress.

From the Sixth District Congressman Baldwin seems to be the only one mentioned to make the race on the democratic ticket. Some little disaffection among Duluthites is spoken of, but then, "a prophet is not without honor; save in his own country." and of course the major is not expected to be an exception to the rule. He has stood faithfully at his post and done what he could under adverse circumstances for his district and his constituents feel that he deserves a re-election.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

At Buffalo on Thursday.

The County convention was called to order at 11:15, a. m. by Chairman William Quinn, the call was read. J. F. McDonnell nominated Wm. Quinn for temporary Chairman. He was elected, and made one of his enthusiastic little speeches, saying that he was glad of the favor; and believed it the duty of every Democrat to serve when called upon. I am proud of the determined Democrats. Prospects are brighter than for a number of years. The Democratic party is more pure since a lot of the disaffected have gone over to the Populists.

Wm. Ziebarth nominated W. F. Kohler for Secretary. Mr. Kohler was elected.

J. H. Wendell moved a committee of five on credentials be appointed:—W. J. Walsh, C. Bugbee, J. H. Grafft, C. Marth and Edwin Perra were appointed by the chair.

CORRESPONENCE

ROCKFORD RIPPLES.

A large party of young folks had a surprise party upon Miss Gay Gent last Thursday night, every body enjoyed themselves, even the "ball player" ask him.

Among those who took the Soo train for the city to visit the circus were B. C. Bucklin and wife, Ben Alberts and wife, B. Benner and wife, and A. B. Bucklin and wife.

D. R. Thompson, and family visited relatives at Camden Place a few days last week.

Chape Farnham visited Watertown Sunday to witness the ball game, with 150 pounds on his arm.

Miss Lena Haffner of Delano visited her sister Mrs. W. L. Haggerty, last week a few days.

Hiram Cadwell will remove this week back to Rockford to move in the Davis property.

F. H. Johnson and J. Benner done business in the City on Wednesday.

Wm. Gent threshed and his wheat averaged 19 bu. to the acre. Pretty good for this year.

Mrs. Wm. Dorman has returned from the City after a visit of four weeks.

The Wright County Medical Society is to meet at Buffalo on Wednesday, Sept. 5 and complete its organization, and enjoy the reading and discussion of several papers. An interesting meeting is expected.

The populists will hold a county convention at Buffalo on Wednesday, Sept. 5, also a legislative convention for the nomination of a Senator and four Representatives.

Hennepin Co. Politics.

Leon D. Brown, of the Twin City school supply company, was nominated for school superintendent by the populists, on the 28th inst. Mr. Brown had three competitors for that nomination, O. J. Breen, W. J. Warren, ex-Co Supt. of schools, and P. M. Hilary. Following the first ballot a resolution was passed striking Mr. Breen's name off from the list of candidates because he was the democratic nominee.

Brown is a very good man in every respect, and it is not improbable that an arrangement may be made with the democratic and populist central committee's by which his name may be placed on both tickets, and Mr. Breen be allowed to withdraw from the race.

Democratic State Convention.

Pursuant to the decision of the State Committee the Democrats of the state are called to meet in delegate convention in the city of St. Paul, on to put in nomination candidates for the following officers: Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Auditor, Treasurer, Secretary of State, Attorney General, Clerk of the Supreme Court, a Chief Justice and a Justice of the Supreme Court.

Wednesday, Sept. 5th, 1894, at 11 A. M.

The basis of representation adopted is two delegates from each county and one additional for eact 150 votes or major fraction thereof, cast for the democratic candidate for governor in 1892.

On this basis the several counties of the state will be entitled to send the number of delegates set opposite the name of each as follows:

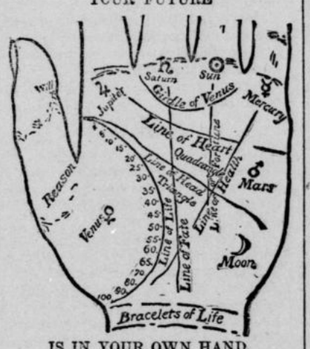
YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE, fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to existence of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked: keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x21inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $300; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUME, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

Hennepin County Politics.

On Saturday, the 18th inst., P. J. Breen, an energetic and vigorous young man of superior qualifications and unimpeachable character, was nominated by the democracy of Hennepin county for superintendent of schools.

Mr. Breen's chief competitor for the nomination was Prof. J. T. Pribble, the venerable teacher of Osseo and ex-superintendent of schools. Prof. Pribble is almost an octogenarian, and it may seem strange to some that a man of his great age should be a candidate at all for such an important office as superintendent of schools. This may be explained as follows: Prof. Pribble has been regularly and successfully engaged in the work of teaching school in Hennepin county for upwards of thirty years; and every democratic convention held in the county during the past decade has been largely composed of men who at some time or other went to school to him. Many others were the fathers of boys and girls who had received their most valuable instruction from this kind old man and had been inspired by him to prepare themselves for good and useful lives. These men had always cast a very complimentary vote for the old gentleman, as against the carpet-baggers coming into the conventions and asking for the nomination, but no organized effort had ever been made in his behalf. This made the venerable pedagogue think that if his friends would only make a fight for him he could be superintendent again. Hundreds of people in the county could not bear to see this very worthy and much beloved old gentleman go down to his grave feeling that his friends would not exert themselves to get him an office which he had filled for seven years in his younger days with great acceptability to the people of the entire county, and which he longed for again only with an honest desire to benefit our rural schools, now in a state of decadence. So Commissioner Egan, leader of of the county democracy and whom Prof. Pribble had taught to read and write, decided to make a fight for the old man this time in real earnest. Many prominent men in the county, who preferred Mr. Breen for superintendent, and did not hesitate to say so, joined the commissioner in his efforts to nominate Prof. Pribble, not wishing to desert their old teacher and benefactor in this, his last battle. They all said he was too old, and deeply regretted to see him in the field. Mr. Egan left no stone unturned, but it was absolutely impossible to nommate Prof. Pribble. Those who had not pledged themselves to vote for others, promised to vote for the old gentleman on the first ballot, simply to honor him; but they would vote for the young man after that. There were four candidates, and a goodly number of delegates who were pledged to vote for younger men on the first ballot promised to vote for Prof. Pribble on the second, also to compliment him, but said plainly that they would vote for Mr. Breen on the third. Mr. Donavan, who entered the race very late in the day, and only had a few votes, withdrew in favor of Prof. Pribble. This was regarded as a gracious and manly act, and Mr. Donavan was warmly applauded. Prof. Pribble fell one behind Mr. Breene on the second ballot. He then withdrew, making a speech to the convention, in which he thanked his friends for their efforts in his behalf and asked them to vote for Mr. Breene. A Mr. Carr, a comparatively unknown man in the county, who was bringing up the rear, and who only received nine votes on the second ballot, was also given an opportunity to withdraw, and the wish was expressed to make Mr. Breen's nomination unanimous. But Mr. Carr was determined to measure his strength with that of Mr. Breen, and a third ballot was taken, which nominated Mr. Breen by an overwhelming majority.

Mr. Breen had the advantage in the convention of his yonger competitors in being personally known to nearly all of the delegates, having taught for a long time in our rural schools with marked success and been engaged in a business for the past two years that had necessitated an almost constant traveling about among the farmers of the county and given him an excellent opportunity to become thoroughly acquainted with the people and to make the friends who labored for his nomination with such unyielding determination.

Mr. Breen is a loyal American, a good scholar, a good teacher, a good fellow, and will make, if elected, a good superintendent. In the republican convention a few days before, the A. P. A. and the Bill Chowan gang dictated the nomination of Deacon Wilcox, a weakling who could hardly be elected under any conditions whatever, and that made the success at the polls of the democratic candidate, whoever he might be, so probable, that there was a regular scramble for that nomination—a hand-to-hand fight such as the party had never witnessed before. WILLIAM KENNEDY.

The value of public school property in the United States is estimated at $400,000,000.

A NEW YORK syndicate has been formed for the purpose of buying an island off the coast of Maine, stocking it with black foxes and engaging in the fur trade.

IN 1893, 3,341 ships passed through the Suez canal, yielding $68,000,000 in dues. The canal is only 88 miles long, but it reduced the distance from England to India, by sea, nearly 4,000 miles.

WHAT is generally believed to be the first iron bridge ever built is still in use. It spans a small stream on the Worcester & Shrewsbury railroad in England, and was erected in 1778. It is ninety-six feet long,

THOMAS J. JACKSON, who died recently, and who was believed to be the richest man in Webster county, Ky., arranged his business matters so that persons indebted to him will have until five years after his death to make settlement.

THE London Missionary society in its hundredth year has 1,476 native ministers, 6,778 other male native workers, 94,192 church members and 125,984 scholars in its schools. The income has been $536,300, the year closing with a debt of about $166,000.

THE displacement of labor by labor-saving appliances is markedly illustrated by the fact that eleven electric power traveling cranes recently put into use in the yards of the Carnegie Steel company at Homestead has dispensed with the services of fifty men.

GEN. ROY STONE tells the farmers of this country that they lose $60,000,000 annually, owing to the badness of the roads. It is pure loss, too, and nobody's gain—as though some flourishing town was burned off the face of the earth each year without a dollar of insurance.

THE tunnels of the world are estimated to number about 1,142, with a total length of 514 miles. There are about 1,000 railroad tunnels, twelve subaqueous tunnels, ninety canal tunnels, and forty conduit tunnels, with aggregate lengths of 350 miles, nine miles, seventy miles and eighty-five miles respectively.

IT takes not less than 2,600 red cedar trees to supply wood for the pencil manufacturers of this country. Alabama was once the great cedar pencil producing state, but its cedar is exhausted. Manufacturers have tested other kinds of wood with a view to finding a substitute for cedar, but so far without success.

FROM far South Africa's sunny clime comes a story that the rights of women are being trampled upon—or rather an attempt has been made in that direction. A memorial has been issued in a Boer community praying that in future no barmaid shall be allowed to oe of the female sex. Just how the women are to get around the difficulty of birth is not clear.

GERMANY is going to smash anarchy and anarchists also. The emperor has ordered the preparation of bills to extirpate anarchism, and to repress such socialists as help to breed the anarchistic virus by palliating recourse to murder as an instrument of social revolution. The assassins of Europe driven from their haunts will doubtless swarm to the United States.

THOUGHTLESS people who are prattling of the need of "a stronger government" do not stop to reflect that we have a federal army of 25,000 men; that there are over 100,000 state militia, of whom the president is commander in chief, and that there are over 13,000,000 men of military age in the United States, fully 12,000,000 of whom are ready at the first call to take up arms for the stars and strips. Where is there a stronger government?

THE bullet-proof showmen, finding a New York state law forbids such exposure of life, must resort to other ways to exhibit their shields. So Lennard, the first American inventor in this line, has put his shield on a donkey and then had a Springfield fired at the patient little beast. The bullet went through one-half inch of the entire thickness of one and three-quarter inches. A similar bullet was first fired through sixteen inches of pine boards.

IN 1850 the proportion of lawyers to the male population in this country was 1 to 494 and in 1880 it was 1 to 398. The number of lawyers in legislatures has always been greater than their proportion of the population would warrant. Of the entire number of United States senators since 1787, 2,068 out of 3,122 have been lawyers. Of the 24 presidents of the United States 19 have been lawyers. Seventeen of the 23 vice presidents and 218 of the 232 cabinet officers have been members of the bar. The members of the house of representatives as a rule are lawyers.

THE sparrow threatens to become as great a pest as the rabbit in Australia. They have a "sparrow act" in South Australia, under which the local bodies in certain badly-infested districts were compelled to spend much money in the destruction of the birds, and now the government has found it necessary to extend the application of the act to all the settled parts of the colony. Sparrows, rabbits and various other specimens of imported fauna thrive remarkably in the warm and congenial Australian climate, and it is now, of course, a matter of general regret that they were ever imported.

LIME ROCK lighthouse, at the southern end of Newport harbor, is a favorite visiting place for strangers, who go there not so much to see the light as to meet its famous keeper, Ida Lewis. She is over 50 years old now, but she can handle an oar as quickly and as well as when she began her record of life-saving with the rescue of four small boys whose boat had capsized in the harbor. Her salary is $750 and two tons of coal a year. She is the only woman lightkeeper in the country, and the department admits that no light on the coast is better cared for than is Lime Rock by its keeper, Ida Lewis.

FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

Regular Session.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 22.—In the senate the members present at the opening session numbered twenty-one—less than half of a quorum. The vice president announced his signature to the deficiency bill. A motion was made that the sergeant-at-arms be directed to request the attendance of absent senators, which he did, and an executive session was held. The house was not in session.

THURSDAY, Aug. 23.—After an hour's wait the senate was unable to secure a quorum, and adjourned. A clerk reached the capitol with some important nominations, but owing to the absence of a quorum they could not be laid before the senate. In the house the chairman of the committee on naval affairs presented the preliminary report upon the investigation of the armor plate and billets furnished to the government by the Carnegie Steel company. The bill to give the Hutchinson & Southern Railroad company two more years in which to build the road through the Indian territory was passed.

FRIDAY, Aug. 24.—In the senate the house joint resolution was adopted for a final adjournment August 28 at 2 p. m., after which an executive session was held, and all nominations to which no objections were offered were confirmed. In the house a joint resolution was adopted for a final adjournment on the 28th. The anti-anarchist bill was brought up and an amendment to it offered, but objection being made to its consideration the bill went over.

MONDAY, Aug. 27.—The senate held a short session and adjourned without transacting any important business. In the house a resolution was offered to print the tariff bill, and Mr. Wilson said the senate bill, which is now a law, would increase the basis of taxation $63,000,000 over the McKinley law. The death of Congressman Shaw, of Wisconsin, was announced, and a committee was appointed to attend the funeral.

MINERS PERISH.

Fatal Disasters in Oregon, Pennsylvania and Colorado.

A Total of Forty-Three Killed, Thirty-Seven Being at Franklin, Ore., Two at Gilberton, Pa., and Four at Creede, Ore.

A FIRE AND EXPLOSION.

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 27.—Thirty-seven miners of mixed nationalities were killed Friday afternoon by an explosion in the Oregon Improvement company's coal mine at Franklin, King county, 34 miles southeast of Seattle. The miners were trying to save the mines from destruction by fire when the explosion occurred. Those who rushed to the gangway when the fire was discovered escaped.

Those who remained to fight the fire were first attracted by thin clouds of smoke issuing from the bottom of slope or level 62. Believing the fire could be extinguished without much damage or loss of life resulting from an explosion they set fearlessly to work to locate and extinguish the incipient blaze. Instantly after the explosion occurred the flames burst out from the bottom of the level and advanced rapidly upon the maimed and imprisoned miners. Timbers, coal dumps and large chunks of coal were hurled in all directions by the force of the explosion.

At 3 o'clock the last of the thirty-seven bodies was recovered and then the people began to quiet down. Many of them were completely prostrated with their violent grief and devoted their time to methodically caring for the dead. The origin of the fireing breast 62 is supposed to be due to spontaneous combustion caused by refuse and screening in the bottom of the breast slacking and catching fire

Disaster in Pennsylvania.

ASHLAND, Pa., Aug. 27.—Two men were killed and eleven injured by an explosion of gas in the Gilberton colliery near this place Friday afternoon. Those dead are William Birmingham and Frank McCormick. The explosion, which occurred shortly after noon, was primarily caused by a fall of coal, which became dislodged by the mining operations. This released an immense volume of gas and at the same time forced it along the gangways to a distance of more than 1,000 yards, stifling and choking the miners as it swept along. Finally it reached a gang of miners who were working with naked lamps, and instantly ignited. An explosion, which shook the earth and was heard by the people in their homes above, followed. Flames and smoke burst from the mouth of the pit, and inside and out there were scenes of frantic terror. Rescuing parties were organized and the men were brought to the surface as rapidly as possible.

Shaft Rope Burned.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 27.—A dispatch from Creede, Col., says that the shaft-house and machines at the Amethyst mine were burned. The wire rope burned, letting the cage fall to the bottom of the shaft and killing four men. Water is flooding the mine.

ON THE RISE.

Business in Chicago, Wholesale and Retail, Has a Little Boom.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—During the last week the business improvement has been so rapid and the volume of trade so much increased in nearly every line as to bring expressions of astonishment from many of the old-time business men of the city.

Everybody is buying now. The great wholesale houses are crowded with orders, and buyers from the country are clamoring to have long bills of goods shipped by the next freight. And they are ready to pay, too. No talk about long-time payments. They are out of stock, and have been running "short" during the hard times to be prepared for any commercial cataclysm which scant confidence might precipitate. All this is changed. A visit to any of the wholesale houses massed in the region of Monroe and Franklin streets show the reaction from the the stagnation of trade.

Great improvement in the retail trade is also evident. One of the largest retail establishments in the city reports the business of the last two weeks equal to any like period before the panic, and all indications point to a continuation of this encouraging condition of general improvement.

The steamer lines are doing more business in general merchandise both to and from the Atlantic seaboard this week than at any time since the panic began in the spring of 1893. The movement of freight is not confined to any particular line, but everything seems to be on the move.

FATAL EXPLOSION.

Boiler in an Indiana Sawmill Lets Go—Two Men Killed.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Aug. 27.—The boiler in P. E. Kramer's sawmill and wagon material shop at Frankfort exploded Friday morning, instantly killing John Vermillon, engineer, and William Jackson, laborer, injuring several others and completely wrecking the mill, also a cooper shop about 300 feet away, into which a section of the boiler weighing 200 pounds was blown, over the tops of other buildings. On its fall through the roof it injured a workingman named Barto. The explosion shivered glass and shook houses all over town. The same mill was destroyed by a still more fatal explosion about three years years ago. Loss, $10,000; insurance, $1,500.

SWAMPS ON FIRE.

Crops and Timber Lands Destroyed Near Waterloo, Tenn.

WATERLOO, Tenn., Aug. 28.—The air in this vicinity is full of a dense smoke. It comes from the burning tamarack swamps surrounding the city and the fire has encroached upon the farming and timber lands. Some crops have already been destroyed and if rain does not soon come great loss will result to the community. Farmers are digging large trenches to protect their property and every effort is being made to check the fire.

Ground to Pieces.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 28.—J. Q. Price, a mine foreman for the Scott Coal company at Robbins, on the Baltimore & Ohio railway, was literally ground to pieces by an express train Sunday. Price, with a friend, was in sight of his home, walking on the tracks returning from a visit to friends at Guffy station.

A WIND OF DEATH.

Russian Towns Leveled and Their Residents Slain or Drowned.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 28.—A most disastrous cyclone swept across the Sea of Azov Saturday. The wind was first felt at Nogaisk. Nogaisk is peopled mostly by fishermen, who were out on the water. When the hurricane had swept out to the north a terrible scene was presented. The village was razed, overturned, as though a great plow had been pushed through it. Lying everywhere were women and children, dead or in the last agonies. The shallow waters of the Sea of Azov were lashed to such a height that it was plain every fishing boat must have been sunk.

The cyclone swept on to the northeast after wrecking Nogaisk. Its path seems to have been unusually wide, for at Marinopol it devastated the country to a point 11 miles inland, and had its outer edge far upon the sea. Marinopol was practically blotted out of existence. Not three houses in a hundred are left standing.

It is estimated that over 200 persons perished in this town alone. North of of Marinopol the storm seems to have made a sudden turn to the eastward over Dolga points, its left edge inflicting slight damage to the town of Berdanisk. Houses there were unroofed and a dozen persons were killed by falling timbers.

Once at sea the storm made its full fury felt. Of the steamers that touch at the port of Berdiansk, not one had come in at the hour of the late report. Grave fears are expressed that every craft in the sea has gone to the bottom and that every passenger is drowned. When the wind swept over the northern end of Azov it took a new course, going southerly along the coast of the land of the Black Cossacks. In turn Eisk and Achueb were ravaged, each town being almost totally destroyed. Telegraphic communication with this district is suspended, and it is impossible to learn the extent of the destruction, but at least 1,000 persons must have died on the two shores. The storm, as nearly as can be learned, seemed to suddenly lose its force near Temrink, and passed off with comparative quiet southerly over the Black sea.

HEADS OF JAPS FALL.

Spies of the Mikado Are Put to Death in China.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 28.—The activity of the Chinese in hunting down Japanese spies increases every day, and if the Chinese are to be believed the coast must be overrun with agents of the Japanese government. Seven Japanese in Chinese costume were arrested here Saturday, and it is given out that they will be expelled from China, but nobody would be surprised if they were treated much more severely. The Japanese elsewhere in China are subjected to the harshest treatment. In the island of Formosa the Chinese authorities have been decapitating Japanese subjects, supposed to be spies, in large numbers. According to advices received here from Formosa, fifty Japanese have had their heads cut off recently, after having been arrested as spies.

The letter from Chemulpo, Corea received at Che Foo, announcing the defeat of a Japanese force and the killing of 1,300 Japanese soldiers, is much commented upon here. If the report of the battle is correct the Chinese cavalry, in dividing the Japanese forces in two parts, did excellent service, and the subsequent heavy firing of the Chinese artillery from an eminence causing great havoc in the ranks of the soldiers of the mikado would seem to denote generalship of no mean order upon the part of the Chinese commanders.

A MAN HUNT.

Two Bandits Are Captured After a Hard Fight.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—After a long and hot pursuit and desperate fighting a posse of police and farmers on Saturday morning surrounded and captured in a cornfield the two men who on Friday night boarded a freight train on the Northwestern road at Deerfield, near this city, and after shooting dead Detective Patrick Owens robbed the conductor. Both men jumped from the train after securing the watches and money, both of the conductor and the murdered detective, and disappeared in the darkness.

In the fight for their capture Special Officer McGrath was shot at Mayfair by one of the bandits. One bullet passed through his right breast, another broke his arm and a third passed through his leg. McGrath was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where he lay in a critical condition.

STRUNG UP AND SHOT.

Two Negro Murderers Are Lynched in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 27.—Friday night at Mitchell's Station, on the Central of Georgia railroad, a mob of masked men, who collected unobserved, took Richard Jordan and Riley Walker, two negroes, from a passenger train, carried them 50 yards from the track and strung them up to the same limb. After the negroes had been hanged to the limb and were gasping their last, the mob moved back a short distance, and the leader gave a signal with a whistle. This signal was answered by a volley of buckshot and bullets being fired into the bodies of the two negroes, making quick and sure work. These two negroes were tried at Union Springs for murder and were convicted. Riley Walker was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary. Jordon was sentenced to twelve years.

CARNAGE IN COREA.

Japanese Land 6,000 Men. Are Attacked and 1,300 Soldiers Are Killed.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 27.—A letter from Chemulpo, Corea, received at Chee-Foo reports that nineteen Japanese warships and thirteen transports arrived in the Tatung river on the 18th inst. They landed 6,000 men, who, proceeding inland, were attacked by 1,000 Chinese cavalay, who succeeded in dividing the Japanese force into two parts. The Chinese artillery, located on an eminence, poured a heavy fire into the ranks of the Japanese, making great havoc. The Japanese were compelled to retreat to the sea shore, where the guns of the fleet prevented further pursuit by the Chinese. The Japanese loss is reported to have been over 1,300 men.

Gives 1,000 Men Work.

DOVER, N. H., Aug. 28.—The Cocheco mills, after a shut down since July 21, has started up. There is but little filling on hand and the mills, it is thought, cannot run long. A thousand hands are employed.

TAX NOT PAID.

A Big Whisky Trust Fails to Secure Much-Needed Cash.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 29.—At the very last moment the officers of the whisky trust and the syndicate of New York bankers failed to come to an agreement regarding the loan of several million dollars, and there is great perplexity among the Peoria distillers regarding the difficulty. They can see an explanation only in the fact that there was too great a spirit for speculation manifest, and it is believed that a fortune has been made on the stock exchange in New York. Every day for nearly two weeks the hope has been held out that the money would surely be forthcoming the day following, and when the Illinois Trust & Savings bank of Chicago, as trustee, last Saturday assumed control of four of the bonded warehouses in this city—namely: Woolner's, Manhattan, Great Western and Monarch—and appointed custodians, it was supposed that everything had been satisfactorily settled and that Monday morning $5,000,000 tax would be paid here and at Pekin. The regauging had been completed and the banking company had appointed custodians. The rumors Saturday and the fall in stock occasioned uneasiness here, for it was regarded as a bluff. The money did not reach here, however, the tax was not paid, and Monday afternoon the Illinois Trust company released the bonded warehouse that had been in its possession.

The total payment of tax here since the passage of the tariff bill has been $2,419,718, or about half of what it was thought the collections would be. Most of it was paid by the trust. The total Pekin collections have been less than $1,000,000, most of it paid by anti-trust houses. Nothing was withdrawn by the trust in Pekin Monday. There are at present in the Star, Crescent, Hamburg and Enterprise warehouses in that city 1,800,000 gallons, while in Peoria warehouses there are 2,872,000 gallons, all the property of the trust. The distilling company withdrew about half the goods it had in bond in the country. All the spirits were withdrawn from Cincinnati, Chicago, Omaha, Terre Haute, St. Louis, St. Paul and Nebraska City, leaving only Peoria and Pekin.

SIGNS OF IMPROVING BUSINESS.

Large Orders Coming in from the South and Southwest.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Merchants here say the best indication of improving business comes from the south and southwest, where the orders for goods are almost normal and the buyers say the merchants see an outlet for all they are buying and expect to increase their orders. Two large houses have sent their drummers out again through the southwest, and particularly through Texas, where the orders have been particularly good. In the west and northwest they say this condition is reversed, and the buying is only about 25 per cent. of what it is in nominal years, the merchants saying that the people will be too poor to buy heavily. A prominent dry goods merchant says he has given up his vacation, arranged for the latter part of this month and early in September, because he is compelled to remain and attend to buyers who are coming here in large numbers. He further says the demand for drummers exceeds the supply, and those already on the road are sending in satisfactory orders. If retail trade is what is expected fall business will be large in dry goods.

BUSINESS REVIEW.

Bradstreet's Report Upon the Present General Status of Trade.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Bradstreet's review of trade says:

"Serious industrial disturbances in New England, drought in central and far western states curtailing nearly all staple crops, and a disposition in all lines to continue to buy for near-by wants only fail to greatly influence general trade throughout the country, the trend of which is toward further improvement. Northwestern states east of the Missouri and the Atlantic and Gulf coast southern states report relatively greater gains in volume of traffic and in the spread of that better feeling and confidence in a larger volume of business in the fall, on which improvement in business depends.

"Prominent among the evidences of expansion in general trade is this week's bank clearings total, $820,000,000, a gain over last week of about 4 per cent. and over the like total one year ago when clearings got down to about low water mark, the increase is 20 per cent. But compared with the total in the like week two years ago this week's aggregate clearings show a decrease of 18 per cent."

AN AGED HERO.

He Rescues Two Children at the Cost of His Own Life.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 27.—Henry Bowman, a veteran gray-bearded flagman where the system of railway tracks pass under the big Virginia avenue viaduct, lost his life Friday in a heroic effort to save the lives of several small children at play on the tracks. Bowman was 73 years old and was minus one hand, lost in a railroad accident years ago, after which he was given the station at the viaduct. Bowman rushed in front of the engine and grabbed up two little boys in his arms and tossed them off to one side, but fell back in front of a Lake Erie & Western engine. The cowcatcher struck him in the back and both feet were ground off. He lived an hour after being taken to the hospital.

SENATORS TO STEP DOWN.

Quite a Number of Terms Expire with This Congress.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The respective terms of the following United States senators expire next March and the legislatures which choose their successors are to be elected this fall:

DEMOCRATS—James. H. Berry, Ark.; Matthew C. Butler, S. C.; Donelson Caffery, La.; J. N. Camden. W. Va.; Richard Coke, Tex.; Isham G. Harris, Tenn.; John Martin, Kan.; John R. McPherson, N. J.; Matt W. Ransom, N. C.; Patrick Walsh, Ga.

REPUBLICANS—Joseph M. Carey, Wyo.; William E. Chandler, N. H.; Shelby M. Cullom, Ill.; William P. Frye, Me.; Anthony Higgins, Del.; George F. Hoar, Mass.; C. F. Manderson, Neb.; James McMillan, Mich.; R. F. Pettigrew, S. D.; Thomas C. Power, Mont.; George L. Shoup, Idaho; W. D. Washburn, Minn.; Edward O. Wolcott, Col.

DROWNED AT A FORD.

Ex-County Commissioner Parratt, Wife and Children Perish Near Portsmouth.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 28.—Word has reached here of the drowning of four persons 12 miles north of this village. Adam A. Parratt, ex-county commissioner, and his wife and three children riding in a spring wagon, attempted to ford the Scioto river, it being very low, but the team struck a sinkhole and all the occupants of the wagon were drowned except a 12-year-old boy, who managed to get to shore.

ONE OF THE GREAT WONDERS OF THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Montana's Famous Solid Silver Statue to be on Free Exhibition at S. E. Olson Co.'s Mammoth Department Store, Minneapolis.

Always in the lead in liberality and enterprise, and believing that store keeping consists of more than the mere buying and selling of goods, and that anything that we can do to make shopping as pleasureable as possible is right in line with our duty as public servants, with this object in view we have engaged, at an enormous expense, the famous Montana Solid Silver Statue, which we will place on Free Exhibition for two weeks, beginning Sept. 3rd, and including State Fair week. The statue represents Justice, is nine feet high, made of solid silver, weighs 97,000 ounces, and its bullion value is $64,800, and stands on a gold base valued at $224,000. This will be the only exhibit of the statue in the Northwest, and it will need no other announcement to draw thousands to see it, whether they have seen it before or not. Our out-of-town friends will have an extra incentive to come to the State Fair and visit our store during their sojourn there. Remember, the statue is worth a day's journey to see. In addition, our store will be made as attractive as possible with solid silver values in every department. Our large and complete Fall and Winter Catalogue will be ready for mailing about Sept. 15th. Send in your name for one. Costs nothing.

All visitors to Minneapolis are cordially invited to make our store their headquarters while visiting the Fair. Free reading, writing and reception rooms at their disposal. Electric cars stop at our door to take visitors to the Fair grounds.

President Cleveland Allows the Tariff Bill to Become a Law.

It Does So Without His Indorsement—He Explains His Attitude in a Letter to Mr. Catchings—End of a Long Struggle.

NEW TARIFF GOES INTO EFFECT.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—At 12 o'clock Monday night the McKinley tariff law, which had been in operation since October 30, 1890, practically four years, died on the statute books and the new democratic tariff bill passed by the Fifty-third congress became a law without the signature of President Cleveland.

"EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, Aug 27.—Hon. T. C. Catchings—My Dear Sir: Since the conversation I had with you and Mr. Clark, of Alabama, a few days ago in regard to my action upon the tariff bill now before me I have given the subject further and most serious consideration. The result is, I am more settled than ever in the determination to allow the bill to become a law without my signature.

"When the formulation of legislation which it was hoped would embody democratic ideas of tariff reform was lately entered upon by this congress nothing was further from my anticipation than a result which I could not promptly and enthusiastically indorse. It is therefore with a feeling of the utmost disappointment that I submit to a denial of this privilege

"I do not claim to be better than the masses of my party nor do I wish to avoid any responsibility which on account of the passage of this law I ought to bear as a member of the democratic organization; neither will I permit myself to be separated from my party to such an extent as might be implied by my veto of tariff legislation, which, though disappointing, is still chargeable to democratic effort. But there are provisions in this bill which are not in line with honest tariff reform and it contains inconsistencies and crudities which ought not to appear in tariff laws or laws of any kind.

"Besides, there were, as you and I well know, incidents accompanying the passage of the bill through congress which made every sincere reformer unhappy, while influences surrounded it in its latter stages and interfered with its final construction which ought not to be recognized or tolerated in democratic tariff reform councils.

"And yet, notwithstanding all its violent-tudes and all the bad treatment it has received at the hands of its pretended friends, it presents a vast improvement to existing conditions. It will certainly lighten many tariff burdens that now rest heavily upon the people. It is not only a barrier against the return of mad protection, but it furnishes a vantage ground from which must be waged further aggressive operations against protected monopoly and governmental favoritism.

"I take my place with the rank and file of the democratic party who believe in tariff reform and who know what it is, who refuse to accept the results embodied in the bill at the close of the war, who are not blinded to the fact that the livery of democratic tariff reform has been stolen and worn in the service of republican protection, and who have marked the places where the deadly blight of treason has blasted the councils of the brave in their hour of might.

"The trusts and combinations—the communism of peif, whose machinations have prevented us from reaching the success we deserve, should not be forgotten or forgiven. We shall recover from our astonishment at their exhibition of power, and if then the question is forced upon us whether they shall submit to the free legislative will of the people's representatives, or shall dictate the laws which the people must obey, we will accept and settle that issue as one involving the integrity and safety of American institutions.

"I love the principles of true democracy because they are founded in patriotism and upon justice and fairness toward all interests. I am proud of my party organization because it is conservativeiy sturdy and persistent in the enforcement of its principles. Therefore, I do not despair of the efforts made by the house of representatives to supplement the bill already passed by further legislation and to have engrafted upon it such modifications as will more nearly meet democratic hopes and aspirations.

"I can't be mistaken as to the necessity of free raw materials as the foundation of logical and sensible tariff reform. The extent to which this is recognized in the legislation already secured is one of its encouraging and redeeming features, but it is vexatious to recall that while free coal and iron ore have been denied a letter of the secretary of the treasury discloses the fact that both might have been made free by the annual surrender of only $700,000 of unnecessary revenue.

"I am sure that there is a common habit of underestimating the importance of free raw materials in tariff legislation, and of regarding them as only related to concessions to be made to our manufacturers. The truth is, their influence is so far-reaching that if disregarded a complete and beneficent scheme of tariff reform cannot be successfully inaugurated.

"When we give to our manufacturers free raw materials we unshackle American enterprise and ingenuity, and these will open the doors of foreign markets to the reception of our wares and give opportunity for the continuous and remunerative employment of American labor.

"With materials cheapened by their freedom from tariff charges, the cost of their product must be correspondingly cheapened. Thereupon justice and fairness to the consumer would demand that the manufacturers be obliged to submit to such a readjustment and modification of the tariff upon their finished goods as would secure to the people the benefit of the reduced cost of their manufactures and shield the consumer against the exactions of inordinate profits.

"It will thus be seen that free raw materials and a just and fearless regulation and reduction of the tariff to meet the changed conditions would carry to every humble home in the land the blessings of increased comfort and cheaper living. The millions of our countrymen who have fought bravely and well for tariff reform should be exhorted to continue the struggle, boldly challenging to open warfare and constantly guarding against treachery and half-heartedness in their camp. Tariff reform will not be settled until it is honestly and fairly settled in the interest and to the benefit of a patient and long-suffering people. Yours very truly, "GROVER CLEVELAND."

The placing of the bill upon the statute books ended one of the longest and most remarkable struggles in the parliamentary history of the government. It was practically a year ago that the compilation of the new tariff was commenced. The extraordinary session of congress was called August 7, 1893, for the purpose of repealing the Sherman silver-purchasing law. Two weeks later the ways and means committee of the house, with Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, as chairman, was appointed, and almost immediately the work of framing the democratic tariff-reform measure began. Months were spent in its preparation, and it was not reported until after the holidays during the regular session beginning in December. For three weeks it was debated in the house, passing that body January 29. Seventeen house democrats voted against it. The bill went to the senate, and, after being considered until March 20, was reported, greatly changed from the house bill. The debate which began in the senate April 2 lasted until July 3, when the bill passed by a vote of 39 to 34. The crisis occurred when the bill reached conference. On August 13 the house yielded and accepted the senate bill in toto. Two days afterward, Wednesday, August 15, it went to the president, and Monday night at the expiration of the constitutional days (Sundays not counted) it became a law without Mr. Cleveland's approval

JOHNSON'S RADICAL VIEWS.

The Democratic Should Be a Free Trade Party—So Says the Ohio Free Trader.

Fellow-democrats, on what issue and on what promise are we to go before the people in the coming election? Is it still to be tariff reform? Are we to hold up the emasculated bill that is the only thing now likely to get through as what we mean by tariff reform? Or are we to ask to be again given power in order that we may reform our own tariff reform? To go into the campaign in that way is to go to defeat. The only hope is to raise openly and unequivocally the banner of free trade. If the democratic party does not stand in opposition to the protective idea it stands for nothing. And it must be swept aside by some party that does not voice the democratic principle. If the democratic party is to live it must cast all protectionists out of its ranks. There is no room in it for a moderate protectionist, or a local protectionist, or any other kind of a protectionist. Masquerading as tariff-reform democrats, they can only bring the democratic party into contempt and defeat. One protectionist party is enough. That place is already filled by the republican party. Let the democrats who cannot stand free trade go there, and let us assist them to go. The country wants a free-trade party party, and so long as protectionists control democratic policy and dictate democratic tariff schedules, the rapidly growing body of free traders who care little for political names and much for political principles will refuse to join our ranks or follow our lead. And why should they? Why should the people, whom the last election showed were conscious of the robbery of the tariff, and who have become more and more conscious every day since then, put further trust in the sincerity of a party that can produce nothing better than the Wilson bill, and then not even stand up to that.

The schoolmaster is indeed abroad, and such an economic education of the masses is going on as never before. By its bounty on sugar the McKinley bill proved even to protectionists that a protective duty was the equivalent of a bounty. The Wilson bill tenderly caring for trusts is furnishing to honest protectionists another great object lesson, which the republican papers are busy in explaining to them—the lesson that protection is never in the interests of the workman, but always in the interests of the monopolist. These papers are teaching wiser than they know. In showing up the iniquity of the sugar trust they are showing the iniquity of the steel-rail trust. In showing the injustice and wrong of protecting democratic sugar growers and coal barons they are showing the wrong of protecting a republican steel-rail pool, a wall paper trust and a combination of glass manufacturers.

The honest protectionist who has already begun to doubt, will, now that his friends thus show him the evils of protection, begin to believe that the Chicago platform was right when it declared protection to be a fraud. The republican protest against the Wilson bill is doing free trade work in the republican camp. McKinley, in his protection run mad, did more to educate the people on free trade lines than all the free trade organizations in the country; and McKinley's work is now being completed by the republican press.

Free trade! Why should we fear to announce it? Trade is civilization. The wider trade extends, the faster and the higher the advance of human progress. Civilized men must trade. Without trade we should be savages. Why not, then, trade freely? A man's right to the fruit of his toil is not complete without the freedom to exchange it. To abridge that freedom is to limit that right. To hamper exchange, whether by a customs duty or a toll gate, is, to that extent, to deny the right of property—the right of each man to his own earnings. If trade be good, free trade must be good. "Free!" The magic of that word has cheered the philosopher and inspired the poet. It has ever been the watchword of those who stood for right against wrong. It has ever stirred the heart of the masses. Why should those who proclaim the equality of human rights fear free trade. It is not an enemy to dread, but a friend to welcome.—Tom L. Johnson to the Iroquois Club of Chicago.

WOULD NOT HELP THEM.

Failure of Democrats to Adjust the Tariff Does Not Help Republicans.

Failure to pass a tariff bill during the present session of congress would not help the republican party in the least.

The people would plainly see the cause of the failure. They would see that tariff reform such as they demanded in 1892 was defeated by the republicans, aided by a little band of assistants sitting on the democratic side of the senate chamber. All but nine or ten democratic senators are willing and anxious to give the country tariff reform on the lines laid down in the democratic platform of 1892.

The republicans in a body and a few democratic renegades have destroyed the consistency of the bill as it passed the house. They have imported into it "outrageous discriminations and violations of principle." They say, with Renegade Gorman, that the majority must accept these utterly indefensible importations and violate principles and pledges, or the McKinley law shall stand intact.

This is no secret. The people understand it perfectly, and they are not going over to the party which, with the aid of a few republican emissaries in the democratic camp, prevents the accomplishment of the reform which they imperitively demanded in 1892. They are not going to punish the democrats for not doing what the republicans and their assistants made it impossible to do.

In 1890 the protectees, including not only the sugar trust but many other odious combinations for the practice of extortion, dominated the repudlican party and dictated the monstrous scheme of legalized robbery embodied in the McKinley bill. They made the schedules to suit themselves, and then the republicans gave them more than even they had the impudence to demand.

The people saw and understood all this and they expressed their opinion of it with tremendrous emphasis in 1890 and again in 1892. They have not changed their minds, as will be seen in due time.

The same malign influences prevail now, absolutely in the republican party and to a limited extent among men who call themselves democrats. The republicans of both houses, faithfully serving the combinations formed for purposes of spoliation, have fought every reform provision of the Wilson bill with the obstinacy of paid attorneys or men who are themselves beneficiaries of the spoliation system. They and their coadjutors on the democratic side of the chamber have kept the country waiting for months while they have been applying themselves to the task of emasculating the Wilson bill and converting a measure of reform into a measure of spoliation.

The people understand this. They have not changed their minds. They do not like to be robbed any more than they did two or four years ago. They prefer now, as they did then, the party which is least under the domination of organized robbers, not the party which is wholly under that evil domination, and which is largely represented in congress by men who have been enriched by that system of licensed robbery which has been tolerated only because its parents have given it the false name of protection.

That party rests under a popular condemnation which will be none the less severe if it shall succeed, with the aid of the Gorman and Hill renegades, in defeating the reform which the present congress and administration have been commanded by the people to effect. That party of organized and licensed plunder has fallen never more to rise.—Chicago Herald.

GOLDEN WORDS.

Excerps from President Cleveland's Letter to Chairman Wilson.

Every true democrat and every sincere tariff reformer knows that this bill, in its present form and as it will be submitted to the conference, falls far short of the consummation for which we have long labored, for which we have suffered defeat without discouragement, which in its anticipation gave us a rallying cry in our day of triumph, and which in its promise of accomplishment is so interwoven with democratic pledges and democratic success that our abandonment of the cause or the principles upon which it rests means party perfidy and party dishonor.

It must be admitted that no tariff measure can accord with democratic principles and promises or bear a genuine democratic badge that does not provide for free raw materials.

In these circumstances it may well excite our wonder that democrats are willing to depart from this the most democratic of all tariff principles, and that the inconsistent absurdity of such a proposed departure should be emphasized by the suggestion that the wool of the farmer be put on the free list and the protection of tariff taxation be placed around the iron ore and coal of corporations and capitalists.

It is quite apparent that this question of free raw material does not admit of adjustmdnt on any middle ground, since their subjection to any rate of tariff taxation, great or small, is alike violative of democratic principle and democratic faith.

In the conclusions of the conference touching the numerous items which will be considered the people are not afraid that their interests will be neglected. They know that the general result, so far as they are concerned, will be to place home necessaries and comforts more easily within their reach and to insure better and surer compensation to those who toil.

The democracy of the land plead most earnestly for the speedy completion of tariff legislation which their representatives have undertaken; but they demand not less earnestly that no stress of necessity shall tempt those they trust to the abandonment of democratic principle.

Where the West Stands.

The senatorial assaults on Mr. Cleveland suggest that the distinguished gentlemen of the American house of lords are wholly out of touch with the people. Those who have joined in the attacks on the president will presently realize they have made an awful mistake. Good democrats everywhere are with Grover Cleveland to a man on the present tariff issue.

Nor do they incline at all to those who want to split hairs. The people are down on the tariff highwaymen, who, masquerading as democrats, were able to hold up the loyal and true senators who were faithful to the party trust. And they wouldn't have anyone mince words in characterizing the meaning of this betrayal.

That is why the house applauded Cleveland to the echo when he said the betrayal meant party perfidy and party dishonor.—St. Louis Republic.

Sheep Don't Live on Tariff.

The part which sheep will play in the future development of the United States is further discussed upon page 937 in a letter from southside Virginia. Large areas of unoccupied land in the southern states may now be acquired at very low prices, and an opportunity exists for herding sheep in that section upon the same plan which is pursued in the west. Under any tariff system, the number of sheep acquired for mutton purposes in the United States must increase with the growth of population. The dimunition of free lands in the west, and the many disappointments which have been suffered by settlers in certain sections beyond the Mississippi, will inevitably draw attention in the near future to the cheap agricultural lands in New England and the southern states.—Wool and Cotton Reporter.

Hypocritical Match Makers.

There are many surprises in this world, and one thing that seems to be the most productive of them is the protective tariff system. Last fall we witnessed President Barber, of the Diamond Match Co., in Washington begging the ways and means committee to allow the old tariff on matches to remain. Now it is reported that the company has decided to equip a factory in Liverpool with American match machinery, with which the foreigners cannot compete, according to the officers the Diamond company. If this last of statement is true why should the United States government give the Diamond Match Co., a protective tariff duty on matches?—Wooden and Willowware.

Republicans Stand by the Trusts.

There are thirty-five democrats in the United States senate who stand for tariff reform. There are nine democrats who are traitors to their party and to the people. The nine traitors would not have the power to put one nickle in the treasury of a thieving tariff trust were it not for the fact that thirty-eight republican senators stand in solid phalanx in defense of the trusts. Yet the republican press is trying to make party capital out of the situation.—Chicago Herald.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Russian Thistle.

Acting upon the suggestion of Gov. Nelson, Chairman Liggett of the state experiment station has written a letter to Congressman McCleary urging him to introduce a resolution in the house which will provide for the appointment of a commission to investigate and suggest some plan for exterminating the Russian thistle. In order that the concreted action of the national government and of the states now suffering from the pest, the letter suggested that the commission be composed of 11 members: Four to be appointed by the United States commissioner of agriculture and the other seven to be the governors of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and Wisconsin. It would be the duty of this commission to thoroughly investigate the matter and not only to recommend to congress a plan for exterminating the thistle but to endeavor to secure the passage of a uniform law in each of these states. to assist in the work.

He Was Killed.

At Sherburne a large crowd of people gathered to witness a balloon ascension, which had been extensively advertised by a traveling aeronaut. There was to be beside the balloon ascension a parachute leap by Messrs. Chof and Ward.

Lee Palmer, county surveyor of Jackson county, was assisting to stay the balloon and by some means got tangled in the ropes, and when the balloon began to ascend the people were horrified to see him carried up. When the balloon had risen about 600 feet he was seen to either let go the rope or lose his hold and fall to the ground.

His body was terribly crushed and mangled and death resulted instantly. It is said that he was intoxicated at the time.

Moving the Indians.

Chairman W. M. Campbell, of the Chippewa Indian commission, and Sheriff Quinn, Benton county, served notice on the Indians and halfbreeds located at Little Rock Lake, Benton county, to vacate their present quarters and remove to the White Earth reservation. Among them is Peter Bear, the halfbreed suspected of killing his wife. The misdeeds of the red men have made it necessary to place them on the reservation.

News in Brief.

The eighth annual fair of the Pope County Agricultural Society will be held at Glenwood, Sept. 21 and 22.

Sparks set fire to grain stacks on the farm of Matt Klein, near Royalton while Zulayer Bros. were threshing, burning the separator and four stacks. Loss, $1,000; no insurance.

Silar J. Davis, of Long Prairie, formerly sheriff of Todd county, accidentally shot his son George, age 12 years, mistaking the boy for an owl on the fence. He shot hin through the left side, just above the heart, with a 44 caliber Winchester. The boy still lives, but is in a critical condition.

An extra westbound freight train on the Hinckley branch of the Great Northern, in charge of Conductor O'Neil, was wrecked at about one-half mile west of Hinckley. The accident was caused by overheated journals, which burned off and dropped a car on the track. Two cars were badly wrecked.

Mrs. Catherine Schutz of Red Wing, accidentally fell a few days ago, sustaining injuries from which she died.

Albert J. Paddock, of Duluth, aged 13 years, was shot through the head and killed by Frank R. Aoust, a 12-year-old companion. The shooting was careless but not intentional. At the request of Paddock's parents young Aoust was not arrested.

A soda fountain tank in a Minneapolis restaurant exploded. Harry Goldberg, the proprietor, was thrown across the room through a glass show case. He was badly cut but not fatally injured.

Two men and a woman narrowly escaped being burned to death at St. Paul. They are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Busch and Jack Sickles. Had it not been for the prompt and heroic efforts of Sergeant Ross, of the central station, all would certainly have perished. The entire loss was less than $1,000.

St. Paul has another case of small pox, the patient being Harry Bird, the seven-year-old son of S. L. Bird, of 441 Laurel avenue.

The Flandrau girls' baseball team came over to Pipestone and crossed bats with the Pipestone girls' team. At the end of the fifth inning the score was 29 to 26 in favor of Pipestone.

A threshing engine belonging to a man named Renhard at Georgetown, blew up while in operation. Three men were badly scalded, one of whom is not expected to live.

A sneak thief picked the pocket of Mrs. Elen McInery, of St. Paul, in Minneapolis. She lost $2 in change and some trinkets, which were in her pocketbook. Miles Reeves was arrested as the thief.

The Lake Superior and Union Improvement Elevator companies at Duluth will be absorbed in the Consolidated Elevator company, with a capital of $500,000.

Frank Rehling started a steam threshing outfit near Oronoco and while cleaning the ,beaters" his right arm was broken in several places and badly lacerated.

The United States marshal from Albany, N. Y., passed through St. Paul with three Chinamen en route home via the Northern Pacific. These Chinamen are deserters from the Chinese army, and being deported under the Geary law, will have to face Jap music on their return, unless they are beheaded, according to the Chinese method of dealing with deserters.

The body of an unknown man was found in a log jam at Little Falls. He is supposed to be the man who escaped from the Brainerd hospital.

A new vein of quartz, very rich in gold, has been found near Redwood Falls.

The body of a young woman was found on Minnesota Point, off Duluth. She had been murdered, as the back of her head was crushed by a blunt instrument. On her neck were marks evidently made by fingers.

Articles of incorporation were filed with the secretary of state for the new democratic daily paper which H. P. Hall will soon start in St. Paul. The name of the corporation is The Call Printing company, and the capital stock is $50,000. Harlan P. Hall, of St. Paul; Charles Ostrander and Henry J. Weigel, of Chicago, are the incorporators.

HOW TO KILL CROCODILES.

Shoot Them or Catch Them on a Line and Take an Ax.

There are two ways of killing crocodiles, writes an ex-resident of India. One is by shooting with a rifle, but the most satisfactory way of dealing with them, besides being far the most sporting, is to bait a good large hook with a bird or small animal and fasten it by a chain to a good long rope, the end of which is firmly picketed, the rope being coiled and the bait lain in shallow water. There must be lots of slack line, as the crocodile does not swallow anything at once, but seizes it and takes it into deep water to gorge. A number of lines may be laid and looked up in the morning or cool of the evening.

When hooked it will take a good many men to haul a crocodile out, and as he resents the operation and can use his tail as well as his jaws, one or two sportsmen will find considerable entertainment in dispatching him with spears.

Some crocodiles grow to enormous size, and their maws always contain round white stones and often trinkets, the relics of inside passengers. The writer assisted at the death of a not extraordinarily large "snubnose" which had six women's rings in her.

On the Safe Side.

A well-known lawyer on circuit in the north of England, curious to know how a certain juryman arrived at his verdict, meeting him one day, ventured to ask. "Well," replied he, "I'm a plain man, and I like to be fair to everyone. I don't go by what the witnesses say, and I don't go by what the lawyers say, and I don't go by what the judge says; but I looks at the man in the dock, and I says: 'He must have done something or he wouldn't be there,' so I brings 'em all in guilty."

DELANO DIARY

Buffalo Gazette $1.00 a year.

—It is reported that the Eagle is about to be sued for libel again; this time by Alderman Murphy, of St. Paul.

—Prof. Kennedy, who taught school at Maple Plain a couple of years ago and had to hurry to save himself and scholars from burning with the school house, has a few lines in this weeks GAZETTE concerning our new school house.

—We understand a purse of $25. is to be given at the Hutchinson fair to the winner in a game of ball between the Delano Blacks and a picked nine of Mc Leod County. Our Cornet Band is also expected to be in attendance a portion of the fair time.

—On Tuesday evening a caucus of the democratic voters of the town of Franklin was held at the City Hall and Wm. Ziebarth, Earnest Otto, Jacob Henn, Conrad Marth and Joseph Bauman chosen as delegates to the County Convention at Buffalo.

—A democratic caucus was held at the City Hall on Tuesday evening and M. A. O'Hair, Wm. Kohler, C. W. Kerrick and Charles Wiese were chosen delegates to attend the convention at Buffalo. A new Village committee was appointed as follows: M. A. O'Hair, J. E. Borsch and H. E. Grafft.

—A fine game of ball was played on the Delano grounds on Saturday afternoon, between the second nine of Howard Lake and Delano. The game was so close as to be interesting up to the seventh inning when the Delano boys began to gain and the game stood, when done, Howard 12 Delano 23.

—Prof. Kennedy was in town on Monday he informs us that he has connected himself with Judge Quinn, of Minneapolis, under the firm name of Quinn and Kennedy, Attorneys at Law. The firm has been engaged to defend James Hatcher, of Plymouth, who is now in Minneapolis in jail accused of murdering his brother Edward.

—The best way to prevent your children from getting diphtheria is to keep them away from houses where it has been and keep people who have had it or been exposed to it away from them until they have been thoroughly disinfected, and as soon as one gets sick put him in a room by himself entirely away from the others and be careful about allowing things carried out of the sick room until they have been in boiling hot water or otherwise disinfected.

--On Thursday morning at about 3:30 George P. Schaffer was aroused from his peaceful dreams to hear a jingling in his dining room: he quickly sprang from bed and saw a man helping himself to things. On the appearance of Mr. S. the man left very suddenly. The night was so dark that pursuit was not in the question; besides when Mrs. Shaffer advised George to put on his pants as he might take cold, he learned that they were gone. This morning a black felt hat was found on the table, and a pair of number nine shoes, out side where they were left when the thief came through the window. The loss to Schaffer was a pair of pants, a bunch of keys and about $8, in money being a five dollar pocket piece, gold; and some loose small change. John Haffner who seems never to escape when the robbers are about lost about $1.50 out of his pants pocket, near the window in his room.

—Send 25cts and your address for the GAZETTE until after election.

--The new poles for electric lights gives Delano quite a metropolitan appearance.

—Considerable wheat is now being marketed here; and bailed hay is being shipped to Minneapolis.

--On Sunday, O. Erwig's house was quarantined on account of his oldest son Oscar being down with diphtheria.

--The boiler and engine for the power house for the waterworks and electric plant was unloaded here Wednesday.

--The Eagle s-c-r-e-e-c-h-e-s about as much about the Republican Legislative Convention as ever she did about the democrats.

—George Schaffer says that if the man who left his hat and shoes will call and identify them he may save him the trouble of bringing them to him.

—The Presbyterian S. S. held a picnic at Lake Rebecca, on Wednesday, several teams furnished a means of transportation to and from the Lake. a good time is reported.

—A crew of men are at work in front of the GAZETTE office on the waterworks. We expect soon to have a hydrant and electrict light on our corner. Then want we be cltified.

—The Ray L. Royce Entertainers,at the City Hall, on Monday evening had a good audience for the season, and everybody was highly entertained. The troop, though small, is far aobve the average for an evening entertainment.

—Quarterly Meeting in the M. E. Church next Sunday at 10:30 A. M. Dr. Chaffee the Presiding Elder will preach, followed by the sacrement of the Lords supper. Let the good people of Delano do them selves the favor by coming and hearing the Dr. preach.

J. W. POWELL.

Personals.

Prof. Beck came up from Minneapolis on Tuesday.

C. W. Kerrick went to St. Paul, on a business trip on Wednesday.

A number of Montrose people visited Rev. Powell and family on Tuesday.

C. G. Roosen, and family returned home Monday morning from their summer's trip to Germany.

Thomas F. O'Hair, of Wheaton and Charles O'Hara, of Woodland visited Delano friends to day.

Mrs. Mowatt and children left on Wednesday for a couple of days visit with Maple Plain friends.

Clarence Corey and family, of Howard Lake came down Sunday, Mrs. C. and children spent the week with A. F. Corey and family.

Mrs. Alice Councilman was the guest of her parents Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Powell, this week on her way to Montivideo where she will teach school this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey were in town on Tuesday. Mrs. D. went to Atwater to visit friends for a few days while the Professor mooved his household goods to Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Parslow drove over to North Rockford Sunday. Fay who had been visiting Buffalo and Rockford friends returned home with them.

An Outsiders View.

I viewed the new Delano school building to-day, and was surprised beyond measure to find it, after the destruction of the old one, a varitable fire trap. What can a school board mean by having no back-door in a building that is to house hundreds of children?

In case of fire all must escape through the front door or perish in the flames! The ponderous front stairs are constructed of the dryest of pine, as is the whole building, with tar-paper. Suppose some one in one of the up-stairs rooms open thes door and finds the hall full of smoke! How are the children upstairs to escape?

The citizens of Delano should insist upon back doors and stairs to that school house, at once, or some day there will be a wholesale cremation of children within its frail walls. The building should being constructed entirely of brick, partitions and all. What would an additional thousand dollars amount to! The penny-wise and pound-fool school boards are the grertest hinderances to the cause of education with which this fair land is cursed. WILLIAM KENNEDY.

County Cullings.

The Eagle has begun to denounce the Republican Legislative ticket, even accusing Mr. Rice, the farmer, member of Wright, with being an A. P. A.

It appears to us as if the proper course is pursued that democrats may capture some of the Legislative ticket. There are so many elements of discord among the republicans that the fight has about resolved itself into one of locality of candidate. In Wright the third commissioner district is sore as a boil. In Sherburne the Clear Lake paper and the Elk River paper are having a lively spat about the "Elk River Slate Makers" always having things their way. We would not be a bit surprised to see the results in November elect a democratic Senator and a couple of Legislators. Nothing like improving the opportunity and putting on a bold front, and the chances are excellent.

On Saturday the Republicans held their Legislative convention at Annandale and nominated Culkin for Senator, and Craig and Dare of Sherburne county, and Swanstram of Cokato, and Rice of Monticello, for the Legislature. The whole thing was, according to the Delano delagates, a cut and dried affair; the trades alll made and goods delivered according to agreement. The delegates from this end of the district felt that they have been set down upon in great shape and threaten to vote for a good democrat from Delano if they can get the chance. Of course the county convention will try to appease the wrath of the disaffected; but, they now claim it is useless: they will not be appeased.

BUFFALO GAZETTE $1.00.

The Wright County Agricultural Society is at work endeavoring to get up a good fair this time. As there is no exposition at Minneapolis there will not be so much to detract from home institutions and they are apt to be better patronized than usual. President Bull will take great pride in having something a little superior to former efforts. Turn out everybody and help make Wright County Fair one of the attractions of the State. We have got the products of the best farms in the State to draw from. If the exhibits are larger the premiums will soon be increased in proportion making an extra inducement to those whose patriotism and pride in home affiairs is not a sufficient incentive.

District Judge.

For District Judges men should be chosen who can give just decisions in all cases; whose minds are not to be warped by party intrests; nor by personal motives; whose reason tells them plainly which is wright and which is wrong and whose conscience will serve at all times to guide them in the right way. If a man is to have business with a judge he wants a man he can trust, that he is not afraid will unjustly render the verdict against him; but who, he feels will see that his rights are given him, and justice done. As for his being a city man, that cuts little figure, so long as you are sure he is a better man for the place; but the simple fact that a judge resides in the city, of itself, is not sufficient evidence of this fact.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

President Cleveland has been a very busy man since his return to Washington, as this is the first oppertnuity he has had to confer with members of the cabinet and prominent democrats in Congress since the tariff bill was sent to him, he having been compelled by sickness to leave the White House soon after that measure was sent there. At the cabinent meeting held yesterday the tariff bill was thoroughly discussed in all its bearings, and it is understood that the cabinent was practically unanimously in favor of allowing the bill to become a law, and several of the members advised the president to sign it at once. Members of the cabinent will not, of course, talk for publication, but from other sources I learn that the President made no definite announcement, and that it was inferred from his talk that he had not mapped out his action to his own satisfabtion.

Chairman Wilson had an extended conference with the president after the cabinent meeting, and with his reticence when asked to express an opinion upon the probable fate of the tariff bill was made the basis for rumors of a veto. Chairman Wilson had several days previously expressed the oppinion that the bill would be allowed to become a law without the President's signature, and that is still the prevailing opinion in Washington; but your corresdondent has an idea, based more upon a long study of the character of President Cleveland than upon any definite information, that the bill will either be vetoed or signed and that whichever it may be the bill will be returned to Congress with a special message that will be read with delight by all real tariff reform democrats.

Representative Bryan, of Nebraska, who has more than a fighting chance of being Senator Bryan in the near future, is an ardent admirer and disciple of Thomas Jefferson, the great Virginia democrat. Dnring a recent pilgrimage to Monticello Mr. Bryan conceived the idea of presenting the quota of plants allotted to him as a member of the house, from the U. S. Botanical Gardens, to be used in decorating Jefferson's grave. Among the plants to to be sent to Monticello is a sprig of ivy from a plant grown from a sprig cut from the grave of Robert Burns, the great Scottish poet. By the way, pilgrimages to the grave of Jefferson are becoming quite popular with democrats. Vice President Stevenson and Senator Hill were among the week's pilgrims. The hospitality of Hon Jefferson M. Levy, the present proprietor of Monticello, makes the pilgrimage as plesent as the sorroundings make it patriotic.

Considerable surdrise was felt by Col. Stump, Superintendent of Immigration, when he found that several democratic members of the House objected to his bill for the prevention of the coming of alien anarchests into the United States and for the deportation of those already here. The bill was passed by the Senate without objection and the attempt was made to rush it through the House by unanimous consent, in order that it might become a law in time to prevent the landing of the 500 French and Italian anarchists who have been driven out of those countries by adverse legislation and are said to be now on their way to the United States. But action was prevented upon it by the objection of Representative Warner, of New York City and in a quorum his objection was effective. Mr. Warner objects to the bill because it does not define an "alien anarchist," and because it gives the Superintendent of Immigration too much authority. Col. Stump is now trying to get enough representatives to return to Washington to make a quorum, and if he succeeds will endeavor to get the bill put through the House under a special rule. If he can get the quorum the rest will be easy.

"Senatorial courtesy" was badly strained when republican Senators refused to answer to their names to make a quorum to pass the bill correcting the error in the tariff bill, for which a republican Senator - Hoar, of Massachusetts, — is responsible, making alcohol used in the arts free, unless the democratic Senators would promise not to make any speeches while the bill was under consideration. It was certainly taking an unfair advantage of the fact that the democratic Senators could not possibly have a quorum of their own on the floor. It also looked as though the republican Senators feared that the effect upon the country of the speeches that might be made by democratic Senators. It is unfortunate that all of the democratic Senators could not possibly have a quorum of their own on the floor. It also looked as though the republican Senators feared the effect upon the country of the speeches that might be made by democratic Senators. It was certainly taking an unfair advantage of the democratic Senators could not have been pept in Washington until the end of the season. It was certainly their duty to remain, but duty doesn't outweigh pleasure or convenience with some of them.

THE PRETTIEST BLOOMERS.

Now the girls are wearing bloomers
As they ride upon the wheel,
And the critics are discussing
If it is for woe or weal.

Bloomers may give ease of action,
Also safety to the maid,
Who may spin along the highway
In that stunning garb arrayed.

But when all is said and written,
He who truest beauty seeks
Still will find the prettiest bloomers
Are the roses on her cheeks.
—Columbus Dispatch.

A Fair This Year.

The Minnesota State Agricultural Society will have a fair this year on its magnificent grounds midway between St. Paul and Minneapolis. No fair was held last year, and the exhibit will mark more particulary the agricultural progress of the state in two years. The managers of the fair already have the assurance of a big exhibit. The stock growers have in particular shown a desire to bring their herds, flocks and studs together for comparison and competion, and breeders from outside the state are going to bring the best products of their stables to Minnesota to show them to the Minnesota farmers. The dairy exhibit will also be large. In Steele, Freeborn, Mower, Olmsted and other of the southern counties of the state, where the dairy interest has developed so rapidly, there friendly rivalry between the different cheese and butter manufacturers is very sharp The rank the state took at the World's Fair in this industry has stimulated the interest in this exhibit. There will be the usual races, daily balloon ascensione, and the fact that there is going to be no exposition in Minnerpolis this year promises to result in buildings devoted to the exhibits of merchants and mnnufucturers being large. The fair will have the hearty support of both St Paul and Minneapolis this year the dates of the fair are Sept. 10 to 15th, inclusive.

Was the Motto of the Democratic State Convention.

FOR GOVERNOR GEO. L. BECKER.

Of Ramsey County.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR, JOSEPH LUDWIG,

Of Winona County.

The democrat State convention was called to order by the President of the committe Titus Mareck, who made a neat little speech, and placed in nomination for temporary chairman, P. B. Winston. The Ramsey county delegation presented S. W. Leavitt as another nominee, after considerable sparring Mr. Winston was elected. John A. Johnson, of St. Peter and James P. Healey, of Ramsey, were made secretaries. The usual committees appointed and a recess taken until three p. m. at which time the committees reported, the temporary organization was made permanent and officers nominated: (See ticket on last column.)

This ticket was put up as a good straight democratic ticket and has elements of strength which give it an equal chance with the others already in the field to win. The ticket should be kept straight in every district and county and the full democratic vote polled and a surprise given to the country in November by the election of the second democratic Governor in Minnesota.

NOT since the Indian massacre of 1862 has our state suffered such loss of life and wide spread desolation as the recent fires at Hinckley. Over three hundred dead bodies have been counted; Many once happy homes have been broken up or completely wiped from the face of the earth. Releif for survivors is being freely given by those more fortunate and who are in a position to do so

SOME people cry out that this Congress has done nothing; and complain that it was a poor session. Of course it did not pass a Force bill; nor a John Sherman silver bill; nor a Mc Kinley tariff bill. And from these very facts it is a big improvement over the sessions that did. Our country now seems again on the road to a revival of prosperous times; more so than for years before the meeting of the last Congress.

J. W. WILLIS was nominated by the democratic convention on Wednesday as a straight democrat, and the Representative of the same date contains thanks of "I. D." for a contribution of $100, to aid in getting out campaign editors of that paper. What kind of democracy is that? Isn't that paper forninst every other candidate on the democratic ticket? In our estimation that was a display of very poor judgement on the part of Judge Willis. It puts a man in an awful fix to be running on two tickets.

FROM accounts of the republican Congressional convention at Brainerd it would seem that our republican friends are either over confident or are about becoming aware of the fact that Major Baldwin will succeed himself in the next Congress. Only about one third of the Duluth delegation honored Mr. Towne by their presence at Brainerd: the balance of the delegation being made up of proxies. Mr. Towne seems to have been nominated very easily, however, notwithstanding the absence of those who would have added much to the occasion by their mere presence.

Republicans Rattled.

Wright county republicans appear to be about as much rattled as a base ball nine playing out of luck. The democrats have passed a bill reducing the tariff materially, and are feeling that the people are more favoarbly impressed with their efforts at reform. The governor of Minnesota has to stare him in the face, the fact that a large majority of the voters are against him, and he is not quite clear about obtaining a plurality. The nominee for Congress in the Sixth district on the republican ticket don't seem to awaken much enthusiasm. In the legislative district even Mr. Culkin, who announced his candidacy so long before the nominating convention, and whose followers have been, since the Annandale affair making overtures to some of the disaffected in hopes of holding in line a large part of his former followers, is reported as quite uneasy himself, some of the heretofore stalwarts have become lukewarm, and even are opposed to a large part of the ticket on account of being frozen out at the nominating convention. With the tear up in Sherburne that has rankled for years as against Wright county republicans, and the hard feelings recently engendered, added to the thoughts of similar methods in vogue in the not long ago when other candidates from the third commissioner district were shelved it looks as if our tocal republican bosses would come out in the rear at the race this time. And as the democrats have the President and Congress and Senate and will peobably have them for another two years anyway the old dodge worked last time to whip the faithful into line so as to be sure and send a protective tariff man to the United States Senate won't even work this time. It does look as if by the aid of those who are seeking to throw off the galling yoke of "bossism" the democrats will elect some men if they nominate good ones.

The New Tariff Laws.

THE new tariff law has been given to the country. This law, as is well known is not exactly what suits the democratic party in this section of country; but it is the best they could get. President Cleveland did his best to have free raw material so that manufacturers in this country could compete with those of any land in making goods of all kinds; and in all products of our country have a fair chance to sell in the markets of the world, as well as they do in some lines.

A great deal has been said by the republican press in particular about the Senate bill, just past, being no better than the McKinley bill; they have tried to make the people believe that the new bill was as great a protection measure as the McKinley bill. We are forced to admit that some things are protected in accordance with the views of those who believe in giving certain industries the long end of the evener, either from personal motives or on principle, from their stand point; yet it does cut down the protection at a rate in many cases to place thousands of dollars in the hands of the consumers rather than in the hands of wealthy manufacturers. From extracts from Senate report we learn that the tariff has been reduced on articles as follows:

REDUCED ONE HUNDRED PER CENT.

Paints, colors, etc., in part.
Potash, caustic, refined.
Burr stones, manufactured.
Cotton ties of iron or steel.
Copper ore, and manufactures of.
Timber and lumber.
Salt.
Binding twine.
Burlaps.
Bags for grain, made of burlaps.
Bagging for cotton
Wool unmanufactured.
Wool, tops, slubbing, and other wastes.
Wool, rags mungo, and flocks.
Wool, nails.

REDUCED BETWEEN SEVENTY FIVE AND ONE HUNDRED PER CENT.

Bar iron, and slabs, blooms or loops.
Spikes of wrought iron or steel.
Woollen cloths.
Woollen shawls.
Common pipes of clay.

Many other articles have been reduced in a less degree. So much so that people can easily notice the differece soon, and will be ready for still further modification of the bill. It will not be long until republicans will be telling us doubtless, that the new tariff bill is to blame for everything that is not satisfactory to everybody. When they do, remind them that they are on record already as having denounced it as a terrible democratic failure, and having proclaimed to the world that it is nothing but the Mc Kinley bill, under a new head.

And now Comes the Major.

The democratic primaries were held in St. Louis Co. this week, and in Duluth alone 2,200 votes were cast for Baldwin delegates. Straws show which way the wind blows, but good Lord that vote is a whole straw stack with a cyclone behind it. The major's calling and election is sure. Another evidence of the fact that the people can be trusted to look after the interests of a good and faithful public servant, who is so faithful that he looks only after the public business intrusted to him and leaves his political interests in the people's hands for marring or mending, as they in their wisdom shall see fit.—Aitkin Age.

Towne for Congress

At the Brainerd convention last Tuesday, C. A. Towne of Duluth was nominated for Congress from this district by acclamation, there being no opposition. The convention was harmonious, but not very enthusiastic, especially among the delegates from the lower part of the district.—Sherburne Co. News.

Sixth District Congressional Convention.

The Democratic Congressional Convention, Sixth District, Minnesota, will be held at St. Cloud, Minnesota, on September 11th, 1894, at 10 o'clock a. m., to place in nomination a Democratic candidate for Congress for said distaict in the next general election, and to transact such other business as shall properly come before the convention.

The basis of representation for this convention is one delegate at large for each county and one additional delegate for every 150 votes and major fraction thereof cast for M. R. Baldwin for Congress in 1892.

Each county in said district is entitled to the following number of delegates, namely:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Aitkin | 2 | Lake | 2 |
| Anoka | 6 | Mille Lacks | 2 |
| Beltrami | 1 | Morrison | 11 |

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Aug. 31, 1894.

Chairman Wilson, before leaving Washington, took occasion to express his oppinion freely concerning the effect of President Cleveland's letter to Representative Catchings upon the Congressional campaign. Mr. Wilson endorses every word said in that letter; also the action of the President in allowing the tariff bill to become a law without his signature, and believes that the letter will be of such service in preventing luke warmness of tariff reformers towards democratic candidates. Mr. Wilson also disposed most effectually of the republican argument that the promise of additional tariff reform in the future, which the president made in his letter, meant another general tariff bill and its consequent upseting of buiness. Concerning this far-fletched argument he said: "The work of tariff reform will be continued by easy graduations and by special reductions from time to time until we have accomplished our purpose. There will be no other general tariff bill. The tariff rates will remain in stable on the great majority of articles, and it will be upon comparatively few that the perfecting of details will be necessary in order that the tariff reform law placed on the statute books shall be a consistant whole. This work will be performed, however, in such a manner as neither to disturb the employer or the employed." Mr. Wilson is confident of his re-election no matter who the republicans may run against him.

Representative Warner, of New York, who strongly believes that sugar should have been made free so as to down the sugar trust, said of the President's letter: "The President proposes to go at the thing right this time. He leads out in an attack against the trusts which occupy the most strongly intrenched position in the center of the protection line. When once we carry the center of the line and rout the trusts, the rest of the fight will be easy enough, and we will get free raw material and every thing else we want without any difficulty."

As a rule, all democrats who really believe in tarriff reform, and there are few, very few, who do not, strongly commend President Cleveland's letter to Mr. Catchings, and predict that it will do no more to keep the democrats in control of the House than any one document that will be a factor in the campaign.

President Cleveland does not intend to return to Washington until October, unless something of great public importance now unforseen shall make it necessary for him to do so. In the meantime no public business will be neglected, as he has arranged to have all matters requiring his official attention forwarded to Gray Gables, where with the assistance of private secretary Thurber, an executive office will be maintained.

Secretary-Carlisle will not be able to take an extended vacation this year as there will be many questions arising out of the administration of the new tariff law that will require his personal attention and which delay in answering would seriously inconvenience many business men. The condition of the Treasury is much better than it has been at the end of any month recently, and the probabilities are all in favor of a continued improvement, owing to the increase in receipts under the new tariff.

All of the other members of the cabinet will take vacations. Secretary Herbert went away last week, combining business with recreation by making a tour of the Atlantic coast navy yards; Secretary Lamont left with President Cleveland, and will remain in New York for several weeks; Secretary Gresham expects to get away in a few days for a month's stay, a portion of which will be spent in Indiana and a portion fishing; Attorney General Olney has gone to Boston and the three or four weeks he expects to be away will be spent in and near that city; Secretary Smith who has already been to the seashore for a few days, will spend two weeks in Georgia; Postmaster General Bissell has gone to Buffalo where he will meet Mrs. Bissell and decide where his vacation shall be spent, and Secretary Morton will delay his departure until the middle of September, when he will go to Europe.

Washington hasn't had a chance to miss Congress yet. This week the Uniformed Knights of Pythias, about 10,000 strong, are holding their annual encampment here, and the Southern Development Convention, an organization engaged in booming the southland, is also in session here. When things get quiet the absence of Congress will begin to be regretted.

Among our Exchanges.

It is much more important that we elect a Republican Senator through our legislature than that a locality should be revenged for an injustice.—Howard Lake Herald.

C. A. Towne of Duluth, was nominated yesterday at Brainerd for Congress. The nomination was by acclamation and was foreordained and predistinated by the dwellers in the "Sun down city by the unsalted Sea". So mote it be. —Buffalo Journal.

To vote against any one of the republican nominees for legislation is a vote to send a democrat or what is worse, a populist. Donnelly, to the United States Senate. Can any republican afford to do thts? The Times believes they cannot.—Wright Co. Times.

The action of the Annandale convention Saturday in the matter of allowing Sherburne two representaves on the ticket, was a generous and courteous one on the part of our big neighbor across the river, and one that will be duly appreciated by the people of this county in the coming campaign. It will go far to heal the alleged breach said to exist between Wright and Sherburne, and insures a full party vote for the entire ticket in this county.—Sherburne County Times.

The republican convention at Brainerd last Tuesday nominated C. A. Towne, of Duluth, for Congress. Mr. Towne is a bright, smart young gentleman, a good orator of the great Mr. Gregsbury stamp, and no doubt will make a lively campaign, but after the wary, cool old sworder of the Iron Brigade gets through with him he will doubtless appreciate the subtle irony concealed under the phonetic spelling of the Michigan saw mill notice "Don't munkey with the buz saw its in moshun." The Major's in "moshun" and Mr. Towne is going to find it out ere the ides of November roll round.—Aitkin Age.

West Point seems to be the only educational institution left in the country in which the old-fashioned system of "hazing" still obtains. The tortures invented by the embryonic soldiers surpass even those which used to characterize the initiations to some of the secret societies of the colleges, one of which involved the burning of a number of holes in the arm of the candidate for admission with the glowing end of a large cigar. Considering that discipline is one of the first things taught at West Point, it is passing strange that a system should be tolerated that the civilian colleges have long since done away with. It is not necessary for boys to develop asinine brutality or to suffer torments from brutal asses in order to become good soldiers, and it is time for hazing to be dropped from the military curriculum. —Minneapolis Times.

Hennepin Co. Politics.

The populist county and city conventions are over. They were the greatest bear dances the peopie of Minneapolis have ever witnessed.

P. M. Hilary seconded the nomination of F. X. Claffey for Municipal Judge in a speech that brought down the house. Mr. Hilary said that there was no lawyer in Minneapolis who could hold a candle to Mr Claffey, and brought out his statements in regular Richard Keene tragedy style.

L. D. Brown, the populist nominee for school superintendent, was chosen chairman of the peoples party city convention. Mr. Brown made an admirable presiding officer, and but for the bad break he made in leaving the chair to place in nomination for Mayor an Evangelist preacher named Pierce, who only came to the city last February and has been running a mission since, his record in the convention from beginning to end would be a dignified one. Pierce was itching for the mayoralty nomination and boomed himself for that position in a way that subjected him to a deal of adverse criticism. Public opinion had already placed in nomination for mayor H. J. O. Reed, a prominent Minneapolis business man; but the convention was flooded with the preacher's tickets, which read, "J. H. Pierce. We can elect him." There was but one ballot taken, which resulted in Mr. Reed's nomination by a vote that was all but unanimous, the preacher only receiving a few votes. Pierce was almost a total stranger to the delegates, having the least number of acquaintances among them, probably, of any one in the convention; yet he had the cheek to push himself forward for mayor of this great city. His candidacy fell as flat as anything of the kind possibly could fall, because of his own efforts in his own behalf. He went about among the delegates showing letters of recommendation from Tom, Dick, and Harry, which told what a nice man he was. He also made it known that he was descended from Presidential stock. It seemed to be the sense of the convention that a candidate for mayor should need no letters of recommendation nor illustrious lineage to commend him. The convention placed its seal of disapprobation upon the relative of President Pierce in a way that should make him understand that the people are not jumping at every chance to nominate the decendants of great men.

A Minnetonka school ma'am, who is not so meek as her name implies, contends that Deacon Wilcox is a better christain than Mr. Breen. Few people seem to know whether Mr. Breen is a communicant of any church at all. If he is, he has not made it known by giving utterance to loud prayers in public places, such as the Deacon is noted for.

Their combined ages amount to thirteen years more than the aggregate of the Winter brothers' ages.

SINCE 1868, a period of twenty-five years, there have been but 202 divorces granted in Canada. The explanation given is that they cost too much. In all but two or three of the provinces parliament passes on the question, no court being authorized to grant legal separations, and only the wealthier can afford the expense of a parliamentary hearing. They are now clamoring for easier roads to legal separation.

REV. E. P. BLODGETT, of Greenwich, Mass., said to be the oldest pastor in point of service in the United States, with one exception, preached his farewell sermon to his congregation recently. He has been pastor of the Greenwich church for fifty-one years. During forty-three years of his pastorate he was absent from his pulpit only once. He has officiated at the funerals of 650 persons, over 100 more than the present population of the town.

THE gentle President Madison was no sportsman. His ways were those of a student, and he lived the simple life of a country gentleman without engaging in any of the sports that interested his neighbors. His friend and mentor, Jefferson, who lived twenty-five miles away, was more versatile. He rode a great deal and much of his riding was for pleasure. It is probable that Jefferson did some shooting, but it is not recorded that he was a sportsman. Monroe was a constant horseback rider, and few horsemen ever passed him on the road. He kept good stock.

IN the opinion of the St. Paul Globe the baseball season this year has been the poorest ever known. In none of the western cities has the attendance paid expenses, while in the east, although greater interest is maintained, the returns have been far less than heretofore. It is very evident that the days when fortunes were made out of a season's work by a ball club are over, and that the public demands either better playing or a change of game. Baseball is no longer the national game, for the nation has repudiated it and will never again take it back into favor.

THE Indian of this country is in danger of becoming too much Americanized, according to the meaning which a certain element in this country gets out of that word. In its attempt to contribute to the comfort of its red wards the government furnished them with baking powder and other articles in use by the whites. A few days ago the head cook of one of the Indian homes mistook arsenic for baking powder and used it in the bread. Fifteen boarders partook of the bread and are no more. In consequence the order has gone forth to boycott all baking powder on the reservation.

A DISCOVERY of great scientific interest has been made in excavations being carried on in the district of Tiaxiaco, state of Oaxaca, Mexico. A number of small images, formed in metal, were uncovered by workmen digging in one of the oldest ruins. These images are said to represent people of Oriental appearance—in Chinese or Japanese dress—some of them resembling Buddhist priests in their robes of sacrifice. They bear hieroglyphics of unknown characters, and are elaborately wrought with fine art lines shown in every curve. They are to be sent to the City of Mexico.

LATER NEWS.

The Death List Grows.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 4.—The death roll resulting from the forest fires increases and now over 650 are known to be lost, the greater part women and children. At an early hour this morning a party of experienced woodsmen left on a special conveyance to scour the woods for bodies of settlers in out-of-way cabins and clearings.

They are expected to bring back appalling reports. In the stretch of territory 26 miles long and from 1 to 15 miles wide, not a single human habitation is left standing except the section house at Miller, and in every part of the track of the flames the bodies of men, women, children, horses and cattle have been found.

The work of the flames has been complete and cyclonic in character. Where the fire held sway not a single tree is standing except as a blackened stump.

A careful canvass reveals the fact that 72 settlers' homes in outside towns fell. There were 500 people in these homes. At Brookdale, a little town an the Eastern Minnesota south of Hinckley, about 90 persons took refuge in the water of a small creek. Out of this place 67 dead bodies were taken and buried, and some 30 living persons were rescued, some badly burned.

Another town has fallen a prey to devouring flames, making nine in all that have been consumed. This time the village of Granite, on the Omaha road, two miles south of Barronette, is the victim. A good share of the town, a saw mill and 5,000,000 feet of lumber were consumed.

The list of the dead found within a radius of eight miles of Hinckley is 389.

The little village of Bruce, Wis., was totally destroyed by fire. The people saved themselves by running into a creek.

A relief party has returned from the scene of the wreck. The crowd was made up into relief parties of six or eight, which took supplies, medicines and stretchers with them and made a systematic search for two or three miles each side of the St. Paul & Duluth track. They found over 30 bodies. Vandals were found examining the dead with a view of robbing them. Dr. Magie had no less than three of these men thrown from the train.

The total loss of standing pine timber cannot be less then 700,000,000 to 800,000,000 feet in Minnesota alone.

The town of Thorpe, Wis., was reported burning the night of the 4th, the result of forest fires.

HUNDREDS PERISH.

Havoc Wrought by Flames in the Minnesota Forests.

Over Four Hundred Persons Now Reported Dead—Suffering at Hinckley—Other Towns Destroyed—Forest Fires in Wisconsin and Michigan.

WIDESPREAD DISASTER.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Reports from the portions of Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin in which the forest fires are now raging show that the condition of affairs there is more than terrible. The loss of property, at a low estimate, has already reached $12,000,000, not including the standing timber that has been destroyed. But even worse is the loss of life which, it is feared, will reach as high as 1,000. Nearly 400 cases of persons having perished have already been received, while the reports as they continue to come in are increasing the list. The best information is that about twenty towns have already been destroyed, driving thousands of families from their homes in the face of the flames.

Worst Suffering Is at Hinckley.

The worst suffering is reported from Hinckley, Minn., and vicinity. The estimate of the loss of life there and in the surrounding towns is being increased by every report. It is said that strewn along on one street of Hinckley the bodies of twenty-nine victims were found, while in another spot the charred and unrecognizable remains of 103 persons were counted. A low estimate of the fatalities in that town alone are now placed at 300 persons. Scores of others were discovered severely injured, while the list of missing was in the hundreds. It is believed that at least 100 victims are on the farms and clearings throughout the burnt district. The loss of life in and about Hinckley, Sandstone, Pokegama, Skunk Lake and Mission Creek will not be known for weeks, if ever. The survivors have been taken to Pine City, where physicians cared for the injured, while relief trains from Duluth, Minneapolis and St. Paul carried in tents, clothing, food and everything necessary to cover the wants of the suffering survivors. Very few persons are left in Hinckley.

Supplies for Sufferers.

The extent of the suffering can hardly be described, but already the hand of charity is at work, and the cities of the three states are sending aid to the sufferers. But railroads have been injured by the fires, and in many cases traffic has been entirely suspended, thus preventing the starting out of relief expeditions. There seems no hope for a cessation of the progress of the flames save an end of the great drought. No such hope is held out, for while much-needed rain is promised for other points "dry and fair" is the prediction for the burning districts by the weather bureau.

The Loss of Life.

Up to last reports the estimates of the lives lost in the fires at different points in the two states are as given in the following list, and it is feared the list is far below the actual destruction of human life:

|---|---|
| Hinckley, Minn. | 300 |
| Sandstone, Minn. | 40 |
| Sandstone Junction | 25 |
| Pokegama, Minn. | 25 |
| Skunk Lake, Minn. | 29 |
| Shell Lake, Minn. | 1 |
| Miscellaneous points | 40 |
| Total | 466 |

List of Towns Destroyed.

The following towns are reported either wholly or partially destroyed:

Bashaw, Burnett county, Wis.; Barronett, Barron county, Wis.; Benoit, Wis.; Ewen, Mich; Fifield, Pine county, Wis.; Granite Lake, Barron county, Wis.; Grantsburg, Burnett county, Wis.; Glidden, Ashland county, Wis.; Hinckley, Pine county, Minn.; Mission Creek, Pine county, Minn.; Marengo, Ashland county, Wis.; Milaca, Pine county, Minn.; Muscado, Grant county, Wis.; Shell Lake, Washburn county, Wis.; South Range, Douglas county, Wis.; Sidnaw, Houghton county, Mich; Sandstone, Minn.; Trout Creek, Mich.

The Losses.

The losses at Hinckley and Barronett were each over $1,000,000, while the losses at the other towns reported destroyed range from $100,000 to $500,000, according to latest advices. The loss in Washburn was estimated at $300,000.

AN AWFUL JOURNEY.

Trip of a Passenger Train Through a Sea of Flame.

PINE CITY, Minn., Sept. 4.—The St Paul & Duluth train No. 4, south bound with eighty passengers, ran into Hinckley at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and proceeded thence to Mission Creek, 2 miles further south, only to find that village in ashes. Conductor Sullivan issued immediate orders to his crew to back into Hinckley, but before the train, running at 20 miles an hour, could reach Hinckley the place was in flames. The train stopped at the depot one fatal minute, during which the woodwork of the engine and the baggage car caught fire. The train quickly resumed its backward journey toward Duluth, and the very motion of the cars fanned the flames to a fury and they soon enveloped the sleepers, passenger coaches and the smoker.

A Horrible Picture.

While the train was stopping at Hinckley nearly 200 panic-stricken people of the place rushed upon the platforms and into the cars. When they discovered the train on fire they began to moan, shout and pray, which, with the awful roar of the flames, made a horrible picture.

A mile out of Hinckley people on the platforms, rendered frantic lunaties by the heat and their terror, began to jump from the cars and plunge into streams, into sand heaps or into the smoke-encompassed forest. A little farther on those in the cars, stifled with smoke, began to smash the windows of the coaches in a frantic attempt to get a breath of fresh air. Driven back by the flames eating their way up the sides of the freshly varnished coaches, they stood in baffled amazement for a moment, when dozens of them in sheer desperation tumbled themselves out through the open spaces to the ground below, some being instantly killed by the fall and others lingering in the horrible heat and smoke until suffocated.

Took Refuge in the Lake.

In spite of the fact that the train was on fire from engine to rear end the crew bravely stood at their posts and ran the train back 6 miles to Skunk lake, where the passengers rushed out and into the water. Some of them were in such a state of exhaustion that they were unable to walk, and half a dozen were entirely unconscious. All of these latter were rolled in the mud and laid on their backs just far enough out into the lake to keep the water from running into their mouths.

All around the lake the forests were roaring like the furnace of an imaginary 1,000,000 horse-power engine. Many of the people in the water stood and offered prayers in a loud voice for deliverence. The scene was one of the most remarkable ever witnessed.

Hero of the Throttle.

Engineer James Root, who had so bravely piloted the train through that awful 6 miles of fire, was found to be fatally burned. He stood faithfully at his post with his clothes afire, and manfully battled to save the lives of those on his train.

Conductor Sullivan, cool and collected all through the awful journey, after it was all over, became a raving maniac. A little later he was put aboard a special and taken to a Duluth hospital.

CONFIRMED.

Earlier Reports Not Exaggerated—Forest Fires in the East.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 5.—Later reports from the fire-swept district of northeastern Minnesota and north western Wisconsin indicate that the loss of life and destruction of property have not been exaggerated. While it is not possible even yet to ascertain the exact number of lives lost, it is certain that between 400 and 500 persons perished. The property loss will not fall short of $10,000,000.

To the list of towns heretofore named as having been totally or partially destroyed there are to be added the following in the state of Minnesota: Partridge, Cromwell, Pokegama, Broad Park, Curtis, Cushing, and Rib Lake, Wis., making a total of twenty-five.

Many Hunters May Have Perished.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 5.—It is greatly feared that many well-known residents of St. Paul have perished in the forest fires that have swept over Hinckley and vicinity since Saturday night. Large numbers of sportsmen have left St. Paul within the last ten days to hunt prairie chickens near Hinckley, Mora, Sandstone and other points in that vicinity, and few of these places have escaped the fiery flames. The fire covers a wide stretch of territory, and if these sportsmen were in the forests no power on earth could save them unless they were close to some large body of water.

Indeed, this apprehension extends to all the cities of the country as far east as New York. Many sportsmen from Chicago, Buffalo, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and New York make trips every autumn to the woods of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Twin Cities Send Relief.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 5.—A relief train was sent to Hinckley on Monday with a force of men and supply of tents, those being most needed just now. Additional supplies were picked up at every station along the road. Philip Martin, of the land department of the Great Northern road, went in search of Thomas Fitzgerald, land examiner at Dellgrove, who, with a dozen workmen, was in the midst of the fire, and has not been heard from. The chamber of commerce raised $3,000 for relief at its meeting and adopted resolutions favoring the securing of information from United States consular agents as to forestry management in foreign countries, with the object of preventing future forest fires.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 5.—The first relief train for the desolate region from Minneapolis left Monday morning laden with a plenteous store of provisions. It was followed by another on which went a staff of local surgeons and nurses. Rev. William Wilkinson, of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, is in charge of the first train. A large local committee has been formed to take the work in charge and the appeal for money, clothing and food is being liberally responded to. Mayor Eustis is at the head of the movement, and his private secretary wires that Pine City is to be made the base of operations.

Forest Fires in the East.

BRADFORD, Pa., Sept. 5.—Forest fires are raging all along the line of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad. Reports from all points on the narrow gauge roads state that the woods are on fire for miles, and the damage will be heavy unless rain should fall. The woods along the pike to Corydon are on fire for miles, and oil property in the vicinity of the west branch is threatened. Should the fire spread to the oil field serious consequences would result. On the big level between Mount Jewett and this city and the head of the west branch the woods are ablaze, and several oil-well rigs are reported blazing. At Song Bird and Quintuple the woods are a roaring mass of flames and valuable property is being destroyed. As yet no loss of life is reported and the extent of the damage cannot be estimated.

Big Forest Fires in Ontario.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 3.—Forest fires are raging in various parts of the province. At Grand Valley many acres of crops have been burned. Bush fires are devastating Bruce county, near Markham, where a fifty-acre swamp has been burning two weeks. Around Dundalk whole fields of grain and miles of forest are destroyed. In Melanthon and Amaran, the townships near Shelburne, 40 miles of territory is on fire and twelve farmhouses have been burned. The whole mountain range north of Milton has been burning three days. Hundreds of men are fighting flames.

Enormous Fruit Shipment.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept 3.—The enormous fruit business handled by the Union Pacific this year is without parallel in the history of the traffic. Shipments over the Wyoming division now average nine or ten trains each day and the officials think the rush will continue at least a month. One hundred and sixty-seven special trains of California green fruit have already been shipped over the line to the eastern markets. Few shipments were made until the 15th of July, after the strike was declared off.

Printers Win a Strike.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 3.—The Evening Wisconsin, a non-union office, employing about forty printers, of whom less than a half dozen are union men, has decided to rescind the reduction of wages ordered a week ago, and contested by the International Typographical unions, the latter being supported by the trades unions of this city in its demand that the paper pay the union scale to all its printers.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

A Desperate Man.

Murderer Ermish made a desperte attempt to escape from the county jail at St. Paul, and succeeded in reaching the lower corridor door, after he had wounded Ed Horst, the death watch. That he did not add another murder to the one for which he is now awaiting the death penalty was due solely to his faulty aim. Horst had taken Ermisch out of his cell when the shots were fired. The murderer succeeded in getting to the lower floor, when Turnkey Quist gave an alarm which brought Deputy Sheriff Frank Picha to the scene. Picha fired on Ermisch and soon subdued him and placed him in irons. The mother of Ermisch has admitted that she smuggled the weapon into the jail. Gov. Nelson had about come to the decision to commute the sentence of Ermish and Wonigkeit, his partner, to imprisonment for life. Now he will not interfere, and they will hang.

A Balloon Race.

One of the novel features of the forthcoming state fair, to be held on the grounds of the State Agricultural society, midway between St. Paul and Minneapolis, will be a balloon race. Two balloons will be started in the air at the same time. At a given signal the aeronauts in both balloons will drop from their perilous height to the ground in parachutes. Two of these balloon races will occur. There will be daily balloon ascensions during the fair, and novel features added on each occasion. The parachute drop will on several occasions be made by a dog. Both male and female aeronauts will participate in the ascensions. The fair will be held during the week beginning Monday, September 10th. There will be half-fare rates on all the railroads from all points in the state.

A Prominent St Cloud Business Man Commits Suicide.

Hugo C. Metzel, jewler, and a very prominent man, committed suicide at his place of business. His body was found ing by friends, who were searching for him, in the basement of his store with a bullet in his head and one below his heart. A revolver found alongside of him with two empty chambers was proof of self destruction, and no inquest was deemed necessary. For some time he had shown signs of despondency, and because of business reverses, and on an envelope he had written that his losses had driven him to death. He was a prominent Odd Fellow and carried $10,000 life insurance. He leaves a young wife and one child.

Executive Documents.

The annual reports to the state legislature of the various state departments for the fiscal year ending July 31, 1894, has been issued under the title, "Minnesota Executive Documents." These are conviently compiled in one volume of 857 pages. It contains the annual reports of the secretary of state, the state treasurer, the Minnesota soldiers' home, the game and fish commission, that of the commissioner of statistics, the state agricultural society, the state reformatory, the dairy and food department, and that of the insurance commissioner.

For High Schools.

The state auditor issued warrants to 73 high schools for $400 each, making a total of $29,200 under the law for the encouragement of higher education. Ten schools have not yet reported, including those of Minneapolis.

Loans were made from the permanent school funds to the following districts: 59 and 132, Waseca and Blue Earth counties, $800; 97, Jackson, $350; 13, Chisago county, $100.

CHANCE AND CHANGE.

There was a rose by your gate, last year;
  Good neighbor, tell me now, he said,
Have the frosts of the winter left it sere,
  Or blooms it yet in your garden bed?
    Two for one
    Have the red buds blown,
Two for one that there used to be!
  For there's many a day
    'Twixt May and May,
And many a change in a year! said she.

And there was a girl 'neath your roof last year;
  Good neighbor, tell me now, he said,
Does her foot fall light in the cottage near,
  Or is she wooed and is she wed?
    She lies apart
    With a pulseless heart,
A broken heart, 'neath the red rose tree!
  For there's many a day
    'Twixt May and May,
And many a change in a year! said she.

GRIGSBY'S LAWSUIT.

A Prairie Fire Settled the Case Amicably.

"I'LL HAVE THE LAW ON HIM."

"I WON'T be trampled on by Seth Stubblefield no longer!" sputtered Farmer Grigsby, in a towering rage. "I'll hev the law on him, that's what I'll do!"

Mrs. Grigsby was washing clothes in the back yard, where a bent and gnarled old apple tree made a shady spot for her tub.

"What has Seth Stubblefield been a-doin' now, Hiram?" she asked, in a querulous voice.

"What's he been a-doin'?" snarled the farmer. "Ain't his cows been tromplin' my cornfield ag'in, an' ruinated more'n a acre of corn? Pretty nigh ready fur the second plowin', it was, too! But I'll put a stop to it afore long. Human natur' can't stand everything, an' if he don't fix up his end of the division fence, or keep his cattle out o' my field, I'll sue him! I'll sue him fur damages as sure as eggs is eggs!"

"It's no more'n you'd ought to 'a' done long ago," assented Mrs. Grigsby, clapping a handful of softsoap on a homespun sheet and rubbing it vigorously on the wooden washboard. "You've been too easy with him, Hiram."

"I shan't be easy with him no longer," assented Hiram, aggressively. "I shall go and see Squire Barnacle this very day."

And, striding to the stable, he saddled the sorrel cob and proceeded to put his threat into execution while his anger was still at fever heat.

It was not so very long since the Grigsbys and Stubblefields had been the best of friends and neighbors. Scarcely a week elapsed without a visit between the two families.

"I'LL HAVE THE LAW ON HIM."

Hiram Grigsby and Seth Stubblefield exchanged work at corn-planting and harvest time, and their wives consulted each other on such momentous questions as soft-soap, or apple-butter making, and the relative merits of Plymouth Rock and Black Spanish fowls as layers and setters.

Tom Grigsby and Ben Stubblefield, well-known lads of sixteen and seventeen years of age, had been chums ever since they were "little tackies."

They attended "deestrick school" together in winter, and went gunning or fishing, and helped each other pile shocks in the harvest field in summer.

The daughters of the two families were also on the best of terms. They exchanged patchwork scraps and basque patterns, confided important secrets to one another, and were, in fact, kindred spirits in every respect.

This friendly intercourse continued until the feud broke out, and all neighborly feeling was at an end.

How the trouble began, or which party was most to blame, it would be hard to say. Doubtless there was some fault on both sides.

At all events the hatchet was dug up, and hostilities were carried on, until, from sympathizing friends, the two families became relentless enemies.

A system of "mark and reprisal" was soon established, which caused the breach to grow wider and wider—a sort of

"Tit for tat, butter is fat,
  If you kill my dog I'll kill your cat" arrangement, sometimes indulged in by "grown-up" folks as well as children.

Farmer Grigsby fenced up the little pool which ran from his spring, and from which his neighbor's stock had been wont to quench their thirst for years gone by.

Farmer Stubblefield at once retaliated by blocking the private road through his woods pasture, thereby forcing the Grigsbys to drive two miles further around in hauling cord-wood, or taking their garden truck to market.

The well-trodden foot-path across lots was neglected and grass-grown, and when the rival factions met at church meetings, or basket-picnics and other rural gatherings, they turned their heads aside, or glared at one another with uncompromising hostility.

So the feud kept growing, until at last it culminated in a lawsuit.

"He'll sue me, will he?" blustered Farmer Stubblefield, red with anger. "Let him go ahead, I say. He'll find out two kin play at that game. I don't care if my cattle did tromp down his growin' corn. What'd he turn his pigs inter my medder fur?"

"I'd make him smoke fur it yet, if I was you, Seth," put in Mrs. Stubblefield. "He 'lows he kin scare you by goin' to law."

"That's what I know," replied Seth, grumpily. "But he'll haul in his horns afore I'm through with him. I'll show him whose ole hog eat up the grindstone!"

It was early in the springtime when the suit was brought, but owing to the law's delays it was still unsettled when harvest-time came on.

Farmer Grigsby's crops had turned out well that year.

His hay was put up in long ricks in the barnyard, where his wheat was also stacked, awaiting the coming "thrasher."

On a certain Saturday, Mrs. Grigsby and her daughters were busy with the week's baking. Half a dozen pies, a gallon jar of seed cookies and a goodly supply of light rolls and crusty brown loaves had already been drawn from the oven and set on the wide pantry shelf to cool.

A home-cured ham was gently simmering over the stove, and the twelve o'clock dinner was under way.

Farmer Grigsby sat moodily awaiting the coming meal, when Tom Grigsby dashed into the house.

"Forest fires!" he shouted. "The fence has caught, an' it's almost up to the stacks!"

In a moment all was confusion. The farmer seized a spade and rushed to the rescue of his crops.

His wife and daughters eagerly followed, each armed with a stout cudgel, to assist in battling with the devouring element.

For weeks there had been a drought leaving the grass and undebrush as dry as tinder. The flames swept rapidly forward. Rail fences and fallen brushwood crackled in the fierce heat.

Bravely the anxious family fought for their possessions, only to be baffled and driven back by the relentless flames.

Overcome at last by exhaustion and despair, Farmer Grigsby dropped his weapon and groaned aloud.

"The crops must go!" he sighed, hopelessly. "I am a ruined man. If we can save the ole homestead, it's more'n I expect."

But, even as he spoke, an encouraging shout was heard from the deserted footpath, which led "across lots."

"Keep a stout heart, neighbor. We'll see you through!"

Every eye turned in the direction of the cherry sound, to behold the stalwart figure of Seth Stubblefield hurrying forward, a stout spade on his shoulder.

At his heels came his son Ben, carrying a long-handled shovel, and following closely after him were Mrs. Stubblefield and Susan, the one bandishing a rake and the other a hoe.

New strength was infused into the Grigsby family by this timely reinforcement, and all hands fell to work to baffle the advancing enemy.

The men, with their spades, beat out every fresh blaze made by the spreading flames. The boys tore down endangered fences, and carried the rails out of harm's way.

The rake and hoe, in the hands of the women, were used to good advantage in drawing dead leaves and other debris away from the line of the encroaching fire, and the girls brought water around in tin pails and handed dripping gourdfuls of the refreshing element to the thirsty and perspiring workers.

Their heroic efforts were crowned with victory at last. The persistent foe was conquered, with no more serious loss than the destruction of a few rods of rail fence.

"An' we'll turn in an' give ye a rail-splittin' to make them good," volunteered Farmer Stubblefield.

"An' now your wheatstacks and hayricks is safe, neighbor, I reckon we may's well be gittin' along," he added, mopping his face. "If you'd only 'a blowed the horn to let us know you was in trouble we'd 'a got here sooner. But, anyhow, the danger's all over now."

"Yes, thank you, ole friend," answered Hiram Grigsby, in a stifled voice. "I hadn't the right to expect no help from you, after bein' so mean as to sue you—"

"Pooh! pooh! I'd 'a been meaner'n pusley if I'd stood by an' saw your crops burnt up. An' you done right to sue me. I'd ought to keep my part o' the fence up," confessed Farmer Stubblefield, eagerly. "But I'll pay all the damages my cattle has done in your cornfield. An' I'll—"

"You won't—you shan't!" interrupted Hiram. "They hain't done no damage, an' I won't hev a cent—"

Here the worthy farmer broke down. His feelings choked further utterance, and grasping the hand of his late enemy, he gave it a hearty shake, which was quite as heartily returned.

"I'll sell every hoof o' stock on my farm but what I'll keep 'em from tromplin' on your corn!" declared Seth, recklessly.

GRASPING THE HAND OF HIS LATE ENEMY.

"Blamed if I care what they trample on, so you an' me air friends ag'in, like we used to be!" responded Hiram.

Here Mrs. Grigsby spoke up:

"You ain't a one o' you goin' home without your dinners!" she asserted, determinedly. "So come right along to the house an' sit awhile."

And her command was obeyed without a word of dissent.

Mrs. Stubblefield insisted on lending her aid in the kitchen, where she was soon enjoying a gossip with her old neighbor, while the girls fell to setting the table, with much clattering of dishes and chattering of tongues.

The heads of the reunited families sat on the vine-shaded porch, contentedly discussing the price of wheat and hay, and the two boys, overjoyed at the new turn of affairs, celebrated the happy occasion by swapping jackknives.

The pies and seed-cookies and boiled ham, intended for the Sunday dinner, were not spared in the forthcoming meal, and if the table did not groan under its burden of good cheer it was only because groans would have been out of place on such a festive occasion. And thus ended Farmer Grigsby's lawsuit.—Helen W. Clark, in Golden Days.

HOME HINTS AND HELPS.

—I have found it an excellent plan to mix corn starch with salt before filling the salt shakers. We have no trouble with them now.

—Shirred Eggs: Liberally grease the egg dishes with butter and place them in the oven for an instant. Carefully break an egg in each cup and bake in the oven for eight minutes. Remove, season with salt and pepper and one-half of a teaspoonful of melted butter to each egg. Serve at once.—N. Y. Observer.

—Green Tomato Catsup: One peck of green tomatoes, one dozen large onions, one-half pint of salt. Slice, add salt and let stand twenty-four hours. Drain, and mix with tomatoes one-half pound of mustard seed, one tablespoon of allspice, one ounce each of cloves, ground mustard, ground ginger, pepper, celery seed and one-fourth pound of brown sugar. Cover with vinegar, boil two hours and bottle hot. —Housekeeper.

—Apricot Souffle: Put one pint of bread in half a pint of milk over the fire and stir till boiling hot. Press twelve pieces of apricot or peaches through the colander, stir into the bread and milk. Add a teaspoonful of lemon juice, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and the slow-beaten whites of four eggs. Put this mixture into greased custard cups. Stand the cups in a baking pan of hot water and cook in a moderately hot oven of twenty minutes. Serve with wine sauce.—Boston Budget.

—Pickled Apples: Scald together one quart vinegar (half water if very strong), three pounds sugar and two ounces stick cinnamon; add seven pounds apples with four cloves stuck in each apple, and simmer very gently until tender. Large crabapples may be used in this way, but russet apples are best; they are excellent in the early spring, and I fill a two-gallon jar several times from the last bin of apples. Pears, peaches and plums may be pickled by the same recipe, the fruit being pared or not, according to taste. Ripe peaches do not need to be boiled, but should have the sirup scalded and poured over them hot a second time. Sour plums require five pounds of sugar to seven of fruit. Country people spice "May apples" in the same manner.—Country Gentleman.

—Sultana: Dissolve one and a half ounces of gelatine in a little water, clean one-quarter of a pound of sultana raisins and one-quarter of a pound of currants, and cut one-quarter of a pound of candied lemon peel into small dice. Meanwhile boil a vanilla bean five minutes in one quart of cream, add three-quarters of a pound of sugar; remove from the fire and let the cream remain covered until nearly cold; take out the bean, beat the yolks of fifteen eggs with the cream, strain, put over a slow fire and stir until it thickens, taking care not to allow it to curdle; add the raisins, currants, lemon peel and dissolved gelatine, and the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth; pour the whole mixture into a mold and set it on the ice or in a cool place to harden. When ready to serve put the mold into warm water for a few minutes, turn out into a dish and garnish with whipped cream flavored with vanilla.—Harper's Bazar.

SWEET SIMPLICITY THE RULE.

Washable Gowns Made Up in Extreme Plainness That Is Becoming.

The tendency to make up wash goods according to the severity in vogue for wool material is increasing. Linens, ducks, chambrays, challies and all the wash weaves of silk are made up with strict severity, and the effect is charming. A favorite design has a little round bodice cut down to a point at the waist in front to show a vest, and four buttons are set almost at the waist line in front to carry out the effect of an overgarment. The vest is usually a prim affair of moire, even with wash material for the rest of the gown, but sometimes it is a dainty front of mull, gauze or chiffon, accordion plaited and gathered into a high collar. A pretty finish provides the outer part of the bodice with a high-standing collar, under which the collar of the front passes as it extends to the back.

Black-watered silk and slate-colored cloth are combined in the dress. The underskirt is from the latter, and the draped overskirt is ornamented with two moire ribbon rosettes, which hold the folds in place. The bodice fastens in the center and a plastron of white mousseline de soie laps over. A large directoire bow of the mousseline is placed at the neck, and the revers are attached to a turned-down collar, both of the silk. The puffed sleeves have epaulettes of Alencon point lace.

If one can not afford really fine silk stockings then it is just as well not to have silk at all, but to be content with fine lisle. Cotton stretches, and after the first wearing does not fit about the ankle. Lisle fits as well and lasts longer than silk. It is the proper thing to wear on the street with the russet shoes now in vogue. The shoe should be so dark that a brown stocking suits. Gaiters must not be worn unles they match the shoe. White duck and brown linen are shown, to go over shoes made to order from the dress goods.—N. Y. Advertiser.

A Summer Portiere.

An effective and simple drapery for the doorway of the summer home can be arranged with the help of a few brass rings attached to screw eyes. The rings must be big, but they can be bought from an upholster. They should be screwed into the woodwork on the open space, one at each end, and one, two, or more between, as the space demands, then the drapery pulled through and arranged in lambrequin effect. One seen recently is in the simpiest cottage, but is charming in extreme. The material is double-faced cretonne in hues of sage green. It is slipped through the rings and made to hang in a succession of graceful curves, which entirely robs the doorway of baldness at the same time that no air is excluded from the rooms. —Chicago Tribune.

When Serving Pears.

When serving pears for breakfast, select only ripe, mellow ones; wash and polish with a soft cloth; arrange in a basket on a bed of pear leaves, or they may be pared, sliced and sprinkled with powdered sugar. When baking pears, take the large, sweet ones; do not remove the stems. Stand them in an earthen baking dish; pour in a cupful of boiling water; add half a teacup of sugar; cover the dish, and set in the oven to bake slowly until the pears are tender, basting occasionally with the sirup. When cold serve with cream.—Toledo Blade.

HANDY WITH A GUN.

A Montana Man Who Was a Terror to Stage Robbers.

When He Went Out on Business He Objected to Being Delayed on the Road—How He Got His Reputation.

"The business of holding up stages in the west and robbing the mails and the passengers would not be followed by so many desperadoes if a few more of the travelers were like old Robert Lane, who lives near Dillon, Mont.," said George Craig, of Butte, to a reporter for the Washington Star. "Lane is as quiet and peaceable a citizen as ever went to church on Sunday and put his four bits into the contribution box. He has lived in Montana for twenty years, and even in youth he never personally indulged in the old-time wild excesses of life out there, nor in any of the hurly burly of frontier existence. He has always pursued the even tenor of his way on his little ranch near Dillon and ever been regarded as the safest and most peaceable citizen in the community. He is called 'Old Man Lane' out in Montana and everybody knows him. Several years ago the old man went down to Red Rock, which is nearer to his ranch than Dillon is, to take the stage for Junction. The mules were pulling the outfit along pretty lively through a right nasty piece of road, when the passengers were startled by hearing a voice commanding the driver to throw down his reins. There were three or four passengers on the inside, and if it had been light enough to see them they would have looked mighty white, I tell you. But old man Lane was made of different kind of stuff. When he heard the agent tell the driver to drop the reins he just reached back and pulled out two guns that he used to carry, because it was the custom of the country to do it, and kept his eye fixed on the doors, looking first at one door and then the other quickly, so as to see the thieves when they made an appearance.

"A shadow fell in each door window about the same time, and quick as a flash old man Lane's guns were stuck through either opening and off they went. He got meat both cracks. Then he leaned out the window and banged loose at the fellow who had ordered the driver to hold up. He got him, too, and then jumped out of the stage. There were four of the road agents, and the last one, alarmed at the fate of his companions, stuck spurs into his horse and rode away up the trail. The passengers, who had nearly recovered from their terror and surprise, were now amazed to see old man Lane cut the harness from the lead mule, jump on his back, and go sailing away after the fleeing fugitive. Shots were heard pretty soon, and in ten minutes or so back came old man Lane, leading the bandit's horse, while the man himself was sitting up in the saddle, shot through the back. On examination it was found that two of the attacking party were killed and the other two wounded, and the whole quartette was brought into Junction. When old man Lane was asked what caused him to bloom out into such a progressive citizen of the territory, he drawled out: 'Well, I had a good deal of business to attend to up here at Junction, and I didn't like the idee of being stopped when I was on my way to attend to it.' One of the men was not very badly wounded, and before leaving Junction to return home old man Lane went to see him in the temporary lockup. 'Look here, my friend,' he remarked, 'I just want to give you a little bit of advice. If you persist in a-following of the business that you have started out in when I sort of stopped you, I think it would be safer for you if you would look over the way bill of any stage you might intend to hold up, and find out in advance who it was a-carrying.' Old man Lane is living yet, and is as hale and hearty as you please, and if he starts on a stage ride now anywhere in Montana the driver don't even think it necessary to lock the treasure box."

EXTRA FAIR WEEK ATTRACTIONS

For Visitors at S. E. Olson Co.'s Mammoth Department Store, Minneapolis.

In addition to the free exhibition of the famous Montana silver statue, whose bullion value represents $300,000 in silver and gold, and is the largest piece of precious metal in the world, this enterprising firm will devote over 250 feet of their mammoth plate glass front to an exact reproduction of the main features of the famous Midway Plaisance at the late World's Fair, with many other historical events. A cordial invitation is extended to all readers of this paper who contemplate visiting the fair to make their store headquarters while in Minneapolis. Free reading, writing and reception rooms at their disposal. Electric cars for the fair grounds start from their door, First avenue and Fifth street.

S. E. Olson Co. also desire to announce that their large and complete fall catalogue will be ready for mailing about Sept. 15th. Send in your name and get one free.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

DELANO DIARY

Buffalo Gazette $1.00 a year.

—On Sunday the report came to town that a family named Dramalla living in Rockford town near the Ziebarth bridge was afflicted with diphtheria.

—Uncle Chris Gast says it is currently reported that Uncle Joe Van Eman is to have the brightest light in town on top of the water tank in his yard. There is nothing slow about Uncle Joe.

--The Delano Browns undertook to beat the Delano Spauldings two to one in a friendly game of base ball, on Monday afternoon but the little fellows got away with them, 29 to 2. How conceited the Browns were.

--The two higher departments of the Public school will begin in the City Hall, on Monday, September 10. Prof. Leavins has become a resident of our village having moved into the Hitsman house on third street over ten days ago.

—Rev. Sherwin, of Watertown drove over on Monday and took Dr. Chaffee to Armstrong to hold quarterly meeting service. Rev. Sherwin drives fast. He claims to have come from Watertown to Delano in 35 minutes, about half the time lots of people require for the drive.

—Rev. Dr. Chaffee held quarterly meetings here on Saturday and Sunday he preached an able sermon in the forenoon Sunday, quite a number of Montrose people were present among them Mr. and Mrs. Cramer Swartout, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stacy and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Douglas and son.

—The quarantine laws in this state are quite strict; but in order to derive much benefit from them they should be rigidly enforced, from the earliest outbreak of a contagious disease, and now with diphtheria and Scarlet Fever so near and small pox at Belle Plain our authorities should be on the alert to suppress the first symptoms of an outbreak.

—The newspaper accounts of death and destruction in the Duluth country and other places, as well as the dense smoke enveloping our own fair land ought to be sufficient admonition to all to be careful in this exceedingly dry time to drop no sparks or fire about where they can get beyond our control. It would be wise for farmers to do some plowing on all sides of their houses and barns. Plow a few furrows on every side that the fire may not come in and take you unawares, you may save your buildings, machinery, grain; and may be your animals and families lives by so doing.

--Unlike most well arranged houses our new school house has no back door. Most people, in civilized countries prefer to go in and out by some door other than the main enterance to the building, occasionally. But it seems whenever the pupil or teacher, or visitor, at the Delano school desires to attend to any business in the rear of the building they must come out on the front steps and take a trip to the rear of the house! Sometimes the weather is very cold, and there would not in all cases be sufficient time to stop to put on wraps, and furs, for such a journey. Oh, this is horrible to contemplate! What could our board be thinking about? Is there one of them living in a house; or doing business in a house, or that knows of a house where people are supposed to spend any great length of time that has not a back door of some kind?

--The St. Peter school opened the fall term on Monday morning.

—Send 25cts and your address for the GAZETTE until after election.

--Scarlet Fever is reported in the Southwest corner of Franklin township.

—The school building is being plastered and completed as rapidly as possible.

—Read on the inside of this paper an account of the fire at and about Hinckley.

—The heating apparatus is being placed in position in the new school house this week.

--Read the ticket on our front page and see who you are going to vote for, for State officers.

—Leon Frazee was to the city Wednesday and sold Fred Adicks Jr. a new Minneapolis engine.

—Rev. J. W. Powell, Jr., will preach at the M. E. church Sunday evening at 7:30. Mr. P. preaches well.

—A couple of individuals have told us that they approved of the plan of having a school house without a back door.

--Work on on the water tank has been commenced and is being rapidly pushed.

--James O'Neal and and his crew of men kept the ditch ahead of Mr. Marks and his crew by hard digging on Tuesday.

—The Soo trains have changed time and the train east is now 9:30 a. m; west 8:12 p. m., at Rockford. The through train don't stop.

—Attention is directed to the advertisement of the Great Northern Railway which appears in another column, calling attention to its very attractive list of publications.

—David Robinson stopped in yesterday to tell us about a man being caught in Mrs. Coopers watermellon patch a few days ago. David says Mrs. C. wants pay for her melons.

—Charley Vorse don't believe much in superstitious things but is forced to admit that 13 delegates wasn't in it as against two pairs of 11 of a kind, at the Republican Legislative Convention.

—Otto Klatt wha frescoed the business places of Simon Weldelee and Mat Fautsch in such fine style has been engaged to decorate the inside of the Catholic church. He is a splendid hand at the business.

—Robbers were at the window of the residence of John Leudasher last night between 10 and 11 o'clock, and frightened the old lady so badly as to have to report this morning, "I sleep me noting." No other loss.

—When our village water works are completed and electric lights in place, which from the present out look want be long we will be away ahead of anything in Wright county for metropolitan airs.

--While looking at the men blasting a large stone from the ditch for waterworks, near Young's Hotel the other day, Alderman Dyer received quite a black blister on his hand from a flying fragment.

—Crow river has about reached its lowest known mark. Mills at Hanover are run by steam. Also the woollen mill at Rockford; while the Rockford flour mill is idle on account of lack of water to turn the wheels.

—Possibly the children may get down safely from the upper windows at the school house in case of fire. Three of the bricklayers with the scaffold from which they were working took a tumble this morning, with slight injuries for a thirty feet fall.

--George Schaffers missing breeches were found Tuesday morning in a slough on the old Trott place. Mr. Casper David, a neighbor, went to the slough to catch frogs for fish bate and found the missing garments with the keys, and a nice poket rule, a present to Mr. S. from his wife years ago and which had not been missed. The money was gone.

—After reading of the panic stricken men and women, in the late fires in our state where over three hundred people lost their lives out doors, in the open air, how can sensible people argue that two or three huudred school children in a building could be marched out after the alarm of fire had been given, in case the fire started in the hall of the school building in time to preserve life and limb. Let us have some means of getting out of our new building in case of necessity before school begins; if it is nothing more than ladders kept in the rear of the house.

—Some of our fellow townsmen say that in speaking of the foolishness of tapping the river for water; and of building a school house without a back door we are speaking against our town, Not so, not by a good deal. No one would be gladder to exclaim to the public that Delano has a water system furnishing the purest water; and that her school house is a model of perfection in convenience and safety for its pupils than would we, if such was the case: and we earnestly hope that in time our citizens will see fit to correct all mistakes, of inexperience and indifference, and eventually have the best the country af fords.

--Mr. Gutzwiller, of the Eagle does'nt have any time for a man that he can't manipulate in some way, and can't finds one that don't do as when he him, he flies on him with he desires often in a manner his Eagle and gentleman; scarcely not becoming a child in the village, a man, woman or time, if very old age, but has at some felt the keen sting of his venemous pen personally, or through sympathy for defenceless friends attacked, often without cause or reason. As for people living in neighboring villages it is a well known fact that they claim to use their copies of the Eagle to keep people away from our village, when one inquires about locating here they have been referred to that paper it is claimed for the kind of people that live here, and who have for so long been tutored by that paper, which manages almost weekly to pounce upon some one or more of our citizens.

Personals.

J. H. McGary, of Independence, was a GAZETTE caller yesterday.

I. P. Harvey, of Buffalo and John A. Brasie, of Monticello, drove over today.

William Guthrie, Esq., of Woodland, was a Delano visitor on business on Thursday.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Powell drove to Excelcior on Monday to visit Mrs. W. W. Saterlee.

Mayor Kohler and Dr. Catlin attended the State Democratic Convention at St Paul this week.

M. A. O'Hair, and C. W. Kerrick attended the Judiciary convention, at Minneapolis, on Thursday.

Ezra Ferrell, of Montrose, was down on Tuesday, to mill.

John Sleight, of Rockford came up to Delano on Monday on business.

Commissioner Bugbee, of Rockford drove over to mill last Saturday.

Misses Stella Moody and Rebecca White left yesterday evening for Albert Lea where Miss Stella will attend the Seminary.

Among arrivals from the west on Tuesday evening were Rev. Zawadzki, Mrs. John Haffner, Mrs. Erb, Mrs. Hattie and Miss Grace Van Eman.

Judge William P. Howland, of Jefferson, Ashtabula County, Ohio, is the guest of his former student, Superintendent Lindsley. He made the GAZETTE a pleasant call to-day.

HER OWN SWEET WAY.

The Eagle don't like the GAZETTE;
It makes her fret; it makes her sweat
To not have all her own sweet way;
As she has had; many a day.

When she can tell the people, all
In the village, both great and small,
What they MUST do; and they obey;
Then does she feel happy and gay.

But when she can't, why that's the time
She would almost commit a crime.
And when her ways we rightly set,
Then is she down on the GAZETTE.

If you would have some correct views,
On subjects great; and latest news,
You should subscribe: don't you forget;
One dollar a year; BUFFALO GAZETTE.

County Cullings.

It doesn't look nearly so much like we are going to have Senator Culkin, of Wright, as it did.

The Republican County Convention will be held at Buffalo on Wednesday, Sept. 19, for nomination of County officers.

The Democratic Judicial ticket is Brooks, Davenport, Munro, and Wendell, the populists the same except Cochran instead of Wendell.

The populists in convention at Buffalo on Wednesday placed in nomination for Senator, Rev. David Murdock, Representatives, A. G. Sexton, and H. O. Sands, of Cokato

The Journal accuses I Gutzwiller with wanting to go to the legislature. He would cut a sorry figure there; the office of County Treasurer would suit him better; he does like some thing with money in it.

The democratic convention at St. Paul nominated a straight state ticket; now if our county and legislative district do the same we may expect some winners, as the republicans are all tore to pieces; and so are the populists.

Editor French has been interviewed by some city daily and claims to think the Republican Legislative ticket a good one and that the Republican party is solidly behind it. Mr. F. differs from quite a contingent of his brethren.

The West Rockford folks held meeting in a tent at the Dean school grounds, on Sunday. Dr. Chaffee preached at 3 P. M. after which the sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered. There were several ministers present. Rev. A. H. Abbott, Amos Dickinson, of Rockford, Mr. Bunce, of Buffalo, and McArthur, of Kasota. People were present from Delano, Rockford, Buffalo and Montrose.

The Eagle says "it is a common accepted fact that the bulk of the Cokato and Stockholm votes are more or less considered and treated as a mercantable commodity, generally for sale to the highest bidder on the eve of election"! Is it not "a common accepted fact" that the reputation of the bulk of Cokato and Stockholm voters for uprightness and manliness will bear favorable comparison with the reputation of thr naughty old Eagle? "People who live in glass houses should not throw stones."

The legislative offices are of more interest to Minnesotians in this campaign than are any others; from the fact of the varied interests over which the legislature has more or less control, and only the very best men for the purpose should be nominated and elected to these offices. The time has gone by, since the passage of the law prohibiting special legislation, for sending men to the legislature to procure some especial favor for individuals or counties; but the interests of the state must now enter into legislation.

The Eagle seems very much dissatisfied with things in general at present, for some reason or another. She threatens to bolt the Republican Judicial ticket; she is thoroughly disgusted with the Republican Legislative ticket; and we don't think she is an admirer of Mr. Towne, for Congress. She is kind of put out because the populists placed David Cochran, and the democrats Joseph Wendell, on their respective tickets for Judge of the district court. Just what she will do she nor anyone else don't seem to know.

Free! Free!

Henry George's great work on the tariff, "Protection or Free Trade" also the famous speeches of Hon. Tom L. Johnson of Ohio; O. M. Hall of, Minn., and others, any or all sent free on application to Minnesota Democratic Association, 126 Globe Bldg. St. Paul Minn.

A Fair This Year.

The Minnesota State Agricultural Society will have a fair this year on its magnificent grounds midway between St. Paul and Minneapolis. No fair was held last year, and the exhibit will mark more particulary the agricultural progress of the state in two years. The managers of the fair already have the assurance of a big exhibit. The stock growers have in particular shown a desire to bring their herds, flocks and studs together for comparison and competion, and breeders from outside the state are going to bring the best products of their stables to Minnesota to show them to the Minnesota farmers. The dairy exhibit will also be large. In Steele, Freeborn, Mower, Olmsted and other of the southern counties of the state, where the dairy interest has developed so rapidly, there friendly rivalry between the different cheese and butter manufacturers is very sharp The rank the state took at the World's Fair in this industry has stimulated the interest in this exhibit. There will be the usual races, daily balloon ascensione, and the fact that there is going to be no exposition in Minnerpolis this year promises to result in buildings devoted to the exhibits of merchants and mnnufucturers being large. The fair will have the hearty support of both St Paul and Minneapolis this year the dates of the fair are Sept. 10 to 15th, inclusive.

Democratic County Resolutions.

BE IT RESOLVED, that we the Democrats of Wright County assembled, reaffirm the principles enunciated by the National Democratic convention of 1892.

That we heartily approve of the courageous course pursued by President Cleveland and the House of Representatives in endeavoring to secure such tariff reform legislation as would relieve the toiling masses from the burdens heaped upon them by the so-called protective tariff.

And that we pledge to these principles of reform our earnest and untiring support.

THE Populists of the Sixth Congressional district hung their Kittle over the fire on Wednesday, at St. Cloud.

Sixth District Congressional Convention.

The Democratic Congressional Convention for the Sixth district was held at St. Cloud on Tuesday. A large number of delegates were on hand. Hon. T. D. Calhoun was elected chairman and Fred Schilplin Secretary. After the usual preliminaries nominations for Congressman were in order. J. C. Bullet, Jr., of Duluth, in quite a lengthy speech nominated Major M. R. Baldwin; L. G. Brown. of Anoka, Alex Van Praag, of Morrison, H. C. Stivers, of Crow Wing, J. E. Madigan, of Wright, and Fred Schilplin, of Stearns county in earnest and eloquent speeches seconded the nomination and the latter, as there was no other nomination, moved that Major Baldwin's nomination be made by acclamation which was carried, unanimously. A committee of three, J. D. Wood, of St. Louis, A. L. Strauss, of Todd, and J. E. Madigan, of Wright, were sent to bring the Congressman in for a speech. A motion was made that the Congressional committee consist of one from each county, selected by the delegates from each county and three at large, appointed by the chair.

Democrats not Dead!

Grand Opening of the Campaign at St. Cloud.

George L. Becker, M. R. Baldwin, O. M. Hall, W. H. Harries, and J. Adam Bede Speak to a Large and Entuhsiastic Audience.

The opening volley of the coming battle of ballots was fired on Tuesday evening at St. Cloud. Notwithstanding the oft repeated assertions of the press of the Populists that the Democrats are so dissatisfied that they are flocking to the new party by hundreds; and the stories of the Republicans that the Democrats are dead beyond resurrection this was one of the grandest meetings ever held by any political party in the state. The Republicans fired their heaviest gun first, away off out at Argyle, and the charge was of such monstrous length that but comparatively few have, as yet, felt its effects. There has been several Pops at points along the line; but they don't appear to have been aimed in the same direction. The Prohibitionists have a few earnest workers in the field, determined to keep their cause before the voters. But no where along the line, after all the discouraging remarks of opponents in politics, has there been shown such an array of strength, of unison of purpose, and determination to stand by the principles of "Equal rights to all and special privileges to none" as was exhibited in the ringing speeches and hearty applause in the crowded opera house in that stronghold of Democracy St. Cloud, on Tuesday evening.

That Democracy in Minnesota is coming to her senses. That in repudiating the fusion idea our party has not erred. That in placing in nomination true and tried men on a platform of which they are not ashamed our party has struck the right chord to thrill the popular heart with true patriotism was evinced on this occasion.

General Becker announced to the audience the platform adopted and on which he is proud to run for Governor; he went over the ground well, plank at a time, and seemed imbued with the idea that the people would certainly eudorse these sentiments by electing the entire ticket standing on them. The vast audience showed their appreciation of the splendid speech by round after round of applause.

Major Baldwin said it was customary for men on being renominated to give the dark side of Congressional life and allow people to think they had as soon remain at home as to go back to Washington. Not so with me I desire to return; have expected all along that I would be sent back and now I know I will. They have tried to crucify me; if so, this is the day of my resurrection.

Hon. O. M. Hall told of the difficulties in the way of securing legislation; of the propriety of keeping a man in touch with the administration; one who has experience; and of the unusual success of the Congressman from the Sixth Minnesota district for a new man.

Capt. Harries a member of the Old Iron Brigade with Maj. Baldwin made a short but interesting address.

J. Adam Bede, entertained the audience for the remainder of the evening with a characteristic speech making many sharp and telling points.

The St. Cloud band was in attendance and furnished some A 1 music.

The entire affair was a grand success from first to last, as an opening of the great Democratic victory to be achieved in Minnesota this year by the united and untiring efforts of young democracy, middle aged democracy, and the Grand Old Guards.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 7, 1894.

Senator Faulkner, of West Virgina, chairman of the democratic Congresscampaign committee, who is almost constantly at the committee headquaters, smiles significantly every time his attention is called to a new versisn of the dissention which the republican newspaper correspondents profess to have discovered in the committee. He says that those for whose benefit the committee exists have the best of reasons for knowing that there is no dissention, and that it will be beneficial rather than otherwise to the democratic party if those correspondents can convience the republican managers that the committee is not in a condition to render effective service to the democratic candidates. As a matter of fact, all of these dissention fairy tales are based upon a misapprehension of the duties of the committee. With the exception of the campaign Text book, which is prepared by the committee, and which is not for general disteribution but for speakers and editors, the committee does not decide what sort of documents are to be sent into a Congressional district. It merely sends what is asked for by the candidate or those orthorized to speak speak for him. So it is simply impossible that members of the committee should dispute over what documents shall be sent out. The committee is filling all orders sent to it, and will continue to do so. Senator Falkner says the information he is receiving from all over the country is daily adding to his confidence that the democrats will retain adding to his confidence that the democrats will retain control of the House, and he thinks that the greater the improvement in business, now becoming apparent in all sections, the larger the democratic majority will be, as the only thing that ever made the thing doubtful was the business depression and the disposition of many voters to hold the party in power responsible for the hard times.

Representative John T. Dunn, of New Jersey, has some very strong ideas on political economy, and they are thoroughly practical, as is the man. Speaking of the effect of the republican policy upon farmers, he said: "If there is any class of people under the sun who ought to vote the democratic ticket it is the farmers. Since 1860 farm values have decreased full 40 per cent in the United States, as shown by the census figures. There isn't a country place in New Jersey today that is worth over $50 per acre for farming purposes. I happen to own the old Doty homestead, on the outskirts of Elizabeth, on which the celebrated Ben Wade was born. It contains eighty four acres, and in 1860 was held at $25,000. I am now negotiating to sell it for $5,500. Land is the only thing in this country that has not kept pace with the increase of population. Protected industries have absorbed the increase of value that, in the absence of laws favoring a special class, would have gone to land owners. As a legitimate consequence of this beautiful protection doctrine, Egyptian cotton and Indian grain have been brought into competition with the products of our soil, forcing down prices of both to the lowest point ever recorded."

In order that the matter should be delt with by experts, Secretary Carlisle has designated a number of U. S. Custom Inspectors and officials of the Customs Bureau of the Treasury department ,to act as a commission to draw up the regulations necessary for the enforcement of the sugar schedule of the new tariff. This commission will be under the immediate direction of Assistant Secretary Hamlin.

Senator Jones, of Nevada isn't much of a populist, notwithstanding his sensational letter announcing his abandonment of the republican party and his intention to act with the populists in the future; but he is a firm believer in the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, and a very shrewd politician; hence the publication of that letter. His sole object, in the opinion of your correspondent, was to endeaver to force the silver question to the front in the Congressional campaign, because he thereby hopes to lessen the number of democrats elected to the next House, owing to the known differences of opinion in the party on the subject. I do not hesitate to predict that upon all political questions Senator Jones will continue to vote with the republicans as he has always done. Mark the prediction. In other words, the move is a republican trick. Secretary Carlisle wears a broad smile these days, in spite of the hard work he is having to do in connection with the new tariff. Cause why? The cash receipts of the Treasury are steadily increasing and it is no longer necessary for him to sit up of nights to study out how to meet the obligations of the government.

Free! Free!

Henry George's great work on the tariff "Protection or Free Trade" also the famous speeches of Hon. Tom L. Johnson of Ohio; O. M. Hall of, Minn., and others, any or all sent free on application to Minnesota Democratic Association, 125 Globe Bldg. St. Paul Minn.

Ike Sharp on the Situation.

I see by the papers them city pops is haven a big time nominating a ticket. I spose they think their about right and they'l just sweep things this fall and clean out both the old parties like the potato bugs cleaned out my potato pach, I see they would'nt have any fusion and I dont know zactly what that means except I know when you blast rocks you use what is called a fuse and I suppose when you light that and it burns up and puts the blast off it is then fusin I suppose by that they dont intend to pull any thing off least wise they'd a bin for fusin. I hardly think myself they are going to put anything off. Betwixt me and you I dont think thevre got the right stripe of men to run things now theres one fellow know he seems to be quite a leader among them he gets drunk and beats his wifes goods to get money to run around with other women then skips off and leaves his wife and child without anything. Theres some of their candidates they say ue dead beats and get drunk and run round and do nothing but live offin somebody else I dont guess these fellows are going to reform anything very big. If they should get an office it would be the first job they ever held down, and I judge they'd have to get somebody else to tell them how to run it. Then there is a lot of fellows who wouldn't work if they had a dozen jobs who make their liven playen sharp tricks on other people they are great labor reformers and hawls "down with the rich man who makes eight per cent on his money and I'll bet my brindle cow that if they had any money to loan they'd get 20 or 25 per cent out of a poor man if it took every bit of furniture he had in his house. I see they got whole lot of writend and say theyre goin to have the government own the R. R. and telegraph, and then theyre goin to run the government then all ov'em that don't get a job'l be fighten mad and he'd be for voten for some other party and then if his party succeeds the other fellow be out of a job and he will be mad. But I don't see as this is goin to make the punkins grow any bigger on my vines or keep the bugs from eaten up the taters or make the wheat sell for any more a bushel than it does now. Betwixt you and me I don't take much stock in this idea of the government owning everything, all I ask is that the government give me a fair and equal show with my neighbor and I'll go in and ho my row with any ov'em. What makes me mad is to have the government give some fellow who's in manufacturers business the advantage of me by giving him protection it don't give me. Its not more parties that we want, nor more resolves and resolutions but its better men, its honester men we want to put in our offices men we know we can trust to do what they promise. Its not more churches we want but more christians, starting some thing is a good way to get your name in print and thus gain some notoriety speaken of church every little town not big enough to support moren one good church and minister must have four or five It seems to me, but many an undertaking aint good enough, if all the brethren would join together and have one good church and one good rousen minister who was a God fearen man and believed striken at the devil right from the sholder it would be much better and then there could be payed enough to live on for preachers must eat and live like other people I think, but us hayseeds are hardly allowed to think it would be mtch more like to reform something if those pops would get into the party nearest to their principal and by swinging the balance of power elect good men and reform the old parties rather than aid a lot of cranks to start a new party to gain notoriety for themselves and probably sell out or make something out of it in some way for some people trade in politics as I do in horses or cattle, Ive been wonderen how they are goen to get all the railroads and telegraphs and telephones. I hardly think it would be a square deal to take them from the present owners without payen for em and by janks its going to take a pile of money to pay for all oy'em, why the taxes will be so dogon high that it will be no use for a farmer to try to raise enough to pay taxes and live, but then I suppose that old Ig. Donnell we hear so much about will fix it all right, why they say he found out by something he calls a sipher, now I dont just exactly know what that is but they say he proved Shakspere didn't write Shakespere and I shouldn't he'd take that same sipher thing and prove the government all ready owned the railroads. I kinder think the pops have got a sort of scheme by which the government after thev get hold of it will deal out so much money annually to each man, I think with a family orter to have so much for each child. I am goin to sorter offer that as a suggestion, It would sorter make the family raisin business interesting, If the pops will only do this I'm going to join pop party because you see ise afers had work for what I got and sometimes had to earn it several times before I got it, and instead of workin eight hours a day as some of these labor fellows do I got to work from daylight to dark but I dont mind that if the crops would'ant fail, but just to get a nice crop started and then for it to turn on and not rain all summer so that the grain all dies or come a big storm and destroy all the wheat, or chinch bugs eat it up thats what upsets a fellow, now if Donnelly or Owens or Lucas can fix up some sort of law to regulate that, then there the huckelberries Im after.

IKE SHARP.

Mrs. Elisabeth Bradford is on the sick list.

Mrs. John Peterson, living three miles south from here, met with a bad accident last Monday. She and her husband started with horse and buggy for Marksville, but only a few rods from home the young horse got frightened and ran away, throwing Mrs. Peterson out the buggy and breaking her right leg. Dr. Wright from Maple Plain was called, but however did not give any relief, so Dr. Tibbet from Wayzata had to be sent for and the broken limb was set; the old lady is, as reported doing fairly well.

The W. R. C. will give a social on Sept. 21 in Maple Plain school house; all are invited; supper ten cents.

Mr. James Personett is teaching the upper and Miss Leih the primary departments.

John Beer, who recently sold his farm, has bought a half acre of land from Mr. Haney and started a lumberyard; has an office built and is now digging a cellar for a new dwelling house.

H. C. Dickey is improving and wil probably soon return from his present home in St. Peter.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Cleveland were summoned to Minneapolis by the sickness of their daughter last Tuesday.

Most the wells in Maple Plain are dry or nearly so and a good many barrels full are hauled daily from the lake.

John Bradford has started a wagonmaker shop and does all kind of repairing in rear of J. W. Petersons blacksmith shop.

Wm. Kennedy runs now a feed store in connection with his general store.

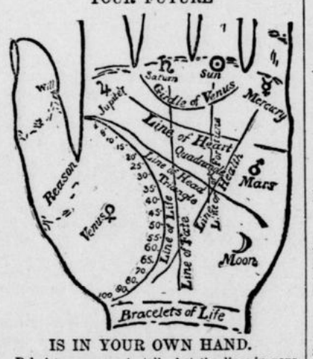
Mr. L. Carlson has opened a shoemaker repair shop on south side of railroad track.

There is talk of opening a wholesale meat market here, if a suitable place can be secured.

Geo. Mc Kormick has sold his trotting horse to Ashbel Ingerson.

The marsh two miles east of this place is on fire and about 50 tons of hay was burned,

YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE, fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked; keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $300; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUME, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

THE Populists of the Sixth Congressional district hung their Kittle over the fire on Wednesday, at St. Cloud.

Sixth District Congressional Convention.

The Democratic Congressional Convention for the Sixth district was held at St. Cloud on Tuesday. A large number of delegates were on hand. Hon. T. D. Calhoun was elected chairman and Fred Schilplin Secretary. After the usual preliminaries nominations for Congressman were in order. J. C. Bullet, Jr., of Duluth, in quite a lengthy speech nominated Major M. R. Baldwin; L. G. Brown. of Anoka, Alex Van Praag, of Morrison, H. C. Stivers, of Crow Wing, J. E. Madigan, of Wright, and Fred Schilplin, of Stearns county in earnest and eloquent speeches seconded the nomination and the latter, as there was no other nomination, moved that Major Baldwin's nomination be made by acclamation which was carried, unanimously. A committee of three, J. D. Wood, of St. Louis, A. L. Strauss, of Todd, and J. E. Madigan, of Wright, were sent to bring the Congressman in for a speech. A motion was made that the Congressional committee consist of one from each county, selected by the delegates from each county and three at large, appointed by the chair.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE.

Democrats not Dead!

Grand Opening of the Campaign at St. Cloud.

George L. Becker, M. R. Baldwin, O. M. Hall, W. H. Harries, and J. Adam Bede Speak to a Large and Entuhsiastic Audience.

The opening volley of the coming battle of ballots was fired on Tuesday evening at St. Cloud. Notwithstanding the oft repeated assertions of the press of the Populists that the Democrats are so dissatisfied that they are flocking to the new party by hundreds; and the stories of the Republicans that the Democrats are dead beyond resurrection this was one of the grandest meetings ever held by any political party in the state. The Republicans fired their heaviest gun first, away off out at Argyle, and the charge was of such monstrous length that but comparatively few have, as yet, felt its effects. There has been several Pops at points along the line; but they don't appear to have been aimed in the same direction. The Prohibitionists have a few earnest workers in the field, determined to keep their cause before the voters. But no where along the line, after all the discouraging remarks of opponents in politics, has there been shown such an array of strength, of unison of purpose, and determination to stand by the principles of "Equal rights to all and special privileges to none" as was exhibited in the ringing speeches and hearty applause in the crowded opera house in that stronghold of Democracy St. Cloud, on Tuesday evening.

That Democracy in Minnesota is coming to her senses. That in repudiating the fusion idea our party has not erred. That in placing in nomination true and tried men on a platform of which they are not ashamed our party has struck the right chord to thrill the popular heart with true patriotism was evinced on this occasion.

General Becker announced to the audience the platform adopted and on which he is proud to run for Governor; he went over the ground well, plank at a time, and seemed imbued with the idea that the people would certainly eudorse these sentiments by electing the entire ticket standing on them. The vast audience showed their appreciation of the splendid speech by round after round of applause.

Major Baldwin said it was customary for men on being renominated to give the dark side of Congressional life and allow people to think they had as soon remain at home as to go back to Washington. Not so with me I desire to return; have expected all along that I would be sent back and now I know I will. They have tried to crucify me; if so, this is the day of my resurrection.

Hon. O. M. Hall told of the difficulties in the way of securing legislation; of the propriety of keeping a man in touch with the administration; one who has experience; and of the unusual success of the Congressman from the Sixth Minnesota district for a new man.

Capt. Harries a member of the Old Iron Brigade with Maj. Baldwin made a short but interesting address.

J. Adam Bede, entertained the audience for the remainder of the evening with a characteristic speech making many sharp and telling points.

The St. Cloud band was in attendance and furnished some A 1 music.

The entire affair was a grand success from first to last, as an opening of the great Democratic victory to be achieved in Minnesota this year by the united and untiring efforts of young democracy, middle aged democracy, and the Grand Old Guards.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 7, 1894.

Senator Faulkner, of West Virgina, chairman of the democratic Congress-campaign committee, who is almost constantly at the committee headquaters, smiles significantly every time his attention is called to a new versisn of the dissention which the republican newspaper correspondents profess to have discovered in the committee. He says that those for whose benefit the committee exists have the best of reasons for knowing that there is no dissention, and that it will be beneficial rather than otherwise to the democratic party if those correspondents can convience the republican managers that the committee is not in a condition to render effective service to the democratic candidates. As a matter of fact, all of these dissention fairy tales are based upon a misapprehension of the duties of the committee. With the exception of the campaign Text book, which is prepared by the committee, and which is not for general disteribution but for speakers and editors, the committee does not decide what sort of documents are to be sent into a Congressional district. It merely sends what is asked for by the candidate or those orthorized to speak speak for him. So it is simply impossible that members of the committee should dispute over what documents shall be sent out. The committee is filling all orders sent to it, and will continue to do so. Senator Falkner says the information he is receiving from all over the country is daily adding to his confidence that the democrats will retain adding to his confidence that the democrats will retain control of the House, and he thinks that the greater the improvement in business, now becoming apparent in all sections, the larger the democratic majority will be, as the only thing that ever made the thing doubtful was the business depression and the disposition of many voters to hold the party in power responsible for the hard times.

Representative John T. Dunn, of New Jersey, has some very strong ideas on political economy, and they are thoroughly practical, as is the man. Speaking of the effect of the republican policy upon farmers, he said: "If there is any class of people under the sun who ought to vote the democratic ticket it is the farmers. Since 1860 farm values have decreased full 40 per cent in the United States, as shown by the census figures. There isn't a country place in New Jersey today that is worth over $50 per acre for farming purposes. I happen to own the old Doty homestead, on the outskirts of Elizabeth, on which the celebrated Ben Wade was born. It contains eighty four acres, and in 1860 was held at $25,000. I am now negotiating to sell it for $5,500. Land is the only thing in this country that has not kept pace with the increase of population. Protected industries have absorbed the increase of value that, in the absence of laws favoring a special class, would have gone to land owners. As a legitimate consequence of this beautiful protection doctrine, Egyptian cotton and Indian grain have been brought into competition with the products of our soil, forcing down prices of both to the lowest point ever recorded."

In order that the matter should be delt with by experts, Secretary Carlisle has designated a number of U. S. Custom Inspectors and officials of the Customs Bureau of the Treasury department ,to act as a commission to draw up the regulations necessary for the enforcement of the sugar schedule of the new tariff. This commission will be under the immediate direction of Assistant Secretary Hamlin.

Senator Jones, of Nevada isn't much of a populist, notwithstanding his sensational letter announcing his abandonment of the republican party and his intention to act with the populists in the future; but he is a firm believer in the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, and a very shrewd politician; hence the publication of that letter. His sole object, in the opinion of your correspondent, was to endeaver to force the silver question to the front in the Congressional campaign, because he thereby hopes to lessen the number of democrats elected to the next House, owing to the known differences of opinion in the party on the subject. I do not hesitate to predict that upon all political questions Senator Jones will continue to vote with the republicans as he has always done. Mark the prediction. In other words, the move is a republican trick. Secretary Carlisle wears a broad smile these days, in spite of the hard work he is having to do in connection with the new tariff. Cause why? The cash receipts of the Treasury are steadily increasing and it is no longer necessary for him to sit up of nights to study out how to meet the obligations of the government.

Free! Free!

Henry George's great work on the tariff "Protection or Free Trade" also the famous speeches of Hon. Tom L. Johnson of Ohio; O. M. Hall of, Minn., and others, any or all sent free on application to Minnesota Democratic Association, 125 Globe Bldg. St. Paul Minn.

Ike Sharp on the Situation.

I see by the papers them city pops is haven a big time nominating a ticket. I spose they think their about right and they'l just sweep things this fall and clean out both the old parties like the potato bugs cleaned out my potato pach, I see they would'nt have any fusion and I dont know zactly what that means except I know when you blast rocks you use what is called a fuse and I suppose when you light that and it burns up and puts the blast off it is then fusin I suppose by that they dont intend to pull any thing off least wise they'd a bin for fusin. I hardly think myself they are going to put anything off. Betwixt me and you I dont think thevre got the right stripe of men to run things now theres one fellow know he seems to be quite a leader among them he gets drunk and beats his wifes goods to get money to run around with other women then skips off and leaves his wife and child without anything. Theres some of their candidates they say ue dead beats and get drunk and run round and do nothing but live offin somebody else I dont guess these fellows are going to reform anything very big. If they should get an office it would be the first job they ever held down, and I judge they'd have to get somebody else to tell them how to run it. Then there is a lot of fellows who wouldn't work if they had a dozen jobs who make their liven playen sharp tricks on other people they are great labor reformers and hawls "down with the rich man who makes eight per cent on his money and I'll bet my brindle cow that if they had any money to loan they'd get 20 or 25 per cent out of a poor man if it took every bit of furniture he had in his house. I see they got whole lot of writend and say theyre goin to have the government own the R. R. and telegraph, and then theyre goin to run the government then all ov'em that don't get a job'l be fighten mad and he'd be for voten for some other party and then if his party succeeds the other fellow be out of a job and he will be mad. But I don't see as this is goin to make the punkins grow any bigger on my vines or keep the bugs from eaten up the taters or make the wheat sell for any more a bushel than it does now. Betwixt you and me I don't take much stock in this idea of the government owning everything, all I ask is that the government give me a fair and equal show with my neighbor and I'll go in and ho my row with any ov'em. What makes me mad is to have the government give some fellow who's in manufacturers business the advantage of me by giving him protection it don't give me. Its not more parties that we want, nor more resolves and resolutions but its better men, its honester men we want to put in our offices men we know we can trust to do what they promise. Its not more churches we want but more christians, starting some thing is a good way to get your name in print and thus gain some notoriety speaken of church every little town not big enough to support moren one good church and minister must have four or five It seems to me, but many an undertaking aint good enough, if all the brethren would join together and have one good church and one good rousen minister who was a God fearen man and believed striken at the devil right from the sholder it would be much better and then there could be payed enough to live on for preachers must eat and live like other people I think, but us hayseeds are hardly allowed to think it would be mtch more like to reform something if those pops would get into the party nearest to their principal and by swinging the balance of power elect good men and reform the old parties rather than aid a lot of cranks to start a new party to gain notoriety for themselves and probably sell out or make something out of it in some way for some people trade in politics as I do in horses or cattle, Ive been wonderen how they are goen to get all the railroads and telegraphs and telephones. I hardly think it would be a square deal to take them from the present owners without payen for em and by janks its going to take a pile of money to pay for all oy'em, why the taxes will be so dogon high that it will be no use for a farmer to try to raise enough to pay taxes and live, but then I suppose that old Ig. Donnell we hear so much about will fix it all right, why they say he found out by something he calls a sipher, now I dont just exactly know what that is but they say he proved Shakspere didn't write Shakespere and I shouldn't he'd take that same sipher thing and prove the government all ready owned the railroads. I kinder think the pops have got a sort of scheme by which the government after thev get hold of it will deal out so much money annually to each man, I think with a family orter to have so much for each child. I am goin to sorter offer that as a suggestion, It would sorter make the family raisin business interesting, If the pops will only do this I'm going to join pop party because you see Ise alers had work for what I got and sometimes had to earn it several times before I got it, and instead of workin eight hours a day as some of these labor fellows do I got to work from daylight to dark but I dont mind that if the crops would'ant fail, but just to get a nice crop started and then for it to turn on and not rain all summer so that the grain all dies or come a big storm and destroy all the wheat, or chinch bugs eat it up thats what upsets a fellow, now if Donnelly or Owens or Lucas can fix up some sort of law to regulate that, then there the huckelberries Im after.

IKE SHARP.

CORRESPONENCE

LONG LAKE.

Mayor Hopkins of Chicago who is now remaining at the St. Louis Hotel, made a short visit to our rural village a few days ago.

Mrs. Gardner returned last week from her visit to Briggsville Wisconsin.

The winter session of our village school began on the 10th. The teachers are: John Guise, Principal and Miss Ethel Campbell, Primary department.

Sorghum making is now in operation in this locality.

MAPLE PLAIN.

Mrs. Elisabeth Bradford is on the sick list.

Mrs. John Peterson, living three miles south from here, met with a bad accident last Monday. She and her husband started with horse and buggy for Marksville, but only a few rods from home the young horse got frightened and ran away, throwing Mrs. Peterson out the buggy and breaking her right leg. Dr. Wright from Maple Plain was called, but however did not give any relief, so Dr. Tibbet from Wayzata had to be sent for and the broken limb was set; the old lady is, as reported doing fairly well.

The W. R. C. will give a social on Sept. 21 in Maple Plain school house; all are invited; supper ten cents.

Mr. James Personett is teaching the upper and Miss Leih the primary departments.

John Beer, who recently sold his farm, has bought a half acre of land from Mr. Haney and started a lumberyard; has an office built and is now digging a cellar for a new dwelling house.

H. C. Dickey is improving and wil probably soon return from his present home in St. Peter.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Cleveland were summoned to Minneapolis by the sickness of their daughter last Tuesday.

Most the wells in Maple Plain are dry or nearly so and a good many barrels full are hauled daily from the lake.

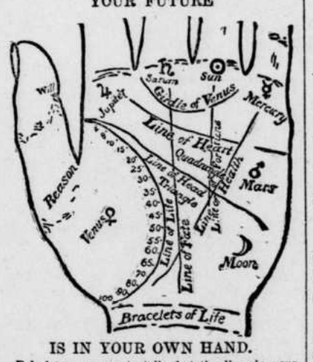
YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE, fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked; keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $300; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

THE Toronto Globe notes the return of a good many French Canadians from the United States. A Boston & Maine railroad man is responsible for the statement that since last May their household effects have been pouring into Canada at the rate of fifteen car loads a day. Shiploads of steerage passengers still continue to cross the Atlantic, returning to their old homes, and enticed by the low fares.

MOTHER EARTH furnishes a cure for all ailments that flesh is heir to, and, if man could but discover it, there is a remedy in nature for all disease. Recent experiments in Massachusetts, where typhoid fever has prevailed extensively of late, have proved that water can be thoroughly cleansed of all impurities by filtering it through clean sand, and a marked improvement in the healthfulness of the community has been the result. Sand can be easily had, and there is no reason why a family should be without a perfect water filter.

A WATER COOLER has been patented which does not require ice. It is a covered receptacle of cellular brickware, manufactured clay, sawdust and asbestos fiber. In the process the sawdust is burned out, leaving the product porous. The receptacle, with the water to be kept cool within, stands in a tray of galvanized iron, which holds water to a depth of two or three inches. By reason of the porosity of the cooler and the forces of capillary attraction the water in the tray constantly rises through the cellular walls and evaporates, thereby keeping the water inside cool.

THE ELEMENTS.

Wind, Rain, Lightning and Hail Cause Much Damage.

The Storm in Chicago—A Cyclone Makes Itself Felt Near Huntley, Ill.—Several Fatal Accidents Are Reported—Cloudburst in the East.

HEAVY RAINFALL.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Another heavy rainfall was experienced in this city Sunday at 6:30 p. m. During the past week nearly eight inches of rain has fallen in this vicinity. The recent storms have been accompanied by electrical disturbances, and considerable damage has been done to property by lightning. One man was killed and several others are reported injured by lightning Saturday night. From all parts of Illinois come stories of damage by wind and rain.

Live Stock Killed.

Near Huntley, Ill., the storm was in the nature of a cyclone. A path 3 miles in width was swept by the wind and many barns and windmills were leveled to the ground. Great fields of corn were leveled to the earth as though by a roller. Farmers turned their cattle from the stables and thus saved hundreds of head of stock. On the Schroder farm the barn was wrecked and ten head of horses were found in the fields attached to fragments of the mangers which they had dragged loose in their fright. Louis Gamon's barn fell and buried eight horses in the ruins. Five horses were killed in the wreck of John Hooker's barn. John Conover lost several cows by lightning. The roof of the house of the William Humbrecht farm was blown away. On the T. S. Huntley farm nine horses were killed and several barns were burned in that section. The losses will aggregate many thousands.

The storm reached Algonquin and played havoc on several farms there. The barn of Patrick Ballister was blown down and several horses killed. The Ketchum barn, between Dundee and Algonquin, was blown to pieces. On the Hawker farm the house, barn and outbuildings were ruined and four horses killed. The inmates of the house had narrow escapes. Daniel Price's barn was demolished and fifteen cows were killed. At the farm of Chris Wendt the barn was wrecked and an entire orchard ruined, some of the trees being snapped off and others uprooted. Although the storm was the severest known through this section, no deaths have been reported. The damage, however, will aggregate a great many thousand dollars.

At Other Points.

At Watseka, Ill., sewers and cellars were flooded, many houses and barns were struck by lightning and considerable live stock was killed.

Fruit was badly damaged by hail in the vicinity of De Kalb, Ill.

In the vicinity of Marengo, Ill., numerous barns were blown down and several struck by lightning and burned. Horses and cattle were killed and poultry drowned. In the city large shade trees were blown over, tearing down the electric light wires, sidewalks were floated off, cellars and basements flooded, windows broken and large signs torn down.

The big Muscoda bridge over the Wisconsin river at Muscoda, Wis., was wrecked by a cyclone Saturday night. Several houses were blown down and unroofed.

Great Damage at Rockford.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Sept. 11.—The electric storm which was accompanied by rain and wind in this section, Friday afternoon and night, was the most terrible for a year, and all night long it was a continual cannonade. Great damage was done, dozens of big barns with stock and implements being burned. William Sullivan, a prosperous young farmer who lived near Kings, was killed by a bolt while driving to his barn, his team also being killed. The loss to farmers in this section will be very heavy, as reports of destruction are coming in hourly.

Cloudburst in Pennsylvania.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 10.—An area of 1 square mile suffered from Saturday night's cloudburst. The flood reached the second stories of houses on Goeppe and Spruce streets, Old Bethlehem, and Second street in South Bethlehem. The damage to private property is estimated at $50,000 and to sewers and highways $10,000. That no lives were lost is a miracle. The people in the flooded districts are very poor and are suffering for want of assistance.

The funeral cortege of the late Mrs. William Skinner was caught in the storm returning from the cemetery. The horses took fright at the pelting hail and ran away. Mrs. Jacob T. Skinner, of West Bethlehem, had her arm broken, and Mrs. Curtis, who was picked up unconscious, is in a precarious condition.

Damage by the Storm.

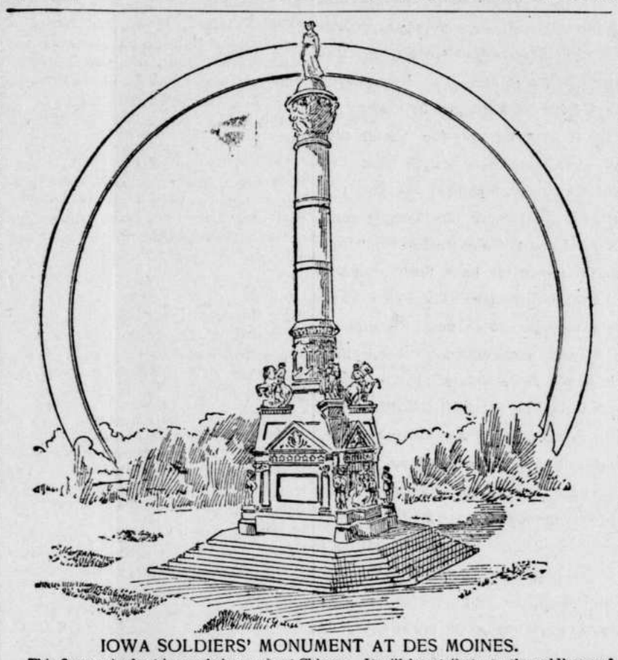
ELGIN, Ill., Sept. 11.—Five valuable imported stallions owned by M. W. Dunham were killed by lightning Sunday night at Wayne. Farmers in this part of the state complain that more damage has been done by the storms of the last week than was done by all the drought. Between here and Marengo over 100 barns have been blown down in the last seven days. Corn has been destroyed by the acre and much stock killed. The damage can scarcely be estimated, but will aggregate hundreds of thousands of dollars.

NILES, Mich., Sept. 11.—The severe storm of Sunday night blew down fruit, shade and even mammoth oak trees. Hardly a field of corn stands. The lightning was terrific and the wind swept nearly everything before it. The city is a field of woodchoppers clearing the streets.

BOSCOBEL, Wis., Sept. 11.—The damage done at Muscoda by the windstorm amounts to much more than first reported. At Orion, a little town just across the Wisconsin river from Muscoda, houses were unroofed, barns blown down, and acres of timber laid to the ground. Isaac Thompson, bridge-tender at Muscoda, was standing on the bridge when it was blown down. He received fatal injuries. A number of other serious accidents have been reported.



IOWA SOLDIERS' MONUMENT AT DES MOINES.

This fine work of art is now being made at Chicago. It will be a tribute to the soldiers and sailors who enlisted during the civil war from the Hawkeye state. It will stand 133 feet high and will be placed opposite the capitol in Des Moines. On top of the shaft will stand a figure representing Victory, 22 feet high. The massive column will rise from a base which will be 22 feet one way, 30 feet another and about 30 feet high. On rounded pedestals, which will spring from each corner of the base, will stand bronze figures typical of the infantry, cavalry, artillery and navy. Each of these figures will be 8 feet high. On top of the base, around the foot of the column, will be equestrian statues of Gen. Crocker, Gen. Curtis, Gen. Dodge and Gen. Corse. In each of the four pediments will be placed a medallion 3 feet in diameter. In the medallion which will face the capitol and which will, therefore, be in front of the monument, will be the coat-of-arms of Iowa. Others will contain the portraits of Gen. Belknap, Gen. Winslow and Gen. Hatch. Smaller medallions to the number of 32 will form a series of portraits around the base below the pediments. The state of Iowa has appropriated $160,000 for the monument.

LOST AT SEA.

Gale Sweeps the Baltic with Fatal and Disastrous Effect.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—A dispatch from Helsingfor, capital of Finland, tells the story of dreadful sufferings experienced a few days ago by men employed in the Baltic fisheries. The fishing fleet was all at sea when a terrific gale arose, forcing the boats to run for shelter. Some of them reached harbors of refuge and there rode out the storm. Eight of them, however, lost their bearings and ran on the Noerpes islands, where the tremendous seas soon pounded them to pieces. The islands are principally desolate rocks. As the seas swept over the wrecked fishing boats before the latter broke up they carried away fifteen fishermen, whose bodies were never afterward seen. Those left on the boats knew their vessels were doomed and made what few preparations were possible to get ashore. There seemed to be only one chance in a hundred of their reaching a place of safety, but this chance they took and landed on one of the islands, almost completely exhausted. For three days the storm raged with unabated fury, and the men, who were without food, were exposed to its full force. At the end of three days a passing vessel was sighted and in response to the fishermen's signals ran in under the lee of the island and sent boats to take off the shipwrecked men. In the meantime two of the fishermen had succumbed, and their bodies were left on the island. The rescued were in a pitiable condition. Several of them were unconscious when found, and it is feared some of them will die.

RATES CUT DOWN.

Minnesota Railway Commission Issues an Order That Will Help Farmers.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 12.—The railway companies of Minnesota have been given a disagreeable shock by the state railway and warehouse commission, which has issued a general order cutting rates on all grain 15 per cent. The decision was in the case of Elias Steenerson, who asked that the Great Northern railway be compelled to lower rates from Polk county to Duluth and Minneapolis 33 per cent. The commission took into consideration the fact that wheat had fallen largely in price, and, on the other hand, that railway earnings had largely diminished and split the difference, giving the farmer and the railway company each half the benefit. Representatives of the railways say the cut will bankrupt three of the largest grain-carrying roads in the state.

STRIKE CASES DISMISSED.

Federal Indictments at Minneapolis Held to Be Defective.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 12.—Fifteen Great Northern strikers, who have been under federal indictment for obstructing the mails since the A. R. U. strike last April, were dismissed in Judge Nelson's court Monday morning. The trial of George Carruthers was in progress, when the point was made that the indictments did not allege sufficient evidence as to what particular way the mails had been obstructed. The judge took the case from the jury and dismissed the defendants. The conspiracy cases against the strikers were continued.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Birch Coulee Monument.

Thirty-two years ago, September 8, one of the fiercest battles of the Sioux occurred at Birch Coulee, near Morton, between Capt. Hiram P. Grant and his little band of followers and Little Crow, the head chief of the Sioux. In commemoration of this battle the legislature at the last session appropriated a sum of money for a monument to these brave soldiers and citizens. The monument is 50 feet high, of grey granite taken from the quarries at Rockville, Minn. The following inscription appears on the north side:

"Erected by the state of Minnesota in grateful remembrance of the heroism of those gallant soldiers and citizens who fought the battle of Birch Coulee, and to perpetuate their names."

Below is inscribed: "Captain H. P. Grant, Company G, Sixth Minnesota Volunteer Infantry, Commanding. J. W. Daniels, Surgeon.

On the four sides of the monument are inscribed the names of the soldiers and citizens who participated in the battle, in all 176, who were either killed, wounded or escaped unharmed.

The monument stands on a beautiful hill overlooking the broad valley of the Minnesota, a mile and a half south of the actual battle ground. It can be seen for miles up and down the valley. Just at the bottom of the hill occurred the desperate battle against the Indians by Capt. Marsh and his little band. The monument is the center of many memorable battles. On the other side of the valley opposite is the government school for Indians. Here a large number of Sioux spend their declining years cultivating their farms in plain sight of the monument.

An Unnatural Mother.

At Elysian when the evening train arrived, a young lady of good appearance and attractive looks, about 16 or 17 years of age, stepped off, carrying a two-weeks'-old baby in her arms. After dark she made an attempt to leave her baby in a baby carriage at the residence of Mr. T. Cook, but being detected she left, and passing the residence of Hon. L. Galagan, the family being absent, she left her baby on the steps. Again being descovered, the village marshal was called on to care for the little one. He proceeded to hunt up the mother, who took her child and left the village. Latter it was found out that she formerly lived at Cordova. The girl appeared demented.

Precautionary.

The Minnesota State Board of Health, in view of the prevalence of smallpox in Milwaukee and the expected outbreak of the disease in Chicago during the coming fall and winter, has recommended certain precautionary measures to be adopted by physicians in Minnesota. One of the most important of these is a regular lookout for and inspection of all travelers likely to have been exposed in Milwaukee, and to insist on a clean record for persons and things, and in case of doubt, isolate, disinfect, vaccinate and revaccinate persons. A circular embodying these instructions has been sent to the members of the profession in the state.

G. A. R.

The Southwestern Minnesota G. A. R. Association held their annual meeting at Sleepy Eye. There are 13 posts in this division. Jerry Patten was elected commander; E. M. Brooks senior vice-commander; F. D. Greene junior vice-commander; David Morgan, officer of the day; Dr. Crandall surgeon; Rev. H. Hanscom, chaplain

News in Brief.

A mad dog was shot near Franklin avenue bridge, Minneapolis. The dog had bitten a child and two women made chase after it. One of them, the wife of the watchman at the bridge, shot the animal.

The Minnesota Thresher company will not employ convicts after the close of this month, when the present contract expires, but will vacate the prison shops and will go into its own shops and manufacture its products with citizen labor.

The state board of equalization has raised the valuation of live stock generally throughout the state. The valuation of hogs was reduced by the local assessors to $1.50 and $2. The state board has raised the valuation all over the state to $3 a head.

Thos. Pitman, of Princeton, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary for incest.

C. L. Morey was arrested in Minneapolis by Deputy United States Marshal Brown. Morey and C. M. Beck, of Duluth, are accused of attempting to use the mails to swindle people out of money. It is alleged they sent out circulars advertising for laborers to go to Rainy Lake.

All of the machinery in the tow mill at Pipestone has been sold to a man at White, S. D., and Mr. Brown, the proprietor, has left for Minneapolis and Chicago to buy a complete new outfit, with the best improvements, for the mill. When the mill is started it will be one of the largest in the state.

C. J. Blandin has begun suit against Mayor Eustis of Minneapolis for $15,000 as damages for posting him as a drunkard.

The Hotel Lafayette at Lake Minnetonka narrowly escaped burning up. A livery stable near by burned, with the wind blowing directly toward the hotel. A special train with engines was sent out from Minneapolis.

Fire destroyed the barn, granary and machine shed and two horses and a colt, together with a large amount of hay and grain belonging to John Hatch, about four miles from Buffalo. Partly covered by insurance. Loss, nearly $1,500.

Scuttle Bros., of Albany, suffered the loss of a separator while threshing at Albany.

During a heavy electrical storm H. F. Lundberg, engaged on a threshing machine near Kennedy station, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. Several workers around the machine were knocked senseless and all of them received severe shocks.

One Kinnan, a carpenter in Minneapolis, pounded his wife and drove her into the street in her night clothes, followed by three children. The neighborhood was aroused and when some proposed to lynch him, an attempt was made. Kinnan barely made his escape.

Burglars entered Zimmerman's store at Elizabeth and blew the door off the safe, but were scared away before getting the inside doors open. They took a little cash out of a drawer.

The waterworks at Minnesota Lake have been finished and tested. A 1,600-barrel tank, 60 feet high, furnishes the water

A TERRIBLE HAWK.

An Enemy That Strikes Terror to Feathered Denizens of the Bush.

The author of "The Naturalist in La Plata" gives an impressive description of the terror produced by the appearance of a rather small hawk, of a species unknown to him, although he has seen it a hundred times. It is a marsh hawk. That is to say it seeks its prey in marshes.

I have frequently seen all the inhabitants of a marsh struck with panic, acting as if demented and suddenly grown careless to all other dangers. On such occasions I have looked up, confident of seeing this particular hawk suspended above them in the sky.

All birds that happen to be on the wing drop into the reeds or water as if shot. Ducks away from the shore stretch out their necks horizontally and drag their bodies, as if wounded, into closer cover. Not one bird is found bold enough to rise and wheel about the marauder—a usual proceeding in the case of other hawks; while at every sudden stoop of the falcon a low cry of terror rises from the birds underneath—a sound expressive of an emotion so contagious that it quickly runs like a murmur all over the marsh, as if a gust of wind had swept moaning through the rushes.

As long as the falcon hangs overhead, always at a height of about forty yards, threatening at intervals to dash down, this murmuring sound, made up of many hundreds of individual cries, is heard swelling and dying away, and occasionally, when he drops lower than usual, it rises to a sharp scream of terror.

Sometimes, when I have been riding over marshy ground, one of these hawks has placed himself directly over my head, within fifteen or twenty yards. It has perhaps acquired the habit of following horsemen in this way, in order to strike at any birds driven up.

Once my horse almost trod on a couple of snipe squatting, terrified, in the short grass. The instant they rose the hawk struck at one of them, the end of his wing smiting my cheek violently as he stooped. The snipe escaped by diving under the bridle, and immediately dropped on the other side of me; and the hawk, rising, flew away.

STORY OF A CAT.

Carried So Much Electricity That a Car Is Set on Fire.

The efficacy of a black cat as a lightning rod has been too frequently the subject of discussion and assertion to be treated at length at the present time, the drift of which is to show the apt manner in which an illustration of this popular belief can be deduced from an incident that occurred on the evening of the Fourth of July to the wife of a well-known business man of Washington.

On the evening in question the young matron had been expending considerable time and attention upon a handsome black cat, which she continued to stroke, notwithstanding the assertion of her family that by so doing she was charging herself with electricity. Finally after dark the young matron decided that a pleasant way of winding up the evening would be to go for a ride on the electric car to Bethesda. Accordingly, inviting two of her friends to accompany her, she set out for the ride in high spirits.

The trio found places together near the middle of the car, and had gone a short distance beyond the power house when their conversation was interrupted by the conductor hurriedly bending over them as though to avert some catastrophe beneath and telling them to leave the car with all speed, as it was on fire. Scarcely had they left their seats before a sheet of flame burst through the floor just beneath the very spot over which the young matron had been sitting, the electrical apparatus beneath having ignited at that very point.

ASHAMED OF THEMSELVES.

The Queer Effect of Photographing Upon Some Siberians.

"I have witnessed a good many amusing incidents in the course of my career," said a New York photographer, the other day, "but I think the one that struck me as the most ludicrous occurred while I was in Siberia a few years ago. I had my camera with me, and spent considerable time in taking pictures of the people and surrounding country. I had engaged the services of two native servants, and one day, having nothing better to do, I induced one of them to sit for his photograph. The fellow had never seen a mirror in his life, and I dare say had no conception of the degree of uglinessexhibited upon his countenance. At any rate he manifested no delight at seeing his picture, though his companion appeared very much elated, and could not rest until I had taken his picture also. When the latter saw his picture he also seemed depressed. The portraits appeared to have brought to the minds of both strange revelations, and they retired to their tent in a thoughtful mood, each trying to smooth down the bushy locks which crowned their heads. Presently one of them came to me and borrowed a pair of scissors, and shortly after they returned with scarcely a vestige of hair remaining on their heads and implored me to take their pictures again. The fruit of the camera was to them like the fruit of the tree of knowledge."

NOSTALGIA.

I'm tired of the town: I want
The silence of the fields;
I'm thirsting for the peace and rest
The quiet meadow yields.

I want the little breeze to blow
Across my tired face:
I long to shut my eyes and feel
The beauty of the place.

I want to hear the busy hum
Our little kinsfolk make:
I want to smell the damp moist earth
That feeds the fern and brake.

I want so much, I only want
The Lethe summer brings:
To hear the bluebird's liquid note
And see his flashing wings.

To lie upon the kind brown earth,
And hear the sweet brown thrush
Calling the trooping daisies up
Through all the grassy hush.

I want my little brothers' songs
To set my soul in tune:
I want forgetfulness of all
But birds, and leaves, and June.

I want no joys of life and love,
No touch of human hands:
I long to lie on nature's breast,
And feel she understands.

The Captain's Story.

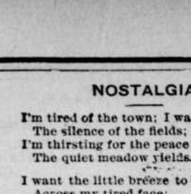
By L. R. Zerbe.



THE night was without fog, but pitch dark. The upper sky was full of clouds, and through the clear darkness the lights of passing vessels were visible for miles. There was no wind; the waters of the wide lake were silent, curving away from the bow of the vessel in long, smooth waves, the film of crisp foam on their crests shining now and then as it caught the ship's light.

It was the captain's watch. Bundled against the chill of the night, a few passengers sat about him, murmuring detached sentences among themselves, for the captain on this deck was autocrat, and the word just now was silence.

But soon in the east a light wind sprang up; the clouds rolled cumbrously, and between them the harvest moon shone suddenly, blood-red, painting a lurid streak straight through the black water to the ship.

With the light, silence fled; the shapeless forms became animated, the waves against the bow took on a cheerier note, and the captain amicably accepted a cigar. But behind from the window of the pilothouse, the unchanged face of the man at the wheel stared out to sea.

"There surely is no danger to a boat on such a night as this?" ventured the captain's favorite, who was curious as to the cause of the tension from which we had all so suddenly been relieved; and as we were talking of nerve in emergencies, the question seemed not too bold.

"Starboard, Charlie, starboard!" suddenly boomed the captain's deep voice to the man at the wheel, with an intonation at once familiar and sternly professional.

"I never had but one piece of bad luck, and that was eight years ago"—he had resumed his conversational attitude—"and it might jus' as well happen this minute.

"I was sailin' the Davidson then, carrying coal up and iron down the lake. She was a pretty big barge, an' I had my savings in her.

"Me an' my wife was sitting on the bow one night; my girls had gone to bed—they'd been skylarkin' all evening. It was fearful black, but there was no fog, an' you could see a light miles off—

"Starboard! what you got a head for? Starboard! I said."

"Starboard," repeated the dull voice of the man at the wheel, and the huge bulk of a vessel cleft the path of silver and drifted past us in the gloom.

"I hadn't no more thought of an accident than you have this minute," went on the captain, with a nervous catch in his voice. "Away off to starboard was the lights of a vessel. I could see as well as I see you. Pretty soon he whistled twice. That meant he was a' goin' to keep to his side. Then I whistled twice, meanin' keep to his side. Me an' my wife was awatchin' him. All at once my wife said, 'Tom, she's comin' for us.'

"Port a little, Charlie."

"Port, sir," said the man at the wheel.

"By George, I see her lights turn, an' in a minute she was on us, straight amidships, two-thirds through us.

"I yelled for 'em not to back out of the hole. We'd have sunk before you could wink if she had.

"Steady."

"Steady, sir!" said the man at the wheel.

"I run into my cabin for a life-preserver, and clapped it on my wife. She was cryin' an' moanin' about the girls. 'Fanny,' I says, 'be a woman! The girls is dead, an' we'll be too in a minute.' She never made a whimper after that, an' I took hold of her an' climbed up to the roof of my pilot house—their bow was right against my mast. I sings out for a line. There was no time to lose, an' they throwed it quick. I fastened it about me an' her, an' they hauled us up on their deck.

"All this time the steam was roarin' up from the boilers, an' I heard a man down below cryin' an' screamin'; but it's natural, sir, for a man to try to save his own children first, an,' although I was sure the girls was killed, I had to know for certain.

"I run across the bow as soon as I could get free from Fanny, jumped down on my deck, an' run for the girl's stateroom.

"It was empty. The girls was gone!—

"Starboard a little, Charlie!"

"Starboard, sir," said the man at the wheel.

"I run into every one of them staterooms, cryin': 'Where's the girls?' Pretty soon, way up on the Delia's deck, I heard my steward hollerin': 'Here they are, all safe, sir!'

"He was a good one, that fellow," the captain went on, after a pause. "As soon as we was struck he run for the girls an' got 'em out, an' the three just crawled flat on the deck through the steam."

"And was no one lost?" asked the favorite passenger.

"Steady, Charlie!"

"Steady, sir," said the man at the wheel.

"Three, ma'am, three," the captain hummed in his deep voice. "That same steward—it makes me laugh now to think how that man hollered—you see, when I knew the girls was safe, thinks I, I've got time to get my books. So I run to my cabin an' got 'em out just in time. But the steward, him an' a passenger an' the mate, they started to save that poor feller that was hollerin' in the boiler room. The passenger an' the mate, they went down, an' they'd got the man on the passenger's shoulders, an' the steward was lyin' flat on deck ready to take hold of him when they got that far. But all of a sudden the passenger hollered: 'Look out for yourselves!' an' throwed the man off his shoulders, an' our ship went down like a log. It warn't more than five minutes, all told, after we'd been struck."

"But that was four drowned," said the passenger.

"I was climbing up the Delia like mad when I heard that steward a-yellin': 'Cap'n!' an' instead of bein' safe on the Delia, there he was floatin' in the water on a board.

"You see, the suction of the ship goin' down had lifted the hurricane-deck clean off an' let him out, an' there he was.

"The Delia was chuck full of passengers, an' they fixed up my girls all right. But you see, that cap'n, he jus' got rattled. He had to change his course completely to run into me, an' he had—

"Now steady, Charlie, steady!" said the captain, as two shrill sounds came out of the darkness.

"Well, you had nerve to go back after your books," said the readiest one of the passengers.

"Well, maybe," the captain answered, modestly; "but I tell you," he announced, standing straight and tall before us, and bringing the edge of one huge hand down across the palm of the other, "I'm more excited this minute tellin' about it than I was doin' it that night.

"Now, starboard, Charlie, starboard," and the captain leaped up on the pilothouse deck and blew an answering signal to the big barge which presently came floating toward us in the wide expanse, with a half-dozen schooners, loaded to the water's edge, in her wake.

The favorite passenger sat silent, her eye on the set young face of the man at the wheel, turning, as his duty was, his wheel to the left when his orders were to go right, and to the right when he was to go to the left. "I think," said she, contemplatively, "if there were a little more common sense in the making of steering-gear, such accidents as yours wouldn't happen."

The captain looked down at her quizzically, and considered her words.

"Darned if it doesn't take a woman to see through things," he said presently.—Outlook.

ALMOST A TRAGEDY.

The Trying Experience of a Lone Girl in a Railway Car.

She was a fair young creature of some eighteen summers—more or less.

She wore a slightly alarmed look and a brown braided jacket at 18 and 11-8, sale price.

She occupied one corner of a compartment car.

But she was not alone.

No.

A beetle-browed ruffian sat in the farther corner and glowered darkly upon the hapless girl.

He wore a long black coat.

A slouch hat.

And a general air of mystery which would have befitted a sausage factory.

By the feeble light of the lamp above his eyes seemed to shine with a devilish malignity as he gazed across at his helpless companion.

Or victim?

Ah!

The train sped on into the deepening mist.

It would stop no more until—until it reached Loughboro Junction.

What tragedy is this?

What tale of horror are we about to unfold?

Reader, have patience.

The black browed ruffian looked craftily across at the luckless girl from beneath his coal black lashes.

Her eyes fell beneath his piercing gaze.

Rapidly, silently, his long, lean right hand disappeared in the breast of his cloak.

The girl raised her eyes and saw the action. Her hair stiffened, her very heart's blood seemed to freeze within her, and she sat in mute horror gazing at the villain with terror stricken looks.

He was feeling for a concealed weapon. There could be no doubt of it.

In another moment all would be over and she a bleeding corpse upon the floor, with this murderer, this madman, gloating o'er his dread handiwork.

Oh, for the power to think, to pull the communication cord, to scream for the help which must come too late!

The assassin removed his hand. The light glinted upon the burnished metal of his pistol.

He raised it deliberately and—

Bang!

The girl sprang quickly into the air with a single cry, and then sank back upon the seat.

Dead?

No. The man had only taken out his brandy flask, and the train had gone over a fog signal.—N. Y. Advertiser.

A MOTHER'S STORY.

Happiness Comes After Years of Suffering.

The Terrible Experience of a Well-Known Official's Wife—A Story That Appeals to Every Mother in the Land.

[From the Chattanooga (Tenn.) Press.]

No county official in East Tennessee is better known and more highly esteemed than Mr. J. C. Wilson, Circuit Court Clerk of Rhea County, at Dayton, the home of Mr. Wilson. He enjoys the confidence and respect of all classes, and in the business community his word is as good as his bond. Just now Mr. Wilson is receiving heartiest congratulations from his numerous friends because of the restoration to robust health of his estimable wife, who has for years been a helpless invalid. Mrs. Wilson's high standing in society, and her many lovable traits of character have won her a host of friends, and her wonderful recovery has attracted wide-spread attention.

As the Press was the medium of bringing to the invalid lady's attention the remedy that has effected her remarkable cure, a reporter was sent to Dayton to interview Mrs. Wilson, in order that the general public might have the benefit of the sufferer's experience and be made aware of the treatment that wrought such a marvelous change in her condition. The reporter was welcomed at the Wilson home, and the enthusiastic lady with becoming reluctance gave the history of her affliction and the manner in which she was relieved:

"Yes," said Mrs. Wilson, "I was for eight years an invalid with one of the most distressing afflictions woman can suffer. For eight years I moped around, dragging myself with difficulty and pain out of bed. My little ones went untrained and were greatly neglected, while I looked listlessly and helplessly at the cheerless prospect before me and them. I suffered the most intense pains in the small of my back, and these seemed even greater in the region of the stomach, extending down to the groins. I suffered agony sleeping or awake. Despair is no word for the feeling caused by that dreadful sensation of weakness and helplessness I constantly experienced.

"I was treated for my trouble by several local physicians, but they were able to give me only temporary relief by the use of sedatives and narcotics. I had almost given up all hope of ever securing permanent relief when I saw an account in the Press of a cure which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had effected. I decided to try them, as I knew the lady who had been cured and had great confidence in her statement. I began to take the pills in October, 1893, and in two months I was doing light housework and attending to the children without any bad effects or weakness, such as I had formerly experienced. Hitherto I had been unable to retain any food, but now my appetite grew stronger, and with it came back that old, healthy and hearty tone of the stomach. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me, and I assure you the cure has brought a great change in our home. I can now rejoice in my husband's success, for I feel that I have something to live for. Who has a better right to feel this than a mother? One thing more. I have recommended these pills to others, and many of the women of Dayton have taken them with good results, and it is my greatest pleasure to recommend to every suffering woman a remedy that has done so much for me."

An analysis proves that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are now manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND DOG.

He Is the Noblest Species of the Whole Canine Race.

The Newfoundland dog takes his name from the island where he is supposed to have originated. Many, however, believe that the Norsemen, who discovered America in the year 1000, introduced this dog in Newfoundland. He is by some classified among the wolf-dogs, while others, on account of his large pendulous ears, say that he should not belong to this family, but that he and the St. Bernards should occupy a place by themselves.

The Newfoundland, says Harper's Young People, since his introduction in England, has improved in appearance, and is now larger and heavier. In Newfoundland and Labrador these dogs are used as beasts of burden, drawing considerable loads of wood and provisions on sledges. Their feet are partially webbed, and therefore they are most excellent water dogs. The scent is not strong, and as the dog is slow and clumsy, he is not valuable to the hunter, except as a retriever when speed is not required.

In the island of Newfoundland this dog is almost totally black, but the English varieties are usually black and white. As a watch-dog the Newfoundland is only second to the mastiff. He is amiable to children and small dogs. Kept in confinement he often gets cross and ill-tempered, and flies at those for whom he has previously shown the greatest regard.

Where a dog cannot be allowed to run, and must be chained up, the Newfoundland should not be kept. This dog is a great life-saver, and by instinct will jump into the water to save even an enemy from drowning.

MASTERS IN ART.

ALLORI'S "Judith" is the portrait of his mistress. The head of Holofernes is a portrait of the artist himself.

HOGARTH was an engraver, and before turning his attention to art, made his living by engraving coats of arms.

GIOTTO was a shepherd boy, and began his artistic career by sketching with a piece of chalk on a piece of slate.

BRENGHEL was the first artist to give attention to the different phases of peasant life and represent them on canvas.

LORRAINE was left an orphan at the age of twelve, and was cared for by his brother, who instructed him in wood engraving.

BONDONE painted so much after the manner of Titian that many works proved to be his were long credited to the latter.

FRANCIA did not begin painting until nearly sixy years of age, and in ten years executed a long series of admirable works.

CRANACH is known as the friend of Luther. Several pictures of the great reformer, painted by this master, are still in existence.

THE DEMOCRATS.

They Place a Complete Ticket in the Field.

The Anti-Doranites Control the Convention—George L. Becker Nominated for Governor—The Platform.

Governor—Geo. L. Becker, of Ramsey.

Lieutenant Governor—John Ludwig, of Winona.

State Auditor—Adolph Bierman, of Olmsted.

State Treasurer—Charles A. Lambert, of Carver.

Attorney General—Logan Breckenridge, of Olmsted.

Secretary of State—Chas. J. Hayne, of Rochester.

Clerk of Supreme Court—Thomas Kurtz, of Clay.

Chief Justice of Supreme Court—Seagrave Smith, of Hennepin.

Associate Justice of Supreme Court—John W. Willis, of Ramsey.

The convention was called to order by Titus Mareck about 11:20 a. m. the 5th and, unlike most conventions, it was interesting from the start. The old line Democrats were all there, and it was truly a representative convention. The Auditorium, in St. Paul, where the convention was held, was tastily decorated for the occasion.

P. B. Winston, of Hennepin, was elected temporary chairman. J. A. Johnson, of St. Peter, and James C. Healey, of Ramsey, were elected secretaries.

In the afternoon Dan Lawler placed George L. Becker in nomination for governor. The nomination was made by acclamation. The balance of the ticket was completed as above.

The committee on resolutions made the following report, which was unanimously adopted.

The Democrats of Minnesota, by their delegates in state convention, do declare our allegiance to the principles of our party, as expressed in the platform of the national Democratic convention in 1892.

We are in entire sympathy with the efforts of the Democratic party to overthrow the oppressive Republican protective tariff system.

We are proud of the splendid battle waged and won by the Democratic party against the combined forces of monopolies and trusts, created by Republican legislation.

We heartily commend the wise, able and patriotic administration of President Cleveland.

We are in favor of the free coinage of silver wherever it can be done consistently with the maintenance of a sound and safe currency.

We favor an amendment to the constitution providing for the election of United States senators be direct vote of the people.

We demand the enactment of such laws as will permit the investment of public moneys in municipal and school securities of our own state.

We further demand a most rigid economy in the administration of public affairs.

We denounce the American Protective Association and all secret political organizations as unpatriotic and un-American.

Resolved, That it is the purpose of the Democratic party that every true soldier who served his country well in preserving the Union is entitled to the gratitude of the American people and the support by the government, under generous pension laws.

We congratulate the workingmen and women of the land on the dawning of a new day of promise by the passage of the Democratic tariff bill. We reassert the determination of the Democracy of Minnesota to strive in every way to pass laws that will meet the approval and improve the opportunities of all who toil for bread.

We favor the taxation of railroad lands, provided the same can be done without the impairment of the present gross earning system of taxation of railroads. That laws be enacted which will compel the owners of mines and mineral lands to bear a just proportion of taxation with other property in the state.

We believe in the principles of arbitration and conciliation in adjusting the disputes between labor and capital and we condemn an individual or corporation who is unwilling to submit such disputes to a fair and honorable adjustment.

The following was offered by Judge Nethaway of Stillwater, which was also adopted:

"A great calamity has befallen us; homes, property and lives destroyed. Destitution stares us in the face. Charity is knocking at the hearts of generous people. Hinckley, Sandstone, Mission Creek, Pokegama, four thriving Minnesota villages, of the surrounding country, have been wiped from the face of the earth, leaving hundreds appealing for aid.

Therefore, be it resolved by the democratic state convention, this day assembled, that it tenders its deepest and heartfelt sympathy to the hundreds of homeless people.

Resolved further, that the chairman of each delegation solicit from the delegates present such sums of money as each may be able to contribute, the same to be turned over to the relief committee at Pine City by the chairman."

A WOMAN IN IT.

"I SAW a very curious thing to-day." "What was it?" "A woman driving a nail with a hammer instead of with the back of her best hair brush."—Exchange.

PERT PARROTS.

Cute Sayings Attributed to the Talkative Birds.

There is no end to the stories about parrots. We all doubtless remember the cheeky bird at the parrot show, which, uncovered last of all among the competitors, placed his head knowingly on one side, and ejaculated: "My eye! what a lot of parrots!"—of course securing the prize. A Boston man has a parrot that puts its claw before its face, and shyly croaks: "Polly had a letter this morning—an offer of marriage for Polly!" and a Philadelphia parrot earnestly adjures the children to "Hurry up to school—last bell is ringing—you'll be late!" Another poor parrot was owned by a young man who tried to teach it to welcome a rich relative with the words: "Good morning, uncle!" The bird was slow to learn, so he lost his temper, took the bird by the neck and shook it, exclaiming, angrily: "Say 'good morning, uncle,' you fool!" The next day the young man heard a terrible noise in the hennery. On making his way there, he found three hens dead on the floor, while on a perch in the corner was the parrot, holding a hen by the throat, and shrieking: "Say 'good morning, uncle,' you fool!"

A FLORAL CURIO.

The Wonderful Snow Flower of Northern Siberia.

One of the greatest curiosities is the snow flower that blooms in the northern portion of Siberia, where the earth is continually covered with a coating of snow and frost. This wonderful plant shoots forth from the frozen soil on the first day of the year, and reaches the height of about three feet; it blooms on the third day, remains open twenty-four hours and then returns to its original elements. It shines for a single day, then the stem, leaves and flower are converted into snow. The leaves are three in number. The flower is star-shaped, its petals about as long as the leaves and about half an inch wide. On the third day the extremities of the leaves show little glistening specks, like diamonds, about the size of the head of a pin. These are the seeds of this queer flower. On one occasion some of these seeds were gathered and hastily transported to St. Petersburg. They were there placed in a bed of snow, where they were kept until the first of the following year, when the snow flower burst forth and was greatly admired and wondered at by all who saw it.

PROGRESSIVE WOMEN.

QUEEN VICTORIA greatly dislikes a visitor who is shy and colors or looks agitated when addressed. At the finish of the interview the queen generally bows slightly or offers her hand, and then turns a little to one side to save the very trying necessity of an entirely backward exit from her presence.

THE empress of Austria has her hair shampooed once a month. It is still beautiful, luxuriant and perfectly black, and when let down touches the ground as she stands, and she is tall. It is said the hair wash requires forty eggs, and the other ingredients are obtained from no less than twenty mysterious bottles.

ONE of the best-known figures in Paris is Mme. Yoer, who, upon the death of her husband, a reporter for the French press, took up his work and has conducted it with marked enterprise. In her rounds she is accompanied by a great white poodle called "The Doctor," who permits no one to trifle with his mistress.

ONE of the authorities on decoration in England is Mrs. Comyns Carr. She is the wife of a successful theatrical manager, and to her ideas on stage decoration and costume he owes much of his success. Mrs. Carr has designed dresses for several of Mr. Irvings' plays, and is almost always Miss Terry's chief counselor on wardrobe matters.

Home Again!

After a brief absence the cheerful visitor, dyspepsia, returns again. Our traditional mother-in-law is nothing to it. To prevent repeated visits use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Also seek the aid of this comprehensive remedy for malaria, liver and kidney trouble, debility and nervousness. Question those who have been troubled with these and kindred ailments. They will testify in behalf of the Bitters.

CHILLINESS, when other people feel warm enough, is a sign of biliousness, or of malarial poisons—so is a furred or coated tongue, loss of appetite, headaches or giddiness, and a dull, drowsy, debilitated feeling. It's your liver that's at fault. You want to stimulate it and invigorate it with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. With every trouble of the kind, these tiny little things act like a miracle.

You can break up sudden attacks of Colds, Fevers, and Inflammations, with them. They'll give you a permanent cure for Indigestion, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, and Dizziness. They're the smallest, the pleasantest to take, and the most thoroughly natural remedy.

You ought to be warned against the maltreatment of Catarrh in the Head, with poisonous, irritating nostrums. They can't cure it. They simply remove it—drive it to the throat and lungs. For a thorough and complete cure of Catarrh, take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

The True Laxative Principle

Of the plants used in manufacturing the pleasant remedy, Syrup of Figs, has a permanently beneficial effect on the human system, while the cheap vegetable extracts and mineral solutions, usually sold as medicines, are permanently injurious. Being well informed, you will use the true remedy only. Manufactured by California Fig Syrup Co.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, of ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value; all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

An old-fashioned way of getting there. Slow and safe, but hard work. Most women, have got beyond this kind of traveling—found something better.

Now, why can't you look at that other old-fashioned proceeding in the same light—washing things with soap and hard rubbing. That's slow enough and tiresome enough, everybody knows, and it's not as safe as washing with Pearline. It's really destructive, in fact, the wear of that constant rubbing. Break away from these antiquated ideas. Use modern methods. Pearline saves at every point.

Send it Back

DELANO DIARY

Buffalo Gazette $1.00 a year.

—The public school opened up on Monday morning in the City Hall.

—Several interesting cummunications were unavoidably left out this week.

—Read the notice of the democratic county conventions to be held at Buffalo on Sept. 25. Lookout for your caucuses and attend them.

—A train load of cattle from the west passed through town on Saturday. They were a fine lot ot steers. Several more train loads have since passed.

—A sad accident occurring on Wednesday afternoon was the loss of the right arm of little Emily Neau, aged three years, in the cog wheels of a cane mill. Drs. Shrader and Catlin amputated just above the elbow.

—Wm. Kespohl, formerly of Delano has gone into the artificial limb business at Duluth under the firm name Wm. Kespohl & Co. Wm. wears an artificial leg himself and knows how it is to have such things. Success to you Wm.

—Last Saturday's Fair was the largest ever held in Delano. Hundreds of people thronged the streets; many of them from a long distance. Considerable was done in the cattle business while horses were a drug in the market.

—Philip Martin brought us a specimen of corn from his crop on the old James P. Lyle farm last Saturday. The stalk has two well filled ears. Mr. Martin says he has 1200 shocks averaging a bushel to the shock of 8 rows each; and as corn is worth more than wheat he thinks he struck it right.

—J. E. Brothers brought us a specimen of tumble weed which has since been on exhibition in our window, and has been viewed by many people and has elicited much discussion as to whether or not it is of the Russian variety. There seems to be a great similarity between the common tumble weed and the Russian variety.

—Minnesota soldiers have been holding re-unions of their old regiments in the cities the past week. Many warm hand shakes were had, many long stories of the war gone over, and missing of many old comrads who have been transferred to the great army of the hearafter reminded them of the time when they too shall lay their armor down and join the hosts on the other shore.

—Mr. Dearborn's Auction at the Roosen Opera House on Fair Day, was well attended and a large amount, and great variety of articles from a broom to a horse and carrage disposed of at auction. Otis L. Billings was auctioneer, Wm. Ziebarth clerk, Dar Welker general assistant, while Mr. Dearborn himself was superintendant in general, and helped inform the crowd as to the uses and merits of many things with which they were unfamiliar. Several persons were noticed making purchases for which it was difficult to see what use they had; but that is nothing unusual in the excitement attending the average auction sale.

Personals.

J. C. Johnson of Lyndale, and his friend Charles Mullin, P. M. at Madella wore Gazette callers yesterday.

Dr. Catlin attended the Congressional convention and the opening of the Democratic Campaign at St. Cloud on Tuesday.

Miss Mary Catlin attended the State Fair yesterday.

Al. Kurtz is interviewing old Delano friends this week.

L. R. Fairbanks, of Watertown, was a GAZETTE caller on Fair Day.

Arthur Johnson took a few days lay off this week and visited with his mother.

Archie Mc Naughton of the Flour City is spending a few days with his mother here.

Charles Weise, and Wm. Ziebarth were delegates to the St. Cloud convention on Tuesday.

Otis L. Billings and wife of the Sawdust City spent Sunday with old friends in this vicinity.

Prof. Ed Freeman expects to begin school teaching in the Dean School house in November.

Mrs. Jos. Matter, two Misses and Jos. Bauman, Squire Otto and John Borsch visited the cities ou Tuesday.

Philip Martin left Tuesday morning for St. Paul to attend a reunion of the 2nd Minnesota Vol., to which he belonged.

Row Brasie came down from Litchfield Saturday and with his son John drove over to Monticello to visit relatives and old neighbors.

Mr. Myreck, the advocate of peace, was in town on Saturday. He says Wright is one of the finest counties he has been in for a long time.

Roy Wilder complets his first two weeks as teacher in the Hitsman district today. His brother Vernon has been a North Rockford pedagogue for one week.

Among GAZETTE visitors on Saturday was Rockford's old wheel-horse of Democracy, J. W. Mounts. He says George L. Becker will make a good enough Governor for him.

E Splitsoser, North Branch, Poison distributer. F. C. Stamm, Princeton, Machine for counting cog-wheel teeth. S. O. Jones, Stillwater, Piston valve, E. M. Christian, Minneapolis, Hatch.

Take Notice.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—The attention of the people of this town is called to Sec. 65, Chapt. 13, of the Gen. Law of 1883, which reads as follows:

Sec. 65.—Whoever at any time obstructs any public highway in this state, in any manner, with the intent to prevent the free use thereof by the public, or whoever shall do or cause to be done any planting or plowing thereon within the width of one full rod on each side of the center line of said highway, shall be subject to a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than twenty fiive dollars, together with the costs of attending such conviction, and on failure to pay such fine and costs may be committed to the county jail there to remain until such fine and costs are paid, or until discharged according to law; and it is hereby made the duty of the board of supervisors of the several towns of this state to make complaint and prosecute in their official capacity all violations of the provision of this section.

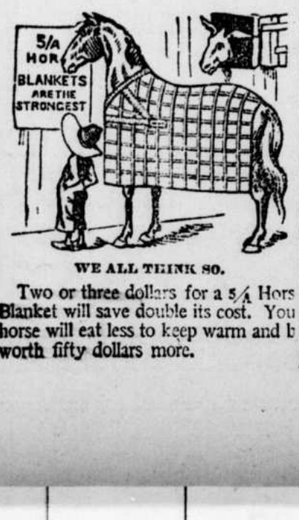
It remains for us only to say that we intend to enforce the above law and hereby ask the several road overseers to notify the board of any violation in their respective district.

WM. ZIEBARTH,
JOS. BAUMAN,
WM. LEITER,
Supervisors.

Dated, Franklin Town, Sept. 10, '94.

TO THE EDITOR: While the above notice explains itself a few words in explanation may not be amiss. A great deal has been said the last few years about good roads and how to make them, work them and keep them in repair. In my estimation no good roads will ever be had until the above law is strictly enforced. This town annually spends about $2,000 on the roads and in some road districts they are little better than cow paths. Here right west from Delano on the Montrose road, every year the district scrapes out ditches, and spends from fifteen to twenty dollars to keep the water from off the highway, and when in the fall of the year a certain owner of the adjoining land does his plowing, with one swoop he shuts up the ditch again, and where he dont succeed so nicely as he intended the water will do the rest—wash down the loose dirt plowed too close to the ditch, and thereby shut it up. Another one does his turning around in the road, sometimes he succeeds in keeping the plow from breaking up the road but oftener the plow catches and tears the road up and leaves it worse than a plowed field, rain and travelling a whole year being necessary to smooth it off again. What is related here on the Montrose road holds good for all roads in the town. Now such work should stop; every neighborhood should feel a pride in their road; have them wide enough seed them down to grass, and mow and gather it if you are short of hay; where new fences are built set them out the full four rods; don't make the public highway the dumping ground for rock, stumps or whatever you wish to get rid of in the field, and in ten years we will have roads that we may be proud of.

WM. ZIEBARTH.



WE ALL THINK SO.

Two or three dollars for a 5/4 Horse Blanket will save double its cost. Your horse will eat less to keep warm and be worth fifty dollars more.

County Cullings.

"Bull Pups" "delight to bark, and bite;" "French Hogs" should know, and not do so.

The Buffalo Journal says: "The Eagle is the first paper in this county to raise the church issue in politics and that to without any foundation in fact."

John Dingman, J. W. Coats, C. D. Schwab and B. Powers were delegates from Sherburne county to the Democratic Congressional convention at St. Cloud, last week.

Dr. Catlin has submitted to an operation at the hands of a city barber and now bears a striking resemblance to his Populist friend Al. Sexton.—Eagle.

In reporting the proceedings of the Populists convention and mentioning the nominating and seconding speeches of a large number of orators from all over the Sixth district the St. Cloud Times says: "L. D. Foster, St. Cloud, seconded the nomination of Kittle Halverson. A. G. Sexton, of Wright, in the most eloquent speech of the day did the same."

The Republican editors of Old Wright are having a terrible time just now. They have removed the curtain, a little way, and given people a chance to peer in at a few of the grinning skeletons and ghostly corpses of the political morgue containing the remains of the exploded hopes of the honest American citizen, and the wily, scheming office seeker, that bain of all parties which has succeeded in accomplishing the ruin of a once proud and powerful organization in this county, and legislative district, mingling in a fearful dance of death. No more can the long party leash swing out from Washington and spur men, free citizens, to vote for men to fill up our legislatures simply to vote as the bosses dictate to them, and send this or that man fo the U. S. Senate: nor will the party whip at our state capital longer drive voters to work against their own best interest; and even the little cat-o-nine-tails at our own court house seems to be failing; the use of each and all of these has been so constant and so protracted as to fray out the crackers; and the g. o. p's. back has become so seared and scarred and the populace so inured to the use of such treatment that where a stray lick is received instead of cowing it only serves to excite to resistance. In the language of Honest Old Abe "You can fool a part of the people all the time; all the people a part of the time; but you can't fool all the people all the time."

Democratic County Resolutions.

BE IT RESOLVED, that we the Democrats of Wright County assembled, reaffirm the principles enunciated by the National Democratic convention of 1892.

That we heartily approve of the courageous course pursued by President Cleveland and the House of Representatives in endeavoring to secure such tariff reform legislation as would relieve the toiling masses from the burdens heaped upon them by the so-called protective tariff.

And that we pledge to these principles of reform our earnest and untiring support.

Democratic County Convention.

A democratic county convention will be held at the village of Buffalo, on Tuesday, Sept. 25, 1894, at 11 a. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination a democrat county ticket for Wright county as follows:

Auditor, treasurer, sheriff, register of deeds, judge of probate, county attorney, superintendent of schools, surveyor and coroner. Also one county commissioner for each of the following districts: First, Second and Fourth districts. Also to elect 34 delegates to the 38th Legislative convention to be held at Buffalo on the same date at 2 p. m. The basis of representation to this convention is one delegate at large and for each 30 votes or major fraction there of cast for D. W. Lawyer for governor in 1892. On this basis the several towns and villages will be entitled to send the number of delegates set opposite the name of each, as follows:

| | | | |

THE Chinese have succeeded in winning at fearful cost a naval battle between ironclads, from the Japanese.

JOEL Heatwole is the Republican nommee for Congress in the Third Disrict. Capt. Reed is going it Independent. He wasn't broken only bent.

IT has not yet been decided whether or not Bielas comet in any way effects the Sage of Miniger in his troubles with the Minnesota populist party of which he claims to be Pa.

VERMONT has elected a Governor and a Lieutenant Governor each with an arm in Virgina: left there 30 years ago. The Third District Minnesota Republicans relegate their empty sleeve to the rear, as a broken Reed.

BRECKINRIDGE was, mainly through the instrumentality of the women, in defense of the honor of their families, relegated to the shades of the past in his Senatorial race. We wouldn't be surprised if Madaline and he married yet.

Repulican Convention.

At 11 a. m. Wednesday, Spet. 19, convention called to order in the absence of chairman Culkin by W. W. Towle, who read the call.

W. W. Towle, of Annandale was elected temporary chairman. W. D. McDonald temporary Secretary.

On Motion chair appointed a committee of five on credentials: S. A. Howard, Thos. McLeod, M. M. Woolley G. A. Kemper. Geo. Brides.

Permanent organization. Walter Longfellow, Geo. Davis, J. O. Jampera F. H. Johnson, Jonathan Miller. Adjourned to 1 P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At 1:25 P. M. Chairman Towle called to order. M. M. Woolley read report of committee on credentials. Accepted.

Longfellow reported for committee to make the temporary organization permanent. McDonald declined to serve as secretary. Jewett and French each declined; Walter Longfellow was nominated and the report adopted as amended.

Chairman Towle made a short but appropriate speech, among other things cautioning the convention to be careful to make wise selections; that a nomination does not amount to an election. If mistakes are made as in former years we will suffer for them. Hope this will be an harmonious convention. Many candidates will be disappointed.

Prof. Wharton marched through the room a bevy of pretty school girls who from an adjoining room took notes of the convention.

The county press was represented by French, Brewster, Saylor, Eaton and Catlin.

The printed list of officers to be nominated was read, and nominations for County Auditor declared in order.

G. S. Rusco nominated H. Swanberg.

C. A. French made a speech closing with "when the votes are counted I hope there'l be no more Democrats: no more Populists: no more Prohibitionists." He nominated Thomas Hellier.

Lee Isenslee nominated F. B. Lamson.

S. P. Muffly, S. A. Howard and F. H. Johnson were appointed tellers and on motion an informal ballot taken.

Whole number of vots cast 84. Necessary for a choice 43. Swanberg 15; Hellier, 34; Lamson, 33; Swanson, 2. Swanberg withdrew in favor of Lamson. Another ballot gave Lamson, 47. Hellier, 32; Swanberg, 3; Swanson, 2. Made unanimous on motion of French.

For Treasurer O. W. Crawford nominated Nathan Warner, of Rockford; G. A. Kemper nominated Ole Mattson, of Stockholm. Holmes seconded Warner because he knew him. Jewett and a gentleman from Stockholm seconded Mattson: the latter claiming that that town furnishing a large Republican vote is entitled to a place on the county ticket. The ballot showed: Ole Mattson, of Stockholh 50: Nathan Warner, of Rockford, 33. Ole thank the convention: Nathan didn't.

Lamson made a little speech and promised to do better if re-elected.

For Sheriff, Geo. C. Carpenter, without opposition.

For Register of Deeds after several speeches including a good one from the Clear Water candidate; and the nomination of Ed Nagel by his friends, a vote was taken resulting as follows: Nagel, of Rockford, 44: Howard, of Clearwater, 39.

For Judge of Probate, J. C. Tarbox, received 40 votes and never got up to thank anybody a bit; while J. J. Woolley, of Howard Lake, had only 2 more; and he began at the east side of the rostrum and everybody clear around to Mr. Tarbox himself, who sat near as possible to the stove on the west side.

For County Attorney, John Alley, of Buffalo; no opposition.

For Superintendent of Schools. F. H. Lindsley, of Delano, received 36; J. F. Lee, of Annandale, 47. Considerable wasted breath here.

Surveyor, H. T. Moland, no opposition.

Coroner, S. R. Wakefield, Monticello. no opposition.

County Commissioners.—1 st district, Thomas Hudek, Maple Lake; 2 nd, Aug. Hafften, Buffalo; 4th, John Buckman, Albion.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 14, 1894.

A cheerful feeling prevails at democratic headquarters, as may be judged by the talk of Secretary Lawrence Gardner; who said: "The result in Maine is hardly what we expected, considering the character of the fight made by the republicans, the amount of money spent, and the speakers of national reputation thrown into the State. When compared with the little that was done by the democrats, it strikes me that the vote is ridiculously small. The democrats in Maine had nothing to loose, whereas the republicans had everything to gain, not only in keeping up their majorities, but in increasing them for the effect elsewhere. But back of it all is the personal State pride of a Presidential boom. Personally I feel delighted with the result, as I firmly believe it will have the same effect on the democrats that the democratic vote in that State in 1880 had on the republicans. The democrats of the United States have determined to elect a majority of the members of the next House. They have not been rainbow chasing with the hope of securing any votes from either Main or Vermont, and are not to be panic stricken by any so-called phenominal voter, showing great percentages of so-called republican gains in republican strong holds."

Hon. Clifton R. Breckenridge, U. S. Minister to Russia, was at the State department this week to receive his final instructions. He expects to sail from New York on the 20, inst., and will stop in London a few days as the guest of Ambassador Bayard before going to St. Petersburg.

The democratic campaign text book is ready for delivery, and it is a "hummer," as might have been expected from the fact of Representative Bynum, of Indiana, having been its chief editor and compiler. The book is not for general distribution, but is intended to furnish ready information on campaign issues to speakers, editors and political writers. It is supplied by the Congressional Campaign Committee.

Secretary Carlisle is daily proving that he is the right man in the right place. Here is the opinion of a New York tariff lawyer whose personal interests are being made to suffer by the Secretary's acts: The prompt and liberal interpretation Secretary Carlisle is placing on the disputed features of the new tariff is causing grief among New York lawyers. You cannot appreciate the importance of Secretary Carlisle's action unless you are aware that many New York lawyers made large fortunes out of the almost endless litigation caused by the interpretation of the McKinley tariff by republican Treasury officials. I don't know whether Mr. Carlisle was aware of this, but judging from the promptness with which he has decided how certain provisions of the new law shall be construed by the customs officers, I should suspect that he was. As a matter of fact, he is saving the government thousands of dollars, even if he is knocking the lawyers out of business. And he is doing that with such easy freedom that about the only thing he has left them to fight over is the question whether goods imported between the 1st and 28th days of August shall be rated under the old or the new law, the first being the date stated in the bill for the new law to take effect and the last being the day upon which it actually became a law. The Secretary has ruled so decisively and quickly on the leading features that the courts will have practically nothing to do under the present law."

U. S. Treasurer Morgan returned to Washington this week from a six weeks tour of the Pacific coast. Mr. Morgan brings good reports, both political and business.

From a business point of view the calamity wail, which the republican campaign managers have adopted as a party trade-mark, is indefensible and much to be regretted, as it will unquestionably have the effect of retarding the growth of the business revival now beginning to be felt throughout the country; but from a partisan political point of view it is a mighty good thing for the democratic party, as it will convince the doubting voters that the men who are directing the republican party prefer a continuence of the business stagnation, for which they are primarily responsible, to a revival of business which would be properly credited to the democratic party, and will therefore be worth thousands of votes to the democratic party from those who are too patriotic to support a party that is willing to talk down the business of the country for the purpose of trying to get the votes of thoughtless or ignorant people. A party that has no better argument to offer to get votes than the business misfortunes of the people, for which its own legislation was responsible, will never be returned to power in this country unless the people have much less sense than they are credited with having.

Among our Exchanges.

Baldwin has been nominated for congress in the sixth district. This is as it should be and that he will be elected is a foregone conclusion.—St. Peter Herald.

M. R. Baldwin of Duluth was renominated for congress in his district last Tuesday. We admire Maj. Baldwin's fearless stand in congress for Democratic principles and hope the people of his district will endorse his course by a re-election. --Litchfield Independence.

If any one doubted the fighting trim of the sixth district Democracy a visit to St. Cloud last Monday would have sent his doubts glimmering. It was the most harmonious, enthusiastic convention we ever attended. It settled all doubts as to vigorous, united action in the campaign, and it was a harbinger of victory at the election. —Aitkin Age.

The Willmar strikers who were arrested at the time of the Great Northern strike for interfering with the U. S. mail, have been discharged One was tried but insufficiency of the evidence offered caused the judge to dismiss the case when the testimony for the prosecution was in. As a consequence the others were also dismissed. —Litchfield Independence.

Joel Heatwole carried this countt "hand down" at the conventiot on Saturday. However everything was "cooked and dried" for the occasion, and Capt. Reed was present to hear his funeral sermon preached. In this instance "Republcs are ungrateful" as the gallant Captain left an arm upon a southern battle field that his Government might live. —Valley Herald, Chaska.

The nomination of General Becker for governor proves that the democrats made no mistake. He is received by the voters with an enthusiasm which presages a very close run if not victory. He is one of the pioneers of the state and one of its best and cleanest men. He inspires confidence and unless we are seriously mistaken will poll a large vote. Democrats can conscientiously vote for him and republicans have yet been able to find no fault with him. It was a wise choice.—St. Peter Herald.

In the wester part of the district they are trying to make cause against Towne because the A. P. A. voted for him in the primaries and endorsed him in their lodges. And if they did it was not his fault. We happen to know of some Catholics who also voted for him in the primariei. We do not know any conceivable reason why the A. P. A. should figure in this campaign for Towne or against him. There is no reason why any good Republican should not support him. Reasons can be found a plenty why one should not be a Republican but none why Republicans should not vote their ticket. —Duluth Commonwealth.

Geo. L. Becker Resigns.

Gen. George L. Becker has resigned from the railroad and warehouse commission, and will devote his time between now and the first Tuesday in November to working for the success of the democratic state ticket, of which he is at the head. The democratic nomination for governor was none of the general's seeking, but now that it has been tendered and accepted, he will make the best of a bad situation and make an active canvass on behalf of his ticket. Gen. Becker has been a member of the railroad and warehouse commission since it was first organized, having been appointed as the democratic member of the commission under the provision of the law which requires that one of the three commissioners shall be a member of the minority party. He was well qualified for the work, having been an attorney and also at the head of the old Manitoba railroad for many years and was chairman of the commission several terms. He was highly respected by the other members of the commission and by those that had business befor that body. His successor will probably not be chosen for some days.—St. Paul Dispatch.

LONG LAKE.

Our nimrods are now seeking the haunts of the waterfowl and the grouse. The Dickey boys, Will Hursh, Mark Peterson, Percy Stewart and others camped Saturday night on the shores of Lake Sarah and at Sunday's dawn surprised the feathered tribe within the range and echo of their weapons of warfare. They returned on Sunday with some trophies of the conflict. On Monday Henry Hoagland Eldredge Campbell, Harry Johnson, Will Lawrence and others left for a hunt in the vicinity of Grove City. They were accompanied by Mrs. H. Hoagland and Miss Russell.

Our venerable citizen and pioneer John Schmitz has been seriously ill during the last fortnight, with a complication of troubles about the muscles and nerves of the neck which seems now to be culminating in abscesses. He has the sympathy of the community and his speedy recovery is hoped for.

Joseph H. Lydiard besides being candidate on the Populist ticket for the legislature, has been successful, by means of iron pipes and steam engine, in conveying water from our lake over a distance of 400 yards in quantities sufficient to keep the necessary amount of moisture about the roots of the vines to grow full crops of the fruit at expenditure which the usual income from a full crop will compensate and afford a margin besides. The experience of small fruit raisers of this locality during the seasons of an ayerage fall of moisture, last as well, as previous seasons suggests irrigation as a wise precaution against the effects of not only protracted drouths like the present one, but of those short dry periods occurring during years of average moisture.

Prof. Kennedy.

Wm. Kennedy replies to Gutzwillers charges in quite a lengthy letter which it is not convenient for us to print at present. He says: "I never applied for the Delano school in my life."

He sends us a number of recomendations from people who ought to know more about him, and who evidently appreciate him better than does "I. G., Jr. Below we give a couple of them which go to show that the Eagle either didn't know or didn't care what she said so long as she was helping belittle, in the eyes of her readers, someone:

DAWSON, N. Dak., June 22nd, 1894.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—

The bearer, William Kennedy, has been employed since the 18th day of September A. D. 1893, as teacher of the Dawson school.

Mr. Kennedy's work has been very satisfactory to the general public, and we, the undersigned, members of the Dawson School Board, can recommend him, not only as one who has been faithful and successful in the performance of his duties as teacher, but as a steady, sober, industrious and painstaking young man, whose life since coming among us has been a most exemplary one.

HUGH MCCURRY,
W. J. EMPTING,
R. STURGEON.

STEEL, N. Dak., June 25, 1894.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—

This is to certify that Mr. William Kennedy has taught in this county during the past ten months, giving entire satisfaction.

I take pleasure in recommending him to any school board desiring the services of an earnest, thorough, conscientious teacher.

Opposition to Towne.

Anoka Union.

Word comes to the Union from a positively reliable source that there is much opposition among republicans to Chas. A. Towne in St. Louis county. If the republicans of that county go back on Mr. Towne and he is defeated at the polls by this source, the Union declares here and now that under no circumstances will it again support any Duluth citizens for congress, and will place every obstacle in the way of his success. There is just as good timber in the Sixth congressional distrit outside of Duluth as there is in it, and it will be brought out. Duluth had better count the cost of Towne's defeat.

Denounced the A. P. A.

Boston, Sep. 16. —The Central Labor Union, of this city, at a meeting this afternoon denounced the A. P. A. as an organization unworthy of the indorsement of organized labor, and claimed that its aim was to start a religious war among organized labor in order that it might become an easy prey to the capitalists.

Take Notice.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—The attention of the people of this town is called to Sec. 65, Chapt. 13, of the Gen. Law of 1883, which reads as follows:

Sec. 65.—Whoever at any time obstructs any public highway in this state, in any manner, with the intent to prevent the free use thereof by the public, or whoever shall do or cause to be done any planting or plowing thereon within the width of one full rod on each side of the center line of said highway, shall be subject to a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than twenty fiive dollars, together with the costs of attending such conviction, and on failure to pay such fine and costs may be committed to the county jail there to remain until such fine and costs are paid, or until discharged according to law; and it is hereby made the duty of the board of supervisors of the several towns of this state to make complaint and prosecute in their official capacity all violations of the provision of this section.

It remains for us only to say that we intend to enforce the above law and hereby ask the several road overseers to notify the board of any violation in their respective district.

GOV.-ELECT WOODBURY and Lieut. Gov.-Elect Mansur, of Vermont, have each an empty sleeve—the right sleeve. Each man left his arm in Virginia some thirty years ago.

PRESIDENT HILL, of the Great Northern railway, offered five thousand acres in Minnesota to be divided among the homeless victims of the forest fires. The land is to be cut up into twenty-acre lots and cash contributions used to settle the people upon it.

CHIEF WADLIN, of the Massachusetts bureau of statistics and labor, has made a report on "Unemployment." This is an unusual word; whether it was coined by Mr. Wadlin we do not know, but it is a labor and space saver, and therefore will be accepted by the dictionary makers in time.

WHAT is claimed to have been the fastest long-distance freight run ever made in this country was made from Memphis to Kansas City by a special train loaded with bananas, the speed averaging 40.4 miles an hour for 484 miles, and reaching a maximum of 64 miles an hour, which was kept up for 6 miles.

THE commission appointed for the purpose has reported in favor of a suspension bridge for the Hudson river at New York instead of a cantilever. The suspension bridge is the handsomer design certainly. The new bridge will contain more masonry than the largest of the pyramids and have larger towers than the towers of Cologne.

JAMES MACKEY told Justice Foster in Chicago that he shared his wife's affections with a white rat, a pug dog and two cats, and that the menagerie had the best of it. He had been arrested on charges of abusing his wife, and in addition to the animal story set up the defense that the woman had had eight husbands and had failed to agree with one of them. Both were placed under peace bonds.

ENGLISH agricultural statistics show a continuation of the tendency of the last few years to extend the feeding of animals used for human food more than the cultivation of grain. For this year as compared with last they give an increase in acreage of 1.6 per cent. in wheat, 1 per cent. in barley, 2.6 per cent. in oats, 3.7 per cent. in hay, clover and rotation crops, 3.4 per cent. in hops and 13.6 per cent. in hay and permanent pasture.

PEOPLE wonder sometimes, says the Minneapolis Journal, why in the economy of Heaven such fearful calamities as the Hinckley fire are allowed to happen. Just judging by the generosity with which the relief fund is piling up, it may be to teach men human sympathy, kindness, mutual helpfulness, generosity, charity and all the graces that only such great occasions can develop in their most beautiful and richest fruitage.

THE production of coal in the United States last year was 162,814,977 gross tons, against 164,325,795 tons in the United Kingdom. Our production of iron ore was 11,587,629 tons, while the British islands produced 11,203,476 and imported about 4,000,000 tons. We turned out 7,124,502 tons of pig iron, while they produced 6,976,000 tons. These figures show that in coal and iron the production of the two countries was nearly equal for last year.

THE unfortunate man in a western town who committed suicide to get rid of the torture of a carbuncle must have been employing the ancient method for curing that affliction—namely, poulticing and coddling it in order to keep the scourge alive as long as possible. Had he known the scientific method instead of the grandmother's—namely, touching it with a tiny drop of carbolic acid—he might have been rid of the pest in a day and survived to render his life useful to others, if not tolerable to himself.

MR. VANDERBILT owns 2,000,000 acres of land in the United States. Mr. Disston, of Pennsylvania, has 4,000,000 broad acres. The Schlenley estate owns 2,000 acres within the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny. The California millionaire, Murphy, owns an area of land bigger than the whole state of Massachusetts. Foreign noblemen, who owe no allegiance to this country, are permanent absentee landlords and spend all their money abroad, own 21,000,000 acres of land here, or more than the entire area of Ireland. Lord Scully, of Ireland, owns 90,000 acres of farming land in Illinois.

THE same kind of economy which would put two persons in the same bed to sleep would, if carried far enough, require them to sit in the same chair and eat from the same plate. In a general way, each person should have an entire bed. Two or three single beds in the same room, where that is a necessity, are much better than putting two into one bed. This is especially true where either person is restless, or in imperfect health from any cause. The slight movement of another person is frequently sufficient to dispel slumber and induce a long period of wakefulness.

MISS DAISY MAJOR, postmistress at Wampum, Pa., is short $1,500 in her accounts. Daisy is sweet 16, dresses in elegant apparel, and rides a high-grade cycle, and if Uncle Sam is so ungallant, says the Boston Herald, as to change the Major to the minor key, gallantry should go to the rescue. What's the good of being a Daisy if a little trifle like that has to be brought up against her? No postmistress has sold so many stamps, or made letter-writing such a necessity to that part of the state, as Miss Daisy Major, and it would be churlish to bounce such a government attraction.

JAPS WIN A BATTLE.

The Chinese Army Suffers a Crushing Defeat.

The Decisive Engagement at Ping Yang—Out of 20,000, 16,000 Are Slain—As a Result the War Is Practically Ended.

A COMPLETE ROUT.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Japan is in practical possession of Corea. It has routed the Chinese army in the first big land engagement that has taken place, and routed it so thoroughly that China will be powerless until she can send another army to Corea. The Chinese losses, according to a dispatch received from Seoul, are placed at 16,000 killed, while the Japanese only lost thirty killed and 270 wounded. The entire Chinese army—at least what was left of it—was put to rout and scattered in every direction, leaving no large organized Chinese force on Corean soil.

The Battle Begins

On Thursday a Japanese column from Pong San made a reconnoisance in force, drawing the fire of the Chinese forts, and thus ascertained their positions. The column then fell back in good order, with little loss. By Friday night all the Japanese were in position for a combined attack upon the enemy. The Gensam column threatened the left flank of the Chinese, the Pong San column threatening the Chinese center, while the Hwang-Ju column operated against the right, which had been reenforced the day before by a detachment of marines from the fleet at the mouth of the Taitong river. The Chinese had utilized the old defenses at Ping-Yang and had thrown up new works, making the position an exceptionally strong one.

Good Work with Heavy Guns.

The battle was opened on Saturday at daybreak by a Japanese cannonade of the Chinese works, which was continued without cessation until afternoon, the Chinese responding. The work with the heavy guns showed good practice. At about 2 o'clock a body of infantry was thrown forward by the Japanese and maintained a rifle fire upon the enemy until dusk. Throughout the day only the Pong San column was engaged. The Chinese defenses suffered greatly, but the losses on either side were small, both the Chinese and Japanese having taken advantage of all the shelter available. The Japanese troops, however, had gained some advance in the positions. The firing continued at intervals during the night and in the meantime two Japanese flanking columns had formed a cordon around the Chinese.

Cut Them Down.

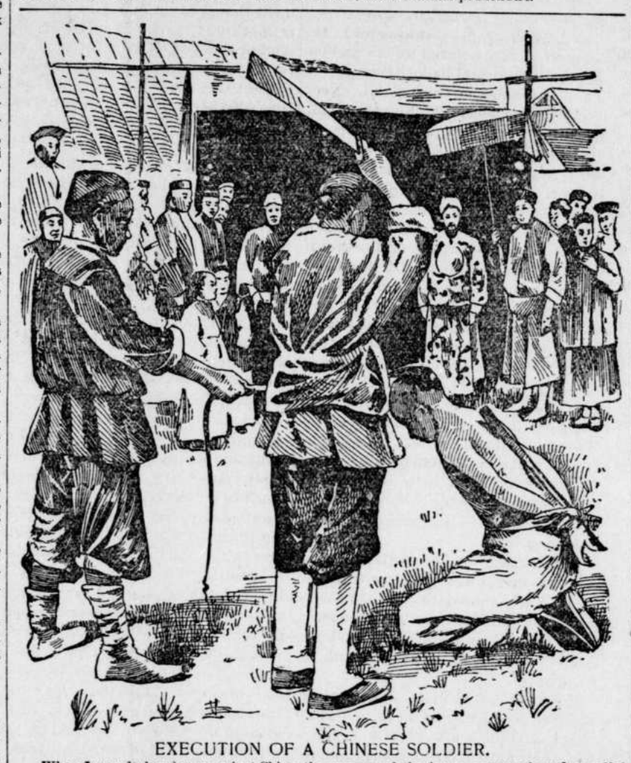
At 3 o'clock Sunday morning an attack was made by the Japanese columns simultaneously and with admirable precision. The Chinese lines, which were so strong in front, were found to be weak in the rear, and here the attack was a perfect success. The Chinese were completely taken by surprise and were thrown into a panic. Hundreds were cut down, and those who escaped death, finding themselves surrounded at every point, broke and fled. Some of Viceroy Li Hung Chang's European-drilled troops stood their ground to the eastward and were cut down to a man.

As a fitting close to the magnificence and splendor of the event came the last thing on the official programme, the fireworks and general illumination Thursday night. The entertainment was of a magnificent sort. Every decoration and illumination was displayed to the best advantage by thousands of dazzling lights. The mammoth mottoes "Grand Army of the Republic welcome" placed on the great hills overlooking each city, were lighted. Search lights, operated from points of equal vantage, swept the city with their piercing rays, while the climax was reached by the thousands of private illuminations on all the principal streets. The entire city glowed under the magic influences and dazzling radiances of thousands of lights.

The fireworks were set off from a barge moored in the center of the Monongahela river, near its junction with the Allegheny, set pieces being erected on the opposite bank. This left the entire wharf along the south side of the city open to sightseers, while the hills overlooking both rivers commanded excellent views.



EXECUTION OF A CHINESE SOLDIER.

When Japan declared war against China, the emperor of the latter country issued an edict making desertion from the army a capital offense. Our illustration shows the peculiar manner in which one of the offenders was punished for showing the white feather.

PERISHED IN THE FLAMES.

Five Persons Lose Their Lives in a Fire at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Five persons known to have lost their lives, four missing and three injured and taken to the hospital is the record of a fire Monday in Stumph Bros.' mattress factory.

The factory stood at the intersection of Seventh and K streets and Massachusetts avenue, a five-story structure with thin brick walls, windows only at back and front, and no fire escape. It was stored with feathers, shavings and other inflammable materials and twenty-five persons were at work in it, six of whom were young women. The fire started in the picking room at the front of the second floor. Almost before the alarm could be given to the workmen it had spread through the second story and burst up the elevator shaft.

Conference on Silver Question Delayed.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 19.—At the opening of congress President Diaz in his speech announced that Mexico had proposed the holding of a conference by the American and Asiatic powers on the silver question, but the project had been delayed by the war between China and Japan.

A Score Killed.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 18.—Twenty persons were killed and a large number of others seriously injured at Minsk by the collapse of a large naphtha warehouse.

GRAND ARMY AT PITTSBURGH.

Twenty-Eighth National Encampment of the Heroes of '61-65.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 14.—After one of the most heated contests in the history of the order Col. Thomas G. Lawler, of Rockford, Ill., has been elected commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, defeating his only opponent, Col. Ivan N. Walker, of Indianapolis, by the narrow majority of 11 in a total vote of 649.

The other elections for national board positions were soon settled, as there were but few contests and all were withdrawn before taking the ballot. The successful candidates were: Maj. A. P. Burchfield, senior vice commander in chief, of Pittsburgh; Charles H. Shute, junior vice commander in chief, of New Orleans; O. W. Weeks, surgeon general in chief, of Marion, O.; Rev. T. H. Haggerty, chaplain in chief, of Missouri.

The Daughters of Veterans met during the morning and elected officers. Mrs. Ellen M. Walker, of Worcester, Mass., was chosen president.

The Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic met and received greetings from the other women's organizations here. The national inspector, Mrs. Mary E. Gordan, of Kansas, reported that the organization has over 10,000 members and has expended $35,000 during the year.

Mrs. Emma Wallace, of Rockford, Ill., was elected president.

DEMAND JONES' SEAT.

Nevada Republicans Request the Senator to Resign.

CARSON CITY, Nev., Sept. 18.—Senator John P. Jones, of Nevada, has been requested by the republican state central committee to resign his seat in the United States senate, to which he was elected by republicans. This request is made in a long letter which was drafted by Chairman Trennor Coffin and approved by the state central committee at a meeting held in this city. The letter exhaustively reviews Senator Jones' letter of August 29 to the former chairman of the committee, Enoch Strother, in which Jones announces that he has left the republican party to join the populists, and severely criticises his course of action.

Bullets for Three.

WACO, Tex., Sept. 17.—At Gatesville, terminus of the Cotton belt, 43 miles west of here, a fatal street duel took place between J. L. Goodman, editor of the People's Voice, and B. C. Armstrong, editor of the Star, both weekly papers. The duel grew out of a personal controversy in the papers over the Ed Cash lynching of a few months ago. The two men opened fire on each other just as they met in front of Goodman's office. Goodman was shot through the heart and Armstrong through the bowels, both dying at once. J. G. Beeman, a bystander, was fatally wounded in the neck by a stray shot. All leave families and all are well known in this section of the state.

Robert J's New Record.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 18.—Friday was the greatest record-breaking day ever recorded for any track. Robert J. paced a mile in 2:01½, smashing the world's record, which he made himself at Indianapolis. Carbonate lowered the 2-year-old pacing record from 2:10 to 2:09. John R. Gentry made the stallion record for pacers 2:03¾, making the mark in a race. Directly tied Carbonate's record of 2:10 for 2-year-old pacers made earlier in the week. Joe Patchen paced the mile in 2:04, beating the stallion record of 2:05¼, which had been held good until earlier in the day, when Gentry set the new mark and "Sweet Little" Alix trotted a mile in 2:04¾.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

New Rates.

The state railroad and warehouse commission decided the celebrated case of Elias Steenerson against the Great Northern railway company in favor of the plaintiff, giving a cut of 15 per cent instead of 33 1-3, as demanded. The new rates ordered involve a reduction of between 15 and 16 per cent, or just about half asked by Steenerson in his complaint.

The new rates ordered by the commission are as follows per 100 pounds for wheat, oats, barley, corn, rye, and the mill products of such grain:

| | Cents. |
|---|---|
| 5 miles and under | 4. |
| 10 miles and over 5 | 4.25 |
| 15 miles and over 10 | 4.5 |
| 20 miles and over 15 | 5. |
| 50 miles and over 45 | 7.4 |
| 100 miles and over 95 | 9.4 |
| 150 miles and over 145 | 11.4 |
| 200 miles and over 195 | 12.7 |
| 225 miles and over 220 | 13.2 |
| 250 miles and over 245 | 13.7 |
| 275 miles and over 270 | 14.2 |
| 300 miles and over 295 | 14.7 |
| 325 miles and over 320 | 15.2 |

His Last Ride.

A serious accident occurred on the Northwestern railroad a mile and a half east of Lewiston. Freight No. 18 left that station about 2:30 a. m. On the down grade between there and Stockton the train broke in two. The engineer slowed up, when the rear section crashed into the forward one, derailing one car and instantly killing a young man who was stealing a ride on the bumpers. He was crushed between the two cars in a space not more than six inches wide. Another man, also on the bumpers, was thrown off and lost a leg and foot. The injured man was taken to Lewiston and one leg below the knee and one foot at the ankle were amputated. Later he was removed to the hospital at Winona. He gave the name of Johnson, of Athens, Canada, and lately worked for one McDougall, near Owatonna. The name and residence of the man killed are unknown.

The Relief Work.

The state relief committee, consisting of C. A. Pillsbury, Knute Nelson, Kenneth Clark, C. H. Graves, M. C. Norton and H. H. Hart, have made their report concerning the investigation in the fire district. The report states that the work of finding and burrying the dead is practically completed, but that measures should be taken to bury the dead animals. Refugees are provided for, and the work of temporary relief is nearly through. Contributions of cash, baled hay, feed, barley, winter rye, etc., are urgently solicited. Kenneth Clark, of St. Paul, will look after contributions, and H. H. Hart, of St. Paul, will answer communications.

Nicely Caught.

At Moorhead a man and a boy were held up near the junction east of town and their money taken from them by three men. The boy came back and informed Chief Sullivan, who, with John Watson, went after the men, who, in the absence of the boy, had held up and robbed another man. When the officers gave chase the highwaymen fired at the officers, who returned the fire, wounding one man in the arm, who surrendered. Watson borrowed a rifle from a farmer and the second one was brought down by a shot in the heel, and the third was finally dislodged from a clump of weeds. All were lodged in jail.

News in Brief.

The colored people of St. Paul presented a gold badge to Porter John W. Blair, whose acts of bravery contributed so much to the safety and comfort of the passengers on the train that was burned at Skunk Lake on the night of the terrible forest fire.

The state board of equalization adopted the recommendation of the special committee appointed to investigate into the devastation at Hinckley, Brook Park and Mission Creek, in Pine county, cancelling the bulk of the personal property assessments, amounting to about $30,000.

Fire destroyed Thomas Morrell's livery barn and several other buildings at Moorhead.

In the United States court Judge Nelson decided that the indictments against the Willmar strikers were void. The point in the decision is that the charges of obstructing trains do not specify the manner in which the acts were perpetrated, being only a general charge.

Mesaba mine owners have been working with J. J. Hill to induce him to build his Fosston branch to Duluth by the way of Hibbing and the Mesaba range. This, it is said, he has consented to do this winter. A lively war of rates will result, and Mr. Rockefeller, the kickers say, will find the strongest adversary he has yet met.

At Crookston, while the train crew were at dinner, an intoxicated man named Sanderson ran the engine, which was detached, about 200 yards up the track, reversed it and jumped off. The engine crashed into the train and pushed the tender half way through a car of wheat.

There was a small commotion in the Methodist church at Waterville. It seems that the flock are behind in their annual dues about $60, and the pastor "struck" until his back pay was accounted for. Enough of the faithful, however, chipped in, and everything is now lovely.

R. E. Ishmael, a prisioner of Pipestone in the Rock county jail for safe keeping, made arrangements last week to commit sucide by cutting his throat with a small piece of glass, but was discovered.

A staging on the fifth story of the old Tribune building, Minneapolis, broke, hurling to the basement two men who were working upon it, together with a lot of broken bricks. Fred Budwidson was killed and Edward Linden badly injured.

An opium den was raided by the police in Minneapolis. Three colored women and a young white man were found "hitting the pipe."

The nude body of a man was found in Lake Superior at Duluth. The bones of the head were broken in several places. The body had been in the water some time, and was that of a man of apparently about 50 years of age. It is probable that the clothing found a few days ago at Lakeside village was the property of this man.

Mining men from the Rainy Lake gold district report that the body of John Gagneu, a half-breed, well known in Northern Minnesota, has been found in Crane lake at the mouth of the Vermillion river, with one hand cut off and other parts horribly mutilated.

ON BUSINESS PRINCIPLES.

A Chicago Citizen's Little Transaction With a Footpad.

"No, I am not going to hold up my hands!" exclaimed the obstinate citizen whom a West Side footpad surprised at a late hour in a lonely part of the city one night last week. "I recognize the fact that you've got the drop on me and I'll have to cough up, but I'm going to hand over the dough myself."

"Be quick about it, then," said the footpad, sternly.

"I'll be as quick as I can," rejoined the other. "but this is business."

Producing his pocketbook he opened it and began to inspect the contents.

"What are you doing?" demanded the fellow at the other end of the revolver.

"I'm counting the cost of this transaction. Just keep your shirt on a minute, will you?" Ten, fifteen, twenty-five, forty, forty-three. I don't care so much for the money," he continued, feeling in his vest pocket and adding a stray coin or two to the sum in the purse, "as I do for maintaining my system of finance intact. Forty-eight, forty-nine——"

"What the Sam Hill is your system of finance?"

"I keep a strict account of all the money I spend," replied the obstinate citizen, feeling in his trousers pockets and extracting another coin, "and I always know to a cent how much I ought to have on hand. Fifty-four. That's all I've got about me. Fifty-four cents, and you can take it and go to thun—hold on! Wait till I enter it in this passbook. Fifty-four cents for—for charity. For charity, fifty-four cents. You need the money, I take it? Or, rather you take it?"

"Don't get gay, my friend," said the footpad, grabbing the pocket-book.

"I won't. And don't you get drunk with joy and make a spectacle of yourself. The fifty-four cents won't justify it. In the meantime, if you think I've got any other property of a portable nature about me you are at liberty to search me. No? Well, then I'll move on. I've got to enter this in the expense book when I get home and explain it to my wife besides, and altogether I'm fifty-four cents in cash and half an hour of valuable time worse off for having met you—darn your picture! Good night."—Chicago Tribune.

It is to be beautiful in architecture, and will be the most costly church edifice ever erected by one individual in the United States. Mrs. Shepard makes it a point to carry out every enterprise that her husband was engaged in, in such a way as he would have done had he lived. There is no difference in the gifts to the different charities, no changes have been made in the household or the newspaper or in any other thing in which he was interested.

SOME SUMMER MORNING.

Some morning when the wind has set his bugles all a-blowing,
I shall have gone away, perhaps, without the flowers knowing
That I, who knew their every want—thrice happy in the tending—
Had gone to the fair gardens, where the summer has no ending.

Some morning when the sea has crept up to the low, salt marshes,
And all the stars have faded from the heaven's sapphire arches,
When through the eastern gates, at last, the tardy night is going—
I shall have gone away, perhaps, without the birds a-knowing.

And love shall have no power to hold me with caresses tender,
For I shall pass the sunrise gold, the moon's white, silent splendor,
Beyond the sunset and the dawn, where never word was spoken,
Where, since creation's natal morn, the stillness slept unbroken.

Oh, little rills that I have known, through tangled grasses straying,
When I am gone, sing as of old, when all the world was Maying!
Oh, clover blooms—I love you so—at every springtime's coming,
Spread out your blossoms to the dew, and set the bees a-humming!

I know not of the gates of pearl, on golden hinges turning,
The glory bright, more than the light of countless suns a-burning,
These things await me. I would be no slow, reluctant comer,
And God will call me early on some morning in the summer.

—Jeannette La Flamboy, in Chicago Interior.

IT CHANGED TWO LIVES.

A Pathetic Incident of Gen. Bragg's Retreat.

The 18th of December, 1863, was a sad day to the confederate army, commanded by Gen. Bragg, in winter quarters around Dalton, for on that day thirteen men who at one time belonged to that army had been sentenced to be shot.

Some had been caught by our cavalry fighting against the army they had once belonged to, some had enlisted as teamsters in the federal army, and some were to be shot for insubordination. Among the number was gallant little Charley Hudson, a beardless youth, but as brave a soldier as ever went to the front. Wherever the bullets flew thickest Charley was to be found, and in the charge on some battery he always led; so it was often said that he bore a charmed life.

His father, who lived at a small station on the railroad, along which we had retreated after the battle of Missionary ridge, was a very old man. He was a great union man, with no sympathy for the southern cause.

The subject of Charley's joining the confederate army had often been discussed. The old gentleman at first strongly opposed it, but finally, seeing that his son was determined to go, he gave his consent with one proviso: If Gen. Bragg's army retreated beyond their home he was to return. To this Charley acceded, never for a moment dreaming that such a thing would happen. But the army did leave his home behind, and, true to the vow he had made to his father, he returned home.

He found that everything had been destroyed and his people destitute; so to help them to live he enlisted in the federal army as a teamster, as he thought in that capacity he would not have to fight his old comrades.

That act changed my whole life, and caused thorns to grow where I expected the sweetest roses. I was detailed to command one of the squads assigned to inflict the awful penalty upon our former comrades-in-arms on that fatal 18th of December. We were ordered to be at the place of execution promptly at twelve o'clock.

The whole army had been ordered out to witness the shooting of these men, so, after placing my detail in front of No. 4, I turned it over to the sergeant and joined the group of officers who were standing in the rear of the squads discussing the painful duty each had to perform.

Hearing my name called, I turned and was called one side by a brother officer, who said: "Do you know, lieutenant, whom you are to execute today?"

"No," I replied; "all I can tell is that I was assigned to No. 4. Can you tell?" I asked.

"Yes," he answered. "No. 4 is poor Charley Hodson."

I felt my legs giving way and I should have fallen had he not caught me. Instantly I recovered; then, for the first time in many years, tears came to my eyes and rolled down my cheek.

It was appalling to give the command that would end the life of my comrade and best friend, for I had learned to love the boy as a brother; he was so kind, so gentle and so brave.

Capt. C——, of the —— Tennessee regiment, came up to me and asked what the bad news was. I told him and, like the gallant fellow that he was, he offered to exchange places, though he knew it might cost him his commission. We had no time to think, for at that moment we heard the strains of the dead march and looking up saw the condemned men approaching.

We ran hurriedly to our details, told the sergeants of the change, and then exchanged places.

In front of each squad stood a stake and a coffin, and as the line approached each man was halted before a coffin.

Just before they were to be bound and blindfolded I heard a voice say: "Kiss Eugenia and my father for me, lieutenant, and tell them that the last throb of this heart was an echo of my love for them."

"Great God!" I exclaimed aloud. "I didn't know it was you, Paul."

The next moment my mind had gone back to a little more than a year before, when our army had been in Tennessee and Kentucky.

On that campaign I had met and loved the most beautiful woman I had ever seen. She was perfect in every way. A cultured mind, tender heart, a loving disposition, and a form as perfect as was ever given to woman. She had soft, dreamy black eyes, and, when excited, they were brighter than the dewdrop on the rose.

I visited her home often and was always welcomed with a sunny smile; but time passed rapidly and soon orders came for us to prepare to march—the very thing I dreaded.

I left camp and went to pay my last visit to her with a heavy heart.

Sitting in the shadow of a large arbor vitæ tree, with her hands in mine, I told her of my love. It was needless, though, for me to have spoken one word of that love, for she knew it long before.

For a moment she hesitated, and I then told her of our orders to move and possibly this would be our last meeting until the strife was over.

That seemed to decide it, for, looking up into my face, she said: "It is useless to tell you of my love for you, for you must know that it is as true and pure as ever a woman gave to man."

Reaching up to a branch of the tree under which we were sitting, she pulled a tiny sprig and gave it to me, saying: "That tree is green as long as God permits it to live. It is green forever, and so shall my love for you be. Only be as true to me as I shall be to you, and when this cruel war is over hasten back to me and then there shall be no more parting. My prayers shall be for you and my darling brother; for, next to you, I love him. Should you ever meet him again and he should in any way need assistance, be good to him for the love I give you. Take this sprig to remind you, if need be, of my love. I shall wear one like it every day until you return."

I could not speak, but folded her to my heart and gave the first golden kiss of love.

While young Hammond belonged to the same army as myself I had never seen him, except once, until the day of the execution, when he sent the last loving message to his sister—my intended bride.

When I saw him standing before me it was too late, for in a moment the command: "Ready, aim, fire!" was given and Paul Hammond lay dead before me, by my command.

Who can picture my utter despair at that moment? As I saw the fire flash from the muzzle of those muskets I bade farewell to all hope of happiness in this life.

Some weeks after the execution I received a letter and I instantly recognized Eugenia's writing.

Enclosed was a clipping from a Dalton newspaper, with my name and her brother's marked, and a long account of the affair. There was also a notice of the death of her old father caused by the shock of his son's death.

She wrote just a few lines; I shall never forget them: "May God forgive you as I do. This gulf can never be bridged—not even by an idolatrous love."

I never wrote to her, for I felt it was useless. So time passed, and in the summer of 1879 I went to the Green Brier white sulphur springs.

The first evening there I saw a magnificently-dressed woman whirling in the waltz that somehow attracted my attention. Nearer and nearer she came and at last our eyes met.

Instantly she sank to the floor, and just as quickly was she surrounded by her friends.

I saw pinned to her left breast by a beautiful diamond heart a piece of arbor vitæ, and I recognized Eugenia, my lost love.

I left the place that night and have never seen her since. I sometimes hear of her through friends, and never has a December passed since the war that I did not get a sprig of arbor vitæ—the emblem of our love.

I still have her letters in a little casket, and sometimes when I am vexed with the cares of this life I read them over and over. In one of them I meet the lines:

"I have another life I long to meet,
Without which life, this life is incomplete.
Oh! sweeter self, like me, art thou astray,
Trying with all thy mind to find the way?
Striving with all thy might to find the breast
On which alone can weary heart find rest?"

The mystery of Eugenia's fainting is told here for the first time. Should she read this, let her know that the love of 1894 is just as strong as that of 1862.

Through the influence of strong friends Charley Hudson was pardoned while at the stake, and he is to-day a leading citizen of our state.

What might have been had I not changed my number?—Robert A. Douglas, in Illustrated American.

Napoleon as a Marksman.

Although Napoleon was a great general, beyond dispute, it appears from some recently published recollections of two of his favorites that he was a very poor marksman. Yet he was fond of hunting, and something had to be done to cater to his vanity. It seems that whenever a stag was brought to bay, it was usual to leave the animal to be killed by the emperor. On one such occasion he could not be found, and the master of the hounds did the business. Suddenly, Napoleon was seen approaching, and the stag was hurriedly propped up on his legs with tree boughs. The gun was handed to the emperor, and he fired at the stag, whereupon the master of the hounds slightly disturbed the boughs, and the stag fell to the ground. Napoleon was completely deceived, and observed, complacently: "After all, I am not so bad a shot as they try to make out."—Golden Days.

The Conductor Was Glad to Stop Then.

A young woman who boarded a crowded cable car the other afternoon evidently was a believer in woman's rights. When the car was nearing her destination she began to make frantic efforts to attract the attention of the conductor, who was then busily engaged in hunting change. As her attempt to get the conductor to stop the car proved unsuccessful, she jumped from her seat and pulled the first bell cord within her reach. When the conductor heard the bell he took in the situation at a glance and immediately stopped the car to let the woman off. She had rung up a fare for him.—N. Y. Tribune.

A Realistic Incident.

Once upon a time a fairy prince wandered upon the shore of the sounding sea.

Suddenly he encountered a beauteous maid, to whom he had never been introduced.

"Fair one," he exclaimed, "will you be mine?"

She threw herself violently upon his neck.

"Cert," she rejoined.

They were accordingly married by a Dakota justice of the peace and lived happily until the end of the week.—Detroit Tribune.

Filial Gratitude.

"Harold, my boy," exclaimed the proud, indulgent father, "I'm glad to see you! How you have grown!"

The blood mounted to the pale, intellectual brow of the young man who had just returned from college, and his voice trembled.

"Father," he said, with deep feeling, "your handshake is twenty-five years behind the style!"—Chicago Tribune.

OIL TANK EXPLODES.

Many Persons Injured by a Bad Railroad Disaster.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Sept. 18.—A freight train on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha, which left Eau Claire at 12 o'clock Friday night, was ditched 2 miles west of Hammond early Saturday morning. The train comprised two oil cars. One oil tank took fire and exploded at the time of the accident. A car of coal and the caboose also burned. The track was blockaded and the limited passenger for Chicago leaving here at 5 a. m. was run to Minneapolis by way of Spooner. The worst incident of the wreck occurred at 10:45 a. m. while the passenger train from Minneapolis was waiting west of the scene of the accident. The whole train load of passengers were passing around the wreck to take a train on the other side, when the other oil tank in the wreck exploded. The fragments of the tank whizzed through the air like bombshells and a shower of burning oil fell upon the affrighted people.

No one had supposed that there was any danger that the tank would blow up, as the oil had been burning for some time. The tank contained about 6,000 gallons of oil. Messrs. Dickey and Rudiger and an elderly man, whose name could not be learned, were the most seriously injured. Mr. Rudiger's clothes were all burned from his body. The hands of several of the injured were so badly burned that the flesh peeled off.

A PERILOUS TRIP.

Voyage of a Passenger Steamer Between Walls of Fire.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 17.—Kirby Barnum, who owns a farm near the western border of the great Red Lake Indian reservation, in the northern part of the state, has just returned from a perilous trip down the Thief river, which skirts that reservation on the west. The trip was made in a small passenger steamer that plies between the Indian agency and Thief River Falls, a distance of 120 miles. Fully half of the trip was made between walls of fire. Mr. Barnum says that the flames have jumped the Thief river and cut a swath through the dense forest fully 60 miles wide. The whole country is aflame, but owing to the fact that communication is slow little has been heard from it farther south.

The steamer was forced to go 3 and 4 miles at a time, and then everybody would get out and stand in the water on the sandbar until the fire and heat had abated somewhat. Several times the boat was afire, and it was only with the utmost difficulty that it was saved. If it had burned the whole party must have perished. The water in the river had been raised to such a temperature by the fire that its surface was covered with millions of dead fish. Bear, deer and other large game were fleeing from the flames in great confusion.

REVENUES FALLING OFF.

Treasury Receipts Are $13,000,000 Less So Far This Month.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The revenues of the government have fallen off almost $13,000,000 in round figures for the first fourteen days of this month, compared with the last half of August. The receipts from customs for the first fourteen days of this month amounted to $9,227,000 (in round numbers), against $6,730,000 for the last half of August, while the receipts from internal revenue were but $2,292,000, compared with $20,634,000 for the latter half of August. The loss is due to the enormous sums paid on the whisky which was withdrawn for consumption just before the new tariff act, increasing the tax from 90 cents to $1.10 per gallon, went into effect on August 29. The receipts from internal revenue for the first fourteen days of the month dwindled to $2,972,000, about $4,500,000 below the normal, and were not counterbalanced by the increase in the receipts from customs, due to heavy importations under the reduced rates immediately following the enactment of the new law. The customs receipts increased about $3,000,000.

ITS SEVENTIETH SESSION.

Sovereign Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. Meets on Lookout Mountain.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 19.—Prominent odd fellows from all sections of the United States and Canada, representing the various districts of the order, assembled in the seventieth annual session of the Sovereign grand lodge in the hall of Lookout Mountain inn on Monday. Grand Sire C. T. Campbell, of London, Ont., presided, and the public was admitted to the opening session. When the lodge had been formally called to order the delegates were welcomed on behalf of the state by Gov. Peter Turney, while Mayor George H. Ochs spoke for the city. Benjamin Bingham, grand master of the state grand lodge, for the odd fellows of Tennessee, and Charles F. Landis, grand patriarch of the grand encampment of Tennessee, for the Patriarchs Militant. Responses were made by Grand Sire Campbell and others, and then the lodge went into executive session.

IDLE MINERS IN WANT.

President McBride, of the Union, Issues an Appeal for Aid.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 18.—It is discovered through an appeal for aid issued by President John McBride, of the United Mine Workers, that about 4,000 members of the organization who went out on strike last April are still idle, the operators having failed to settle on the basis of the Columbus compromise. The appeal states that 2,000 men have been out in the Massillon (O.) district since last February against a reduction of 15 cents per ton. At Denton, Ky., and at the mines of the New York & Cleveland Gas Coal company, in the Pittsburgh district, as well as those at Whitewell, Tenn., the men have been idle since April. The president urges the men at work to contribute 5 cents for each ton of coal mined to help the strikers, the amount to be divided proportionately between the districts.

Shot by Two Brothers.

HALLWOOD, Va., Sept. 17.—John H. Fisher was shot and instantly killed Thursday night by William and Arthur Wright, brothers. Fisher accused William Wright of setting fire to his fodder stacks. Wright called him a liar. Fisher withdrew and went home. Wright, supposing he had gone for a gun, secured the assistance of his brother Arthur. As Fisher reappeared they fired and he fell dead. No weapon was found on him.

CONDITION OF TRADE.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Review for the Week of an Encouraging Nature.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

"Business has met no setback this week, and continues larger than earlier in August and larger than a year ago, directly after the panic. The country has now passed nearly three weeks under the new tariff, and all admit that changes have been of less importance as yet than was expected. If in some branches business has materially increased, it has gained a little or has fallen off in others. Loss in some directions is explained by crop reports, for the most favorable estimates of experts put the loss of corn as about 400,000,000 bushels, whereas the government report is by some interpreted as meaning a loss of 1,000,000,000 bushels. The opinion of the trade does not favor the official estimate, and the price has not risen at all during the week; though receipts have been very small, exports have practically ceased, and all realize that the shrinkage of 400,000,000 bushels is serious, if it proves to be no greater, since it must affect prices of meats for a year or more. Pork is unchanged, but lard has risen 30 cents per 100 pounds. Nor are official reports encouraging as to wheat. Western receipts in two weeks have been 11,184,687 bushels, against 10,674,761 last year, and Atlantic exports only 2,074,700, against 5,106,562 last year, and the price is one-half cent lower. Considerable injury is officially reported to cotton, but few expect less than 8,500,000 bales, which is more than enough, and the price is a sixteenth lower. The great increase in iron production, which was noted as following the removal of coke difficulties, is measured by the capacity of furnaces in blast September 1—namely: 151,113 tons, against 115,356 August 1, and the unsold stocks also decreased 35,384 tons during the month.

Less activity is seen in dry goods, the rush of postponed business having abated, and there is more disposition to defer purchases because of somewhat general advances in cotton goods and because London wool sales are expected to make the outlook clearer. Strikes in cotton mills have not ceased and stocks of print cloths shrink rapidly, but some question whether recent advances in price can be maintained with important additions to the present force.

"Failures in the first week of September as yet reported show liabilities of only $1,430,070, of which $415,120 was of manufacturing and $937,480 of trading concerns. The aggregate of liabilities reported for August is $10,697,513. This week the failures have been 207 in the United States, against 314 last year, and 44 in Canada, against 27 last year."

OWENS IS CHOSEN.

Kentucky Democrats in Primary Election Decide Against Breckinridge.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 18.—In the primaries of the Seventh congressional district Saturday W. C. Owens is believed to have secured a safe majority of the delegates. The vote was about as follows so far as the returns already received indicate:

| COUNTY. | Owens. | Breckinridge. | Settle. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Bourbon | 1,030 | 1,151 | 98 |
| Fayette | 1,812 | 1,975 | 480 |
| Franklin | 1,516 | 995 | 288 |
| Henry | 468 | 857 | 609 |
| Oldham | 407 | 243 | 263 |
| Owen | 220 | 1,143 | 1,360 |
| Scott | 1,824 | 635 | 160 |
| Woodford | 811 | 688 | 141 |
| Totals | 8,097 | 7,687 | 3,429 |

Owens' plurality, 410.

Breckinridge leaders claim that in Scott county Owens received many fraudulent votes, as 600 more democrats voted in this county Saturday than at the last election. Desha Breckinridge said he was confident of his father's election. Said he: "I cannot give out a statement by counties, but our latest reports reduce Owens' plurality to 141. I am sure that the count will be given us by the district committee when it meets. If it does not I am not prepared to say what will follow; may be a contest."

SOME ONE MUST LOSE.

Failure of an Attempt to Corner Wheat May Cost $1,000,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Somebody stands to lose $1,000,000 on wheat and San Francisco grain men are wondering who the victim is. For several months L. F. McGlaughlin bought wheat for some unknown speculators until he had accumulated between 175,000 and 200,000 tons, for which he paid an average of $1.20 per cental. At present prices he cannot realize within 35 cents per cental of as much as he paid. It is said by grain dealers here that ex-Senator James G. Fair is the only man on the coast who has enough ready money to back McGlaughlin in such a big deal and it now looks as if he had made an error in his calculations. When McGlaughlin commenced to buy last winter wheat was never before so low. Under the stimulus of big purchases the price went up, but it soon fell and wheat is now lower than ever. It is calculated that there are at present between 800,000 and 900,000 tons of wheat in the state for which a market must be found. All this wheat must be shipped out of the country and ship owners are holding back for higher charters.

GREAT RACE ON THE STRIP.

Four Thousand Horsemen Participate in the Event.

ENID, O. T., Sept. 18.—The first anniversary of the opening of the Cherokee strip was celebrated Saturday. The feature of the occasion was an exact representation of the original race for the town site, the prize to the winner being a lot valued at $2,000. Fifteen thousand people participated in the race, but the real contest was between 4,000 horsemen, including Indians and cowboys. It was the most wonderful race, with systematic entries, on record. The prize lot was reached simultaneously by a Cheyenne Indian and Kansas cowboy named Farker.

TESTIMONY ALL IN.

Defense in the Debs Contempt Case Submit No Evidence.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—All of the testimony in the Debs contempt case is in. Much to the surprise of everyone, the attorneys for the defense announced Thursday afternoon when the last witness for the prosecution had been heard that they would stake their case on the evidence before the court.

This was apparently a great surprise to Mr. Walker and his associates who represent the prosecution. Mr. Miller and Mr. Bancroft, of the Santa Fe road. However, after some preliminary stipulations as to the preparation of papers, Judge Woods adjourned court to Tuesday, September 25, when the arguments will be heard.

Leads the Revolt.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 15.—Goethe lodge, one of the oldest German lodges of the Knights of Pythias in the United States, has decided, with but four dissenting votes, to withdraw from the order and will organize the Goethe Relief society, using funds now in their possession for the new organization. The officers have notified the grand lodge that it had surrendered its charter and all property belonging to the grand lodge.

William Reickoff, the banker of Orange City, Ia., who died a week ago, left $35,000 to Iowa college.

HOME HINTS AND HELPS.

—Cream Pie: Beat together one egg, half a cup of sugar, three teaspoonfuls of cornstarch and half a cup of cream. Stir all together; warm two and one-half cups of milk, mix with the other ingredients, and bake like custard pies.—Farm, Field and Fireside.

—Cucumber Catsup: Take twelve fine large cucumbers, pare off the rind, scrape out the seed and a little of the rind near the seed, and add to these four large onions chopped fine; strain off the liquor from the seed and onions, and add to them four tablespoonfuls of ground black pepper; add four pints of the best vinegar, and cork and seal in bottles.—Harper's Bazar.

—The Fly Pest.—During the hot weather housekeepers are much troubled to rid rooms of flies. A simple fly paper may be made as follows: Mix a teaspoonful of black pepper and one of sugar with a tablespoonful of butter. Spread this on paper and lay the traps in the spots frequented by the flies. Green tea sweetened and exposed in saucers for flies to drink is also a good remedy.—Liverpool Mercury.

—Date Pudding: Cover two tablespoonfuls of gelatine with a cup of cold milk. When it has soaked twenty minutes, stand the bowl in a saucepan of boiling water until the gelatine is thoroughly melted. Let it cool, and meantime whip half a pint of cream, add half a cup of powdered sugar, a cup of chopped dates, and a teaspoonful of vanilla; add the gelatine and stir until it thickens, when turn into a mold to cool.—American Agriculturist.

—Buttermilk Pie: At this season, when buttermilk is sweet and rich, a novel but excellent pie can be made of a beaten egg, a teacupful of fresh buttermilk, two-thirds of a teacupful of white sugar, two level tablespoonfuls of soft butter, and two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, which should be dissolved in the buttermilk. Flavor to taste, beat well, and bake with one crust. This pie should be eaten the day it is baked.—Sarah E. Wilcox, in Farm and Home.

—Children sometimes thrust small objects, such as buttons or beans, up their nostrils. It is not difficult to dislodge them if taken in time. Tell the child to blow hard or excite sneezing by tickling the nose or giving snuff; or have it take a full breath, then give a smart blow on the back. If these plans fail close the affected nostril and blow into the other through a rubber tube, at the same instant releasing the closure of the occupied one. Should these ways be unsuccessful, extraction will be necessary.

—Lemon Filling: Take four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, the grated yellow portion only of the rind of half a lemon, and two-thirds of a cup of sugar. Beat the lemon juice and the sugar together. Braid a slightly heaping tablespoonful of cornstarch with as little water as possible and pour over it, stirring constantly, one-half pint of boiling water, to thicken the starch. Add the lemon and sugar to the starch, and let it cool; then stir in the yolks of two eggs and half the white of one well beaten together. Beat thoroughly, pour into the crust and bake.—Good Health.

Raw Eggs.

Raw eggs are frequently ordered, as when they can be taken and retained by a sick person they are extremely nourishing, simply because the albumen, not having been hardened, is the sooner digested. Many, however, can not take raw eggs as usually given, that is, beaten up with milk or wine. The following mode is a good one; the appearance of the dish is so nice that an invalid will often be induced to try it. It is free from oiliness and clean to palate. Put the yolk of an egg into a basin with a teaspoonful of white sugar and a tablespoonful of orange or lemon juice, and beat lightly together with a fork. Put the white on a plate, add a pinch of salt, and then, with a broad-bladed knife, beat it to a stiff froth. Then, as lightly as possible, mix all together in the basin, and as lightly transfer to a clean tumbler, which it will nearly fill if properly made. This must not stand in a warm place, or it soon becomes liquid and loses its snowy look.—Boston Budget.

Maryland Biscuits.

While it is true that we send plum puddings to England and may send coals to Newcastle, it is altogether impossible that the rest of the world should ever send biscuits to Maryland, though this—her recipe for the same—she takes pleasure in making known to the rest of the world not comforted with Maryland biscuits. Aunt Dinah takes two quarts of flour, a heaping tablespoonful of lard, a tablespoonful of salt, and mixes them in a very stiff dough, adding the cold water cautiously for fear of getting it too soft and sticky. Then she works and works it on the bread board till it blisters all over—the dough, not the board—when she breaks it off in small pieces, molds it with her fingers into tiny, shapely forms, picks them with a fork and puts them in a hot oven to cook. If the temperature is right they will be brown and crisp in twenty minutes.—N. Y. Herald.

Luncheon Salad.

A very good luncheon salad that is a delight to the eye as well as taste, is a potato salad served in tomatoes. In composition it varies a little from the every-day potato salad, and for this reason is given a finer name and called a Japanese salad. Prepare tomatoes as for filling with chicken salad, and set in the ice-box to get very cold. To make the filling for half a dozen tomatoes chop two cold boiled potatoes fine and add to them three good-sized truffles that are chopped as fine as the potatoes. Mix them with a wooden spoon, and turn them over and mix carefully a French dressing made from a half teaspoonful of salt, a fourth teaspoonful of Hungarian red pepper, four tablespoonfuls of oil and one of vinegar. Set in the ice-box for half an hour. Then add to the mixture a tablespoonful of chopped parsley. Fill the tomatoes with the salad, put on top of each a teaspoonful of mayonnaise and serve on a bed of crisp lettuce.—N. Y. Post.

—The so-called rice paper is not made from rice, as its name implies, but from the snow-white pith of a small tree which, so far as is known, grows only in Formosa, and belongs to a genus represented in the United States by the common sarsaparilla and the spikenard. The stems are transported to China and there the rice paper is made, which is used by native artists for water-color drawings or dyed of various colors and made into artificial flowers.

THE ONWARD MARCH

of Consumption is stopped short by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If you haven't waited beyond reason, there's complete recovery and cure. In those scrofulous conditions of the blood which invite Consumption; in severe, lingering Coughs, and Weak Lungs, this medicine is a proved remedy.

MISS M. H. SNEED.

MRS. SARAH S. SNEED, of Cito, Iredell Co., N. C., writes: "My daughter was first attacked with pneumonia and pleurisy in very bad form and was then taken with a very bad cough, which kept growing worse and worse, until finally it seemed as though she had consumption very bad. The physicians prescribed Cod liver oil, but to no benefit. I procured two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and she grew better. She hasn't felt any return of lung disease in over twelve months. She was nothing but a skeleton when she took the first dose, and to-day she weighs 135 pounds."

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

DELANO DIARY

Buffalo Gazette $1.00 a year.

—We are again obliged to leave out several communications.

--On account of the non-arrival of pipe our city waterworks crew were laid off a few days this week.

—Sunday School social this evening at Mrs. Jonos Johnsons, object, to raise supplies for the school. Come all.

Rev. J. W. Powell.

—A good rain on last Friday was very thankfully received by our farmers desiring to plow, and by the average house wife, who prefers soft water for washing purposes.

--Carloads of very fine steers from the west continue to pass this way. The far west appears to have stood the drought well; and their crop of cattle is turning out, like our wheat, much better than anybody expected.

—Several more Delanoites, now have rigs of their own for profit and pleasure; among them neighbor Mowatt, and George. P. Schaffer; John B. Plattner having disposed of his old standby is now, aided by his wife, industriously at work breaking a colt.

—In another place in this paper read the call for a Democratic caucus on Saturday night at 7:30 at the City Hall for the Town of Franklin. This is your opportunity to send delegates to Buffalo to nominate a winning County and Legislative ticket. Don't stay at home and then find fault with the tickets after they are made; but be at the caucus and help send delegates that will give us a good clean ticket that we can all hurrah for; and that will be elected.

—The round elevator has been reshingled this week and put in order to receive the new wheat crop, notwithstanding the new tariff law, superceding the McKinley law. And the editor of the Eagle which howls that the Democrats are ruining the country, is paying out his good money to fix up his elevator to go right on with the business just as though he had never heard of the abolition of the McKinley bill; and didn't know that the Democrats are still in power at Washington.

—Last week we visited St Cloud for the first time and although we were prepared to find quite a respectable sized town, we were agreebly suprised to see the meplopotion airs she is putting on with waterworks, electrict lights and electrict railway. Her hotels are first class, and things present a good appearance generally. We met Prof. W. E. Johnson, our fellow townsman and was pleased to learn that he enjoys his new position as instructor in the State Normal School.

--J. S. Cooper and Gus Anderson are putting in some nice crossings instead of those recently torn up to make room for the waterworks. If they would leve a place at both ends of the crossings for the water to run off instead of making complete dams, an idea long since abandoned, even on most of our country roads, it would add to the length of wear of the crossings as well as to the beauty and usefulness of the street. We are not blaming J. S. and Gus; the street committee should see that these matters are properly looked after.

--People owning windmills should be careful about climbing up to oil them; or allowing their boys to do so. In a last week's St. Paul Globe we read that Theodore Larson, a fourteen year-old boy, while oiling a wind mill near Baldwin, Wis., fell forty feet to the ground, and died from his injuries. The St. Peter Herald says Ralph Boys, of Oshawa, while oiling his windmill got his coat caught and was carried around by the wheel, thirty-five feet from the ground. He got off with a few fractured bones, his relatives coming to his rescue, and stopping the wheel.

—The Eagle recently, in abusing Mr. Kennedy said: "He stood faithfully with Dr. Catlin in encouraging disturbance and destruction of school books, etc." Now those who read the GAZETTE or those who have a personal acquaintance with Dr. Catlin, or those who attended the school meeting at the time the text book question was befor the meeting know that Dr. Catlin never advised the destruction of school books; but that it was through his untiring efforts aided by Charles Hawker at the school meeting, Mr. K. in the paper, and others that the board of education of which Mr. Gutzwiller was a member, abandoned that infamous rule, that if a child got an inkspot on his book, or marred or soiled it he should pay retail price for the book and own it himself and all his books should be taken from him until he did so.

—The Advent camp meeting held at Rockford closed last Monday. Quite a large attendance was had during the week and especially on Sundays. Last Sunday Rev. Hobbs, of Minneapolis, preached: in the afternoon Rev. Owen, of Sparta, Wisconsin, formerly pastor of the Rockford church, gave an argumentative discourse, quoting frequently from the Scriptures, to prove the soul sleeper theory. He is an impressive talker and was attentatively listened to by a large congregation of people of different denominations from Delano, Armstrong, Maple Plain, Buffalo and intervening country and from Minndapolis. We don't know whether he succeeded in convincing anyone that his theory that people supposed to be dead simply sleep till the resurrection morn, or not. Nor can we see how it would tend to make people better any more, to believe that, when they die they will sleep, unconsciously, until the coming of the Master; than it would to believe that their reward or punishment awaits them wnen they die.

—The Delano Cornet Band left on Monday evening's train for Dassel where they would find teams to carry them to Hutchinson to compete in the Band contest for the $100.00 prize. Their horns were polished until they could plainly behold their radient countenances wreathed in smiles as they mused on the time when they should return bearing with them that trophy of victory and tangible evidence of the superiority of big woods gentle tones to the prairie blasts, when they are brought into competition for a prize; $100.00. Many people congregated at the depot to see them off; and many hearts, especially of the gentler sex, beat with expectant joy at the thought of the beautiful appearance of our handsome boys on the streets and at the fair grounds of the enterprising little town, named for one of the most noted musical families of this country; and shared with them in the hope of their return in triumph on Thursday, each brow crowned with the laurel wreath of victory and the treasurer nobly bearing the $100.00.

LATTE -They brought back the second prize; $60. claiming that Litchfield got first on account of their clothes.

Democratic Caucus.

A Democratic caucus will be held for the town of Franklin, at City Hall, Delano, on Sturday evening, Sept. 22, at 7:30 o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of electing five delegates to represent the town at the Democratic County Convention to be held at Buffalo, Tuesday, Sept. 25. DEM, COM.

Democratic Caucus.

A caucus of the democratic voters of the village of Delano will be held at the City Hall in said village on Saturday September 22nd, at 8 o'clock P. M., of that day, for the purpose of selecting 4 Delegates to represent the Democrats of said village at the county convention to be held at the village of Buffalo on the 25th day September, 1894, at 11 o'clock, a. m.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE.

Democratic County Resolutions.

BE IT RESOLVED, that we the Democrats of Wright County assembled, reaffirm the principles enunciated by the National Democratic convention of 1892.

That we heartily approve of the courageous course pursued by President Cleveland and the House of Representatives in endeavoring to secure such tariff reform legislation as would relieve the toiling masses from the burdens heaped upon them by the so-called protective tariff.

And that we pledge to these principles of reform our earnest and untiring support.

County Cullings.

Some more direct communication between the County seat and Delano than is at present in existance would be appreciated by citizens along both the Soo and the G. N. lines of railroad. It requires too much time, frequently for mail to go to Minneapolis and be fumbled around, and wait for trains, to suit the average patron of the mails. A daily stage from Delano to Buffalo and return would accommodate a large number of people at both ends of the line.

Lee, Lee; whose he? About the Post Office yesterday morning that question was frequently repeated as people read from the GAZETTE bulletin that name on the Republican ticket, nominated the day before at Buffalo. Why, don'tcher kneow he's ther young man from Annandale onto whose shoulders our retiring fellowtownsman "not a child" so gracefully tumbled the heavy mantle of the nomination for Superintendent of Schools while introducing him to the convention.

J. L. Harwick attended the Democratic congressional convention at St. Cloud on Tuesday. He returned home as enthusiastic a democrat as one can be in this demoralizing year of Democracy.--Wright County Times.

St. Cloud would be a poor town to go to; and J. L. the wrong man to expect to return home anything else but an enthusiastic democrat after such a meeting as was held at that place on the opening of what bids fair to prove a winning campaign for Minnesota Democracy.

The republicans of Wright county have turned over to Governor Becker all the old men of their party and a portion of the yonger ones by their action at Buffalo on Wednesday, at the convention. For Treasurer Hon. Nathan Warner was left away behind by a younger man, for Register of Deeds, the venerable S. A. Howard of Clearwater, made room for younger blood. Mr. Lindsley, whom the Patriorchol Holmes informed the convention was "no child" gave way to his competior, more childlike and bland. While Mr. Tarbox was set one side for another of the boys.

There seems to be a unanimity of feeling among the editors of newspapers throughout this great state, with, so far as we have seen a single exception, that George L. Becker is a fine old gentleman: that he is eminently qualified by reason of his vast experience, and well known integrity as a citizen of this state for about half of a century to fill the office of Governor, with honor to himself and to the state in which he has spent most of his life. The exception is the Representative, the Populist paper at Minneapolis, which claims he represents the past more than the present. If that is a fact, and the great I. D. who has represented about every party in the state at some time or another, as a candidate for office represents the present, give us the past.

In quoting from the GAZETTE one of our county Republican papers, the Times, says: "It is not a common accepted fact that the reputation of the bulk of Cokato and Stockholm voters for uprightness and manliness will bear favorable comparison with the reputation of the naughty old Eagle?"

We said nothing of the kind. It makes lots of difference which word begins the sentence. Mr. French must in proof reading have overlooked the mistake, as he has the interrogation mark in his quotation. What we had in the GAZETTE, of the 7th inst., was in reply to the Eagle's fearful charge that "it is a common accepted fact that the bulk of the Cokato and Stockholm votes are more or less considered and treated as a mercantable commodity, generally for sale to the highest bidder on the eve of election"! And was the question, "Is it not "a common accepted fact" that the reputation of the bulk of Cokato and Stockholm voters for uprightness and manliness will bear favorable comparison with the reputation of the naughty old Eagle?" Read the GAZETTE, and get things straight.

Some of our disgruntled Republican brethern are seeking to make a sectional rather than a political fight of the coming campaign and their Eagle-eyen rings in religion; or as usual anything to beat them other fellers: "them hogs;" they have given out that they will vote for so and so, if the democrats will nominate them. This all sounds very well; but how many votes can they deliver; and if they have the rank and file of the republicans of this end of the county so under their control as they intimate, will it do the Democrats any good to join with them in making the issue one of sectionalism, between the eastern and western portions of our county?. Would not the breach thus started widen with each recurring election until the eastern and the western halves of our county would be as far from harmonizing as are our Republican friends of Sherburne and Wright on legislative matters. Let there be no fusion, even with a minority of the Republicans to "do up the hogs" as the Eagle desires. She, poor bird, has seen her political influence slipping, gradually slipping away, until now she s-c-r-e-e-c-h-e-s over the stormy billows, amid ocean, apparently looking for prey in a dazed sort of way; undecided as toward which point of compass it is best to steer. We have always advised that each and every party put in the field their best men; men who can be relied on to do the best for the county, or district as a whole, and not simply to monopolize everything for one section or people to the exclusion of and at the expense of all the balance. Let Democrats select their own ticket.

PUBLICATIONS

Of The

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY,

ST. PAUL, MINN.

The General Passanger Office of the Great Northern Railway Will be pleased to forward to applicants any or all the publications named below, on receipt of the amount of postage named after each. It should be understood that these books, maps and pamphlets were prepared at considerable cost and are Worth in each case many times the postage. They will prove of much more interest to persons who contemplate a trip to any part of the Northwest, or who desire the information all intelligent people should possess concerning a vast, resourceful, important and growing part of the United States. ## DELANO DIARY

Buffalo Gazette $1.00 a year.

—We are again obliged to leave out several communications.

--On account of the non-arrival of pipe our city waterworks crew were laid off a few days this week.

—Sunday School social this evening at Mrs. Jonos Johnsons, object, to raise supplies for the school. Come all.

Rev. J. W. Powell.

—A good rain on last Friday was very thankfully received by our farmers desiring to plow, and by the average house wife, who prefers soft water for washing purposes.

--Carloads of very fine steers from the west continue to pass this way. The far west appears to have stood the drought well, and their crop of cattle is turning out, like our wheat, much better than anybody expected.

—Several more Delanoites, now have rigs of their own for profit and pleasure; among them neighbor Mowatt, and George. P. Schaffer; John B. Plattner having disposed of his old standby is now, aided by his wife, industriously at work breaking a colt.

—In another place in this paper read the call for a Democratic caucus on Saturday night at 7:30 at the City Hall for the Town of Franklin. This is your opportunity to send delegates to Buffalo to nominate a winning County and Legislative ticket. Don't stay at home and then find fault with the tickets after they are made; but be at the caucus and help send delegates that will give us a good clean ticket that we can all hurrah for; and that will be elected.

—The round elevator has been reshingled this week and put in order to receive the new wheat crop, notwithstanding the new tariff law, superceding the McKinley law. And the editor of the Eagle which howls that the Democrats are ruining the country, is paying out his good money to fix up his elevator to go right on with the business just as though he had never heard of the abolition of the McKinley bill; and didn't know that the Democrats are still in power at Washington.

—Last week we visited St Cloud for the first time and although we were prepared to find quite a respectable sized town, we were agreebly suprised to see the meplopotion airs she is putting on with waterworks, electrict lights and electrict railway. Her hotels are first class, and things present a good appearance generally. We met Prof. W. E. Johnson, our fellow townsman and was pleased to learn that he enjoys his new position as instructor in the State Normal School.

--J. S. Cooper and Gus Anderson are putting in some nice crossings instead of those recently torn up to make room for the waterworks. If they would leve a place at both ends of the crossings for the water to run off instead of making complete dams, an idea long since abandoned, even on most of our country roads, it would add to the length of wear of the crossings as well as to the beauty and usefulness of the street. We are not blaming J. S. and Gus; the street committee should see that these matters are properly looked after.

--People owning windmills should be careful about climbing up to oil them; or allowing their boys to do so. In a last week's St. Paul Globe we read that Theodore Larson, a fourteen year-old boy, while oiling a wind mill near Baldwin, Wis., fell forty feet to the ground, and died from his injuries. The St. Peter Herald says Ralph Boys, of Oshawa, while oiling his windmill got his coat caught and was carried around by the wheel, thirty-five feet from the ground. He got off with a few fractured bones, his relatives coming to his rescue, and stopping the wheel.

—The Eagle recently, in abusing Mr. Kennedy said: "He stood faithfully with Dr. Catlin in encouraging disturbance and destruction of school books, etc." Now those who read the GAZETTE or those who have a personal acquaintance with Dr. Catlin, or those who attended the school meeting at the time the text book question was befor the meeting know that Dr. Catlin never advised the destruction of school books; but that it was through his untiring efforts aided by Charles Hawker at the school meeting, Mr. K. in the paper, and others that the board of education of which Mr. Gutzwiller was a member, abandoned that infamous rule, that if a child got an inkspot on his book, or marred or soiled it he should pay retail price for the book and own it himself and all his books should be taken from him until he did so.

—The Advent camp meeting held at Rockford closed last Monday. Quite a large attendance was had during the week and especially on Sundays. Last Sunday Rev. Hobbs, of Minneapolis, preached: in the afternoon Rev. Owen, of Sparta, Wisconsin, formerly pastor of the Rockford church, gave an argumentative discourse, quoting frequently from the Scriptures, to prove the soul sleeper theory. He is an impressive talker and was attentatively listened to by a large congregation of people of different denominations from Delano, Armstrong, Maple Plain, Buffalo and intervening country and from Minndapolis. We don't know whether he succeeded in convincing anyone that his theory that people supposed to be dead simply sleep till the resurrection morn, or not. Nor can we see how it would tend to make people better any more, to believe that, when they die they will sleep, unconsciously, until the coming of the Master; than it would to believe that their reward or punishment awaits them wnen they die.

--The Delano Cornet Band left on Monday evening's train for Dassel where they would find teams to carry them to Hutchinson to compete in the Band contest for the $100.00 prize. Their horns were polished until they could plainly behold their radient countenances wreathed in smiles as they mused on the time when they should return bearing with them that trophy of victory and tangible evidence of the superiority of big woods gentle tones to the prairie blasts, when they are brought into competition for a prize; $100.00. Many people congregated at the depot to see them off; and many hearts, especially of the gentler sex, beat with expectant joy at the thought of the beautiful appearance of our handsome boys on the streets and at the fair grounds of the enterprising little town, named for one of the most noted musical families of this country; and shared with them in the hope of their return in triumph on Thursday, each brow crowned with the laurel wreath of victory and the treasurer nobly bearing the $100.00.

LATTE -They brought back the second prize; $60. claiming that Litchfield got first on account of their clothes.

Democratic Caucus.

A Democratic caucus will be held for the town of Franklin, at City Hall, Delano, on Ssturday evening, Sept. 22, at 7:30 o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of electing five delegates to represent the town at the Democratic County Convention to be held at Buffalo, Tuesday, Sept. 25. DEM, COM.

Democratic Caucus.

A caucus of the democratic voters of the village of Delano will be held at the City Hall in said village on Saturday September 22nd, at 8 o'clock P. M., of that day, for the purpose of selecting 4 Delegates to represent the Democrats of said village at the county convention to be held at the village of Buffalo on the 25th day September, 1894, at 11 o'clock, a. m.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE.

Democratic County Resolutions.

BE IT RESOLVED, that we the Democrats of Wright County assembled, reaffirm the principles enunciated by the National Democratic convention of 1892.

That we heartily approve of the courageous course pursued by President Cleveland and the House of Representatives in endeavoring to secure such tariff reform legislation as would relieve the toiling masses from the burdens heaped upon them by the so-called protective tariff.

And that we pledge to these principles of reform our earnest and untiring support.

Rev. J. W. Powell, Jr., of Kimble, after a few days visit with his parents here left last week for a three year's course in the Boston Theological Seminary.

County Cullings.

Some more direct communication detween the County seat and Delano than is at present in existance would be appreciated by citizens along both the Soo and the G. N. lines of railroad. It requires too much time, frequently for mail to go to Minneapolis and be fumbled around, and wait for trains, to suit the average patron of the mails. A daily stage from Delano to Buffalo and return would accommodate a large number of people at both ends of the line.

Lee, Lee; whose he? About the Post Office yesterday morning that question was frequently repeated as people read from the GAZETTE bulletin that name on the Republican ticket, nominated the day before at Buffalo. Why, don'tcher kneow he's ther young man from Annandale onto whose shoulders our retiring fellowtownsman "not a child" so gracefully tumbled the heavy mantle of the nomination for Superintendent of Schools while introducing him to the convention.

J. L. Harwick attended the Democratic congressional convention at St. Cloud on Tuesday. He returned home as enthusiastic a democrat as one can be in this demoralizing year of Democracy.--Wright County Times.

St. Cloud would be a poor town to go to; and J. L. the wrong man to expect to return home anything else but an enthusiastic democrat after such a meeting as was held at that place on the opening of what bids fair to prove a winning campaign for Minnesota Democracy.

The republicans of Wright county have turned over to Governor Becker all the old men of their party and a portion of the yonger ones by their action at Buffalo on Wednesday, at the convention. For Treasurer Hon. Nathan Warner was left away behind by a younger man, for Register of Deeds, the venerable S. A. Howard of Clearwater, made room for younger blood. Mr. Lindsley, whom the Patriorchol Holmes informed the convention was "no child" gave way to his competior, more childlike and bland. While Mr. Tarbox was set one side for another of the boys.

There seems to be a unanimity of feeling among the editors of newspapers throughout this great state, with, so far as we have seen a single exception, that George L. Becker is a fine old gentleman: that he is eminently qualified by reason of his vast experience, and well known integrity as a citizen of this state for about half of a century to fill the office of Governor, with honor to himself and to the state in which he has spent most of his life. The exception is the Representative, the Populist paper at Minneapolis, which claims he represents the past more than the present. If that is a fact, and the great I. D. who has represented about every party in the state at some time or another, as a candidate for office represents the present, give us the past.

In quoting from the GAZETTE one of our county Republican papers, the Times, says: "It is not a common accepted fact that the reputation of the bulk of Cokato and Stockholm voters for uprightness and manliness will bear favorable comparison with the reputation of the naughty old Eagle?"

We said nothing of the kind. It makes lots of difference which word begins the sentence. Mr. French must in proof reading have overlooked the mistake, as he has the interrogation mark in his quotation. What we had in the GAZETTE, of the 7th inst., was in reply to the Eagle's fearful charge that "It is a common accepted fact that the bulk of the Cokato and Stockholm votes are more or less considered and treated as a mercantable commodity, generally for sale to the highest bidder on the eve of election"! And was the question, "Is it not "a common accepted fact" that the reputation of the bulk of Cokato and Stockholm voters for uprightness and manliness will bear favorable comparison with the reputation of the naughty old Eagle?" Read the GAZETTE, and get things straight.

Some of our disgruntled Republican brethern are seeking to make a sectional rather than a political fight of the coming campaign and their Eagle-eyen rings in religion; or as usual anything to beat them other fellers; "them hogs;" they have given out that they will vote for so and so, if the democrats will nominate them. This all sounds very well; but how many votes can they deliver; and if they have the rank and file of the republicans of this end of the county so under their control as they intimate, will it do the Democrats any good to join with them in making the issue one of sectionalism, between the eastern and western portions of our county?. Would not the breach thus started widen with each recurring election until the eastern and the western halves of our county would be as far from harmonizing as are our Republican friends of Sherburne and Wright on legislative matters. Let there be no fusion, even with a minority of the Republicans to "do up the hogs" as the Eagle desires. She, poor bird, has seen her political influence slipping, gradually slipping away, until now she s-c-r-e-e-c-h-e-s over the stormy billows, amid ocean, apparently looking for prey in a dazed sort of way; undecided as toward which point of compass it is best to steer. We have always advised that each and every party put in the field their best men; men who can be relied on to do the best for the county, or district as a whole, and not simply to monopolize everything for one section or people to the exclusion of and at the expense of all the balance. Let Democrats select their own ticket.

DONNELY has again figured it down to a race between Washburne and himself. This time for the U. S. Senate.

GENERAL BECKER seems to be coming rapidly to the front in the race for Governor. He thinks the Prohibitionest candidate will receive 20,000 votes and the winner about 80,000.

THE reduction of the tariff on eggs must have a bad effect on that industry as many of the factories have gone out of business. Fowls are dying off in large numbers from chicken colera.

DESHA, charging around over the country with a big knife, calling men liars and other names not pleasant to the ears of cultivated people, don't tend to elevate the family name of Breckenridge from the mire where his father has dragged it; but rather adds to the pile of rocks to sink it still further in the mud and to keep it there.

Primaries Powerless.

Some change in the method of holding primaries must soon come. The old fashioned town meeting; or mass meeting, where men and measures could be honestly, fairly and fully discussed and voted for by the mass of voters of the party has, for some reason degenerated into what often is a howling farce; or is, more frequently still, attended only by those seeking office, or their immediate friends. This half dozen or so men connive at a plan whereby they are mutually the beneficiaries, regardless of the wishes of the people, or the party to which they belong. The County convention consists, largely of delegates chosen as above; ready to dicker and trade with each other, with an eye to the longed for office, rather than the good of the party they pretend to represent. This matter needs looking after before the mode of electing United States Senators is changed, as it seems likely in the near future to be, to a direct vote of the people. The laws governing primaries should be strict as any governing any part of elections. But we should examine a new law closely, before adopting it. We may get one still worse; the present plan being all satisfactory, usually, when people attend and take part in the proceedings.

The reasons for the powerlessness of the primaries to give an expression of the will of the people, as at present run, seems first due to the lack of regard for Parliamentary usages. People sit and see this or that man or clique of men run a caucus in a way they would not tolerate in their own affairs; and say nothing because it is politics; or because it might injure their business.

Secondly such proceedings, year after year have disgusted most men so that it is well-nigh impossible to get voters enough out to a caucus to give any idea of the sentiment of the people.

Something must be done to infuse a little patriotism into the people. They must be brought to a realizing sense of their duty as American citizens to take part in Governmental affairs. It is not only a privilege but the duty of every citizen of the United States to take part, whenever opportunity presents, to do what he can to direct the fountains of our system of government in pure streams to its mouth, and on into the sea where so proudly rides our ship of state. It is every man's duty to do what he can to perpetuate this "Government of the people, for the people and by the people."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 21, 1894.

A quorum of the cabinet have been in Washington this week, but not all at one time. Secretary Smith was only in town three days and Secretary Lamont has just arrived. Secretaries Gresham and Herbert have been at their desks all the week and Secretary Carlisle has not been able to get even a three-day vacation since Congress adjourned. There is considerable gossip here over the probability of Secretary Lamont being nominated for governor of New York by the democrats, although he isn't saying a word himself. There is no doubt that Secretary Lamont would make a strong candidate—perhaps stronger than any man who has been mentioned in connection with the nomination, except ex-Secretary Whitney, and the impression is that he will not accept—because, like Whitney, he would be acceptable to the two factions into which the party in New york is unfortunately divided, he having managed to keep the good will of them all. Democrats here recognize the nomination of Mr. Morton to have been about the strongest that the republicans could have made, and they believe that a very strong democrat will be needed to beat him, under existing circumstances.

Senator Faulkner has decided that he can be of more benefit to the party by giving his undivided attention to managing the Congressional campaign committee, of which he is chairman, than by going on the same stump: consequennly he will make no speeches, but will remain constantly at the committee headquarters. He sent President Cleveland a copy of the campaign Text book, this week, with the compliments of the committee.

Although no official announcement has been made to that effect, and none is expected, it has been understood for some time that Treasury officials regarded women a a failure as high grade clerks in that department; consequently there was little surprise when it was learned that a considerable percentage of the hundred odd clerks dismissed thus far in the reorganigation of that department, now under way in accordance with a law enacted at the last session of Congress, were high grade women clerks. There are more high grade women clerks—that is women drawing more than $1200 a year—in the Treasury than in any other department, and according to statements of those over them, there are numerous reasons why men are preferred to them. It is said no more women will be appointed to or promoted to any clerkship above the $1200 grade in the Treasury department. Although it is strictly a matter of business, those who have been dismissed are raising as great a howl as though they had been deprived of something in which they had a proprietary interest, and the howl is likely to increase in volume as soon as those who are trying to get reinstated become convinced that they cannot succeed.

Owing largely to the dullness in political news, a regular "tempest in a teapot" has been made out of the resignation of Mr. O'Rourke, Supervising Architect of the Treasury, at the request of Secretary Carlisle, by the Washington correspondents. It is a very simple case, without any of the elements of a sensation. Mr. O'Rourke failed to run the business of his office as smoothly as Secretary Carlisle thought it ought to be run, rather from lack of adaptability than lack of ability, and his resignation was asked for, received and accepted. That's all.

One of the best campaign documents sent out by the democratic Campaign committe is a list of the new enterprises inaugurated and of old ones which have resumed work since the new tariff became a law. It answers better than pages of argument could possibly do the republican charge that tariff reform would injure American industries.

Among the the prominent spell binders who were the occupants of a special car which left here Wednesday night for Raleigh, N. C, were the following: Senators Ransom and Jarvis; Governor-elect Oates, of Alabama; Hon. Charles H. Mansur, Assistant Comptroller of the Treasury; Secretary Hoke Smith, President Black and Secretary Gardner, of the National Association of Democratic Clubs, and Chief Clerk Daniels of the Interior Department. The magnet which drew this aggregation of democratic talent to the capital of the tar-heel State is the State convention of Democratic Clubs, which met there yesterday.

A Thunder Cry.

Grasp the Law Making Power.

Remember, friends, that the great stake in the pending battle is the United States senatorship. That holds for six years; The senate is about a tie; a populist Senator from Minnesota may decide the whole action of Congress and affect the whole destiny of the human race on this planet for centuries to come. We are on the eve of great and momentous events. No man can tell what revolutions lie waiting for us in the near future. A crisis s at hand.

We are opposed to "fusion," which means a sacrifice of principles for spoil; the coming together of discordant elements for purposes of plunder. But it is no fusion to say to the place-hunters,—"We care nothing for who is sheriff, or county treasurer, or county auditor;—any intelligent men put into those places will probably do their duty; but we are after bigger game. You want the large salaries; we want the law-making power, state and national; you are spoilsmen, we are patriots; we won't yield a particle of our principle, for profit; on the other hand we want a chance to put those principles into law. We are reformers. We cannot reform unless we succeed. If we fail now we must wait for two years longer. We may have to wait forever. Take the big salaries and the plunder, and give us the law-making power; take the county offices and give us our state ticket, Congress and the legislature."

There is no fusion in this. If two parties met and said:—"here is the county auditorship worth $2,000 you take that; and here is the county treasureship, worth $1,500 we will take that," and so on, that would be fusion because it would be a waiver of principles for a division of plunder. But for a party of reformers to say—"we yield up all clams on the fat salaries; and are contented to take the lean places which pay almost nothing; because we feel the abuses should be reformed in the halls of legislation;" that is dragging progress out of the teeth of opposition. What difference does it make to us if all the county offices in Minnesota were yielded up to the Democrats and Republicans, if we can achieve the reforms demanded by our platform? There are, of course, honest men who will think that we ought not to concede a pound-master's place to win a United Senatorship. And there are knaves who will be hired by our enemies to howl against anything that will make reform possible. And these rascals will, on the 7th of November next, clinh their ill gotten gains, and grin, while honest reformers will sit, covered with sack-cloth and ashes, and shame and humihation, because once more opportunity has yielded only disappointment, and wrong is more firmly entrenched than ever, and goodness is discouragek and disheartened and ready to lie down and die.

Brethren, boldly say to the seekers after the flesh-pots:—Give us the Populist State ticket, the Congressmen, the legislative ticket and take all the rest."

If this be trading it is a divine trading, which seeks to achieve the good of mankind by yielding a little to human selfishness. We turn our backs on sordidness and plunder. We go out into the wilderness of povefty with John the Baptists. The legislative places pay $5 per day,—for ninety days, the same as the door keepers and half as much as the chief clerks. Surely our efforts to win these cannot be charged up to greed.

Always keep your eyes fixed on November 7th,—the day after election. How will you feel then if you know that Washburn has won, and goes back to work for six years more in the interest of the Plutocrats, and to make your condition worse than it is? How will you feel if Minnesota sends seven members of Congress to Washington, to labor for two years more in the interests of the money-power and against our impoverished and well-nigh ruined people?

Oh, brethren, rise to the hight of this argument. You are Reformers. The people MUST HAVE REFORM OR PERISH. REFORM IS IMPOSSIBLE WITHOUT THE POSSESSION OF THE LAW-MAKING POWER, STATE AND NATIONAL. Bend all your energies to that great object. Yield everything—concede everything—to gain that end. You MUET gain it. This is the battle of the century:—yes of a thousand centuries. If liberty dies, in this generation, on this continent, mankind, hundred and hundreds, perhaps thousands of years from now, will curse you in your forgotten graves, for permitting the grandest heritage that ever fell to mortal man to perish off the face of the earth.

Don't yield a hair of the head of any man on our state ticket,—for that would be treason;—but let the fools take the spoil and trash and plunder of the county seats, if they will give you an opportunity to reform the state, the nation and the world.—I. D. In this week's Representative.

Wool Growers get Good Prices For Their Clips Under the New Tariff.

WHEELING, W. VA., Sept. 9.—(Special,)—The good effects of the new tariff bill on the wool market are coming more rapidly than even its most hearty supporters had dared to wish. The Wheeling Register, through its special correspondents in eastern Ohio, West Virginia, and western Pennsylvania, has made inquiry concerning prices and demands, and the result has been far more than satisfactory to the friends of the free wool measure.

The correspondent at Woodsfield, O., the center of a large wool-raising country, represented in Congress by A. J. Pearson, whose place was jeopardized by his vote for free wool, reports that Alexander Harmon sold 10,000 pounds of wool within a week at 26 cents, and was offered as much for the remainder of his clip. This he refused, believing he can do better before the first of the year. Clint & Pfalzgraff, also of Monroe county, have sold their wool within a week at 23 cents, it being a less desirable clip than that of Harmon. Miller & Co. of Beallsville, O., are offering 20 and 21 cents, but are getting no wool. The wool men are set against anything short of 23 cents. The report from Washington, Pa., is that washed wool is selling and has been for a week at 20 and 21 cents. Markel & Co. of Monongahela, are offering and have instructed their country agents to take up 350,000 pounds at from 20 to 25 cents, according to graide.

Several instances where wool has sold in the West Vergima panhandle at from 20 to 23 cents are reported. Most of the wool buyers are Republicans and the fairy stories they have told wool raisers within the past three months are remarkable. They have used every means to bulldoze buyers into selling at from 15 to 17 cents and have been able to get some wool at those figures. —Cleveland Plaindealer, Sept. 10, 1894.

WEATHER PROPHET SWANN, of Kansas, claims that he predicted the drought of this year ten years ago and foretold the wet year of 1889, and he now predicts that 1895 and 1896 will be good crop years. His theory is that the best wheat crops occur in even years. Swann has kept a record of the weather for nearly sixty years and believes in "cycles." It is really pleasant to see a man so perfectly satisfied with himself as a prophet.

NEW JERSEY has a state hangman named James Van Hise, and he officiated at the recent execution of Altenberger, who was hanged for murdering Katie Rupp a year and a half ago. The fee for hanging a man is $250, and Van Hise made application to the sheriff at Jersey City for his pay. He was disgusted at ascertaining that a garnishee suit on an old debt that he supposed had been forgotten had got in ahead of him. He declared that it was a new way of "cheating the hangman."

A STRONG effort is making in Baltimore to raise funds for the proposed monument to Francis Scott Key, who wrote "The Star Spangled Banner" during the bombardment of Fort McHenry by the British in 1814. The monument is to overlook Palapsco and Fort McHenry and the battlefield on Palapsco neck and will stand where the defenders of Baltimore threw up breastworks to defend the city against invasion. It is strange that such a monument has not been previously undertaken. Key gave his country its favorite national anthem in words which will never die.

THE danger from derelict vessels on the ocean is not duly understood by the average dweller on land. The latest Pilot Chart of the North Atlantic ocean issued by the United States hydrographic bureau states that during the last seven years no less than 1,626 of these have been reported, that the average number constantly afloat is estimated to be 232 per year, and that the average period a derelict is afloat after having been abandoned is about thirty days. But some of them persist much longer, one vessel being reported forty-four times since its abandonment three years ago.

IT DEALT DEATH.

Many Human Lives Are Taken by the Recent Cyclone.

Thickly Populated Portions of Iowa and Minnesota Severely Stricken—Upwards of Seventy Are Killed—Many Towns Entirely Wiped Out.

SCORES ARE SLAIN.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 25.—The cyclone of Friday night that swept through Minnesota and Iowa was one of the worst that ever visited this section. At least seventy persons were killed and many others were fatally injured. In addition several towns were wrecked, some of them being totally demolished.

Path of the Storm.

The storm was first observed a few miles south of Spencer in northwestern Iowa about 8 o'clock in the evening. Sweeping resistlessly across the state north of Emmetsburg and Algona it wiped out the town of Cylinder, touched Mason City, ruining buildings and crops northwest of Osage. Here the cyclone bore off to the northeast, crossing the Minnesota line, and soon after 10 o'clock wrecked the little town of Leroy, where a bad fire added to the destruction. Spring Valley was in the path of the cyclone and suffered severely. Turning again to the east the little towns of Homer and Lowther were badly damaged and at one time reported completely wiped off the face of the earth. After crossing the Mississippi and doing considerable damage to farm buildings near Marshland, Wis., the storm seemed to have spent its force. A smaller storm did some damage at Dodge Center, which was not on the path of the main cyclone. The path of the storm was not wide, but it had all the characteristics of the deadly tornado and the dimensions of a cyclone.

Upwards of Seventy Are Killed.

Just how many lives have been lost is still uncertain, but the reports received indicate that certainly not less than seventy are dead while some reports place the number from seventy to 100. The towns damaged or destroyed are Cylinder, Burt, Forest City and Manly Junction, in Iowa; Leroy, Spring Valley, Dodge Center, Homer and Lowther, Minn., and Marshland, Wis.

Eliminating apparent duplications of names of dead the following from points in Iowa is fairly accurate: Algona, 19; north of Garner, 13; north of Britt, 16; near Manly, 12.

In Minnesota the storm seemed to start at Leroy, after traveling in the air for several miles. Three persons were killed at this place. At Chatfield, Minn., a dance was in progress at the opera house when the storm descended upon the town. The building was blown down and many persons were hurt. Sixty houses in all were demolished and 100 persons were injured. At Spring Valley three were killed.

Aid Is Needed.

LEROY, Minn., Sept. 25.—The cyclone sufferers are in a very destitute condition. The loss will exceed $100,000. Thirty families are entirely destitute and many business men have lost their all. Money is needed. Three thousand sight-seers were here Sunday. The local relief committee is doing all in their power, which is limited.

There Were Three Cyclones.

SPRING VALLEY, Minn., Sept. 26.—That there were at least two and probably three twisters responsible for the work of destruction and death Friday night seems conclusive upon examination. While several points were struck at about 10 o'clock, Burr Oak, a village near Osage and to the southwest of Leroy, was visited at 11 o'clock, and it does not seem likely one cyclone would make such a complete circle and last from 9:45 to 11 o'clock in a radius of 8 miles. Furthermore, Leroy was struck at 9:45 o'clock and Cresco, Ia., on the southeast, at almost, if not precisely the same moment, so that it is quite clear that these were separate cyclones.

ALGONA, Ia., Sept. 26.—Additional victims of Friday's cyclone reported in this vicinity are:

Baker, child of Albert; Frank Becklemeyer; Clouseden's child; Mrs. Christian Dau and two children; Rockvell's child; M. Sweeper and two children.

GIVEN A NEW NAME.

Appomattox Post Office to Be Called Surrender in the Future.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The name of the post office at Appomattox, Va., where Lee surrendered to Grant, has been changed by the post office department to Surrender. Two years ago the courthouse building at Appomattox was burned and the county seat was removed to the town of Nebraska, 3 miles away on the line of the Norfolk & Western railroad. The new county seat was named Appomattox. Thus there were two Appomattoxes in the field. This occasioned annoyance to the post office department because complaints were constantly being received of the miscarriage and delay of mail matter.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 25.—The action of the post office department in changing the name of Appomattox Court House to "Surrender" has excited the indignation of Virginians. Gov. O'Ferrall and other public men are out in interviews strongly condemning the change, and the matter promises to attract much attention.

ELEVATORS CLOSED.

Failure of the Corn Crop Looked Upon as a Great Calamity.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Mr. Charles Counselman, of Chicago, who is here, said Monday:

"I have been all over the states of Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, and especially the Rock Island system, on which I have a large line of elevators. In all my history of twenty years connection with the grain trade I have not seen such a failure of the corn crop, and at points where they did expect to have a little corn they find now upon examination the cob has but little corn on it. Coupled with the fact they raised no hay it is in my mind a calamity. I have closed one-half of my system of elevators because there is no grain to handle. Traveling through Nebraska you can see the people moving out of the country."

Escaped from Jail.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24. — Seven prisoners escaped from their cells in the city jail at 10 a. m. Saturday. They ascended to the roof, and, jumping to adjoining roofs, ran in every direction. Some reached the street and were chasedfor several blocks by guards and policemen, who fired a number of shots at the fleeing prisoners. Four were speedily recaptured, but three others are still at liberty.

The Anna Weise murder case, on trial at Marshalltown, Ia., ended in the acquittal of Mrs. Bennett.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

Later Reports from the Two Great Recent Engagements.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 22.—Field Marshal Yamagata, commanding the Japanese forces in Corea, is marching with 45,000 troops against Moukden from the southeast. The object of attack is one of the strategic points and should it fall into Japanese hands the progress of the invaders of Chinese soil would be made much less difficult.

The Chinese will make a desperate effort to hold their ground and a fierce conflict is expected when the opposing forces meet. The advance of the Japs bears out the idea of their determination to force their way to the interior and take possession of Pekin.

The value of the stores and ammunition captured by the Japanese at Ping Yang is reported to be $8,000,000.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Dispatches received here from Shanghai say that the total number of the Chinese fleet engaged in the battle fought off the mouth of the Yalu river was twelve warships and four torpedo-boats. The Japanese fleet, it is added, was composed of seventeen ships, some of which were small war vessels. The Chinese claim to have sunk the Japanese warships Abushima and Yossina and a Japanese transport which had been converted into a cruiser and named the Saiko. A private report received here from Shanghai declares that these vessels were not sunk, as the Chinese claim, but that they retired from the action in a disabled condition. It is reported that the Chinese transport Toonan was sunk after she had landed her troops, but this is thought to be probably incorrect. The report that Admiral Ting and Col. Von Hannekin were severely wounded seems to be incorrect, for they have both returned to duty.

The officials of the Japanese legation here have received a private cable message from Yokohama saying that on September 16 twelve Chinese warships encountered nine Japanese ships, with the result that after severe fighting the Chinese lost four vessels and the Japanese none.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The Berlin correspondent of the Standard says that negotiations are in progress between Germany, England and Russia relative to the war between China and Japan, and that identical instructions will probably be sent to their respective ministers at Pekin.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—A dispatch to the Central News from Shanghai dated 6 p. m., September 21, says: "The commanding officers of four of the Chinese warships were killed in the engagement off the mouth of the Yalu river. Admiral Ting was wounded in the cheek and leg, but in neither case seriously. Five of the transport ships are still missing. Three Chinese transports are reported to have been captured. All of the Chinese warships that were not sunk are badly damaged. The Japanese ships are preparing for another attack."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Dispatches received at the Japanese legation here give further confirmation of the sea fight off Yalu and add the interesting information that the empress of Japan, as chief patroness of the Red Cross society in that country, is personally engaged daily with her court ladies in preparing bandages, lints, etc., for the wounded Chinese as well as Japanese engaged in the recent great battles of Ping Yang and Yalu. The activity of the empress in personally directing the humane work of the Red Cross while the emperor has gone to the front is a source of pride among the Japanese officials here.

MR. Kurino, the new Japanese minister, was in consultation with Secretary Gresham for some time in pursuance of the negotiation of a new treaty of trade and commerce, which will contain no assertion of the right of extra-territorial jurisdiction by the United States in Japan.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—A dispatch to the Times from St. Petersburg says: "It is reported here that Chinese marauders have attacked the station of the new Ussuri section of the Siberian railway, plundered the telegraph office and killed eight Russian employes. It is feared that the government will make this a pretext to interfere in the Corean struggle between China and Japan."

PORTLAND'S BIG LOSS.

Property Estimated at $765,000 Destroyed in the Oregon City.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 25.—The most disastrous fire in the history of this city broke out at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the dock of the Pacific Coast Elevator company and raged for three hours, destroying property valued at nearly $765,000.

The scene of the fire is across the river from the main part of the city and it was at least fifteen minutes before more than one engine could respond to the general alarm.

The elevator contained nearly half a million busheis of wheat. The new plant of the Portland General Electric company, which had just arrived from Lynn, Mass, was standing in the yards of the terminal company on the cars, not having been unloaded. The plant occupied an entire train, and the machinery was of the most expensive kind, the most of which was destroyed and the remainder badly damaged.

Two hundred freight cars, eighty of which were loaded, were destroyed. The Oregon Railway & Navigation dock held 1,500 tons of freight, consisting of wool, salmon, general merchandise and cement, all of which was destroyed with the dock. There were stored on the dock about 12,000 cases of salmon from the lower Columbia river and Puget sound awaiting shipment for the east. It was valued at about $40,000 and was partly insured.

Three men are supposed to have perished in the elevator. Charles Anderson, a man named Brown and one named Murray were seen at an upper-story window of the elevator and it is thought they were all burned.

A YOUTHFUL BANDIT.

Promising Product of the Yellow Paper Covered Literature.

MOUNT STERLING, Ill., Sept. 26.—This city was the scene of a real and thrilling western style bank hold-up at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning. Ralph Conklin, aged 18, was the bold desperado. He is a native of Brown county, his parents residing a mile and a half northeast of Mount Sterling. Conklin, who is given to poring over such literature as "The Life of Jesse James," "Deadwood Dick's Last Shot," etc., left home with an old-fashioned muzzle-loading double-barreled shotgun Monday morning and started for Mount Sterling. On his way he met Mac Dunbar riding a horse. The boy bandit leveled his gun at Dunbar and commanded him to dismount. Dunbar slid off his horse and Conkling mounted and rode into Mount Sterling.

Going to the rear of the Bloomfield Skiles bank Conklin dismounted, and leaving a boy to hold the horse he entered the bank by the rear door, wearing a mask. Approaching the cashier, J. D. Milstead, he ordered him to put up his hands.

Cashier Milstead took to his heels and left the bank by the rear door. Conklin lost no time and in a moment gathered up all the money in sight, $411. Edward Allison, who was in the bank at the time Conklin entered, ran out upon the street and gave the alarm. After pocketing the money Conklin went out of the bank through the rear door and was just mounting his horse when Al Snodgrass, a constable, arrived upon the scene. The constable ran up to Conklin and pulled him off his horse. Conklin jerked away from him, however, and ran down the street in the direction of the courthouse.

Reaching the courthouse Conklin tried to steal a horse and cart, but was knocked off the cart by a well-directed brickbat. A few blocks north of the courthouse the masked man was held up at the muzzle of a gun by Jule Cox and compelled to surrender. The mask was torn from his face and it was then found that the Jesse James was none other than Ralph Conklin, whose days and nights have been spent in reading dime novels and yellow covered tales of outlaws and bandits. The money taken was all recovered when Conklin was captured.

BUSINESS STILL IMPROVING.

But It Is Still Far Below a Full Volume for the Season.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Plenty of material for encouragement and also for discouragement can be found by those who seek that and nothing else. But business men who want to see the situation exactly as it is find accounts so far conflicting that it is difficult to strike a balance. In the aggregate business is about a tenth larger than last year, but still falls about 25 per cent. below a full volume for the season.

The iron business, after its great increase of output last month, shows a disappointing weakness at all eastern and central markets, with consumption not large enough to keep fairly employed the mills in operation.

In textile fabrics there has been a distinct decrease in trade, as initial stocks for the next season have been ordered and dealers are now waiting for the retail trade to give encouragement for further purchase. The strike at Fall River and New Bedford has not ceased, and about a dozen additional cotton mills have gone into operation elsewhere, several with reduced wages, but the orders for the present are narrow and much smaller than usual.

Breadstuffs are weaker, possibly because the government official report went so far in predicting short crops so as to cause a reaction in opinion. While lower estimates of corn are commonly accepted, the price fell 3¾ cents, and men are reasoning that if the official estimate of wheat has been found 100,000,000 bushels out of the way the corn estimate may err from 400,000,000 to 500,000,000 bushels.

Failures in two weeks of September show liabilities of only $2,867,764, of which $969,716 were of manufacturing and $1,796,048 of trading concerns. Failures during the week have been 212 in the United States, against 321 last year, and in Canada forty-eight against forty last year.

SPAIN READY TO ACT.

It Is Willing to Make a New Reciprocity Treaty with Uncle Sam.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Senor Muruaga, the Spanish minister, authorizes the following statement as to recent cable reports that Spain had instructed him to open negotiations for a new commercial arrangement or treaty:

"Since the reciprocity arrangements a brisk trade has been carried on between the United tates and Cuba and Porto Rico, composed principally of farm products, which runs up into the millions, say an average of $22,000,000 yearly for American ports. It is as much in the interest of the United States as of Spain that the exchange of mutual commodities should not collapse. The American sugar producers do not raise the tenth part of the home consumption, and struggle, besides, under disadvantages of climate, soil and price of labor. Americans, therefore, need our sugar, and their refining industries are largely benefited by it as well as the farming products, which find a ready market for their surplus in Cuba and Porto Rico. Everything points, therefore, to the necessity of a fair and equitable understanding, even if it should not assume the formalities of a treaty."

Used a Dirk.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 24.—In a sensational altercation with James Livingston, an Owens man, in the Phœnix hotel, Desha Breckinridge attempted to stab Livingston. Livingston, in a moment of desperation, reached for the glittering blade, which Breckinridge had aimed at his heart. The knife went between the second and third fingers of Livingston's right hand, cutting the third finger to the bone. Desha seemed to desire no more blood and gave Livingston two hard kicks.

The hotel clerk and several bystanders rushed in and seized Breckinridge, and at the same instant Matt Lane, a strong Breckinridge man, ran up and said he would take a hand in helping Desha. Two witnesses say that Lane also flourished a big knife, but Lane denies this. Livingston was hurried into the wash-room, where his wounds were bathed, and he was then taken to the office of a physician, where his hand was dressed.

Accident in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—Five laborers were buried under a mass of earth almost as compact as stone while at work Monday afternoon making an excavation for the foundation of a retaining wall just below the Germantown avenue crossing of the Richmond branch of the Reading railroad. Andrew Kovats was fatally injured and died a few minutes after his body was recovered. Four others were seriously injured.

To Wear Turkish Trousers.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 23.—About 100 of the suffrage women of Topeka will come out in reformed dress. They have entered into an agreement which Dr. Eva Harding and Dr. Agnes Haviland say is to be reduced to writing. The costume is to consist of Turkish trousers, covered by a skirt reaching to the fold, a close or loose waist, as the wearer may prefer, and cloth leggins to match the trousers.

THE CHILDREN'S VACATION.

It Should Be Made as Enjoyable as Possible.

There are many persons who never seem to think that pleasure should form any part of a child's vacation. Tasks without number are frequently fixed for the future vacation time. Things that can not be done during school seasons are put aside to be finished during vacation. Work that can not be undertaken at any other time is reserved for this, and when free from lessons there are many children who look forward only to a dull round of uninteresting labors, with no prospect of amusement to cheer them.

When the last day of school comes and others are talking about what "a good time" they are going to have, there are always a few heavy-hearted children to whom the word "vacation" means nothing but a new form of drudgery and the certainty that a great many disagreeable things that they have heretofore not been called upon to do will loom up in the immediate days to come.

It is a great mistake not to emphasize the vacation season so as to give the little ones something pleasant to remember. It is a great comfort if, in later years, when the cares and burdens of life weigh heavily, to be able to look back upon good times when lessons were put away and when promised pleasure-occasions that had been looked forward to for a long time were enjoyed with that keen delight that only the happy childish appetite is able to appreciate. Heaven pity those who have no such things to look back to! Life is robbed of one of its sweetest memories.

It ought to be the special aim and object of all parents to so manage their affairs that they can give their children amusements and recreations that will last them all through the wearisome journey of life. As people grow older they become retrospective, and when there are bright, sunny and entertaining things to remember, royal good times that they used to have, there is a well-spring of contentment ever ready to be drawn upon at command. And these good times ought to be associated with the parents themselves. It is a pitiable state of things when the pleasures of youth bring to mind faces other than those under the home-influences, when our good times recall outside friendships and the most delightful remembrances are of days and hours spent under strange roofs.

People have but little realization of what this means until they have suffered it. When parents learn to associate themselves closely with all the red-letter days and most charming memories of their children, they will have learned one of the most important lessons of life.—N. Y. Ledger.

THOU ART A LIGHT.

O Love, thou art to me a light
That shines upon my way,
And guides me through the lonesome night
Unto a sweeter day.

An angel pure, O Love, thou art;
For when I see thy face
I feel an influence on my heart
Of sweet and heavenly grace.

No stained thought the soul can soil,
When thou, my Love, art near—
No low desire, no word of guile,
Nor passion insincere.

O stay with me and be my love,
My light, my angel pure!
And I to thee will faithful prove While earthly days endure.

A TIMELY SHOT.

A Boy's Adventure in the Wilds of Africa.

The anxiety and distress of Ralph Campbell, a youthful master's mate from the survey gun ship Petrel, were beyond description when, on awakening one morning in his quarters—an African hut on a bank of the Senegal river, up which he had been sent a long distance on government business—he discovered that his little brother, Frank, was missing.

Frank was a bright, clever boy of twelve, who had accompanied his brother from the ship, which was anchored outside the bar. He was the captain's nephew, and was a general pet and favorite aboard the vessel, where he had been receiving instructions to fit him for naval duties.

Ralph, who now had all his cutter's crew looking for the lost lad, worried much over the perils to which the little fellow might be exposed from venomous serpents and wild beasts.

At length, while searching in the thick shrubbery on the river's bank, the youth reached a cove where, on the night before, he had left a small canoe which he had bought of one of the natives.

He had intended to use it for navigating some of the shallow creeks further up the river, as the cutter he had charge of was too deep and wide for that purpose. Startled to perceive that the canoe was missing, a suspicion of the truth broke all at once upon his mind.

He remembered having remarked to a sailor, in Frank's hearing, that the little craft must be brought up and made fast to the latter the first thing in the morning. The boy, eager to please his brother, had probably risen and gone, before any of the rest of the party were awake, to fetch the canoe, but if so, what had become of him? Ralph, shuddering, thought of the hideous crocodiles that infested this river, while he vainly scanned it for some sign of the lad.

Then, having resolved not to wait for the return of his men, but to take the cutter and go off alone in search of his lost brother, he hurried back to the bank in front of the hut, alongside of which the boat lay.

This boat was a light, swift one, which could be easily sculled by an oar. There was a small, loaded swivel ready for use, fixed in the bow, but its weight would not interfere with the speed of the craft.

The young officer was soon vigorously sculling the vessel on its way, going with the tide, as he thought that Frank would have been apt to take this course. Past lofty elevations covered with shrubbery and flowers glided the cutter, often shadowed by the far-extending branches of huge baobab trees that formed broad green arches above it.

It had rounded a peninsula full of bloom and foliage, when the watchful youth saw ahead of him an overturned, broken canoe. He soon reached it, and, by the peculiar carving on the bow, he recognized it as the missing canoe.

It had been partly crushed—most likely, he thought, by the teeth of a crocodile.

In dismay, he pulled Frank's little cap from a jagged projection of the broken wood on which it was caught. The dreadful truth forced itself on his mind.

The lad had been pursued by the monster that had destroyed the canoe.

Had he already met his fate? The young officer tried to shake off his despondency—to hope, in spite of appearances, that his brother might, in some way, have escaped and still be alive.

He looked toward the peninsula from which the canoe seemed to have drifted. This peninsula, consisting of two high, projecting banks composed of soft rock and earth, opposite each other, about fifteen feet apart, was roofed by the branches of slender trees that flourished in wild luxuriance on both banks.

The trunks of these trees slanted so that their boughs intermingled and were so thickly interwoven with vines that they formed a dense canopy of leaves and blossoms over the open space beneath, which thus resembled a sort of long water cavern.

Ralph directed the cutter to this cavern, and, looking through the green archway into the partial obscurity beyond, he beheld a sight well calculated to arouse apprehension.

In the back part of the cavern, lying in a shallow, among sandbanks that partially concealed it, was a large crocodile, with its head raised and thrown back and its horrible jaws wide open, while its eyes were strained, as if turned up toward some elevated point.

Gazing in the same direction, Ralph was startled to see, about ten feet above those hideous jaws, the form of his little brother, lying, with pale face and closed eyes, on the narrow shelf of a rock. The rock was under the branches of slender trees, which rose on each side of it from low banks on the right and left, about two yards from the elevation. One of the overhanging branches, broken off, explained the boy's situation.

He had evidently climbed the tree to escape the crocodile, had crept out on the slender branch, it had given way, and he had fallen on the rock, his head striking it with force enough to render him unconscious. There he now lay, so perilously near the edge of the rock-shelf that the slightest movement on his part would cause him to roll off and fall into the jaws of the monster below. As he was probably but temporarily stunned, he was liable to move at any moment. It was, therefore, of the utmost importance, in order to insure his safety, that he should be speedily conveyed from his dangerous position.

Ralph feared that a discharge of the swivel or of any firearm at the crocodile, would only be attended with fatal results to Frank. The sandbanks might hinder the shot from striking the fierce reptile, while the shock would be pretty sure to dislodge the senseless lad from the shelf, and thus bring him down into the power of his voracious enemy.

The youth lost no time in heading his boat toward the rock. But the cutter was some fathoms from it, when the keel caught in a submerged sandbank. Drawing his sword, Ralph sprang out, and quickly waded toward the rock. Slight ledges and protruding spurs on its front would enable him, he thought, to climb up to his brother; in fact, there was no other way of reaching him. The young officer held his sword ready for use, in case the crocodile, close to which he would be obliged to pass, should venture to attack him.

Ralph, however, kept his eyes fastened upon the crocodile.

The monster turned its head when he was near it and snapped at him.

He avoided it by stepping sideways; then he commenced to strike and thrust vigorously at its jaws with his sword. It retreated a few yards but broke his blade in two with its teeth as it twisted its body around. Thinking it would leave him, Ralph sprang to the rock. Just then little Frank, recovering his senses, gave a slight cry and fell from the ledge above. The young officer saw him in time to catch him in his arms. As he turned to convey him to the cutter, he perceived that the crocodile, now between him and the boat, with open jaws, was prepared to renew the attack.

He set his confused brother upon his feet in the shallow water, and drawing the single-barrelled navy pistol which he carried in his belt, he fired at the creature's big, yawning mouth. But, owing to the animal's sheering a little to seize the boy, now on one side of his protector, it received the shot on the edge of its jaw.

Twisting itself away from the twain, it commenced, as if in blended rage and pain, to thrash the shallows with its hard, bony tail.

As Ralph was conveying his brother past the reptile, toward the boat, his left ankle caught between two small under-water rocks, and was temporarily sprained.

"Never mind," said Frank, as the hurt youth dragged himself along with difficulty, "I am now able to walk. You need not carry me. I will help you."

He disengaged himself from Ralph's arms, seized his hand and tried to assist him. The crocodile had turned by this time toward the two, for another attack. But they were now within a yard of the cutter, and though suffering excruciating pain, the young officer caught up his brother's light form and tossed him into the boat. The crocodile was close to Ralph, but he contrived to escape it with a forward movement and to roll himself across the gunwale of the cutter. He went over on his back, with his head on the edge of the bow. While he was trying to turn and right himself, which his sprain would hinder his doing quickly, the hideous open jaws of the monster appeared over the bow. They were very near the head of the prostrate youth. He would not be able to move it in time to elude those horrible fangs. But at this critical moment his young brother, who had noticed that the crocodile's jaws were on a line with the swivel, sprang forward with ready decision and discharged the piece.

Never was a shot more effective. It plowed its way nearly through the full length of the huge reptile's body, killing the animal almost instantly. Ralph praised his brother for the quick judgment and swift action which had thus been the means of saving him from a terrible fate.

In fact, the presence of mind and promptitude shown by the little fellow on this occasion won the admiration and applause of all the seamen aboard the ship, when, in time, it was made known to them.

Not long after the gun had been fired, the rising of the tide floated the cutter clear of the sandbank, enabling Ralph, with Frank's assistance, to get back to the landing-place fronting the hut, where some of the sailors who had returned from their vain search for the lad joyfully hailed his appearance. Frank's explanations about the canoe, as well as of his situation on the rock, verified his brother's previous conjectures on the subject. The boy had gone to the canoe to convey it to the cutter, had been pursued by the crocodile, and by vigorous paddling had reached the water cavern. So close to him then was the reptile that, as he sprang out of the canoe to climb the tree, the jaws of the monster closed over the frail vessel, partly crushing it. Bottom up, and with Frank's cap, which had fallen from his head, caught on the broken wood, the little craft had drifted off with the current, to be afterward found by Ralph as described.—Rufus Hall, in N. Y. Ledger.

Original.

John Hookham Frere was a scholar and a man of much literary ability, but one of those whose work, for some reason, finds a very slight hearing. But even if his literary work should be quite forgotten, the stories of his absence of mind will live as long as incongruous error continues to amuse. One day he sat repeating some verses to Mr. John Murray, in Mr. Murray's office, and his host became so interested in the poem that he asked the poet to go home with him to dinner and continue the recitation. Mr. Frere startled to find it so late, excused himself. He had been married that morning, he said, and it was already past the hour when he had promised his wife to be ready for their journey into the country. Another such story rests on the authority of his wife herself. Mr. Frere had just been introduced to her at an evening party, and offered to take her downstairs to procure some refreshment. He became so interested in their conversation, however, that he drank the glass of negus he had poured for her, and was about to conduct her upstairs again when she laughingly remonstrated with him for having forgotten her needs. "This," she said, "convinced me that my new acquaintance was, at any rate, very different from most of the young men around us!"—Youth's Companion.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Resigned.

Gen. George L. Becker has tendered his resignation as a member of the railroad and warehouse commission. Gen. Becker is the democratic nominee for governor and wishes to put in the full time between now and election day working for the success of the ticket. He has been a member of the commission since it was organized. In the early days he was president of the St. Paul & Pacific, which later became a part of the Manitoba system as that road has since been absorbed, practically, by the Great Northern.

G. A. R.

D. R. McGinnis and C. W. Horr, of the Commercial club G. A. R. committee, have returned from Pittsburg and claim that St. Paul is sure of the national G. A. R. encampment for 1896. They report that the Louisville citizens who were working for that place as the location for next year have all pledged their hearty support to St. Paul for 1896. The members of the committee will work from now on to secure a large attendance from the Northwest at the Kentucky city, and in the meantime will not relax their efforts to secure the following encampment for St. Paul.

Pine Land Suits.

Another pine land suit has been brought by the state in the district court of Ramsey county. Powers & Dwyer, of Minneapolis, are the defendants this time and the suit is brought to recover $40,000. The allegations are that the above named firm cut pine timber on school section 16, town 56, range 23, which, being valued at $8 per thousand feet, would amount to the sum sued for, and converted the same to their own use.

News in Brief.

Two brothers, John and Capt. Stone, of Park Rapids, were shot by the accidental discharge of a Winchester. They were riding in a buggy when the gun fell into a wheel. The shots passed through the legs of both above the knee.

The famous case against James E. Connelly, formerly priest of Two Harbors, were ended by the dismissal of all four indictments on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Loans from the permynent school fund were made by the state auditor to the following amounts: Stearns county district 122, $600; Stevens, district 46, $450; Anoka, district 28, $639; Le Sueur, district 97, $400; McLeod, district 8, $600; Nogles, district 72, $300; Waseca, district 72, $5,000.

James Rowe, of Duluth, was sentenced to the Stillwater penitentiary for life for the crime of rape committed on the 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. T. E. Woods.

An engineer on the Great Northern train at Anoka was assaulted and cut about the face by two tramps who attempted to steal a ride. They were arrested.

George W. Sawyer, a Minneapolis saloonkeeper, was fined $10 for keeping a nickel-in-the-slot machine in his place of business.

Lightning struck the steeple of the Swedish Lutheran church at Mankato, damaging the building to the amount of $800.

A. G. Highton, of Buffalo, N. Y., was arrested in St. Paul, for passing bogus checks in Duluth. He claimed to be a millionaire and uttered checks with reckless freedom. He gave a $1,000 check in St. Paul for the fire sufferers and one for $20,000 in Minneapolis. When arrested he had not a cent on his person.

William Wassengell, colored, was arrested in St. Paul for slashing a conductor of an interurban car with a razor because he was given small change for a dollar.

The state oil inspector, H. W. Foote, filed a report with the secretary of state for the 18 months ending July 31. He reports 246,336 barrels of oil inspected during that period and 16,982 barrels shipped out of the state. Of the large number of barrels inspected 613 were rejected and 229,354 barrels remains in the state, for which fees were collected.

Gov. Nelson has offered a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Lena Olson.

Joseph Sawyer, a young man of Foreston, three miles west of Milaca, accidentally shot a boy named Charles English. A dozen or more shot lodged in his body, but no fatal effect is feared.

Another meeting of the prison managers was held for discussion of convict labor. No action was taken, but it is generally understood that the legislature will be asked to appropriate more money for the purchase of more binding twine machinery as means of employing convicts.

Julius Hartfield, a farmer near St. Cloud, met with a terrible accident. The team became frightened at a passing electric car, ran away and threw him out. Two plows in the wagon fell onto his leg and foot, crushing them horribly, the ankle bone being forced out of the socket and through the skin.

Five little folks from Southeast Minneapolis brought in $3.60 to Mayor Eustis for the fire sufferers, money which they had raised themselves by giving a "show," all the profits of which they turned over without reserve. The mayor thanked them heartily for their benevolent work and they left in high humor.

When Mrs. Johnson, of St. Paul, returned home from down town she found the doors of the house open and about $600 worth of diamonds and jewelry missing. Entrance was gained through a window on the ground floor. There is no clew to the perpetrators of the bold daylight robbery.

M. E. Page, until recently an editorial writer on the Brooklyn, N. Y., Eagle, attempted suicide in St. Paul by cutting his throat. He slashed his throat with a jack knife, but did not cut the jugular vein. He will probably recover.

Jacob Schlie, of Nicollet, fell from a load of hay and broke his neck.

John Goetz, a well-known teacher, of St. Cloud, was arrested charged with assaulting Mrs. Theo. Olson.

The state officers of the W. C. T. U. for the ensuing year are: President, Prof. Mrs. M. D. Fry, Dodge Center; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bessie Lathe Scoville, Duluth; recording secretary, Mrs. A. C. McCurdy, Minneapolis; treasurer, Mrs. C. S. Soule, St. Paul. The retiring president and corresponding secretary, Mrs. Hobart and Mrs. Wright have served the state for 13 years in their official capacity.

THE HIGHEST AWARD.

Royal Baking Powder in Strength and Value 20 Per Cent. Above Its Nearest Competitor.

The Royal Baking Powder has the enviable record of having received the highest award for articles of its class—greatest strength, purest ingredients most perfectly combined—wherever exhibited in competition with others. In the exhibitions of former years, at the Centennial, at Paris, Vienna and at the various State and Industrial fairs, where it has been exhibited, judges have invariably awarded the Royal Baking Powder the highest honors.

At the recent World's Fair the examinations for the baking powder awards were made by the experts of the chemical division of the Agricultural Department of Washington. The official report of the tests of the baking powders which were made by this department for the specific purpose of ascertaining which was the best, and which has been made public, shows the leavening strength of the Royal to be 160 cubic inches of carbonic gas per ounce of powder. Of the cream of tartar baking powders exhibited at the Fair, the next highest in strength thus tested contained but 133 cubic inches of leavening gas. The other powders gave an average of 111. The Royal, therefore, was found of 20 per cent. greater leavening strength than its nearest competitor, and 44 per cent. above the average of all the other tests. Its superiority in other respects, however, in the quality of food it makes as to fineness, delicacy and wholesomeness, could not be measured by figures.

It is these high qualities, known and appreciated by the women of the country for so many years, that have caused the sales of the Royal Baking Powder, as shown by statistics, to exceed the sales of all other baking powders combined.

INTEGRITY DISCOURAGED.

Cold Reception of a City Man Who Told the Truth About His Vacation.

Smith comes down town wearing an "I know how it will be" sort of expression, for he has passed through the same ordeal every year for the past decade. He has been away on his summer vacation. That is, he has spent a week on his father-in law's farm twenty miles from the city. He didn't gain or lose in flesh, he didn't have a good time. In fact, he just went away and came back the same as the cat did.

"Ah! there—hello!"

Smith has met a friend. He stops and shakes hands and prepares for the inevitable.

"Been away, eh?"

"Yes."

"Heard you'd gone. Have a good time?"

"Yes."

"Cool and nice?"

"Yes."

"No mosquitoes?"

"No."

"Feel a hundred per cent better?"

"Yes."

"Of course you do. You look ten years younger. Great thing to go away, eh?"

"Yes."

"Fresh eggs, rich milk, nice butter and all that?"

"Yes."

"What was your largest? Come now, give me straight figures. No use lying to an old liar, you know."

"You mean fish?"

"Of course."

'I—I didn't go fishing."

"You didn't! Do you mean to tell me you went off on a vacation and didn't go fishing?"

"No, I didn't go."

"There was a lake around there?"

"No, no lake."

"Then a river."

"No, no river."

"And no place to fish?"

"Not a place."

"Humph! What did you go out there for?"

"I dunno."

"What did you do when you got there?"

"Nawthin'."

The friend backs off, looks Smith up and down with disgust on every line of his countenance, and turns away with:

"Well, of all the blamed cranks I ever heard of! I have heard men say you were level-headed and had a heap of horse sense, but after this—"

Smith doesn't wait to hear the rest. He'll get the same from No. 2 and No. 3 and No. 4 before he can reach his office, and for the next two weeks almost every man who drops in will salute him with:

"Been away, somebody was saying. Don't suppose you had a pair of scales with you, but perhaps you'll measure off on the desk as near the exact length of your largest as consciousness will permit."—Detroit Free Press.

The Eskimo and the Walrus.

To the Eskimo the walrus is the same all-in-all that the buffalo was to the Indian, that the camel is to the Arab, and the reindeer to the Korak. Its flesh feeds him; its tough hide covers his boats, his shell-like kayak, and his big, clumsy bidarrah, and cut into strips it makes his harpoon lines and dog-harness; its oil furnishes him light and fire, its ivory tusks are legal tender for all sorts of civilized luxuries, such as iron and steel for spear-heads, knives, and even guns; certain tissues make good mackintoshes for Mr. and Mrs. Innuit, and the flipper-bottoms of the walrus make good sole-leather for the hunter also.—St. Nicholas.

MEN OF MONEY.

WILLIAM WALDORF ASTOR has an income of eight million nine hundred thousand dollars a year.

PRINCESS TOM is an Alaska Indian woman. She is the richest of her race in the far northwest. She is a shrewd trader and wears upon her arm thirty gold bracelets made of twenty-dollar gold pieces.

M. SCHNEIDER, the head of the great Creusot foundries, was married the other day in Paris. Creusot has grown in sixty years from a village of five hundred inhabitants to a town of thirty thousand people—larger than Krupp's town of Essen.

HENRY W. CRAMP, secretary of the great Cramp Ship-building company, is an enthusiastic botanist, and is particularly interested in ferns and palms. His father, Charles H. Cramp, is said to be one of the best-posted men in the country on the commercial and utilitarian value of the various woods of the United States.

CAKE needs to rise to its full height before browning, especially sponge cake. The lightness of this cake depends, first on thorough beating, second on baking just right.

HOME HINTS AND HELPS.

—To drive away ants place a handful of green walnuts in their haunts. Roaches do not like their odor either, and will leave; it is probably too clean a smell for them.

—Mush Cakes: One pint of corn meal mush, not very stiff; one tablespoonful of butter or cottolene, melted if mush is cold, and one beaten egg. Beat all together and bake on a hot griddle.—American Farmer.

—Tomato Beef: Take a thick cut from a round of beef weighing six or eight pounds; pour over it a cup of water, half a can of tomatoes, two small onions minced, and season with cloves, pepper and salt; cover closely and simmer gently four hours.—American Agriculturist.

—Fried Salt Pork: Cut in rather thin slices, and freshen in cold water or milk. Roll in flour and fry till crisp. Take up the meat and make a white gravy as follows: To two tablespoonfuls of the fat, stir in while hot one heaping spoonful of flour, then add a pint of rich sweet milk, a little pepper, salt if necessary. Let boil up stirring all the while. Do not pour over the meat, but serve in separate dish.—Orange Judd Farmer.

—Rice, barley, sago and a dozen other cereal adjuncts may be made useful, day by day, but with delicate vegetable soups, they should be added sparingly. A tolerable rice soup without meat may be had by boiling the rice very tender, and when done, in sufficient water, adding two yolks of eggs stirred smooth with a little cream. Season nicely, and serve at once. The rice may be sifted or not, as preferred.—Cultivator and Country Gentleman.

—Peach Mangoes (Pickle): Lay the peaches in salt and water two days, then take them out, wipe them dry and remove the stones. Fill the cavity with grated horseradish, white mustard-seed, celery-seed, cloves and sliced ginger root well mixed. Tie or sew up the peaches with thread, and strew over them cloves, broken pieces of cinnamon and turmeric, mixed with a little vinegar. Season cold vinegar sufficient to cover the fruit with made mustard, ginger and nutmeg; scald it on the fire and pour over the peaches while hot. Add sugar according to your taste.—Harper's Bazar.

—The Value of Salt: Common salt is one of the most valuable remedial agents the world contains. Used as a tooth-powder, alone or with a little prepared chalk, it whitens the teeth and makes the gums hard and rosy. It is a good gargle for a sore throat, and if taken in time, will benefit, if not cure, diphtheria. It will stop bleeding of the mouth, and in warm water is a good emetic and remedy against several poisons. There is nothing better for sore feet and hands than salt and water, and for ordinary sore eyes, though a painful application, will often effect a complete cure.—Liverpool Mercury.

—Waffles: Sift one pint of flour three times and add one teaspoonful of salt. Beat the yolks of two eggs until very light; add to them one cup of rich milk; add this to the flour, with one tablespoonful of butter melted, and beat until light and smooth. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff, dry froth, add to the butter and beat again. When ready to bake add one teaspoonful of baking powder, put the batter in a pitcher, have the waffle-iron very hot and thoroughly greased. Pour in the batter carefully, and, as soon as the edges are set, turn the iron and bake the second side. In making waffles as much depends upon the even and quick baking as upon the recipe used.—Ohio Farmer.

PLAYROOMS FOR CHILDREN.

They Form an Important Part in the Happiness of the Young People.

There is not one woman in twenty who knows what an importrnt part a play-room may be made to serve in the household economy and in the economy of her own nerve force.

We have a room set apart for the bath, for the preparation and consumption of food, one dedicated to ceremonious usage only, and one where sleep is invoked; then why, when the household is made up of special departments, is there so little provision for the amusement of those members of the family who engage the whole time and attention of tired mothers?

It requires a little thought and ingenuity to furbish up a play room it such an attractive way that the children will be content to pass most of the day there, but many dollars need not be spent, for costly things pall upon a child's taste far sooner than simpler and cheaper ones.

It is not enough, though, that this room should be sunny and bare and that the children have the privilege of bringing into it all sorts of odds and ends of their own finding. Kindergarten methods applied to home training insist that the mother shall place objects of pleasing form and color in the hourly sight of little ones. Pretty lithographs may well crowd each other on the walls.

Cut out the pictures of beasts, birds, men, women and children pasted on the door-panels make a museum that may be depended upon to stop baby's crying many and many a time. Japanese tile books are to be had for a trifle, the quaint, beautifully-bordered pictures making a highly interesting setting around the fireplace. Japanese dolls peeping around the corners of picture frames or from behind the clock are vastly amusing to the toddlers. An old hair-cloth sofa can be improvised into a capital stage-coached, or, indeed, into anything the moment demands of it. A screen covered with Christmas cards, if placed across one corner, makes a snug house; across another corner it conceals Robinson Crusoe's cave, or Ali Baba's cavern, and in the diversity of play-room inventions the value of the screen is beyond reckoning.

There should be an old table with a drawer in which are slates, pencils and a box of cheap paints. Soap bubble pipes are a necessity, and a game of battledore a boon. An inscription put on both sides of the door of the play-room should read: "Who slams me hurts everybody."—N. Y. Herald.

Over-Decoration in Houses.

Many of our modern houses whose owners pride themselves on their artistic and esthetic taste and who disdain coarseness of texture and crudity of coloring yet resemble the bric-a-brac shop too closely to be restful or pleasing to the eye. People seem possessessed of a mania to fill every inch of available space and to believe that otherwise the room will look bare. They are educated up to plain wall papers and plain art carpets, but not yet vacant spaces.—Fortnightly Review.

Common Sense

Is a somewhat rare possession. Show that you have a share of it by refraining from violent purgatives and drastic cathartics when you are constipated, and by relaxing your bowels gently, not violently, with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a wholesome, thorough aperient and tonic. This world famous medicine conquers dyspepsia, malaria, liver complaint, kidney and bladder trouble and nervousness, and is admirably adapted for the feeble and convalescent.

of the physical constitution often comes from unnatural, pernicious habits, contracted through ignorance or from excesses. Such habits result in loss of manly power, nervous exhaustion, nervous debility, impaired memory, low spirits, irritable temper, and a thousand and one derangements of mind and body. Epilepsy, paralysis, softening of the brain and even dread insanity sometimes result from such reckless self-abuse.

To reach, reclaim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness, is the aim of the publishers of a book written in plain but chaste language, on the nature, symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases. This book will be sent sealed, in plain envelope, on receipt of ten cents in stamps to pay postage.

DELANO DIARY

—M. A. O'Hair for County Attorney, and C. W. Kerrick for the Legislature, are the local candidates.

—The Episcopal Saturday tea will be held from 3 to 5 p. m., tomorrow, at the residence of Mrs. A. A. Davis.

—Geo. P. Schaffer has just received some fall hats and other new goods; to be sold under the new tariff prices.

—The Delano watertank, setting on tressel work fifty feet from the ground serves for a land mark for miles around.

—Fall plowing is now being successfully done; the late rains putting the ground in much better condition for working.

—From the amount of lumber arriving and being hauled into the country from this point we judge that at least the usual number of buildings are being constructed this season.

—Rev. J. W. Powell has recovered his Sunday-go-to-meeting coat that had been on a visit to Minneapolis ever since the last time the P. E. tarried over night with him.

—David Murdock the Populist candidate and the Democratic nominee sor Senator is to speak next Thursday evening at the Welker school house. and on Friday evening at the Ziebarth school house.

—Quite a joke is told on Rev. Purdy. He was to hold Episcopal services on Sunday afternoon, at the Presbyterian church; he came into the church and finding a small audience, robed himself to preach; when he was met by the leader of the Junior Endeavor society, who informed him that "This is our regular meeting hour, and we are having meeting." The Dominie's flock had been informed that he would be with them on Tuesday instead of on Sunday.

—The Official Board of the M. E. church of Delano for next year, elected by the last quarterly conference:

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

T. J. Catlin, Charles S. Hawker, Leon Frazee, William Stanley and F. Kelsey.

STEWARDS.

Mrs. M. A. Chance, Mrs. Frances Wilder, Mrs. Leon Frazee, Mrs. Mattie Belt, T. J. Catlin and Miss Irene Cheeley.

DISTRICT STEWARD.—T. J. Catlin.

RECORDING STEWARD.—Miss Irene Cheeley.

—From the attendance at caucuses in Delano one must conclude that politics are of little consequence to the average citizen. The Republican chairman would not even call a caucus. Another man, a candidate, called one and succeeded in getting three delegates to go to Buffalo. The Village Democratic caucus though regularly called had seven voters; most of whom had been mentioned about town as candidates for some office; they had four delegates to elect chose two from among those present one of whom said he thought he could not attend; two absentees were nominated, one of whom, at least, had expressed a doubt of his being able to attend. Then the candidate delegate moved that "Those delegates present at the convention be empowered to cast the full ballot of the delegation."

—The Delano "Blacks" played a fine game of base ball last Saturday with a club from Rockford, who had several Minneapolis players; The score was as follows:

|---|---|
| Rockford, - - - - - | 9 |
| Delano, - - - - - | 10 |

There is to be a game tomorow between the Delano "Blacks" and the Minneapolis "Blacks" with two of the Rockford players.

—The heating apparatus has been placed in the new school house and appears to warm the house nicely. A grand opening and dedicatory services should be held before school begins. It would show to the pupils that their parents and friends did think of them and serve as an inspiration to both teachers and scholars for some time.

Personals.

W. Sidney Belt, the Populist candidate for schools was a GAZETTE caller on Thursday.

W. F. Kohler, C. W. Kerrick represented Delano at the Democratic convention Tuesday.

M. A. O'Hair returned on Thursday morning from St. Paul where he was a delegate to the K. P. convention.

George Irving Rockfords enterprising Farm Machinery man and blacksmith was in town on business Monday.

Paul Datko and Urban Kornek have returned from their harvest trip to Larimore. George Kettoch is expected home soon.

Miss Cora McCarter has been spending a week with her sister Mrs. A. A. Davis. She goes to Dakota to begin school next Monday.

A. P. Ritchie, of Annandale. Democratic candidate for Superentendent of schools was a GAZETTE caller today. He is hustling around so soon.

Conventionalites.

When that feller got up in the convention and said "I nominate David Murdock for Senator." the audience straightened up as if an icicle had been run down its back.

When it became known that fusion was the order of the day

"Not a drum was heard not a funeral note,"
"Twas concluded to wait till time to vote.

The machine ran tolerably smooth till it came to the legislative ticket, when the old thing squeaked terribly. Fusel oil ain't in it for greasing Democratic machinery.

We haven,t heard who steered the trade.
But predict his mark is made.

In selecting names from the Populist ticket those of Sheriff Kelly and Judge Cutting seem to have been disremembered. Legislator Sexton, too, was left to "make the shingles rattle on the school houses" all "alone in his glory" so far as the Democrats are concerned.

County Cullings.

People who use their power to trade off their party votes deserve a line in history on the Benedict Arnold page.

Al Sexton has one strong point in his favor in the race for the legislature. He is riding one horse and riding him well.

We are of opinion that those candidates charging around the country on two horses will be pretty sore after election.

Among those receiving an increase of pension we note the names of Simon H. Marvin, Clearwater; and Charles R. Carlton, Delano.

The issue now in the 38th. Legislative district has been drawn down to question of who shall be the electors in the next U. S. Senotorial electorial committee? Shall they vote for W. D. Washburn or Ignatius Donnelly?

Read in another column "A Thunder Crv." by Ignatius Donnelly, and then remember you are the other fellow: the Democrat; the principles peddled out for a mess of pottage; and that only a bird in the bush. Wasn't it a cowardly act to be bluffed into by such talk as that? The whole thing calculated to place I. Donnelly on a pedestal of power as Dictator General of the whole world?

Democratic County Resolutions.

BE IT RESOLVED, that we the Democrats of Wright County assembled, reaffirm the principles enunciated by the National Democratic convention of 1892.

That we heartily approve of the courageous course pursued by President Cleveland and the House of Representatives in endeavoring to secure such tariff reform legislation as would relieve the toiling masses from the burdens heaped upon them by the so-called protective tariff.

And that we pledge to these principles of reform our earnest and untiring support.

What is a Populist?

"The democratic party is more pure since a lot of the disaffected have gone over to the populists" said Wm. Quinn in his little speech at the late democratic convention. After reading your communication from Woodland we began to think there was truth in Mr. Quinns remark. Our Woodland man evidently does not know what populist means. He thinks he is a populist. We know by his communication that he is a populist now just as he was a democrat formerly. The cause for the existance of the populist party is this: A number of the people of the U. S became dissatisfied with the way public affairs were being administered and as no reform would come from the old parties they agreed on some principles of reform and banded themselves into a political party. The idea of the men who are honest and earnest is to reform politics generally rather than to build up a party. Their plan is to put hanest able men in office.

When a party is new and weak it is pure. As it gains strength it begins to loose sight of principle and needs more than ever the vigilence and force of honest reformers. The enemy in the ranks is the most dangerous.

The old politician comes over to the new party as soon as it is strong bringing all the corrupt usages of the old parties which he grafts on the new party. He can do the cause of the people more, vastly more harm there, than he could where he was. Woodland populist thinks that populists should vote for D. W. Flannigan because the democrats and republicans elected him before. Why not put up Grover Cleveland and vote for him for the same reason. This man's idea of reform is so vague that he thinks a new name is all that is necessary to fix things. He thinks it is none of our business here in this district who they elect over there. If looking after the way in which theis money is being spent and their county affairs are being managed is not the business of the people of the county what are county politics for? The office of commissioner is the most important in the county and should be filled, by able honest men. We believe that commissioners should be elected at large as each has a vote affecting the C. at large. These affairs are everybody's business Mr. W. P. and if people would make such things their business more than they do we would have better government. Verely we have not yet mastered the rudiments of self government.

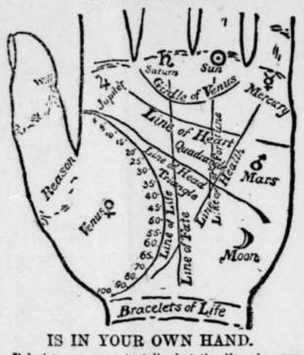
YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE, fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked; keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $300; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

THE SONG OF THE "No. 9."

My dress is of fine polished oak,
As rich as the finest fur cloak,
And for handsome design
You just should see mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I'm beloved by the poor and the rich,
For both I impartially stitch;
In the cabin I shine,
In the mansion I'm fine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I never get surly nor tired,
With zeal I always am fired;
To hard work I incline,
For rest I ne'er pine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I am easily purchased by all,
With instalments that monthly do fall;
And when I am thine,
Then life is benign—
No. 9, No. 9.

To the Paris Exposition I went,
Upon getting the Grand Prize intent:
I left all behind,
The Grand Prize was mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

At the Universal Exposition of 1889, at Paris, France, the best sewing machines of the world, including those of America, were in competition. They were passed upon by a jury composed of the best foreign mechanical experts, two of whom were the leading sewing machine manufacturers of France. This jury, after exhaustive examination and tests, adjudged that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best of all, and awarded that company the highest prize offered—the GRAND PRIZE—giving other companies only gold, silver and bronze medals.

The French government, as a further recognition of superiority, decorated Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler, president of the company, with the Cross of the Legion of Honor—the most prized honor of France.

The No. 9, for family use, and the No. 12, for manufacturing uses, are the best in the world to-day.

And now, when you want a sewing machine, if you do not get the best it will be your own fault. Ask your sewing machine dealer for the No. 9 Wheeler & Wilson machine. If he doesn't keep them, write to us for descriptive catalogue and terms. Agents wanted in all unoccupied territory. WHEELER & WILSON MFG. CO. Chicago, Ill.

IN selecting T. J. McDermott for Chairman the State Democratic Central Committee made a good choice. He is young, energetic, and endued with true Democtacy to the core; honest, reliable and a man to be trusted to conduct a fair and clean campaign.

GENERAL BECKER left St. Paul on Monday morning for Winona to open up a warm week's campaign work in the First Congressional District. He goes cheertully to work with full confidence that every true Democrat will support him at the polls in November; thereby giving him a good plurality of the vote cast; and makind him Governor of Minnesota.

IT seems to be conceded on all sides that Major Baldwin will succeed himself in the next Congress. It looks also, as if O. M. Hall, will be there too. And possibly Minnesota may send another or two democrats to represent her in the halls of Congress. Her people have had all the protective tariff they care to have and as good a way as any to rid the countr of it is to send enough democrats to Congress to vote it out.

THIS is our seventh birthday. To-day begins Vol VII of the BUFFALO GAZETTE. Six years ago Dr. Geo. C. Barton and brother at Buffalo, our county seat, began the publication of this paper; after several changes and the first year of existence, usually considered the worst, of the average paper we became sole owner and proprietor, and moved it to Delano, where it has been ever since and is now located still battling for democracy in its Jeffersonian simplicity and honesty. For equal rights for all and special privileges to none.

THERE appears to be great unanimety among newspapers on the inefficency of the present caucus system to furnish the people with the kind of men they want in office. Since the Kentucky system of holding primaries has enabled the "silver tongued orator" to be relegated to the past it seems to be in favor as a substitute for our present system, with most everybody. Some change should be made so that men of one party want come up for office on the other party's ticket, before it is decided to elect United States Senators by direct vote of the people, as it seems likely will be the case in the near future.

Hospital for Insane.

On the invitation of Dr. W. A. Jones, of Minneapolis, we accompanied him through the Hospital for Insane, at St. Peter, the fore part of the week; on his monthly tour of inspection. Dr. Tomlinson, the efficient Superintendent took great pride in exhibiting to us the new operating room, and new bathing rooms, which are models of neatness and convenience; and add very much to the appearance as well as to the sanatory advantages of the institution.

A great deal has been done toward bringing the hospital up to the most modern in the way of improving the interior of the building and making it less like a prison, and more home like. Plumbing that has been in use for two or three decades and has become corroded and spoiled is, graduly, being replaced by improved systems and greater conveniences.

The white beadsteads give a far more cleanly and cheerful appearance to the sleeping apartments than did the old unpainted iron ones. And but for the crowded condition of things the sleeping facilities would be excellent.

Unsightly, clumsy, iron or wooden benches are being supplanted by furniture of more adaptable pattterns and makes while the out of date seats are used to good advantage in the beautiful grounds surrounding the buildings.

The laundry business of the institution is quite extensive. From 2800 to 3000 sheets alone passing through the renovating process every week. Each patient's clothing is kept separate in one of the series of shelves or boxes provided like a well regulated set of post office boxes for the purpose.

One noticeable feature of the hospital was the absence of restraining apparatus. The methods now of quieting patients seems to be to get along without depriving them of the full use of their bodies anymore than is actually necessary to prevent injury to themselves or others.

More room is needed. Every place about the buildings gave evidence of the crowded condition of affairs. Too many people for rhe best results of treatment are obliged to occupy a ward by day; and are crowded into sleeping apartments, some of them with low ceilings next to the roof, at night. Buildings planned and built for the accommodation of 650 patients are made to furnish homes for 956 unfortunate people. Is it any wonder the board entrusted with the care of the insane are continually calling for the erection of more buildings?

Some provision should be made for caring for old people who have become helpless; for those who from disease are in need of some one to care for them and others not actually insane, but who have become a burden to their families. Such people should not be sent to an insane hospital to mingle with crazy people the balance of their lives; neither should they be crowded into institutions already overcrowded. A home for such cases entirely separate from the insane hospitals would be the proper thing if the state is to care for them.

Something must be done to infuse a little patriotism into the people. They must be brought to a realizing sense of their duty as American citizens to take part in Governmental affairs. It is not only a privilege but the duty of every citizen of the United States to take part, whenever opportunity presents, to do what he can to direct the fountains of our system of government in pure streams to its mouth, and on into the sea where so proudly rides our ship of state. It is every man's duty to do what he can to perpetuate this "Government of the people, for the people and by the people."

Bud Reeve no Fusionist.

From the St. Paul Morning Call we clip a few points with the right ring to them; from an address of Budd Reeve, of Buxton, N. D., who is a candidate for congress, on the Democratic ticket; and proposes to fight it out on that line; even though an effort was made after his nomination to have him retire in favor of the populist candidate:

"After this date I shall try to go wherever the people call me and find means for me to get there. Nothing gorgeous is asked or expected; we can get along without brass bands or torch light procesrions. Recognizing the hard times and the importance of economy, I shall not turn my back on free lunch counters to help the people out in this campaign, or ask for anything beyond the means of my constituents. I do not smoke, and hope no one will ask me to drink; plain food and cold water will answer every need. I have trained a horse to stand on a picket rope, so I can stay wherever night overtakes me, or with a tar paper shanty farmer who is too poor to have a barn to keep the horse of a friend and his candidate. I will furnish the horse, the rope and the saddle; everything else must come from the people. No one will be individually boned for subscriptions; all contributions must come freely and voluntarily. Aid is not asked outside of the state, but under the ciscumstances nothing will be refnsed in the way of aid. We have not been wiped out by a forest fire or a cyclone, but a greater calamity has overtaken us politically. We have been sold out by dishonest leaders. The principles of the democratic party have been sacrificed for personal gain to a few, and as democrats we are in a helpless, suffering condition; the stupidity, greed and selfishness of ignorant, dishonest men who have been trusred as leaders has ruined us. The good name and principles of the party must be redeemed and maintained at all hazards and any cost. That is what this campaign means.

The issue will not be silver or tariff, but common honesty and political decency; without which free government and the ballot box is a farce.

What is a platform and a party name without party honor? For want of this, it might be said that every citizen in North Dakota feels more or less humiliated.

What the democratic party needs most now is philanthropists and patriots to dig it out of a hole. * *

Indorsing populists does not make democrats. It makes political half breeds, without force of character or principle beyond office seeking. A cross between a democrat and a populist begets a political mulatto, which is neither a first-class white man or a good negro. Any man or party is unworthy to be trusted with the care of this government, or any other, who barter away principle and honor for personal or political gain. The man who does this robs his party of virtue and his state of credit: there could be no greater crime. It is time a stop was put to buying and selling principles to the highest bidder in an open market. This is to protest against it. The people and I will be around with our platform and more communications soon. BUD D. REEVE.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 28, 1894.

Chairman Faulkner, of the Democratic Congressional Campaign committee, consented this week for the first time to give out his estimate of the result of the Congressional elections. He figures, after making a most liberal allowance for doubtful districts—too liberal many democrats think—, that there will be in the next House 190 democrats, 156 republicans and 10 populists. As instances of his liberality in making allowance for doubtful districts it may be mentioned that he only claims the election of nine democratic Representatives in Illinois, while the estimate of the republican campaign committee concedes the election of 11 democrats in that State; he only clams 5 in Lousiana, while the republicans concede 6, in South Carolina he claims 4 and the republicans concede 6. That will give a fair idea of the care exercised by Senator Faulkner in making up his figures. He prefers underestimating the democratic strength to overestimating it, and has no desire to encroach upon the bluster and bragging which has been such a marked feature of the campaign on the republican side.

Senator Hill is just the sort of man who makes strong friends and bitter enemies in his own party, but the bitterest of his enemies will concede that he has a wonderful hold on the democratic voters of New York, which he has demonstrated time and time again. Circumstances having made it necessary that the democratic candidate for governor of New York should be a man who could bring out the full democratic vote of the State, which is always a majority, it logically followed that Senator Hill was that man. For that reason democrats in Washington, whether they be his friends or his enemies, were pleased with Senator Hill's nomination and are confident that he will be elected. He has never been defeated by the voters of New York and he will not be this year. There is much disappointment over Senator Hill's nomination, but it is confined to the republicans who were not counting upon such a formidable antagonist. A member of the Cabinet was asked by a personal friend how he supposed President Cleveland would regard the nomination of Senator Hill, and he quickly replied: "Why, just as all other good democrats do; as the best that could possibly have been made under existing circumstances. The President wishes New York to be carried by the democrats, and I know he believes that with Senator Hill at the head of the ticket it will be." "But what about 1896?" querried this inquisitive friend. "Let us win the campaign of '94," replied the member of the Cabinet; "then we can begin to discuss the probabilities and possibilities of '96."

Public Printer Benedict has made a decided reform in the Government Printing Office by abolishing piece work and putting all the printers on time. Nothing around that establishment has caused more bickering and jealousy than the piece-work system, which a portion of the men worked under. It made a man's pay dependant more upon luck in striking "phat," or the favor of his foreman than upon his merits or his skill as a printer. By putting them all upon time work the pay is equalized and it is believed that the work will be better done. It is certain that the Public Printer will be enabled to devote much time to more important duties that he has hefetofore been compelled to waste in listening to the friends of those working on time who wished to get transferred to the piece department, because they could make more money. The new tariff abrogated all the reciprocity treaties made under the McKinley law, and the formal notice served upon the State department by Brazil of its intention to abrogate the reciprocity treaty between that government and the U. S. on January 1, 1895, was merely a compliance with the expressed terms of the treaty, which were that either country should give the other three months notice. So far as the U. S. was concerned, the treaty was abrogated the day the new tariff became a law. Mr. Mendonca, the Brazilian Minister, when asked what effect he thought the abrogation of the treaty would have upon the trade relations of the two countries, said: "The rates will not be materially raised by Brazil against this country, and I am expecting this country to make large increase in sending manufactured woolens to Brazil as a result of the new woolen manufacturing induced by free raw wool in the new tariff law. Outside of these items few changes will occur by the termination of the reciprocity."

From the Evergreen State.

WINLOCK, Wash., Sept., 21. 1894.

EDITOR BUFFALO GAZETTE:—

Well dear Doctor I have watched proceedings in Delano through the Gazette for the last four years also noting the changes through removal or death of many people of the county. It seems death, although in many cases very unwelcome, will come, the long bony fingers of the enemy of the human race is felt among the best of families, but by the goodness of God we are here yet, but how interesting to note and follow the varied changes of life. My son Alfred who all Delano people will remember, passed the required examination at the last session of the Puget Sound Conference and Bishop Joyce appointed him to Kalama Kalama is the capital of the county and situated on the bank of the Columbia river, and about 45 miles north of Portland Oregon. The young man is on the field appointed him and seems to move things in a Methodistic way I thank God for Methodism. I believe in church loyalty. If I am anything, I am that or nothing: so people know where to find me. Men who move things almost always take hold and lift. Well I don't know how it has come about but it is here, the Crown Jewel Home, for destitute and homeless children. After our revival last winter in which 167 were converted, we started to erect the Home. It is a frame four storries high 50 by 50, and can accommodate 140 children. The Home I located at Winlock Wash. and is estimated to be worth five thousand dollars. It has now 3 fatherless and motherless children and when I look into their faces I thank God that I can sacrafice something for someone else (Suffer them) is the Devine command, and I believe in it, Mr. Editor. I don't think there is a work this side Eterniy so Christ like as careing for homeless children. Jesus himself had no place to lay his head. He might have perished in Egypt, he might have perished on the way, but he could not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven. I am proud of my appointment, for my heart is in the work I may come through Minnesota sometime and if I do I will take and care for any destitute boy or girl in the State who may be brought before my notice. Give my love to all my friends.

Most truly,
W. H. WILSON.

INDEPENDENCE INCIDENTS.

EDITOR BUFFALO GAZETTE—Hon. Knute Nelson's famous speech of Argyle Marshall county Minn has come to me in phamphlet form (many thanks to the donor for the copy) It may be savory meat for a republican student but hardly think it would be palatable to the farmers of Marshall county. Would infer from the tone of his speech that the farmers of Minnesota or any other state have no grievance that high protection is a cure for all ills both State and National and that referendum and the unconditional free coinage of silver would be no help to the farmer or common people. In 1862 when the bankers of New York and Philadelphia got the Republican Congress to pass that exception clause, making green backs a legal tender for all debts public and private except dutses on imports and interest on the Public debt there is where the Shylock's got the first grip upon the finance of this country, the soldier was paid in green backs, but had to pay a gold price for everything he bought. The next was trusts and combinations formed to fluctuate prices, next was the demonatization of silver which was a help to the few but destructive to the masses, next came high protection which says though must fall down and worship me and it was done perhaps it might be well to consult the census statistics for 1890 and see how it compares with Gov. Nelsons speech in regard to the farmers of this country.

The farm families number 4,676,179 of which 66 per cent own their own farms and the others hire, of the owning families over 28 per cent have encumberances on their farms. In 1880-25-56 per cent of the farmes were hired, in 1880 a little over 74 per cent of the farmers owned their farmes and in 1890 66 per cent owned their farmes a decrease of a little over 8 percent in 10 years as ownership of farmers, this is from census report of 1890 and is supposed to be corrected. This does not hardly agree with Governor Nelson's speech in regard to the prosperous condition of the farmer, but Nelson can well say like Paul, after the straightest sect of our religion I have lived a Pharisee (republican) If being a republican makes the country and individuals prosperous and happy then we should all be republicans but republicanism does not seem to work favor to all classes as some try to make it out; if it did why does the farmer have so little money and the banker and manufacturer so much. The Lord told Jonah, to arise go to Ninevah that great city and cry against it for their wickedness is come up before me" but Jonah went down to Joppa and took ship from there to go on a fishing excursion and it seems the poor of this country will not learn anything until the big fish has swallowed them all up and spewed them out on dry land, some say we should vote as we pray, but the chief politician say pray as you vote but there is one consolation while the millionairs of this country are living in wealth and luxury, the poor rejoice in a clear conscience and an empty pocket. God made this country for the poor as well as the rich but nevertheless it seems that ever since the days of Moses in the wilderness we are given to idolatry we are inclined to worship the golden calf. Mr. Editor, there is much more that might be said on this line but time and opportunity will not admit. If people would shun partisan politics as they would the smallpox we might have a better condition of things politically but human nature is the same the world over everybody is looking for self agrandizement and the devil is getting more of it than the whole of us.

IN selecting T. J. McDermott for Chairman the State Democratic Central Committee made a good choice. He is young, energetic, and endued with true Democtacy to the core; honest, reliable and a man to be trusted to conduct a fair and clean campaign.

GENERAL BECKER left St. Paul on Monday morning for Winona to open up a warm week's campaign work in the First Congressional District. He goes cheertully to work with full confidence that every true Democrat will support him at the polls in November; thereby giving him a good plurality of the vote cast; and makind him Governor of Minnesota.

IT seems to be conceded on all sides that Major Baldwin will succeed himself in the next Congress. It looks also, as if O. M. Hall, will be there too. And possibly Minnesota may send another or two democrats to represent her in the halls of Congress. Her people have had all the protective tariff they care to have and as good a way as any to rid the countr of it is to send enough democrats to Congress to vote it out.

THIS is our seventh birthday. To-day begins Vol VII of the BUFFALO GAZETTE. Six years ago Dr. Geo. C. Barton and brother at Buffalo, our county seat, began the publication of this paper; after several changes and the first year of existence, usually considered the worst, of the average paper we became sole owner and proprietor, and moved it to Delano, where it has been ever since and is now located still battling for democracy in its Jeffersonian simplicity and honesty. For equal rights for all and special privileges to none.

THERE appears to be great unanimety among newspapers on the inefficency of the present caucus system to furnish the people with the kind of men they want in office. Since the Kentucky system of holding primaries has enabled the "silver tongued orator" to be relegated to the past it seems to be in favor as a substitute for our present system, with most everybody. Some change should be made so that men of one party want come up for office on the other party's ticket, before it is decided to elect United States Senators by direct vote of the people, as it seems likely will be the case in the near future.

Hospital for Insane.

On the invitation of Dr. W. A. Jones, of Minneapolis, we accompanied him through the Hospital for Insane, at St. Peter, the fore part of the week; on his monthly tour of inspection. Dr. Tomlinson, the efficient Superintendent took great pride in exhibiting to us the new operating room, and new bathing rooms, which are models of neatness and convenience; and add very much to the appearance as well as to the sanatory advantages of the institution.

A great deal has been done toward bringing the hospital up to the most modern in the way of improving the interior of the building and making it less like a prison, and more home like. Plumbing that has been in use for two or three decades and has become corroded and spoiled is, graduly, being replaced by improved systems and greater conveniences.

The white beadsteads give a far more cleanly and cheerful appearance to the sleeping apartments than did the old unpainted iron ones. And but for the crowded condition of things the sleeping facilities would be excellent.

Unsightly, clumsy, iron or wooden benches are being supplanted by furniture of more adaptable pattterns and makes while the out of date seats are used to good advantage in the beautiful grounds surrounding the buildings.

The laundry business of the institution is quite extensive. From 2800 to 3000 sheets alone passing through the renovating process every week. Each patient's clothing is kept separate in one of the series of shelves or boxes provided like a well regulated set of post office boxes for the purpose.

One noticeable feature of the hospital was the absence of restraining apparatus. The methods now of quieting patients seems to be to get along without depriving them of the full use of their bodies anymore than is actually necessary to prevent injury to themselves or others.

More room is needed. Every place about the buildings gave evidence of the crowded condition of affairs. Too many people for rhe best results of treatment are obliged to occupy a ward by day; and are crowded into sleeping apartments, some of them with low ceilings next to the roof, at night. Buildings planned and built for the accommodation of 650 patients are made to furnish homes for 956 unfortunate people. Is it any wonder the board entrusted with the care of the insane are continually calling for the erection of more buildings?

Some provision should be made for caring for old people who have become helpless; for those who from disease are in need of some one to care for them and others not actually insane, but who have become a burden to their families. Such people should not be sent to an insane hospital to mingle with crazy people the balance of their lives; neither should they be crowded into institutions already overcrowded. A home for such cases entirely separate from the insane hospitals would be the proper thing if the state is to care for them.

Something must be done to infuse a little patriotism into the people. They must be brought to a realizing sense of their duty as American citizens to take part in Governmental affairs. It is not only a privilege but the duty of every citizen of the United States to take part, whenever opportunity presents, to do what he can to direct the fountains of our system of government in pure streams to its mouth, and on into the sea where so proudly rides our ship of state. It is every man's duty to do what he can to perpetuate this "Government of the people, for the people and by the people."

Bud Reeve no Fusionist.

From the St. Paul Morning Call we clip a few points with the right ring to them: from an address of Budd Reeve, of Buxton, N. D., who is a candidate for congress, on the Democratic ticket; and proposes to fight it out on that line; even though an effort was made after his nomination to have him retire in favor of the populist candidate:

"After this date I shall try to go wherever the people call me and find means for me to get there. Nothing gorgeous is asked or expected; we can get along without brass bands or torch light procesrions. Recognizing the hard times and the importance of economy, I shall not turn my back on free lunch counters to help the people out in this campaign, or ask for anything beyond the means of my constituents. I do not smoke, and hope no one will ask me to drink; plain food and cold water will answer every need. I have trained a horse to stand on a picket rope, so I can stay wherever night overtakes me, or with a tar paper shanty farmer who is too poor to have a barn to keep the horse of a friend and his candidate. I will furnish the horse, the rope and the saddle; everything else must come from the people. No one will be individually boned for subscriptions; all contributions must come freely and voluntarily. Aid is not asked outside of the state, but under the ciscumstances nothing will be refnsed in the way of aid. We have not been wiped out by a forest fire or a cyclone, but a greater calamity has overtaken us politically. We have been sold out by dishonest leaders. The principles of the democratic party have been sacrificed for personal gain to a few, and as democrats we are in a helpless, suffering condition; the stupidity, greed and selfishness of ignorant, dishonest men who have been trusred as leaders has ruined us. The good name and principles of the party must be redeemed and maintained at all hazards and any cost. That is what this campaign means.

The issue will not be silver or tariff, but common honesty and political decency; without which free government and the ballot box is a farce.

What is a platform and a party name without party honor? For want of this, it might be said that every citizen in North Dakota feels more or less humiliated.

What the democratic party needs most now is philanthropists and patriots to dig it out of a hole. * *

Indorsing populists does not make democrats. It makes political half breeds, without force of character or principle beyond office seeking. A cross between a democrat and a populist begets a political mulatto, which is neither a first-class white man or a good negro. Any man or party is unworthy to be trusted with the care of this government, or any other, who barter away principle and honor for personal or political gain. The man who does this robs his party of virtue and his state of credit: there could be no greater crime. It is time a stop was put to buying and selling principles to the highest bidder in an open market. This is to protest against it. The people and I will be around with our platform and more communications soon. BUD D. REEVE.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 28, 1894.

Chairman Faulkner, of the Democratic Congressional Campaign committee, consented this week for the first time to give out his estimate of the result of the Congressional elections. He figures, after making a most liberal allowance for doubtful districts—too liberal many democrats think—, that there will be in the next House 190 democrats, 156 republicans and 10 populists. As instances of his liberality in making allowance for doubtful districts it may be mentioned that he only claims the election of nine democratic Representatives in Illinois, while the estimate of the republican campaign committee concedes the election of 11 democrats in that State; he only clams 5 in Lousiana, while the republicans concede 6, in South Carolina he claims 4 and the republicans concede 6. That will give a fair idea of the care exercised by Senator Faulkner in making up his figures. He prefers underestimating the democratic strength to overestimating it, and has no desire to encroach upon the bluster and bragging which has been such a marked feature of the campaign on the republican side.

Senator Hill is just the sort of man who makes strong friends and bitter enemies in his own party, but the btiterest of his enemies will concede that he has a wonderful hold on the democratic voters of New York, which he has demonstrated time and time again. Circumstances having made it necessary that the democratic candidate for governor of New York should be a man who could bring out the full democratic vote of the State, which is always a majority, it logically followed that Senator Hill was that man. For that reason democrats in Washington, wnether they be his friends or his enemies, were pleased with Senator Hill's nomination and are confident that he will be elected. He has never been defeated by the voters of New York and he will not be this year. There is much disappointment over Senator Hill's nomination, but it is confined to the republicans who were not counting upon such a formidable antagonist. A member of the Cabinet was asked by a personal friend how he supposed President Cleveland would regard the nomination of Senator Hill, and he quickly replied: "Why, just as all other good democrats do; as the best that could possibly have been made under existing circumstances. The President wishes New York to be carried by the democrats, and I know he believes that with Senator Hill at the head of the ticket it will be." "But what about 1896?" querried this inquisitive friend. "Let us win the campaign of '94," replied the member of the Cabinet; "then we can begin to discuss the probabilities and possibilities of '96."

Public Printer Benedict has made a decided reform in the Government Printing Office by abolishing piece work and putting all the printers on time. Nothing around that establishment has caused more bickering and jealousy than the piece-work system, which a portion of the men worked under. It made a man's pay dependant more upon luck in striking "phat," or the favor of his foreman than upon his merits or his skill as a printer. By putting them all upon time work the pay is equalized and it is believed that the work will be better done. It is certain that the Public Printer will be enabled to devote much time to more important duties that he has hefetofore been compelled to waste in listening to the friends of those working on time who wished to get transferred to the piece department, because they could make more money. The new tariff abrogated all the reciprocity treaties made under the McKinley law, and the formal notice served upon the State department by Brazil of its intention to abrogate the reciprocity treaty between that government and the U. S. on January 1, 1895, was merely a compliance with the expressed terms of the treaty, which were that either country should give the other three months notice. So far as the U. S. was concerned, the treaty was abrogated the day the new tariff became a law. Mr. Mendonca, the Brazilian Minister, when asked what effect he thought the abrogation of the treaty would have upon the trade relations of the two countries, said: "The rates will not be materially raised by Brazil against this country, and I am expecting this country to make large increase in sending manufactured woolens to Brazil as a result of the new woolen manufacturing induced by free raw wool in the new tariff law. Outside of these items few changes will occur by the termination of the reciprocity."

From the Evergreen State.

WINLOCK, Wash., Sept., 21. 1894.
EDITOR BUFFALO GAZETTE:—

Well dear Doctor I have watched proceedings in Delano through the Gazette for the last four years also noting the changes through removal or death of many people of the county. It seems death, although in many cases very unwelcome, will come, the long bony fingers of the enemy of the human race is felt among the best of families, but by the goodness of God we are here yet, but how interesting to note and follow the varied changes of life. My son Alfred who all Delano people will remember, passed the required examination at the last session of the Puget Sound Conference and Bishop Joyce appointed him to Kalama Kalama is the capital of the county and situated on the bank of the Columbia river, and about 45 miles north of Portland Oregon. The young man is on the field appointed him and seems to move things in a Methodistic way I thank God for Methodism. I believe in church loyalty. If I am anything, I am that or nothing: so people know where to find me. Men who move things almost always take hold and lift. Well I don't know how it has come about but it is here, the Crown Jewel Home, for destitute and homeless children. After our revival last winter in which 167 were converted, we started to erect the Home. It is a frame four storries high 50 by 50, and can accommodate 140 children. The Home I located at Winlock Wash. and is estimated to be worth five thousand dollars. It has now 3 fatherless and motherless children and when I look into their faces I thank God that I can sacrafice something for someone else (Suffer them) is the Devine cemmand, and I believe in it, Mr. Editor. I don't think there is a work this side Eterniy so Christ like as careing for homeless children. Jesus himself had no place to lay his head. He might have perished in Egypt, he might have perished on the way, but he could not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven. I am proud of my appointment, for my heart is in the work I may come through Minnesota sometime and if I do I will take and care for any destitute boy or girl in the State who may be brought before my notice. Give my love to all my friends.

Most truly,
W. H. WILSON.

INDEPENDENCE INCIDENTS.

EDITOR BUFFALO GAZETTE—Hon. Knute Nelson's famous speech of Argyle Marshall county Minn has come to me in phamphlet form (many thanks to the donor for the copy) It may be savory meat for a republican student but hardly think it would be palatable to the farmers of Marshall county. Would infer from the tone of his speech that the farmers of Minnesota or any other state have no grievance that high protection is a cure for all ills both State and National and that referendum and the unconditional free coinage of silver would be no help to the farmer or common people. In 1862 when the bankers of New York and Philadelphia got the Republican Congress to pass that exception clause, making green backs a legal tender for all debts public and private except dutses on imports and interest on the Public debt there is where the Shylock's got the first grip upon the finance of this country, the soldier was paid in green backs, but had to pay a gold price for everything he bought. The next was trusts and combinations formed to fluctuate prices, next was the demonatization of silver which was a help to the few but destructive to the masses, next came high protection which says though must fall down and worship me and it was done perhaps it might be well to consult the census statistics for 1890 and see how it compares with Goy. Nelsons speech in regard to the farmers of this country.

The farm families number 4,676,179 of which 66 per cent own their own farms and the others hire, of the owning families over 28 per cent have encumberances on their farms. In 1880-25-56 per cent of the farmes were hired, in 1880 a little over 74 per cent of the farmers owned their farmes and in 1890 66 per cent owned their farmes a decrease of a little over 8 percent in 10 years as ownership of farmers, this is from census report of 1890 and is supposed to be corrected. This does not hardly agree with Governor Nelson's speech in regard to the prosperous condition of the farmer, but Nelson can well say like Paul, after the straightest sect of our religion I have lived a Pharisee (republican) If being a republican makes the country and individuals prosperous and happy then we should all be republicans but republicanism does not seem to work favor to all classes as some try to make it out; if it did why does the farmer have so little money and the banker and manufacturer so much. The Lord told Jonah, to arise go to Ninevah that great city and cry against it for their wickedness is come up before me" but Jonah went down to Joppa and took ship from there to go on a fishing excursion and it seems the poor of this country will not learn anything until the big fish has swallowed them all up and spewed them out on dry land, some say we should vote as we pray, but the chief politician say pray as you vote but there is one consolation while the millionairs of this country are living in wealth and luxury, the poor rejoice in a clear conscience and an empty pocket. God made this country for the poor as well as the rich but neyertheless it seems that ever since the days of Moses in the wilderness we are given to idolatry we are inclined to worship the golden calf. Mr. Editor, there is much more that might be said on this line but time and opportunity will not admit. If people would shun partisan politics as they would the smallpox we might have a better condition of things politically but human nature is the same the world over everybody is looking for self agrandizement and the devil is getting more of it than the whole of us.

MRS. NELLIE GRANT-SARTORIS has returned to Washington, with the intention of making it her future home.

THE first oil well in America was on a small farm in the mountains of Wayne county, Ky. It was discovered in 1829.

T. V. POWDERLY, ex-general master workman of the Knights of Labor, has become a full-fledged lawyer, with sheepskin and license.

SOLDIERS of the British and French armies lose on an average 18 days every year from illness; those of Germany, 15; of Austria, 13; of Italy, 15; of the United States, 21.

WHEN the vessels now in process of construction are completed, the new navy of the United States will consist of forty-five vessels, ranging in size from 11,300 tons down to 120 tons displacement.

A SERIOUS shortage in the clove crop is announced. The man who is in the habit of going out between the acts to buy a clove may have to content himself with a coffee bean or a bit of lemon peel.

THE proposal to construct as the great attraction of the exhibition of 1900 in Paris a monster telescope able to show the inhabitants, if any, of the moon, has been revived and M. Bischoffsheim is said to be willing to advance 2,000,000 francs toward the cost.

THE Chinamen in this country are by no means speeding en masse to help their fellow citizens at home in the war against Japan. John continues to washee washee and the disasters of Ping Yang and Yaloo have little effect upon him, for John Chinaman has less patriotism in his composition than the members of any other nation.

THIRTEEN years ago Capt. Henry W. Howgate, disbursing officer of the United States signal service and the organizer of the Howgate polar expedition, embezzled $360,000 from the government and disappeared. He was arrested recently in New York. And yet there are people who maintain that there is nothing unlucky about the number thirteen.

THE New York Herald calls the attention of the New Jersey authorities to the fact that its palisades along the Hudson are being broken up with dynamite to make trap rock for a Long Island turnpike. A single blast of dynamite recently tore down 150,000 tons of the most beautiful cliffs. The utilitarian spirit of the present will soon destroy what beauty there is in the world.

THERE is on a mantel in one of the residences of a Georgia family a piece of stone which bears a striking resemblance to an ancient castle, the turrets, massive doors and strong foundations being distinctly marked. The peculiar feature about the little oddity is that to hold it under a gas light gives the stone the appearance of the building, with many lights reflected from the windows.

A SYSTEM of electric lighting is being put in at Juneau, one of the best known of Alaskan settlements—a place of 2,000 inhabitants. When completed this will be the first electric plant in the territory. Electricity, however, has been used for some time in a limited way in the Alaskan mines. Water is abundant everywhere, and the current is generated on the streams and carried to the mines by cables.

ONE'S surprise at the fact that no two persons' voices are exactly alike ceases when one is informed by an authority on the subject that, though there are only nine perfect tones in the human voice, there are the astounding number of 17,592,186,044,415 different sounds. Of these, fourteen direct muscles produce 16,383, and thirty indirect muscles produce 173,741,823, while all in cooperation produce the total given above.

GOVERNMENT surveys just completed show Mount St. Elias to be on British soil. It is found to be 18,023 feet high, that is, higher than previously estimated. But the most astonishing thing was the discovery of two, if not three, other mountains a few miles inland, on English territory, that are higher even than the famous saint's mountain. Of these Mount Logan is 19,534 feet, and there are two other nameless peaks that overreach Mount St. Elias by several feet.

A MONSTER clock has recently been placed in the town hall in the city of Philadelphia, such as exists in no other part of the world. The face, which is ten yards in diameter, and is lit up by electricity during the night, can be seen from every part of the city. The minute hand is four yards long and the hour hand more than two yards and a half. The bell on which the hours are sounded weighs fifty thousand pounds and can be heard over the entire district. The winding-up of this gigantic clock is effected daily by means of a steam engine placed in the tower.

IS A frog a fish? This is the problem which officials of the Canadian fishery department now have to consider. Petitions were forwarded to the department from the inhabitants of Northumberland, Ont., praying for a close season for frogs. A lucrative trade in the shipment of frogs' legs had been done, but it was discovered that the very time that the frogs were spawning is one when the greatest havoc is wrought among them. Possibly a change will be made in the fishery laws so as to embrace frogs. The officers say that in their embryotic stage frogs are certainly fishes.

PEOPLE are beginning to realize the danger that lies in promiscuous kissing. Their growing knowledge of hygiene and physical culture teaches them that the kiss is a very possible conductor of disease. Mothers, particularly, should exert great care that too enthusiastic relatives and friends should restrict their caresses. It is considered very bad form for women to exchange kisses, and the girl in society bestows them with great discrimination even on her most intimate friends. Society is not all shallowness; it is performing mankind an untold service in cutting promiscuous kissing.

THEY MAY STRIKE.

Employes Have a Legal Right to Quit Work.

The Famous Northern Pacific Injunction Issued by Judge Jenkins Is in Part Overruled by Justice Harlan.

GIST OF THE OPINION.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3. — Judge Jenkins' famous strike injunction has been overruled by the United States circuit court of appeals and the cause was remanded with directions to strike out from the restraining order of the court the clause which aroused the country when the order was issued and which resulted in the Boatner investigating committee of congress.

Their Legal Right.

The intervenors, representing the leading labor organizations of the country, asked that two sections of the injunction be eliminated. The court of appeals decided that no court could compel a man or a body of men from quitting individually or in a body the service of an employer. The court said that Judge Jenkins had exceeded his powers when he enjoined the employes of the receivers of the Northern Pacific Railroad company "from quitting the service of said receivers, with or without notice, so as to cripple the property or prevent or hinder the operation of said railroad."

Jenkins in Part Upheld.

It, however, held that the section should stand in which the men were prohibited "from combining and conspiring to quit, with or without notice, the service of said receivers, with the object and intent of crippling the property in their custody, or embarrassing the operation of said railroad."

An Important Decision.

The decision was considered by the lawyers who packed the courtroom as one of the most important opinions delivered in the United States in a decade. It defines the status before the law of labor organizations in their conduct of strikes, and affirms the powers of courts of equity to interfere by injunction when there is reason to believe that the law will be violated. It holds that the men may withdraw in a body from the service of an employer, using, however, neither force, threats, persecution nor intimidation toward employes who do not join them, nor must they use any "device" to molest, hinder, alarm, or interfere with others who desire to take their places.

DUN'S STATEMENT.

Review of the Past Week's Trade—Some Comparisons.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.— R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Special inquiry has been made this week at all commercial centers regarding the state of retail trade. Wide diversity appears in different trades. The main facts disclosed are: First, marked improvement in the last month and a considerable excess over the business done a year ago, particularly in the necessaries of life. But, second, it appears that the volume of trade at present is on the whole considerably less than in a normal year at most points, and in the more important trades is apparently about 20 per cent. smaller than in September, 1892.

Evidence of continued improvement in wholesale trade and manufacture does not appear this week. There is large distribution on orders given some time ago, but new business going to the manufacturers is everywhere slackening. The completion of orders for replenishment of stocks leaves a narrower demand and it is yet too early for consumption to provide further orders.

The depression in prices of farm products will have some influence. Unprecedented records have been made in cotton and wheat, though as to wheat only in contracts for future delivery in which the prices are the lowest ever made. The available stocks are about 15,000,000 bushels greater than a year ago, and western receipts for the week were 5,252,716 bushels, against 6,191,034 last year, and since August 1, 51,000,000 bushels, against 80,000,000 last year.

Yet encouraging that the speculation in corn has broken and the price has fallen five cents, less gloomy estimates than those of the department having gained general acceptance. It is now supposed that the yield is not far from 1,500,000,000 bushels, which will compel much economy in feeding, but speculation in pork has also broken, and the price has fallen 75 cents, while lard has declined half a cent.

Failures are few and small for the week, liabilities amounting to $5,278,285, of which $2,282,313 were of manufacturing and $2,575,112 of trading concerns. The failures during the week have been 235 in the United States, against 334 last year, and 55 in Canada, against 33 last year.

THREE BOATS GO DOWN.

The Drowning of Eleven Persons Out of Two of the Crews Results.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Sept. 28.—The schooner Ironton collided with the steamer Ohio on Lake Huron, near Presque Isle, at 1:50 Wednesday morning. Both boats sank to the bottom in a half-hour. The crew of the Ohio were all picked up by the schooner Moonlight, which with the Ironton formed the tow of the steamer C. J. Kershaw, but five of the crew of seven of the Ironton were drowned when their boat sunk. The two men who were rescued were picked up by the steamer Charles Hebard, bound up the lakes, and landed here.

HILL IS CHOSEN.

New York Democrats in Convention Name Him for Governor.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 28.—At 1:50 o'clock Chairman D. B. Hill rapped the convention to order. After the transaction of some routine business Galen R. Hitt proposed John Boyd Thatcher as nominee for the governorship. Senator Hill ordered the roll called. When Allegany county was reached Delegate Reynolds arose and amidst intense silence said: "The united delegation from Allegany county desire to place in nomination for governor their first and only choice, David Bennett Hill."

A scene of disorder followed, during which Senator Hill tried to calm the convention. The roll call proceeded.

New York was reached and Senator Guy jumped to his feet and said: "In the name of the democracy, against the wish of our presiding officer, and, if needs be, in defiance of it, I place in nomination here in the name of the democracy of the state of New York the one man who typifies all that democracy typifies. I present the name of the greatest living exponent of democratic principles, Senator David B. Hill."

Clerk de Freest began the calling of the roll call amid cries of "Call slowly." As each county was called its leader arose and declared for David B. Hill. When the call was about half completed ex-Assemblyman Hitt, from Albany, withdrew John Boyd Thacher's name. The roll call was completed and Hill received 383 of the 384 votes. The nomination was made unanimous.

The following is a synopsis of the platform as adopted by the convention:

National issues—Congratulates the democratic administration on the manner in which the business of the country is attended to; upon the repeal of the Sherman law; upon the repeal of the federal election law; that with democratic ascendency the country returns to simple methods and sound principles.

Tariff—Asserts that the new tariff law will be a wise and excellent substitute for the partisan McKinley law; declares against future amendments of the tariff by revision as a whole, but favors special laws relating to the removal of the duty from raw materials.

Business interests—Congratulates the country upon the revival of business interests, and believes that this revival will continue; asserts the financial and business depression was a necessary accompaniment to tariff revision: inevitable because the McKinley law had proved utterly inadequate and would have caused a bankrupted treasury.

Labor—Declares the interests of labor should be fostered by proper and necessary legislation, and that honest workingmen should be protected from competition with convict labor; advocates the amending of the present conspiracy laws so as to more equally protect workingmen and the employers.

Equal rights—Declares against class legislation which shall in violation of the constitution prohibit or interfere with the free exercise of any form of religious worship and deprecates any organization which would tend to any such result.

Constitutional convention—Declares the work of the constitutional convention on the whole was partisan, is intended to aid in perpetuating the republican party in control of the state; declares the apportionment measure a gerrymander, descriminating against the cities.

Lieut. Gov. Sheehan then arose and in a brief speech nominated Daniel L. Lockwood, of Buffalo, for the office of lieutenant governor. The nomination was made by acclamation, amid great applause. James D. Bell, of Brooklyn, named Judge Gaynor for judge of the court of appeals and the convention nominated him by acclamation.

The motion to adjourn was carried, Senator Hill saying: "The convention that is running itself wants to adjourn—I declare it adjourned."

ARE ACTUALLY STARVING.

The Wretched Condition of Many of Pullman's Residents.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—When 600 destitute men, women and children went to the headquarters of the Pullman relief committee Wednesday morning they found nothing there for them. The provisions were all gone, and when and from where more will come is a matter of speculation. That is the sad condition of affairs that confronts County Commissioners Kallis and Lundberg. They were appointed a committee by the county board to go to Pullman and investigate the condition of the people and devise means for their immediate relief and for their support during the coming winter. They found things far worse than they had ever dreamed.

"There is no doubt," said Commissioner David Kallis, after the investigation was over, "that the people of Chicago will have to support the destitute in Pullman during the coming winter. It must be done. If they do not the people will starve to death, and that condition of affairs cannot be permitted."

OVERDID THEIR WORK.

Burglar-Proof Safe Shattered at Mediapolis, Ia.

BURLINGTON, Ia., Oct. 3.—A guaranteed burglar-proof safe in the fireproof vaults of the State bank of Mediapolis, this county, was blown almost to atoms Monday morning by a tremendous charge of nitro-glycerine. The cracksmen forced the vault locks without difficulty. The safe contained $5,000 in gold coin, $800 in paper currency, $400 in silver coin and $2,600 in school district bonds payable to bearer. The paper money was torn into little bits and the coin was battered and bent and scattered to the four winds. Nineteen of the bonds have been recovered intact, the rest being destroyed or stolen. Fifteen hundred dollars in the battered coin was recovered. It is presumed the burglars got the rest.

Dynamite Cartridge Explodes.

ATCHISON, Kan., Oct. 1. — Charles Hazlett (white) and Jack Powers and Louis Dickey (colored) were injured here to-day, the last two fatally, by the explosion of a dynamite cartridge which Powers undertook to drill out, it remaining unexploded after a previous charge.

RIOTING IN RIO.

Internal Disorders of Brazil—Other South American News.

MONTEVIDEO, Oct. 1.—Admiral Da Gama asserts that there has been rioting in Rio de Janeiro lasting five days, accompanied by outrages on Portuguese merchants, instigated directly by President Peixoto, who incited soldiers, dressed as citizens, to make an attack on the pretense that they wanted to break up a meeting of royalist conspirators.

Rio, it is reported, looks like a great military camp, soldiers patrolling the streets, cavalry encamped in public gardens, launches patrolling the harbor front. The number killed is stated to be 328, and 213 wounded have entered the hospitals. Many of the wounded were taken to their homes.

Most of the fighting occurred near the water's edge, and many bodies were cast into the harbor. The damage to the property of Portuguese, British and other foreign residents will amount to $1,500,000.

BUENOS AYRES, Oct. 1.—Correspondents in Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, telegraph that the revolutionists, actuated by a desire to avenge recent cruelties, are assembling in the mountain regions near the frontier of Uruguay. It is reported that this force numbers 5,000 men, and that a demonstration against the government will soon be made.

It is now known that after Saraivas' death the commander of the government forces cut the ears from his head, and, after packing them in salt, sent them to Gov. Castilho.

PANAMA, Oct. 1.—News has been received from Costa Rica of an attempt to assassinate President Iglesias. During the military review in San Jose an anarchist, Michinor Araya, fired five shots at the president. Iglesias escaped on horseback.

Araya was arrested and would have been killed by the police if the crowd had not interfered. His accomplices, Juan B. Jimenez, Francisco Aguirrea, Jose Zeledon, Andre Cerpedes and twenty others were also arrested.

Dynamite was found in the house where Jimenez lived. There were also seized many documents which give evidence of a widespread conspiracy. Aguirrea was formerly a trusted aide-camp on the staff of President Rodriguez.

CARACAS, Oct. 1.—A government force under Mendizabal has been defeated by rebels, with fourteen killed. The movement to organize a rebellion is uniting the malcontents in both Venezuela and Colombia.

THEIR LABORS ENDED.

Summary of Work Done by the New York Constitutional Convention.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 1.— The constitutional convention after adopting the new constitution issued a long manifesto to the people, going over in detail the whole of the constitutional convention. The address summarizes the work as follows:

1. We renew the commendation of the convention in 1867, providing for progress in agriculture by requiring general laws giving the right of drainage across adjoining lands.

2. We seek to separate in the larger cities municipal elections from state and national elections.

3. We have provided further safeguards against abuses in legislative procedure.

4. We have removed the prohibition against the sale of Onondago salt springs, which are a source of annual loss to the state.

5. We have removed from the constitution all mention of the office of coroner so that the legislature may deal freely with that branch of the public service now in such an unsatisfactory condition.

6. We have extended the prohibition against lotteries so as to include all pool selling, bookmaking and other forms of gambling.

7. We have abolished the statutory provision limiting the right of recovery for injuries causing death to $5,000.

8. We have sought to throw greater safeguards around the elective franchise by prescribing ninety instead of ten days of citizenship before the right can be exercised.

9. We have provided for a new apportionment of senate and assembly districts.

10. We have declared in the constitution for principles of civil service reform.

11. In addition to the provision for the improvement of the state prisons' administration we have prohibited the contract system of convict labor.

12. We have authorized the legislature to provide for the improvement of the canals.

13. We have required the legislature to provide for free public schools, in which all the children of the state may be educated, and we have prohibited absolutely the use of public money in aid of sectarian schools.

14. The revision of the judiciary article is designed to remedy the existing evils arising from the overcrowding of the trial calendars.

THE SEASON ENDS.

Close of the Baseball Year of 1894—Baltimore Wins.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—The National league games on Sunday brought the baseball year to a close. Contests for the Temple cup remain to be played, it is true, but only the first and second clubs in the race, Baltimore and New York, are concerned in these, and besides they cut no actual figure in the championship; they are merely a series for a trophy. The wind-up of the championship season brought only one important change. That was the unexpected jump of St. Louis into ninth place, displacing Cincinnati at the very last moment.

A Drunkard's Crime.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 1.—Seven persons were drowned at Chaska, Minn., Saturday evening. Louis Scharf and family, who had attended the fair, started home at 7 o'clock. Scharf was intoxicated and was driving fast. When within a block of the river he was stopped by J. Kunz, of Minneapolis, who told him to drive slower. Scharf promised to do so, but no sooner was he released than he whipped his horses and furiously dashed down the river bank, over the ferry and into the river. His wife, five children and Miss Mary Roskus, Mrs. Scharf's sister, were drowned, as were the horses. Scharf clung to the wagon box and was rescued. The bodies of Mrs. Scharf and two of the children were recovered.

Summer Hotel Burned.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The Mirror Lake house at Lake Placid was totally destroyed by fire Sunday night. A strong wind was blowing and all efforts to save anything proved unavailing. The house had closed its doors a few days ago, after the most successful season in its history. The loss is upward of $150,000 and is only partly covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Rare, Indeed.

Marie—Was there anything sensational about that swell wedding?

Madge—O, no end of surprises! It was a love match; the hundred-thousand-dollar check was as good as gold; the groom didn't forget the ring; the bride didn't mix up her "I do's!" and her "I will's!" and not one attempt to steal the presents was made by burglars. If my wedding went off so scandalously commonplace as that I would die of mortification, really!"—Town Topics.

The Hassayampa Massacre.

ALTHOUGH the deadly hostility of the Apaches to the settlement of Arizona by the whites has resulted, in the long run, disastrously to the former, they could boast of many temporary triumphs during the years preceding their final subjection, and it was seldom that their bloodthirsty bands, returning redhanded from the slaughter of the unprotected, were overtaken by immediate and adequate punishment. So swiftly would they swoop down on the unsuspecting settler, murder, burn, destroy and disappear, that pursuit was nearly always fruitless, and though, in time, punishment was meted out after a fashion to the whole tribe, the individual perpetrators almost invariably escaped identification and justice. When Gen. Crook subdued them and placed them on reservations, it was not by any one pitched battle, but by hunting them relentlessly from their mountain fastnesses and keeping them constantly on the move until there was no longer a hiding place in all the land where they could be safe from pursuit. Then they sued for peace, which was granted them, but which they only observed when it was convenient to themselves.

In spite of Christian teachings the human mind still clings instinctively to the law of retaliation and refuses to be satisfied when those who have taken human life are left in possession of their own. It is consequently, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, a pleasure to recall one instance at least in which a brutal band of Apache murderers were overtaken by a swift and terrible retribution. The instance here related is history—heretofore unwritten, it is true; nor can all the particulars be found in the records of the war department, for it was not deemed advisable in those days to report the killing of many Indians for fear of raising a clamor among the Boston philanthropists, so called, a class in the east who could hear of the massacre of settlers and their wives and children unmoved, but who never failed to shudder and raise a wail at the death of a "poor Indian." The raid on the Hassayampa is only too well remembered by many residing in Arizona to-day, for it was one of the last Indian outrages committed in northern Arizona.

The few score of citizens of the little mining camps sprinkled along the Hassayampa river were commencing to breathe easier. It was nearly four months since Gen. Crook had gathered in the numerous bands of marauding Apaches and placed them under military control on the reservation, and it was now possible to lie down at night, or even to travel from place to place, without fear or trembling. Former horrors were forgotten and men were at their ease and off their guard. But the poor Indians were suffering from ennui. So one day a large band of them stole away from their reservation on the Verdi river and headed for the mining camps on the Hassayampa. They had some squaws with them, for they intended to take a good long holiday and the gentle squaws could not bear to forego the pleasure of torturing the white prisoners, of whom it was hoped there would be many. They belonged to that branch of the Apache nation known as the Apache-Mohave, and there were just 125 of them in all.

It was midafternoon on the 13th of May, 1873, when the snake-like procession wound down through a dark, narrow ravine to the deep canyon of the Hassayampa, and crossing quickly over the dry bed of the stream, disappeared noiselessly among the huge bolwders that lined the opposite side and covered the abrupt slope of the overhanging mountains. Four miles below was Smith's mill, a ten-stamp quartz mill that had just been completed, and five miles above was Ed Lambley's ranch, where the water of the river came to the surface for a short distance before sinking again in the sandy channel. There was no one in sight as the Indians waited behind the bowlders, but a wagon road passed up the canyon from Smith's mill to Lambley's ranch, and thence to the mining camp of Wickenburg, still farther above. Soon Gus Swain came driving his mules slowly along the sandy road, his rickety wagon filled with empty barrels. As he neared the group of bowlders it is strange that his mules did not give him warning that death lurked behind them, for his off mule was noted for its intense dislike for Indians. Poor Swain's body was found the next day, mutilated in an unspeakable manner, lying in the sand beside his deserted wagon. But there was the wound of a big musket ball in his breast, and they breathed easier when they saw that proof that death had saved him from torture. The tracks showed how the Indians had swarmed around the wagon, and that they had led away one of the mules, but had butchered the other on the spot. Not a trace of the latter was left on the ground except the contents of its paunch and a few splashes of blood. Then, each one carrying a share of the slaughtered animal, they climbed to the summit of the rough, bowlder-strewn mountain, still in single file, and building a score of little fires that made no smoke to betray their presence from a distance, they roasted and feasted and made merry.

Soon word was passed that a white man was coming down the canyon, and a party of them descending the mountain again waited behind the bowlders. The man was on foot, and as he came nearer they could see that he was a well-formed, handsome young fellow, over six feet in height, and that he carried an ivory-handled six-shooter slung to the cartridge belt that encircled his waist. No one knows exactly what happened next, but it is certain that he must have been startled out of his presence of mind—perhaps by their diabolical yelling, or perhaps by an arrow whizzing past him—and failed to use his pistol. The tracks in the sand indicated that on coming opposite the ambush he started to run west across the canyon, and that fifty or more of the savages took after him, catching him under the cliffs on the opposite side. This would never have happened if he had pulled his pistol and faced them. They would have been compelled to shoot him dead, and thus he would have avoided the awful torture that followed. The Apaches delivered him, as is their custom, to the tender mercies of the squaws, and what agony he was forced to endure before death released him is fearful to contemplate.

George Taylor, the eighteen-year-old son of the superintendent of Smith's mill, had been dispatched to Lambley's ranch that morning to attend to some work on the flume which delivered water to the mill, and to turn on the water for the first mill run. P. W. Smith, the mill owner, had brought him as far as the ranch in his buggy and had gone on to Wickenburg, intending to call for him on his return that same evening. After completing his work on the flume young Taylor had decided not to wait for Smith but to return on foot, as there still remained several hours of daylight; though Lambley, who liked the boy, urged him strongly to spend the remainder of the afternoon and the night at the ranch. That was the last seen of him alive.

In due time Smith stopped at Lambley's in his buggy, and learning that the boy had gone allowed himself to be persuaded into spending the night. The next morning at Smith's mill, McDonald, one of the mill men, had to go to Wickenburg, and saddled his horse at sunrise. He never came back. Death still lurked behind those fatal bowlders, and as he passed opposite them, on his big gray horse there was a whir of arrows, and he was sent to meet Gus Swain and George Taylor. That must have been about seven o'clock in the morning, for at eight o'clock Smith came along in his buggy, and, discovering the two dead bodies, did not need to be told what was wrong, but turned his horse and hurried back to Lambley's. That he was unmolested was proof that the murderers had departed.

The next day a party started out to bury the bodies and to hunt for young Taylor or his remains; also to note which way the Indians had gone and whether they were still lurking in the vicinity. The party was a small one, for there were not many men in the settlement, but it was not their intention to attempt an engagement with so large a body as this was known to be. However, a swift courier had been dispatched at once to the military post at Date creek, forty miles from Wickenburg. The party on reaching the scene of the murders followed the well-worn trail leading to the mountain top, where the Indians had camped, and there, surrounded by the clean-picked bones of the butchered mule, they found the body of the unfortunate boy, stripped and horribly mutilated. Their indignation and horror at the sight were so intense that not a word was uttered. In order to spare his parents the awful sight the boy was buried without delay, before they had been notified that it had been found.

Another day passed, and then a detachment of United States cavalry arrived from Date creek, supported by a company of Indian scouts, and took up the well-defined trail, which led eastward over unexplored mountain ranges. They found where the renegades at their next halting place had killed and eaten the other of Swain's mules, and, as before, had consumed it entire, leaving nothing but the clean-picked bones; and the next day they fell in with a strong scouting party from Fort McDowell, who had heard from Camp Verde that some Indians had escaped from the reservation, and had been sent out to intercept them. The two parties so opportunely met joined forces forthwith, and late that afternoon the scouts brought in word that their quarry had gone into camp a short distance ahead of the column. It is probable that the marauding party had sent back spies for the first day or two, and thus learning that they were not being followed—for the troops did not take the trail until the third day after their departure—they had grown careless and relaxed their vigilance. By the waters of a crystal spring, in a deep, secluded valley, walled by high mountains, the murderers had chosen their resting place. They had butchered the large gray horse ridden by McDonald, their third victim, and were feasting and making merry in fancied security. The bucks were lying around at their ease, without their arms, while the squaws roasted great hunks of flesh at the camp fires and waited on their lords. Silently the stern-faced troops closed in around them, and at a signal volley after volley was poured into them from every side. There was no chance of escape. Panic-stricken, they rushed to and fro within the circle of belching flame and smoke. In a few minutes all was over. Their little pleasure trip was over—and their victims were avenged.

"Did your husband seemed to grasp the situation during the big strike?" asked the walking delegate of Mrs. Hardhed.

"He held on to his job, if that's what you mean," was Mrs. Hardhed's grim response.

And the walking delegate moved on toward more promising friends.—Buffalo Courier.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Y. P. S. C. E.

This year's Y. P. S. C. E. convention of Minnesota takes place at Winona, October 19, 20, 21.

A chorus of one hundred voices is being drilled by Mr. F. A. A. Richardson for this occasion, and an orchestra is being arranged for. The Opera House has been secured for all the sessions Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Its seating capacity is 1,200 and hundreds more can find standing room. Arrangements are making for a large convention, at least five hundred. This year the new system goes into effect whereby, in accordance with last years change, voted by the state executive committee, board and lodging are paid for by the delegates, following the example of other state unions. The rate has been fixed at one dollar per day for board and lodging, hotel rates, $1.25 and $2.00. Names of delegates, prefixing Mr., Mrs. or Miss as the case may be, and where desired pairing off as such, should be sent to Miss Nellie Stevens, chairman entertainment committee, not later than October 10.

The railroads have made a rate of one and one third fares. Every delegate will pay full fare going, taking receipt therefor of the agent, which receipt must be endorsed by the state secretary at the convention to enable the holders return at one third fare.

Red River Drainage.

The Red River drainage commission met recently at the state capitol and let the contracts for the remainder of the work to be done this fall. The successful bidders were as follows: Mustinka river canal, Traverse county, Coughren & Reilly, 8½ cents per yard; Rabbit river canal, Grant county, Plaisted & Bushnell, 6 46-100 cents per yard; Otter Tail river canal, Wilkin county, Johnson & Plaisted, 7 15-16 cents per yard; Kennedy canal, Norman county, Rhinehart Brothers, 7¾ cents per yard. The latter canal will follow the first route surveyed, which is on the north side of the village of Ada, and drains the water of the Wild Rice river through Lake Ida and Long lake into the Marsh river, it having been decided by Engineer Haglund that the valley of the Wild Rice was too small to carry off the water in an overflow season.

Quashed.

When the United States courts opened at Fergus Falls, Judge Nelson presiding, the most important thing done was the quashing of the indictments against 62 men for conspiracy in the Great Northern strike. Forty-seven are from Barnesville, eight from St. Cloud and six from Breckenridge. The demurrer to the indictment was presented by Judge M. R. Tyler, of St. Paul, and Chas. S. Marden, of Barnesville. District Attorney Stringer says that all will be indicted again and the grand jury is now at work on the cases.

More Suits.

The state of Minnesota, through Attorney General Childs and Warner, Richardson & Lawrence, has brought three actions in the Ramsey county district court against the Itaska Lumber company and Thomas H. Shevlin, to recover the value of pine logs cut on the land of the state and alleged to have been wrongfully converted to the use of defendants. The logs are in the Mississipi and Rum River Boom company's boom, and are valued at about $50,000.

News in Brief.

The Rainy Lake Gold Mining and Smelting Company, Minneapolis, filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state. The capital stock is $500,000 and the incorporators Guy E. Bowman, William Heiple and Joseph B. Hawkins.

E. D. Faribault was placed in jail at Hastings, for stealing a watch from Clara Baker, of Inver Grove.

Jacob Pfenning, a cripple with but one arm and one leg, attempted suicide by jumping in the river at the foot of Jackson street, St. Paul. He was rescued by a policeman who was near by at the time, who took him to the police station.

Mate John McIntosh, of the Crescent line steamship John V. Moran, was held in bonds of $500 by Court Commissioner Presnell at Duluth, to appear for examination before District Attorney Springer Oct. 9th, on the charge of beating Sailor Wm. Monaghan. The alleged assault took place in the harbor there.

While the races were in progress at Worthington, the grand stand, on which 500 people were seated collapsed burying all of them in the ruins. Those on the race track outside and others in the wreck who were not injured extricated the wounded and conveyed them to town. No one was killed.

Postmasters were appointed as follows: Minnesota—Maple Ridge, Isanti county, N. E. Nelson, vice A. D. Cady, removed; Wilfred, Nobles county, F. A. Durfee, vice A. W. Lawrence.

The village of Atwater and vicinity, shipped to the state relief committee, for the benefit of the fire sufferers, a car of 650 bushels of wheat.

The post office at Tausen, Clay county, has been discontinued, mail goes to Rallag.

Elmer, the 4-year-old son of Lauritz Nelson, of Red Wing, was kicked to death by a horse.

The cornerstone of the new Lutheran church in west St. Paul was laid with appropriate ceremonies.

The faculty of the State Agricultural School met at the capitol and decided to ask the legislature this winter to make an appropriation for a new main educational building and before the legislature meets they expect to have all the plans and specifications, together with the cost of the building, prepared, so that the same can be laid before that body.

The old-time Odd Fellows of St. Paul celebrated the 45th anniversary of the granting of the charter of St. Paul lodge, No. 2, the date of which was Sept. 22, 1849. Stillwater No. 1 was granted a few months before, but disbanded during the war.

Grace Young and Minnie Johnson, aged about 16 years ran away from their homes in Fergus Falls. They were arrested in St. Cloud.

A mysterous stabbing affray occurred at St. Cloud. A stranger about 12 o'clock was heard calling for medical aid. He was bleeding from a three different wounds in his stomach and body. He refused to say who assailed him, or to give his name.

Twelve cars of a westbound freight jumped the track two miles east of Ashby, demolishing them and tearing the track up badly. Traffic was delayed 12 hours.

HOME HINTS AND HELPS.

—Broiled Lobster: Cut the tail part of a lobster in two, rub a little sweet oil over the meat and broil. When done spread with butter, the juice of half a lemon and a little cayenne. Place the meat back in the shell and serve.—Farm and Home.

—Favorite Filling: Grate the yellow rind from the lemon and squeeze out the juice, one cupful sugar, the yolks of two eggs, well beaten; mix the eggs and sugar, then add the lemon, pouring over the mixture one-half cupful of boiling water; stir into this one tablespoonful sifted flour, rubbed smooth in one-fourth cup of water; add a small tablespoonful of butter. Cook until it thickens. When cool spread between the layers of cake.—Detroit Free Press.

—Brown Potatoes: Boil and mash the potatoes, seasoning as usual with salt, butter and scalded milk. Grease a pie tin, form the potato on it, put pieces of butter on the top and brown in a quick oven. When ready to serve take a clean towel, loosen the edges of the potato and turn on the hand; then slip in the vegetable dish; or, the potato can be brushed over the top with the beaten yolk of an egg, browned in the oven and put in the vegetable dish, as described above.—Ohio Farmer.

—A good broom-holder is made by putting two large screws into the wall about two inches apart. The broom may be dropped in between these, the handle downward. Or if one does not like to hang the broom with the brush part upward, one can fasten a large hook, say one and a half inches in diameter, in the end of the broom handle and use this to hang it up by, by slipping it over a nail. This hook is preferable to a large ring as it is convenient to use in slipping curtains, moving pictures and other things high up and hard to reach.—Orange Judd Farmer.

—Fancy Cakes: Beat the whites of two eggs and one cupful of fine granulated sugar for fifteen minutes. Add the white of one egg and beat five minutes more; add another white and beat until stiff. Shape by using the pastry tube into little cakes about a tablespoonful on an unbuttered paper, and bake in a very slow oven twenty minutes. Before baking sprinkle some with red sugar, others with chopped nuts, and to a part of the mixture add some coloring or chocolate. Before serving put two cakes together, sticking them together with the white of an egg.—Boston Cooking School.

THE COLD BATH.

Wherein It Is an Excellent Tonic After Exercise.

The London Medical Journal combats the popular notion of the injurious effect of a cold bath taken when one is overheated by exercise—an idea falsified by the experience of athletes from the days of the Greeks and Romans even until now, who find in this procedure of refreshing and stimulating tonic after the exertion they have recently undergone. Physiologically speaking, too, according to this writer, a cold plunge or douche taken immediately after the physical effort, when the skin is acting freely and there is a sense of heat throughout the body, is as rational as in the experience of the athlete it is beneficial—is paralleled, in fact, by the tonic effect produced by the cold plunge when the skin is actively secreting after a Turkish bath, and finds its rationale doubtless in stimulating the nervous system, in the increase of internal circulation, and also in the renewal of activity to the cutaneous circulation after the momentary contraction of blood-vessels, due to the cold. The popular belief presumably rests on the injurious effects which may be induced by the bath in one who does not resort to it immediately, but allows time for the effects of fatigue to show themselves on the muscles and nerves and for the surface of the body to get cool; taken then, the bath is more likely to depress than to stimulate, there is less power of reaction and greater liability to internal inflammation—a warm bath rather than a cold one, at such a time, being more suitable and more safe.—Philadelphia Press

Respiration of Plants.

M. Anton Amm, who has been engaged in making investigations on the intra-molecular respiration of plants, has communicated the results of his researches recently to the French academy of sciences. Carbonic acid, it is found, is produced in the function of respiration below freezing point, a significant amount of gas being given off at 0° C. As the temperature rose intra-molecular respiration also gradually increased; but the increase was not proportional to the rise in temperature. In both wheat and lupine seedlings the optimum was reached at 40 C., which coincides with the optimum for the normal process. The relation between the amounts of carbonic acid formed in the normal and intra-molecular processes was found to vary with the temperature, and it also varies in different stages of development of one and the same plant—the fraction increasing with increasing development. Fresh confirmation has been supplied by M. Amm's investigations of the fact that by the withdrawal of oxygen production of carbonic acid at once sinks in amount and remains constant for a long time at the lower level, but rises again immediately to the original amount when oxygen is again furnished to the plant. The results show that the different organs of a plant—that is flowers and leaves—give an almost identical relation between the normal and intra-molecular respiration, while the organs of different species show quite a different relation.—N. Y. Ledger.

Too Many Clothes.

Growing children do not need too great a stock of clothes to carry them through a season. Of course sufficient for cleanliness and comfort is a necessity, but too great a number for the mere sake of variety is to be deprecated. Little girls and boys outgrow dresses and jackets very fast. It is better to have a few changes, and when they are outgrown or shabby, get rid of them for a fresh set of slightly-increased size. A large number of suits or dresses, which must be remodeled and enlarged for use during a second season, is burdensome. Looking over the stock of clothes, which, because they were so numerous, were each but slightly worn, we are apt to regret that we did not buy one-half the number, and let the child wear them entirely out. "It would have been far less trouble then," think the amateur dressmaker with a sigh, "and certainly far less trouble now!"—Harper's Bazar.

WIT AND WISDOM.

—Look within. Within is the fountain of good, and it will ever bubble up if thou wilt ever dig.—Marcus Aurelius Antonius.

—Mr. Oldstyle—I don't think that a college education amounts to much. Mr. Sparerod—Don't you? Well, you ought to foot my boy's bills and see.—N. Y. World.

—She (at the shore)—Do you know, I can always tell whether a man is married or not? He (on flirting bent)—Yes; but for heaven's sake, don't.—Boston Transcript.

—He (slightly rude)—I called because I thought you were out. She (sweetly)—Well, do you know, I thought I was out, too. The maid must have thought you were some one else.—Answers.

—Enough to Support.—She—I am afraid there is no hope. He—Eh! What did your father say when you told him that I wanted to marry you? She—He said he couldn't afford it.—N. Y. Weekly.

—Who is a true man? He who does the truth, and never holds a principle on which he is not prepared in any hour to act, and in any hour to risk the consequences of holding it.—Thomas Carlyle.

—Mrs. Younglove—I purchased some very tender beef to-day, dear; how do you prefer it? Mr. Younglove—Really, I don't know, love; but where I boarded that sort of beef was always rare.—Syracuse Post.

—She (meditatively)—I wonder how the expression "facing the music" ever came to be used as indicating courage? He—The man who originated it had probably sat through a Wagner concert.—Buffalo Courier.

—"Now," said the physician who is noted for his heavy charges, "I must take your temperature." "All right," responded the patient in a tone of utter resignation. "You've got about everything else I own.—Washington Star.

—Johnny Asker—Say, Paw; what's the difference between a visit and a visitation? His Pa—A visit, my son, is when we go to see your grandmother on your mother's side. "Yes, sir." "A visitation is when she comes to see us."—Buffalo Courier.

—Diminished Enthusiasm.—"The local team must have been playing very poor ball," said the experienced merchant. "Why, I didn't know you paid any attention to baseball." "I don't know anything about it, except what I gather from casual observation. I have noted that my office boy's grandmother has died only twice this summer.—Detroit Free Press.

—"Paw," said the small boy, "kin I have any fireworks on the Fourth of July?" "Yes; if you will let me shoot them off for you," replied the prudent father. The proposition was evidently not completely satisfactory, but it was accepted as being better than nothing. After a minute or two the youngster said; "Maw." "What is it?" "Is there any more pie?" "Yes." "Well, I'd like a piece if paw won't want to eat it for me."—Washington Star.

SPIDER THREADS.

The Obtaining of Them for the Use of Astronomers.

The astronomers of the Naval Observatory at Washington have sought all over the world for spiders' webs. Such gossamer filaments spun by industrious arachnids are utilized in telescopes for cross lines extended at right angles with each other across the field of view, so as to divide the latter into mathematical spaces. Threads of cobwebs are employed for the purpose because they are wonderfully strong for their exceeding fineness, and also for the reason that they are not affected by moisture or temperature, neither expanding nor contracting under any conditions. Specimens were obtained from China by the directors of the observatory, because it was imagined that the large spider of that country would perhaps produce a particularly excellent quality of web.

However, it was found that the best web is spun by the spiders of the United States, such as are found in the neighborhood of Washington. Accordingly expeditions are made early in June each year to get from the fences and barns thereabouts cocoons of the big "turtle back" spiders. Each cocoon is composed of a single silken filament wound round and round, though there are apt to be some breaks in it where Mistress Spider left off work for a time. Attempts have been made to use the cocoons of spiders like those of silkworms, and exquisite fabrics have been manufactured from them. Unfortunately it was found impossible to make the industry a commercial success owing to the combative inclination of these creatures. When kept together they will always gobble each other up in a short time, the final result being a single very large and fat spider and one cocoon.—Optician.

TAKE STEPS

in time, if you are a sufferer from that scourge of humanity known as consumption, and you can be cured. There is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its early stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write to those who have been cured and profit by their experience.

CHINESE DISLIKE RUSSIANS.

They Object to Muscovite Visitors as Well as to Missionaries.

A Russian gentleman who went up to the Yung-low-tung tea districts to make observations on the Chinese mode of preparing tea and other matters connected therewith had a very narrow escape from being stoned to death by a native mob. In fact, it appears that he was only saved from sharing the fate of the Sung-pu victims through the commendable action of his native boy and cook, who carried him in an unconscious state under a shower of stones to the magistrate's yamen, which happened to be close by, and attended to his wounds. The infuriated mob tried to force the yamen doors, but fortunately did not succeed, relief in the shape of some native soldiers having arrived in time. No provocation whatever preceded the attack, and from what we learn of the gentleman's disposition it is beyond doubt that nothing could have happened that could have given rise to bad feeling.

The only explanation, therefore, is to be found in the fact that the gentleman was employed by the Russian firm who purchased a number of tea plants last year, and the natives are afraid of losing their means of livelihood. However, this only partly explains the attack, for, while the firm had trouble with their purchases in the Ningchow districts, everything went smooth in a friendly way in Yung-low-tung; so that the people must have been put up to it by some miscreant.

The matter is in the hands of the Russian consul, we are told, and we feel sure will be taken up energetically and without a repetition of the blunders that have marked the Sung-pu affair as one of the most detrimental to the prestige of foreigners in China. The attack proves beyond any doubt that the anti-foreign movement is not directed solely against missionaries and not against Scandinavians only but that, unless strong measures be taken, we may without doubt expect to hear of more such attacks ere long. We are glad to record that the gentleman has returned to Hankow and is doing well.—Shanghai Mercury.

Are You Going Abroad

For health, pleasure or business, and would not have your voyage marred by seasickness? Then take along with you Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and when you feel the nausea try a wineglassful. It will effect a magical change for the better in your interior, and a continuance of it will save you from further attacks. As a means of overcoming malarial, kidney, dyspeptic, nervous and rheumatic troubles the Bitters is unequalled.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

DELANO DIARY

—Some of our merchants received a supply of stone and earthen ware on Monday; preparatory to supplying the fall trade.

—The Rockford baseballists object to having the Delano Blacks claim a victory over the Rockford-Minneapolis Club; they insist that the Delano boys say the Delano-St. Paul Club. Nothing like calling things by their right names.

—Conzet's and Bock's horses took a trial of speed on lower River Street one dav this week. Conzet claims to have captured three heats out of four; and would have taken the fourth If.

—Electric apparatus has been placed in most of the business houses and in quite a number of residences and one of these dark nights when the current is turned on and village illuminated as never before, don't be frightened; it's only keeping up with the march of civilization.

—H. B. Wakefield the gentlemanly advance agent for the newly organized concert troupe. "Hutchinson Family," was in town yesterday arranging for an evening's entertainment on Thursday, the 11th inst., at the City Hall. If you are fond of music of the kind that you can understand what they are singing about come out and hear them in the "The Old Granite State," "No Time Like the Old Time," "The Bells," and others. Reserved Tickets on sale at Wittman's drugstore.

—On Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock everybody is invited to be present at the opening of the new School House. Singing and short speeches will be the order of the occasion. The house is completed and it is expected that a large number of pupils will be present on Monday morning at the opening of the full winter term of school. With a fine house, free text books, an efficient corps of teachers it seems that Delano should get to the front in educational matters.

—Would the Eagle have us understand that the Principal and teachers were acting on their own hook, without orders from the Board last year when they asked boys to pay 108 cts for geographys that had been soiled by inkspots and be deprived of all their book, and eventually be suspended if they refuse or neglected to pay? If she does why dont she say so, and not be trying to make people unacquainted with the facts believe that no such thing ever happened? Be straight old Bird, be straight.

—On Wednesday morning as the 10 o'clock passenger train west bound pulled out from the station at Montrose Ray an eighteen year old son of William Prickett took a ride up to the switch, where he jumped off; but in some way slipped, striking his face on the ties which cut a deep gash over the left eye and tore the lower part of the left cheek in a fearful manner; his tongue was bitten about half off. Dr. O'Hair, of Waverly, sewed his countinance together; but it will be a long time before he is as good looking as he used to be.

—C. W. Ingerson informs us that he has missed garden stuff, chickens, etc., during the summer; but that on Wednesday night 16 nice young chickens, all he had left, roosting in plum trees near the house were carried away. He says they left the old hens; and seems to feel quite bad on account of the choice made by the thieves. He also, in a sorrowful sort of way, and dramatic, quite, said: "I wanted some of them myself." We would not advise anybody to be seen on Mr. I's premises soon, at night time; nor even in daytime unless prepared to prove, instantur, that they are not in the chicken business.

—You will find a good stock of shoes at lowest prices at the Delano Boot and Shoe Store. Call and buy. J. F. S.

—People ars preparing for winter already. The cool frosty evenings and mornnings are gentle reminders of what is to come.

—The Delano Fair last month was one of the largest ever held here. Tomorrow will be the Fair Day for October and it is expected a larger crowd even than the last will be present.

—The Eagle says we should have a literary society this winter. That's right. We have a good hall, and plenty of people who would gladly attend; and our local talent is sufficent to furnish entertainment every week during the winter if each one will only take hold and do his or her share.

--The Delano Blacks base ball team got done up the first of the week by the Minneapolis Blacks. Score 23 to 5. Our boys claim their defeat was due to their having attended a dance the night before; and are expecting a favorable answer to the proposition to try it over in the Flour City.

—Once more the mud on River Street emphasizes the inefficency of the plans for grading streets in vogue here. So big a bed of mortar in front of several of the busisness houses of the place for days at a time would not be tolerated in many towns with less metropolitan airs than ours.

—Some kind of a celebration is on foot for the time when the waterworks and electric lights are completed and in working order. Such demonstrations, properly carried on, add to the good feeling and interest in the village. All should be made to feel perfectly at home and as if they were really a part of the concern as they really are of the village.

—On Saturday morning we received from Hon. Kerrick a very pressing invitation to furnish a reception committee at the depot with a reporter. Of course we kept a weather eye out for the train, soon a whistle was heard, the reception committee consisting of Hon. and Mrs. C. W. Kerrick Prof. and Mrs. F. N. Leavens, Professors Steele, and Sherry, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Ball and son Oscar, were ranged up in reception style along the depot platform. The train came from the west, loaded with many passengers from Montana, we did not ascertain their names. In a few minutes more a train from the east drew up at the depot and our reporter learned that the reception committee was on hand to meet Miss Cheeley, Principal of the Primary department of the Delano school. The President of the committee Hon C. W. Kerrick at once appropriated to himself, as his part of the duties of the committee, the carrying of the guitar, we would not be surprised if he would use this instrument in his campaign, as a means of attracting the attention of voters this fall: others took care of trunk bandboxes, and etc, etc, and the reception was a success, except the chairman seemed to have forgotten to make his reception speech.

Personals.

Dr. and Mrs. Scheig, of Minneapolis, visited at Young's hotel this week.

S. S Breed, of St. Paul, was in town today looking after property interests

T. M. Woolley, of Howard Lake, was doing business in this yicinity this week.

Dr. Catlin visited relatives and friends at St. Peter, from Saturday night till Monday morning.

Mrs. Fletcher Ingerson and her twins, of Maple Plain, were guests of C. W. Ingerson, on Saturday last.

John Lohmiller appears to think twice before stepping with one of his feet; the one the horse stepped on.

Joseph Brenner, came home from Montana, Saturday. He spent the summer there but says "There is no place like home."

Roy Mulford, Albert Kurtz and Arthur Johnson a trio of Delano's Railroad men were enjoying a visit with friends at home this week.

Martin Conzet, of Greenwood was a GAZETTE caller Monday. He says: Although the Democrats have blundered he is not yet discouraged.

Rockford's war-horse, J. W. Mounts, was in town on Monday discoursing on the glorious achievements of Democracy and the 2nd Regiment Minn. Inf.

David Murdock, Populist candidate and Democratic nominee for Senator, and A. G. Sexton Populist candidate for Representative, were GAZETTE callers this morning.

County Cullings.

A. P. Richie, democratic candidate for Superintendent of Schools, seems to have made rather a good impression on our citizens in his visit last week. He was assistant to Superintendent Lindsley for awhile, and knows something about the work.

When anyone attempts to console you with the idea that the Democrats could not find anybody to run for Senator or Representatives, among the rank and file of their own faith, pleas inform them for the GAZEETE that it appeared to us as if they were useing every possible precaution to prevent good democrats from getting the two nominations given the Populists.

C. D. Schwab, nominee from Sherburne county on onr legislative ticket is said by his county papers to be all right. All the fault they find is that he is a Democrat. Willis A. Shaw of Clearwater and C. W. Kerrick of Delano are the other democrats on the legislative ticket. We don't expect either of these would vote for Washburn or Donnellvi if there is an opportunity to do otherwise.

One reform those candidates that are now riding double for the Legislature in our district will, doubtless, advocate is the abolition of the fee to get candidates names on the ticket. By the time a candidate pays $10. in Wright and $10. in Sherburne county to become a candidate and have his name placed on one ticket it is kind of hard for him to see the need of repeating the dose and putting up two more ten dollar flills. It is expensive riding two horse.

The Populist meeting held at the Welker school house last night was not very largely attended by the voting population: though a fair sized mixed audience was present. Rev. Murdock and Al Sexton expounded the Populistic doctrine. Al took the occasion to say that Geo. L. Becker our candidate for Governor was a republican office holder, and has since his nomination resigned; but neglected to say that Owens is one now, and has not resigned, either. Mr. Becker was appointed on the Railroad Commission, as a democrat; the law requiring that the democrats haye a representative.

True Skill in Housekeeping.

It is in making the home a comfort any a pleasure that the real skill in housekeeping may be exercised. Almost anyone with ordinary common sense can lay down fixed rules, and say that such work must be done at such a time; and if it is possible to carry the plan out exactly to the hour, or day, she may seem to be, and will probably think herself, an excellent housekeeper. But an attempt at such housekeeping is likely to result in one of two things; if the mistress is strong willed, she is sure to make her family extreamly uncomfortable; if she is weak willed, she will suffer much discomfort herself, and probably become peevish and fretful. In either case, she is a slave to her housekeeping, and cannot expect to develop any "sweetness and light" in her household.

A good housekeeper is one who not only knows how to make plans for her work, which is, indeed, very important, but knows, also, how to make the order of work sufficiently flexible to meet all the exigencias of daily life, without any serious disaster. She must know how to change her plans easily, that is, without friction: or even to do away with them altogether, for a time, if any circumstances should arise which would make it more desirable to do so. No housewife can hope to have a pleasant home for her family, or have herself anything but a careworn woman, who does not always provide for the unexpected; and one of the important provisions is to always keep her temper. If the unexpected happens, and it is continually happening in all active and hospitable households, meet it without any fretfulness, and it will not be half so difficult to deal with. —From "Household;" Demorest's Magazine for October.

Democratic County Resolutions.

BE IT RESOLVED, that we the Democrats of Wright County assemble i, reaffirm the principles enunciated by the National Democratic convention of 1892.

That we heartily approve of the courageous course pursued by President Cleveland and the House of Representatives in endeavoring to secure such tariff reform legislation as would relieve the tolling masses from the burdens heaped upon them by the so-called protective tariff.

And that we pledge to these principles of reform our earnest and untiring support.

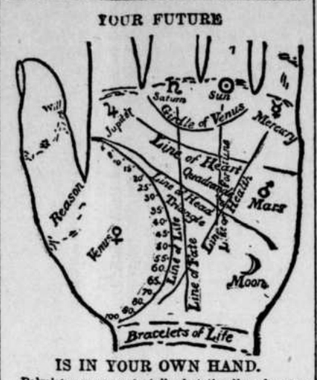
YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE, fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked: keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $300; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

THE SONG OF THE "No. 9."

My dress is of fine polished oak,
As rich as the finest fur cloak,
And for handsome design
You just should see mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I'm beloved by the poor and the rich,
For both I impartially stitch;
In the cabin I shine,
In the mansion I'm fine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I never get surly nor tired,
With zeal I always am fired;
To hard work I incline,
For rest I ne'er pine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I am easily purchased by all,
With instalments that monthly do fall;
And when I am thine,
Then life is benign—
No. 9, No. 9.

To the Paris Exposition I went,
Upon getting the Grand Prize intent:
I left all behind,
The Grand Prize was mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

At the Universal Exposition of 1889, at Paris, France, the best sewing machines of the world, including those of America, were in competition. They were passed upon by a jury composed of the best foreign mechanical experts, two of whom were the leading sewing machine manufacturers of France. This jury, after exhaustive examination and tests, adjudged that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best of all, and awarded that company the highest prize offered—the GRAND PRIZE—giving other companies only gold, silver and bronze medals.

The French government, as a further recognition of superiority, decorated Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler, president of the company, with the Cross of the Legion of Honor—the most prized honor of France.

The No. 9, for family use, and the No. 12, for manufacturing uses, are the best in the world to-day.

And now, when you want a sewing machine, if you do not get the best it will be your own fault. Ask your sewing machine dealer for the No. 9 Wheeler & Wilson machine. If he doesn't keep them, write to us for descriptive catalogue and terms. Agents wanted in all unoccupied territory. WHEELER & WILSON MFG. CO.

WE are in receipt of a copy of The Amboy Herald which has just completed its third year. The editor K. O. Sandum, claims he is the youngest editor in the state, being but 19 years old. If he hadn't mentioned it we would never have suspected it from the paper.

CHICAGO observed the birthday of Father Mathew in good style on the 10th inst., by a grand parade of Catholic and Protestant Temperance societies and Catholic any Public school children. In the evening Bishop Waterson and others addressed a large audience at the auditorium.

REPUBLICANS, Populists, or weak-kneed Democrats or somebody else has started a story that George L. Becker is to withdraw from the race for Governor before election day. Don't you believe a word of it. We don't. A man like Mr. Becker; whose record is not assailed, even by his enemies; with the motto he is running on "The old guards may die; but they never surrender," to drop out of the race after the campaign he is making! Don't be fooled by such tactics! But walk up and cast your ballot for Geo. L. Becker, the next Governor of Minnesota.

GOV. MCKINLEY is going around over the country telling people that "For the past eighteen months the Democrats have been running the government; and during that time little else has been running." He might with equal propriety and truthfulness tell them that, For four years the business of the country has been done under the McKinley bill; and but very little business has been done. Or that For four years our government was run under the McKinley bill; and ran behind each year. But, now with the McKinley bill out of the way and the Democrats in power things appear to brighten considerably.

TIM BURNS must have a cheek of very hard brass to go around through the country telling people, as he did a small Delano audience the other night, that the Republican party never did anything they are ashamed of. And that the Democrats have always endorsed, afterwards, all their actions. And the few fellows who applauded these remarks are surely, poorly posted or are about as cheeky as Tim. What of the notorious Force bill? And the purchasing clause of the John Sherman Silver bill? And the McKinley protective tariff bill? Doesn't Tim and his cheerers know that they have been relegated to the past, by a Democratic Congress? And, honestly now, isn't the G. O. P. heartily ashamed of the whole bateh of them?

NOT since 1860 when four presidential candidates were in the field has our country's politics been in so chaotic a condition as at present. Then each one of the presidential aspirants had followers in most of the voting precincts throughout the land; words were warm; and often men came to blows, in defense of their principles. Now we have four parties in the field; each clamoring for the front; but people are becoming more civilized; learning to control their tempers better, and under better election laws to trust in the decision rendered by the ballot. What is needed to give people still more confidence in the verdict at the polls is a better system of primaries; some arrangement whereby they may have a voice in saying who shall represent their interests on the ticket of their choice.

GOV. MCKINLEY, of Ohio, is swinging around the western segment of the political circle in great shape. He is just now passing the zenith of his fame as a tariff tinkerer; already his star inclines to the descent bound to come; he is making a desperate effort to keep it as high as possible until after the next presidential election. In coming to Minnesota he shows wisdom in deciding where his cause is weak; our state having already rendered its verdict against his theories by changing a big Republican majority to a minority, sixty thousand short of the combined votes given by Democrats, Populists and Prohibitionists; and by placing upon the ticket a man for Governor who, when in Congress, voted for the Mills bill his party have shown their fear of the results of placing a high protectionist up for all the offices; thereby making the protective tariff too prominent an issue in the campaign. These things justify Mr. McKinley in making these strenuous efforts to preserve his reputation which is so menaced with the dreadful calamity of being turned over to the Sage of Niniger, in the near future, to cypher into the shades of oblivion.

The little Napoleon's political brethren are useing him for all he is worth. He draws a full house where ever he goes. The local office hunters get out their friends: stir up an excitement and help make a crowd which with the people of all parties who are curious to see the great apostle of protection fills the largest auditoriums. Little Mac gives them his story about the good times we used to have; and of what he considers the superiority of the tariff law of '90, over that of '94. He don't dwell on the point long, however, that during these tremendiously hard times that have come upon us since Grover Cleveland took his seat in the Presidential chair, as a rebuke to Republican leaders for their blundering legislation, that the country has been doing business under the McKinley bill.

WE can't believe, and we contess we haven't tried very hard to bring ourselves to believe that it is right for half a dozen men in each voting precinct to come together and select the delegates to the county Democratic convention: and send delegates there pretending to represent the Democrats of their respective precincts when, as a matter of fact they represent nothing but their own selfish greed for gain. The logical conclusion is that a Democratic Convention constructed on such a plan: with many delegates of such choosing, will dicker, and trade among themselves, with the Populists, or even with Republicans, so long as they think there is a chance to reap a personal reward, oblivious to the party's choice; regardless of party or any other principles. Four years ago our party had an opportunity to win a glorious victory on the Legislative ticket; but a portion of the victory in sight was bartered away; and dissentions in our ranks created and fed which have never been healed. Two years ago another splendid opportunity presented itfelf; but the chance was frittered away in following around after the Populists in what proved to be a fruitless attempt to fuse, until we had become ridiculous in the eves of the people. This year the Republicans failed to nominate a satisfactory ticket but instead of placing the strongest and most fearless leader in the front and following up with good straight nominations the delegates at Buffalo, supposed to represent the Democrats of the county placed at the head of the column the Populist candidate for Senator, thereby extinguishing the small sparks of enthusiasm that had cropped out during the nomination of the county ticket.

The proper remedy for this sort of politics which permeates Populists, Prohibitionists, Republicans and all political parties to some extent as they are run under existing regulations is to adopt the Kentucky plan of primaries, or some other plan whereby the voters of a party can have a voice in selecting their candidates,

To Mr. Baldwin.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 29th, 1894.
Hon. M. R. Baldwin, City:

Dear Sir:

I am as you know a Republican, but I believe in fair play, and when I read from Mr. Towne's platform such words as the following:

"We believe that the defenders of the flag found the service no 'picnic,' and that party or candidate so characterizing it ought to be trusted to legislate for those who saved the Union," and learn that he is attacking your pension record in congress. I deem it my duty to acknowlede to the public the very great service you rendered a relative of mine, not a resident of our state, in securing a pension within two months from the time the claim was placed in your hands; though pension agents and members of congress had been at work, for nearly four years, and had accomplished nothing.

You being satisfied that the claim was a worthy deserving one took it up and presisted until the claim was allowed.

The criticisms that I have heard of your pension speeches in congress have led me to read carefully all your utterances on that subject, and it gives me pleasure to state through the medium of our newspapers that in my judgment the worthy, deserving soldier can find no fault with any sentence of your pension speeches or of your action in their interest.

And I am convinced that he will find no truer or more faithful friend. He should be with you in the pension reform you propose, as I am, and as all honest men should be in your fight against camp followers, coffee coolers and deserters whose names have gone on the pension lists through fraud.

Truly yours,
D. A. DUNCAN.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 5, 1894.

Secrerary Lamont, who has never taken any part in the democratic factional fights which have made New York a doubtful State, instead of the democratic State which it ought to be, and would be with the democrats united, has gone to New York to use his influence to bring about harmony in the State campaign. No confidence is violated when the statement is made that Secretary Lamont believes that Senator Hill should have the united support of the democrats in his campaign for the governorship, whether he intends, as has been reported, to resign the governorship, if elected, and retain his seat in the Senate, or to resign the Senatorship and serve another term as governor. Those are matters for him to personally decide. He is the regularly nominated candidate of the party, unanimously nominated against his will. and it is as little as every democrat can do to give him loyal support. That the influence of the administration will be used in his behalf is certain, and the belief is general here that he will be elected. I know of one well known republican who has wagered that he would be elected, if he accepted the nomination.

The annual report of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, just made public, takes strong ground in favor of encouraging the local authorities by money payments to co-operate with the government in getting the Indian children into the public schools and says that the policy which resulted in a reduction of $75,000 in the amount appropriated by Congress for contract schools for the current fiscal year will be continued by the government until the Indian children are all absorbed in the public schools.

Gen. Wade Hampton, U. S. Railroad Commissioner, has just returned from an official tour over the Pacific Railroads. He says the roads are in good condition and that they are doing as good business as could be expected. A detailed report of his trip will be made to the Secretary of the Interior, who will include it in his annual report to the President, which will be submitted before Congress reassembles. Gen. Hampton says that many people he met in California were clamorous not only for government control of the Union and Central Pacific railroads, but of all others. He is opposed to the idea in toto. Speaking on the subject, he said: "In the first place the bonds of these roads held by the government are not due until 1897, and the government cannot foreclose until default has been made in their payment. Then it becomes a question of expediency. If the government should foreclose, having only the second mortgage, it would be compelled to pay the first mortgage, amounting to many millions. Even then the government would find itself in possession of roads without terminals. A government such as ours cannot operate railroads. In autocratic governments it is possible, but not in this. The demand for foreclosure of the Pacific coast, although it has become popular in the west."

Hon. John S. Seymour, Commissioner of Patents, who has just returned from his home in Connecticut, reports the democratic party in that State as in a splendid condition and enthusiastic over the unusually strong State ticket it has nominated, and as making an aggressive fight in the Congressional districts. He says that nearly every manufacturing interest in the State is helped by the new tariff in one way or another. He itemizes the benefits thusly: "Free lead and free copper will help the brass goods manufacturers. Free wool will aid the makers of many lines of textile goods, and free alcohol in the arts has long been demanded by the hat makers, to whom it is a necessity. Free lumber and reduced duties on coal and iron ore will also be appreciated by the manufacturers, while they can find no fault with the textile schedules." Still, the republicans are claiming Connecticut as certain. It does seem to be certain—certain to go democratic. The populists in two of the Alabama districts must have had difficulty in finding candidates for Congress, or they would not have nominated two men who are well if not favorably known in Washington, One of these men—Mr. Howard—is the author of one of the filthiest books ever put on sale in Washington, with the sacreligious title of "If Christ Came to Congress," and the other—Lee Crandall—has for years been the editor of a Washington weekly. paper which has existed solely for the purpose of selling its columns to whoever would buy. Alabama democrats should experience no difficulty in beating such men as these.

Woman's Column.

EDITED BY MRS. E. A. STACY.

Christians who pray "lead us not into temptation" may profitably resolve not to place temptation before other people.

The Union Signal of the 27 of Sept. says. "We must warn all who read, against the new fashionable narcotic antipyrin, which is now much used as a reviver but the use of which involves the rapid formation of a habit which has all the terrors of the chloral or opium habit. Physicians ought to watch the small beginnings that lead to the most terrible catastrophes of which one can conceive.

Why doesn't some wise man rise up and "proclaim." You can't prohibit gambling, men will gamble any how, so let us get a big revenue from it and "regulate it."

Loafers corner. You all know where it is. Every city and town is cursed with such corners, and they are a nuisance to pedestrians an annoyance to merchants near by, and a dangerous place for boys and men. The idlers that gather in such places are usually grumblers. Things are not to suit them and they grumble and snarl but refuse to lift so much as a little finger to remove the burdens of which they complain. They live on the industry of others and spend their days—long days they must be—in gossip and evil talk. The authorities should make these corners more comfortable for decent people to pass and less pleasant for the idlers. Idle men are the devils tools.

"BRECKINRIDGE beaten," "Women's power in politics. "Honor of the district vindicated," are some of the headlines which announce the glad tidings of the more than deserved defeat of the dishonored silver tongued candidate for Congress from the Ashland district of Kentucky. It is conceded on all sides that this was a "woman's war, and that "nothing but a woman's war could have awakened such widespread and self-sacrificing opposition to the former idol of Kentucky"—Colonel Breckinridge. It is notable that the very women who led this opposition belonged to Kentucky's aldest and most aristocratic families, which have formerly enjoyed good fellowship with the Breckinridges. Nothing could demonstrate more positively the fact that good women will discount everything else before they will discount morality. "A white life for two" is not a meaningless phrase with us, as politicians are beginning to learn. The women of the Blue Grass state have heralded the dawn of puerer politics and woman's suffrage as well.

A Word to Workingmen.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Not long since Chaplain McCabe, Methodism's missionary secretary, proposed to the workingmen of the country that they buy all the railroads, which they could do in a very short time if they would stop patronizing saloons.

The chaplain's co-laborer, Rev. Dr. A. B. Leonard, who is also a secretary of the Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, comes forth with an amendment which reads thus:

Chaplain McCabe's proposition to workingmen is excellent so far as it goes, but it falls short of a complete remedy. By all means we workingmen should stop our drinking and save our money to enable us to procure comfortable family supplies, even if we do not buy the railroads. But if the present generation of workingmen do stop drinking and the saloons are allowed to remain open, protected by license laws, their "strongest bulwarks of defense," the next generation will be as drunken and impoverished as the present, and capitalists will again own our railroads. I move to amend by adding to the chaplain's proposition the following: That all ministers, laymen and good citizens unite with workingmen, using their influence, voice and ballot to prohibit forever the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages; standing together upon the declaration of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, "that no political party has a right to expect, nor ought it to receive, the support of christian men so long as it stands committed to the license policy, or refuses to put itself on record in the attitude of open hostility to the saloon."

If the chaplain's proposition will enable workingmen to buy the railroads this amendment will enable them to hold what they have gained, increase every year their proportionate wealth and also rid the country of its chief source of poverty, vice and crime--the saloon—and good times will come to stay. SECRETARY LEONARD.

Young men are urged by kind friends and affectionate parents to pass by the saloon would it not be much better to arrange matters so as to have no saloon to pass? How often fathers are humiliated and distressed by seeing sons becoming drunkards, when these same fathers vote for saloons and belong to political parties that enact license laws. Why should they be surprised when their sons patronize the institutions they encourage and protect by their ballot? They ought to expect nothing else for they know that these places cannot prosper without customers and that the sons of such fathers are the very ones the saloonists depend upon for traid. If they object to supplying the saloons with customers then they must admit their willingness to see the sons of other fathers make good the supply. This is selfishness of the worst kind and indicates the supreme greed of those who stand by the saloon on election day. They hope to escape themselves but are perfectly willing to let other people suffer. Shame upon such selfishness.

Our venerable and respected citizen Jacob Hursh passed away on the 2nd. inst., at the age of 86. He was a native of Clumberland Co., Pa., where he resided the ealier part of his life. About the middle of the present century he removed westward with his family residing successively in Ohio, Illinois and Minnessta, being a resident of the latter, on his farm near this place since 1864. He leaves a number of descendants icluding several great-grand children.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. October 9th.

EDITOR BUFFALO GAZETTE.—It has been the misfortune of your correspondent to be here in the city of Minneapolis for the last 8 or ten days serving as a juror at the court of Sanhedrin I was mustered in on the first of the present month in the forenoon and in the afternoon went on duty in what is called the criminal court roon before Judge Smith. In one room they try criminals, in another room they try court cases, and in three or four other rooms they try civil or juro cases. It is and has been the wonder for some time among the farming community of Hennepin county why our taxes are so high, you have only to walk down 4th street, a few blocks from bridge square when you will come to a massive pile of stone greater in size than the Mormon temple at Sault Lake City or the Bastile of Paris, in France this is the new County Court House. A few blocks further down will bring you to the old Court House on corner of 4th st and 8th ave. South which was built in 1856 just before the hard times of 1857 begun. There you will find an army of men, composed of many nationality's from the dignified Judge and waspy lawyer down to the day laborer, all there for the purpose of fixing up things for the other fellow.

Litigation may be all right for the professional (lawyer) but as a rule is a blight on the fellows pocket book. To a casual observer it seems that many of the cases that come up before the courts for a hearing, are so trifling they certainly ought to be settled without coming into litigation and about all many of them amount to is a good fat fee for the lawyer and a big tax for the county.

IT is said that seven suicides is the normal daily average in New York and vicinity. Facts collated prove that poverty, which is usually considered a prime cause for self murder, does not figure as the motive in the majority of these suicides, for most of the persons are those in comfortable circumstances.

THE estate of the late Dr. Henry S. THE sum total of the information brought back by the members of the Peary exploring expedition from the arctic regions is that "seal meat tastes like tainted mutton with coal oil poured over it." The world has been waiting for centuries for this important intelligence, and now Peary can come home and Wellman and all the rest of them can quit.

A GHOST which had terrified a small community in Indiana for six weeks was finally exposed by the simple process of setting the bulldog on it. The dog ran the ghost up against a gate and tore off its white robe, and when the dog's owner came up he found it to be the wife of a neighbor with whom his spouse had quarreled. There is no sentiment about a bulldog.

THE New York constitutional convention has adopted the following clause: "Nor shall any lottery tickets, pool-selling, book-making or any other kind of gambling hereafter be authorized or allowed within this state, and the legislature shall pass appropriate laws to prevent offenses against any of the provisions of this section." The vote upon this was 109 in favor and only four against.

IN Chicago a few days ago a young woman died in the chair of a professional "beautifier"—one of those fellows who remove honest freckles, ensmall mouths and straighten noses. The next day a wrinkled old woman applied for treatment. She was told of the dangers that attended the operation of removing wrinkles and also of the fate of the young woman, but she frankly confessed that for the sake of restored youth she would undergo all the pain and risk all the dangers. Poor woman!

THE summer girl of 1894—bless her—has passed into history. She was bewitching and we should be inconsolable over her loss were it not that we have in her place the autumn girl. And beyond the autumn girl we can catch glimpses of the winter maiden dancing and throwing coquettish glances at us out of December and January, while—and what sweet consolation—from the more distant future a figure, somewhat hazy to be sure, but lovely as a dream, beckons us toward another heydey, and we know that the figure is the summer girl of 1895.

A PAINTING by Rubens was discovered in a London auction store the other day by an expert. It was a dingy old canvas, 28¼x40½ inches, but the unmistakable idiosyncrasies of the master-hand stuck out all over it. Concealing his amazement at the discovery the finder inquired the price wanted for the old picture, and the dealer had no sooner said $10 than he had the money in his hand and the stranger the canvas. A professional cleaner was intrusted with the picture, and when it emerged from his hands it was a veritable masterpiece, estimated to be worth not less than $5,000.

PRESIDENT SCHURMAN, of Cornell university, in his opening address to the students made a strong plea for manliness and the abolition of brutality. "The aim of athletics," he said, "is to give every student a rounded, harmonious physical organism, and college athletics should certainly have that aim in view." He was emphatic in his denunciations of hazing and stated that it will not be tolerated even if it becomes necessary to expel a whole class in order to prevent it. The students of Cornell and other colleges should imitate the example of Princeton and abolish the barbarous practice.

ON TO PEKIN.

Cautious Advance of Japanese Troops Against the Capital.

No Plundering Will Be Allowed If Taken—Moukden Evacuated by the Chinese—Rebellious Subjects Add to the Terrors of War.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—A dispatch to the Times from Tien Tsin dated Saturday says that the Japanese are advancing cautiously toward Moukden and avoiding any dashing enterprises. Their cruisers are closely watching the Chinese fleet in the gulf of Pe Chi Li.

The Japanese army advancing on Pekin is said to have many Koreans in its ranks. The recent announcement that American officers had entered the Japanese army has been rectified. It now appears that Gen. Ruggles and several other American officers were readily permitted by the Japanese government to follow the campaign, but solely as spectators.

Will Allow No Plundering.

The Japanese government has instructed Field Marshal Yamaga to inform the diplomats at Seoul that he will not allow the Japanese army to plunder Pekin in case that city is taken. This assurance will probably induce the diplomats to stay in Pekin even should the emperor leave the capital. They will, at any rate, attempt to negotiate a peace by asking Japan to be moderate in her demands. The emperor's palace in Pekin is now guarded by Mantchu troops only.

A dispatch received at New Chwang, gulf of Lac Ton, says that the Chinese are in full retreat from Moukden, which is threatened by the advance of the Japanese troops from Corea and the Japanese force said to have been landed near Possiel bay, not far from the Russian territory bordering on Corea and the Chinese province of Manchuria. Another report from Shanghai says it is believed at the latter city that the Chinese forces which have been defending Moukden have been hastily summoned from that place in order to oppose the projected Japanese landing either in the gulf of Pe-Chi-Li or in the gulf of Lao Ton. The Chinese have been hurriedly adding to the fortifications of New Chwang in anticipation of a Japanese attack upon that port or a landing in its neighborhood.

Rumors of Rebellion.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—China is threatened from within and without. The walled empire, with its 400,000,000 people and its history of thousands of years, seems in the throes of dissolution. The empire is threatened within by intrigues against the present Tartar dynasty, by plots to depose the emperor and place Prince Kung's son on the throne and by rebellions in the provinces. From without comes invading Japan, with an army of 30,000 in the province of Manchuria advancing on the capital, Moukden, and another army of 40,000 being convoyed across the gulf of Pechili to form a junction at Moukden with the other branch, and move on Pekin, the capital of the Chinese empire. Japan is bent on conquest and partition and Great Britain and Russia are seeking an international council to decide the fate of China.

To Prevent China's Overthrow.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—A dispatch received here from Berlin says that it has been learned on high authority that the meeting of the British cabinet was called to discuss a proposal for combined action on the part of the powers to interfere and prevent the overthrow of the Chinese dynasty, which, it is claimed, would result in anarchy in the empire and the massacre of Europeans. One power, it is said, favored a compulsory settlement of the Chinese-Japanese dispute. The dispatch adds that Sir William Vernon Harcourt, chancellor of the exchequer, supported this view of the action to be taken, but Prime Minister Rosebery and a majority of the cabinet believed that active interference would be more dangerous than non-intervention, and it was decided that Great Britain should not interfere.

The American Residents.

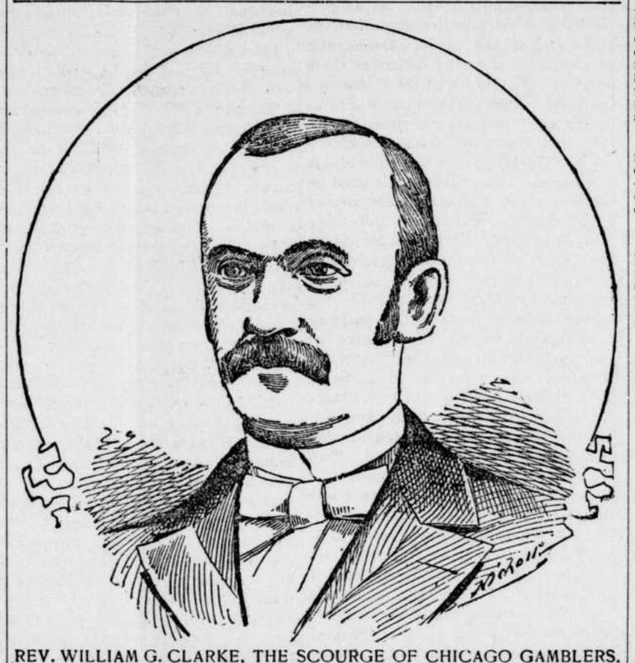
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. Secretary Herbert has been forehanded in taking steps for the protection of the lives and property of American residents in China, believed now to be endangered by rebellions and unrestrained troops. Three weeks ago the secretary suggested to Admiral Carpenter to confer with the commanders of the foreign ships in Chinese waters and arrange to cooperate with them, if possible, in a plan to have one or two ships at each of the treaty ports and other coast towns where foreigners reside, to give protection to the citizens or subjects of the nation's party to the agreement. In this way the eight United States vessels assigned to the station would be equivalent to many more for protection purposes. The Charleston has arrived at Yokohama. There are now five United states warships in the east—the Charleston, Baltimore, Monocacy, Concord and Petrel—and this force will be increased to eight vessels by the addition of the Detroit, Machias and Yorktown as soon as they can be made ready.



REV. WILLIAM G. CLARKE, THE SCOURGE OF CHICAGO GAMBLERS.

On Mr. Clarke, as chairman of the committee on gambling of the Civic Federation, has fallen the brunt of the battle being waged against gambling in Chicago. Mr. Clarke was born at Adrian, Mich., in 1861. His parents removed soon afterward to the City of New York, and then westward, finally settling in Chicago. They were Presbyterians, and when William G. was a boy of 14 he united with the congregation of Rev. Albert Kittredge, D. D., now of New York. He finished his college and seminary studies in 1883, and after holding the pastorate of a Waukegan and afterward of a Riverside Presbyterian church, he, in 1888, received a call from the Campbell Park (Chicago) Presbyterian church, of which congregation he is still the pastor. Perhaps, says a Chicago paper, no better equipped man could be found as a leader in this new crusade against the vice of gambling.

STOLE A BIG SUM.

Safe Blowers Rifle O. W. Shryer's Bank at Bloomfield, Ind.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 6.—Professional safe blowers robbed O. W. Shryer's bank at Bloomfield, Ind., of $5,500 Wednesday night. The local police department was notified of the job and given a description of the burglars.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 6.—A bloody fight took place Thursday evening in Greene county between a possee of 100 armed men and a trio of bank robbers who robbed the safe of the Bloomfield bank Wednesday night, blowing the vault to smithereens with a heavy charge of dynamite and wrecking the bank office. The men secured $5,500 in cash and fled to the hill country west of Bloomfield, where they were overtaken Thursday evening by Sheriff Johnson's posse, guided by bloodhounds. A desperate fight was kept up, with the robbers retreating. One of the trio was so badly wounded he fell behind and attempted to hide in the brush. The bloodhounds nosed him out and his capture was easily effected.

A FOOLISH MAN.

He Thaws Out Dynamite in a Stove—Explosion Kills Five.

IRONWOOD, Mich., Oct. 9.—John Ravell, a miner, on Monday evening put a half box of dynamite in the oven of the kitchen stove to thaw it out for use in the morning. The family, consisting of seven persons, was gathered about the stove chatting over the events of the day and conversing with a neighbor, Mrs. Peterson. In a few minutes, without a premonition of danger, there was a terrific explosion which dealt out death with an unsparing hand. The following were killed: John Ravell, Peter Ravell, Dan Ravell, Louis Ravell and Mrs. Louise Peterson.

The injured are: Baby Clarence Revell, Mrs. John Revell and Thomas Ravell. The injured are reported in a dangerous condition and it is not unlikely that the family will be exterminated as a result of the father's foolish move. The house was blown to atoms.

GOES TO NEW YORK.

The Baltimore Baseball Club Loses the Fight for the Temple Cup.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The Temple cup has been won by the New York club. Four well-contested games have been played for its possession—the final one at the polo grounds Monday afternoon. It is said the receipts for the four games will amount to about $25,000. Of this the Giants will get $16,000. As the expenses are not heavy each of the sixteen New York players will receive as his share nearly $1,000. The Baltimores will have about $9,000 to divide up among fourteen players after their expenses are paid. There were 12,000 people present Monday. On account of darkness only eight innings were played, the score standing: New York, 16; Baltimore, 3.

KILLED IN A RACE FIGHT.

Seven Negroes Reported Dead as the Result of a Kentucky Affray.

HAWESVILLE, Ky., Oct. 9.—As the excursion train from the Owensboro fair arrived at Powers station, a few miles west of this city, at 6 o'clock Sunday night a terrible race fight occurred between thirty drunken negroes and a few white men, as a result of which seven negroes are said to have been killed. It seems the negroes became angered because they were forced to ride in the colored apartment.

A Fatal Fall.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 6.—Jesse T. McClure, for the last eight years post office inspector, died Friday from injuries received during the carnival parade Thursday night. He was shoved by a drunken man, striking his head on the curbstone. His skull was fractured, and he died, not regaining consciousness. McClure's home was at Gallatin, Mo.

Farmers in Fatal Quarrel.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 6. — Two farmers, Charles Perky and Jones Overton, fought over the line of a fence. The former was killed and the latter fatally wounded.

The body of Uriah Kimes, Jr., was found under a bridge at Iowa City, Ia., and it is supposed he was killed by falling from the bridge.

Do You Wish the Finest Bread and Cake?

It is conceded that the Royal Baking Powder is the purest and strongest of all the baking powders.

The purest baking powder makes the finest, sweetest, most delicious food.

The strongest baking powder makes the lightest food.

That baking powder which is both purest and strongest makes the most digestible and wholesome food.

Why should not every housekeeper avail herself of the baking powder which will give her the best food with the least trouble?

Dr. Haines, of Rush Medical College, Consulting Chemist of the Chicago Board of Health, says: "Royal is not only the purest, but the strongest baking powder with which I am acquainted."

IN WANT OF A NAME.

An Embarrassing Situation for Mr. and Mrs. Jack.

"Well, that's done!" and Mrs. Jack patted the crisp pillow-shams and gazed complacently around the pretty room—a guest-room that had never yet held a guest—fresh, new and dainty. The breeze stirred the frilled curtains, the late afternoon sun shone on the creamy walls, and the soft light flittered through the young leaves of the chestnut, and faintly tinted with green the lovely "Abend" over the bed.

No wonder Mrs. Jack looked satisfied. No detail for comfort or beauty had been forgotten. She and Jack had been married only a few months; this was the finishing touch to their cozy nest, and any young housewife might have been proud of the result.

Just then Jack rushed in, bearing a letter. He stopped on the threshold.

"Whew! what magnificence! Might a poor worm venture in?"

"Nonsense, Jack! It isn't magnificent at all—only pretty and restful. Come in, bad boy, and tell me what is in that letter."

"You know Cousin Elizabeth?" asked Jack, as he settled himself in a big easy chair and pulled his little wife down beside him.

"Yes, indeed, dear. You remember I saw her the summer we were engaged, and I liked her so much! Such a sweet face and gentle ways! But she seems too old to be your cousin—more like an aunt."

"Father was the youngest of an immense family, and Cousin Elizabeth's mother was the eldest, so there were many years between them; indeed, father and his niece are nearly of an age. You knew she was married?"

"Yes, an old love story, wasn't it—a real romance?"

"Well, Fannie, what do you say to your new room being christened by this ancient bridal couple on their antique honeymoon?"

"Oh, this isn't their honeymoon! They were married long before we were, and that was ages ago. Besides, they aren't so old, and I am very glad to have some of your people for our first guests. You've been such a perfect dear about this room. What does the letter say?"

He read it:

"DEAR BOY AND HIS DEAR WIFE: I have so longed to see you in your new happiness, and now comes an opportunity. The colonel has come to Boston on business, and I am with him. Would it be convenient for you to have us for a few days? Do not hesitate to say so if it would not. If you really do want us, couldn't Jack meet the colonel at Young's, after his business hours Wednesday, and take him out to your home? I have an engagement that will keep me until evening, but I can find my way to you easily. With dear love to both.

"COUSIN ELIZABETH.

"P. S. I do want you to see my colonel. C.E."

"Wednesday—that's day after to-morrow," said Mrs. Jack. "I shall be so happy to have them! I'll write at once. But she gave no address! Never mind, you can assure the colonel when you meet him how pleased we are. There's the dinner bell."

That night, as Nan was taking hairpins out of her bonny brown locks, she casually remarked to Jack:

"What did you say the colonel's name was? I don't remember it."

Jack looked puzzled. "Why, didn't I tell you? Colonel—colonel—Jingo! I've clean forgotten that name for the moment. No matter. It will come to me in the morning."

But in the morning it was just as far away from his memory as ever.

There was such a downpour going on in the outside world that Nan insisted that Jack, who had a cold, should not go to the city, and Jack, nothing loth, settled himself for a comfortable morning by a bright open fire. Suddenly he threw down his paper.

"Nan," he said in consternation, "how shall I ever find the colonel at Young's hotel? It will never do for me to go around inquiring for 'the colonel who married Cousin Elizabeth!'"

"Jack," cried Nan, "what a fix we are in! What ever can we do? Can't you think of the name? Bend your mind to it."

Jack bent his mind to it, meantime pacing the floor.

"It seems to me as if it were something like 'Walker,' but it isn't that."

"Perhaps it's 'Trott,'" suggested Nan, "or 'Trotter.'"

"No; it's an odder name than that, but what it is I cannot make out."

"Jack, this is awful! We never can let them know we don't remember their name, after that lovely clock they sent us when we were married! My note of thanks went to 'Cousin Elizabeth,' through her mother. I know if I had ever written the name I should remember it. Oh, dear!" and Nan looked so disconsolate that Jack had to stop his deeply perplexed thinking for awhile to cheer her.

"I'll say over all the names I can think of, beginning with 'A,' and so on through the alphabet. You'll be sure to know the name when you hear it," said Nan, after awhile. "Adams, Atkinson, Atwell," etc.

But it was all of no avail. By the time Nan had come to "M" Jack's hair was in wild disorder and his tie had been pulled awry. Long before "Z" was reached he was raging up and down the floor like a caged tiger. Nan was almost hysterical.

"O Jack!" she almost sobbed. "You can't find the colonel, and they'll think we didn't want them, and how can we ever explain?"

"Gracious, Nan! It's simply awful! Cousin Elizabeth is such a dear, forgetful soul, she'll never remember she didn't send us any address; but she is very sensitive, and if she gets it into her head that we didn't care about her coming, it will break her heart. Ha! I have it!" and Jack snapped his fingers and executed a jig on the hearth rug.

"What, oh, what?" cried Nan.

"Well, I'll go over to the station and telegraph to Sue for Cousin Elizabeth's married name."

"Oh, Jack, you wise boy! You are the brightest fellow in the whole world, I believe," and Nan beamed and dimpled.

Jack pulled on his mackintosh and plunged into the storm. Half an hour later he returned with a very dismal countenance.

"The wires are down between here and Boston," he announced. "The gale is fearful."

They spent a dismal evening, Jack walking the floor most of the time.

"Jove!" he exclaimed, "the situation is worthy of Howells."

Then the absurdity of their predicament was borne upon him and he roared with laughter. Nan could not see the fun. It was pure tragedy to her hospitable soul. The next morning matters brightened. While they were sitting at breakfast, in the sunshine that had succeeded the storm, the postman brought a letter from Cousin Elizabeth. It contained but a few lines:

"Our plans are changed, dear two, and instead of meeting Jack, the colonel will wait and come out with me on the eight o'clock train. With love, COUSIN ELIZABETH."

"What luck!" shouted Jack.

"But," said Nan, dolefully, "we've got to call them something. I don't see that matters are mended much."

"Oh! their name will be on their baggage, and Cousin Elizabeth will have to introduce her colonel. That's all right! Now I must be off!" With a kiss Jack was gone.

The day passed pleasantly in preparation, and when, in the evening, the guests arrived, Cousin Elizabeth thought she never saw a prettier home or a more winsome mistress.

Nan, on her part, was proud of her husband when he heartily greeted Cousin Elizabeth's portly husband with: "I am glad to see you, colonel," not betraying, by any hesitation, the dreadful blank that existed in his mind after that military title. For the baggage had revealed no name!

The lady, with sweet graciousness, had said: "You must call me 'Cousin Elizabeth,' dear;" and the husband had been introduced simply as "The Colonel."

"Never mind," said Jack. "We'll find out somehow. It's immense, though, having visitors and not knowing their name. But I've thought of a way."

"So have I," said Nan. "We'll see who will find out first."

Soothed by the certainty, she set to work to enjoy her guests; not a hard task, for she already loved Cousin Elizabeth, and no one could help liking the colonel, with his simple, hearty ways and utter devotion to his wife.

The next morning, when Nan saw the postman coming down the street, she remembered that Cousin Elizabeth had said she was expecting a letter to be forwarded, and so she rushed to meet him, eager to read the address. Just as she reached the door she was met by Cousin Elizabeth, who held up a letter.

"Only one, dear, and that for me," and away went the envelope into the little morning fire blazing on the hearth, before Nan had a glimpse of the superscription. Jack grinned.

"Foiled again," he whispered in her ear as he gave his good-by kiss.

Off went Jack into the city, and from there he sent the following telegram to his sister:

"Wire at once Cousin Elizabeth's married name. At once. JACK."

After Nan had given her day's orders, arranged her flowers and settled Cousin Elizabeth on the lounge with a new book she dressed for the street.

"I've a little shopping I must do, Cousin Elizabeth. I know you will excuse me for awhile."

"Dear child!" murmured Cousin Elizabeth, as she watched the slender, graceful figure down the street.

A little later Nan came back, radiant, clasping a square package. She hurried up to her room, undid a pretty blank book bound in soft white kid, tied it up with long yellow ribbons and laid it on the little desk in the guest room. Then she went back to her company.

"Dear colonel and Cousin Elizabeth," she said, "we are so happy to have you as our first guests. I knew something was lacking in your room and it just occurred to me it was a guest book. So I went out and got one, and now I want you to write your names on the very first page."

"Bless you, dear!" said Cousin Elizabeth; "what a privilege to be the first of what I hope will be a long and happy list!"

In the middle of the afternoon Jack received an answer to his telegram:

"Do not remember name. He was a colonel. Father and mother in Burlington. They would know. SUE."

After lunch while the guests were dozing in the library, Nan stole into the guest-room. There on the fair first page of the new book, were the words: "Cousin Elizabeth," and beneath, in bolder writing: "The Colonel."

"It's the funniest thing I ever heard of," said Jack, after they had confided their disappointments to each other, as they were dressing for dinner.

"Funny!" exclaimed Nan. "It's fearful! It seems as if everything was in conspiracy against us. What would they say if they knew we did not even know their name!"

That evening a neighbor called. Jack muttered over the introductions as incoherently as he could, and the whole group drew up their chairs in a cozy circle. During a lull in the conversation the caller turned to Nan, and said in distinctly audible tones:

"I beg your pardon, but I did not catch the names of your guests."

Nan turned pale—the room reeled. Crash! over went a little table that was standing by Jack's elbow.

"Oh, my pet rose-bowl!" cried Nan. "How could you be so clumsy?" Then, as she and Jack stooped over to pick up the fallen stand, she whispered in his ear: "You darling! I think I should have fainted!"

In the confusion of restoring order the question was forgotten, and the neighbor went home none the wiser for his inquiry.

The guests took their departure the next morning. While they were waiting for the carriage Nan put her arms around Cousin Elizabeth and said, lovingly:

"You must leave us your address, dear. We want to write and hear from you often. You belong to us now, you know."

Cousin Elizabeth kissed the rosy cheek.

"I thought of that, and had this all ready for you." And she pressed a card into Nan's hand.

After the good-by's were said and the carriage rolled away, Nan examined the address, and Jack, looking over her shoulder, shouted with glee. The card said, simply, in the colonel's handwriting:

"325 Vine Avenue, East Adams, Mass."

That night Jack received his letter:

"You funny boy! What did you mean by that frantic telegram? I wrote right to mother, and have just received her reply. She says the name is Col. Albion G. Pacer. What did you want to know for in such a hurry?

"SUE."

"Well, I said it was something like Walker," said Jack.—Youth's Companion.

HOW STOUT GOT STOUT.

The Remarkable Experience of a Rheumatic Sufferer.

All But Paralyzed—Lost His Flesh and Expected to Die—How He Got Well and Strong.

[From the Mt. Sterling (Ill.) Republican.]

Few men are held in higher esteem by their fellow-townspeople than James W. Stout, of Riply, Ill., and it is due, no doubt, partly to this popularity that the record of the case has created such widespread interest. While his experience is not without an equal, yet it has been sufficiently remarkable to demand the attention of thousands of people in Illinois, among whom are numbered some of the most eminent physicians.

In January, 1893, Mr. Stout was stricken with what was then believed to be sciatic rheumatism, and in a short time was barely able to hobble around on crutches, and it seemed to his friends that his days were numbered. To-day he is a strong, hearty-looking man for 160 puonds

How this wonderful change was brought about is most interesting as told to a representative of the Republican by Mr. Stout himself:

"I was afflicted with sciatic rheumatism and lumbago in January, 1893. The sciatic nerve on the right side became affected in the hip, running down to the ankle and across the small of the back to the left side, and soon my whole system became afflicted, causing me the most excruciating pain. In a very short time I become totally unable to attend to any business whatever, and the disease rapidly growing worse I had to take to my bed, where I lay suffering almost continuously for months the most agonizing torture, scarcely being able to move or be moved. At one time I lay for six weeks flat on my back, the slightest movement causing me such pain as almost to throw me into convulsions. I cannot begin to express to you the intense pain I suffered. I was drawn, by the severeness of the malady, over to the left side; lost my appetite, had no desire for food, and what little I did eat I could not digest, the digestive organs failing to perform their duty, adding greatly to my already precarious condition. For weeks at a time I was unable to eat or sleep, suffering all the time most intensely and at times fearing I would lose my reason, and would have welcomed death to relieve me of my sufferings.

"I consulted with local physicians and some of the most eminent specialists of the larger cities throughout the country, some treating me for one thing and some for another, but without effect, and I received no elief whatever. One physician told me I had double curvature of the spine and would eventually become paralyzed. I spent hundreds of dollars in the short time I was afflicted without receiving the least benefit. My friends all thought that there was no hope for me whatever and said that I must die, and I, myself, had almost given up in despair, when, in September, 1893, about eight months after I was first afflicted, my attention was called to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Without much hope, I at once sent to C. F. Rickey & Co., Druggists, Mt. Sterling, Ill., and procured some of the pills and immediately began taking them. Before long I became aware of a great change for the better in my almost hopeless condition. My appetite came back and my digestive organs performed their usual functions properly. I took some more and grew rapidly better—could sit up in a chair and my body began to straighten out; continued the treatment and in a short time was able to be about on crutches. My recovery from that time on was very rapid and assured. My right leg, which before I commenced this treatment, was numb and dead, now experienced a pricking, tingling sensation. I was enabled to throw away my crutches and walk upright once more among my fellows, a better man physically than ever before. When first taken by the disease I weighed 160 pounds, was reduced to 115; I now weigh 166, more that I ever weighed at any time in my life. Yes, sir, I lay my recovery entirely to Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions and all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—(they are never sold in bulk or by the 100,) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady N. Y.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

An Eminent American Passes Away—His Death Was Sudden.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—Oliver Wendell Holmes, the venerable poet and prose writer, almost the last of the circle of great men of letters of New England of the generation past, died at his home at 296 Beacon street, Boston, at 1:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—The residence of the late Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes is closed to all visitors. The poet was sitting in his study in his easy chair chatting with his son, Judge Holmes, when death came upon him Sunday without a moment's notice. He died at 1:30 p. m. No one but Judge Holmes, his wife and the servants were in the house.

Dr. Holmes had passed a perfect summer, as far as health was concerned, and only returned a short time ago from his summer home in Beverly to his Beacon street residence. He had been suffering for a week from a bad cold, but his death was entirely unexpected even by the nearest members of his family.

Messages of sympathy from all parts of the country have been received, and many callers have left cards at the house.

Death Comes to Prof. Swing, Chicago's Eloquent Divine.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Prof. David Swing, the eminent theologian and preacher, passed away Wednesday afternoon at 5:05 o'clock. His death was painless, and those who stood at his bedside watching and waiting hardly knew whether it was sleep or death until the physician looked up with the story in his face.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Funeral services over the remains of Prof. David Swing were held at Central Music hall Sunday afternoon. The hall, which for so many years was the scene of the celebrated divine's labors, was crowded with friends of the dead man and members of his church. Admission was by card and many hundreds were turned away. Rev. H. W. Thomas and Rev. T. C. Hall conducted the introductory services. Dr. John H. Barrows, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, preached the funeral sermon, which was a pronounced eulogy on the dead man's life and work. The interment was at Rose Hill.

Another War Governor Gone.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Oct. 8.—Ex-Gov. Curtin's illness was terminated by death at 5 o'clock Sunday morning.

ANDREW G. CURTIN.

His death had been expected for several days. This removes another of the famous war governors of 1861-5.

SIX ARE DEAD.

Fatal Result of a Detroit Fire — Nine Others Injured.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 8.—Six dead and nine injured is the record of the fire which destroyed the furniture store of Keenan & Jahn at 7:30 a. m. Friday.

The fire was discovered in the shipping room in the basement at the back of the store. An alarm was promptly turned in, but by the time the engines arrived the fire had gained considerable headway, having run up the elevator shaft, and the entire upper floor was a mass of flame and smoke when the first stream was thrown. There were sixty employes in the building and most of them had great difficulty in escaping. The building, an old five-story structure, was soon gutted and the stock ruined. At 9 o'clock the front wall of the building tumbled into Woodward avenue. It came in the shape of a collapse, and the mass of debris did not spread beyond the curb. The firemen working in front of the building were warned and retreated as rapidly as possible. Some got out from under, but a dozen or more were unable to do so on account of the piles of brick, glass and burnt timbers.

Burglars Rob an Iowa Bank.

BROOKLYN, Ia., Oct. 6.—The First national bank was robbed Thursday night. Tools were taken from a neighboring blacksmith shop and left behind. Vault doors were drilled and blown open, but the time-lock safe, containing $8,000 or $10,000, baffled the efforts of the burglars to open. Two strangers who have been about town for several days are supposed to be the guilty parties, and are thought to be the thieves who operated at Victor last Monday night.

Dr. Botta, the Author, Dead.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Dr. Vincenzo Botta, author and scholar, who fell from the third-story window of his home, Tuesday morning, died as the result of injuries and shock from the fall. He was once president of the Union League club.

Five Men Badly Scalded.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 5.—The crown sheet of the boiler connected with the pile driver on the Louisville & Jeffersonville bridge blew out on Thursday and five men were hurt, among them two engineers, who are supposed tobe fatally scalded.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Labor Statistics.

Labor Commissioner Powers has completed a census, taken in the three manufacturing counties of this state, of the number of nationalities represented in the labor unions. The result of this investigation shows that in Ramsey county there are 44,519 males over 21 years of age, 25,332 of whom are of foreign birth; Hennepin has 62,530 adult males, with an foreign-born proportion of 32,467; St. Louis has 30,734, of whom 13,198 are of foreign birth. The percentage of foreign adult males in the three counties is 55.56. The percentage of foreign born members of trades unions is 42.21, and the percentage of those who have learned their trade in foreign countries is only 17.22. According to the statistics gathered, the most desirable trades contain the largest proportions of Americans, and of the three trades that are usually considered not so desirable, it was found that of the bakers who were seen, 77 per cent had learned their trade in foreign countries. Of the tailors, all were of foreign birth and only 14 per cent had learned their trade in this country. It was found that only about 17 per cent of the locomotive engineers were of foreign birth and that 93 per cent had learned their trade in this country. Of the printers, it was found that 22 per cent were foreign born and that 59 per cent had learned their trade here.

School Apportionment.

The October school apportionment made by the state superintendent shows a gratifying growth in the school population for the year past. All county reports have been received and show a total of 275,000 pupils who are entitled to receive $2.50 each, or in all about $750,000, as against 244,794 pupils last year, who received $3 each, or an aggregate of $734,382. Last year Ramsey county returned 18,859 pupils and received $55,734.25. This year her 20,267 pupils will receive $56,577. Last year Hennepin county received $85,215, having 28,405 pupils reported. This year, with 31,301 pupils will receive $86,077.75.

Organizing.

Freeborn, Mower, Rice, Steele and Waseca counties' creameries met in Owatonna for the purpose of organizing a board of trade for the mutal purchase of supplies, sale of products and institution of a mutal fire insurance company. There was a large attendance. The following officers were elected: President, C. M. Finch, Clinton Falls; vice-president, C. D. Belden; board of managers, D. D. Belden, Austin; M. Halverson, Albert Lea; L. D. Harkins, Walcott; A. Havey, Osseo; L. J. Larkin, Waseca.

The G. N. Appeals.

The Great Northern Railway Company has appealed from the order of the Railroad Commission of this state, reducing its grain rates. The order is limited solely to rates local to the state, and the question involved is as to be reasonableness of local rates. The company, on the appeal, and on motion to stay the order, has filed certain affidavits, and among others the affidavit of Vice-President W. P. Clough, as to the earnings, cost of construction and operation, and other matters material to the question.

News in Brief.

John Colbert has been commissioned postmaster at Assumption.

On October 1 there were 2,614 insane patients in the state hospitals.

The first municipal election of Magnolia resulted in the election of L. E. Wordroff president.

John Irvine has been appointed first assistant keeper of the light station at Duluth.

Erick Prutts was arrested at the Minnesota Transfer, charged with murder committed near Devils Lake, N. D.

Frederick Dovan, a Washington cattle dealer, claims he was knocked down in Minneapolis and robbed of $2 in silver. The thieves overlooked $700 in bills he had in his inside pocket.

Mrs. Young, a domestic, was arrested for stealing $1,500 worth of jewelry from her employer, H. K. Halvorson, of Minneapolis. She confessed the crime and the diamonds were recovered.

A reunion of the veterans of the Sixth Minnesota regiment was held at the residence of Hon. J. W. Peterson, near Red Wing.

John McAvey, a printer of Minneapolis, was found dead in a laundry wagon back of the Bijou theater. An examination revealed the fact that death was caused by strangulation. A small piece of food had lodged in the man's throat.

Frank Rogge, a car cleaner employed by the Chicago Great Western road, was instantly killed by being run over by a Great Western passenger train.

Mike Mead, of Hills, was sentenced to six months in the county jail and $200 costs for maliciously shooting a neighbor's horse last March.

Two men held up Paul Zidme on a freight train near St. Cloud and secured all the money he had. Both assailants were captured afterward as they were about to board an eastbound train.

Frank Koch, while hunting near White Bear village, accidentally shot off his left forearm and hand.

The council of Anoka passed unanimously a resolution closing every cigar store Sundays.

It has been discovered that the base of the Birch Coulee monument, which is in two sections, was placed wrong, so that there is a bad break in the inscription. The matter has been called to the attention of the commission and the money claimed under the contract is tied up in consequence.

Fred Bunderant, a private soldier in Company D, Fort Snelling, swallowed five grains of strychnine with suicidal intent. Had he taken one grain instead of five he would have accomplished his object before medical aid could be secured. As it was, a large quantity of the drug acted as an emetic and Bunderant may survive.

The postoffice at Belview and the gentral store of G. F. Rahn, were broken into. Nothing of value was taken from the store, but mail matter was opened and scattered on the floor of the postoffice. No trace of the robber has been found.

The Russian thistle has made its appearance in abundant quantities in Minneapolis, and already the farmers of Hennepin county are beginning to express alarm at the prevalence of the obnoxious weed within the city confines.

The residence of J. G. Lyons, High Forest, burned; insured for $400.

Do the Next Thing.

Don't live a single hour of your life without doing exactly what is to be done in it, and going straight through it from beginning to end. Work, play, study, whatever it is, take hold at once and finish it up squarely; then to the next thing, without letting any moments drop between. It is wonderful to see how many hours these prompt people contrive to make of a day. It is as if they picked up the moments the dawdlers lost. And if you ever find yourself where you have so many things pressing upon you that you hardly know where to begin, let me tell you a secret: Take hold of the very one that comes to hand, and you will find the rest will fall into line and follow after like a company of well drilled soldiers; and, though work may be hard to meet when it charges in a squad, it is easily vanquished if you can bring it into line.—Detroit Free Press.

The Helpless Baby.

The baby too often suffers because it is the helpless victim from the mistaken kindness of loving parents. The greatest mistake of the parents is, that they never let baby alone. He gets too much handling, too many kisses, too little real care. Put him on his stomach to sleep. Do you know why? It rests his spine. It rests grown people quite as much. Keep him dry everywhere, not forgetting his bib. Keep him out of hot sun in summer and cold wind in winter, but this does not mean from all out door air. Give him plenty of air. He will thrive on it.—Womankind.

Both in the Same Box.

"Lend me a dime, Mildred," said Amy, to the high school girl; "I'm dead broke."

"Sorry I can't do it," was the reply; "but I am fatally fractured myself."—N. Y. World.

HE who wishes to live for art must not live by art.—Fliegende Blaetter.

BUDS, Society buds, young women just entering the doors of society or womanhood, require the wisest care. To be beautiful and charming they must have perfect health, with all it implies—a clear skin, rosy cheeks, bright eyes and good spirits. At this period the young woman is especially sensitive, and many nervous troubles, which continue through life, have their origin at this time. If there be pain, headache, backache, and nervous disturbances, or the general health not good, the judicious use of medicine should be employed. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best restorative tonic and nervine at this time. The best bodily condition results from its use. It's a remedy specially indicated for those delicate weaknesses and derangements that afflict womenkind at one period or another. You'll find that the woman who has faithfully used the "Prescription" is the picture of health, she looks well and she feels well.

In catarrhal inflammation, in chronic displacements common to women, where there are symptoms of backache, dizziness or fainting, bearing down sensations, disordered stomach, moodiness, fatigue, etc., the trouble is surely dispelled and the sufferer brought back to health and good spirits.

DELANO DIARY

—Services at the M. E. church on Sunday evening at 7:30.

—The Public school is now running at full capacity, in the new school house.

—A train load of soldiers from Fort Assinaboine, bound for Fort Leavenworth passed through town today noon. It reminded some of the early sixties.

—Watertown has been added to the Delano and Montrose circuit. And Rockford and Rader's school house to the Armstrong circuit, of the M. E. church.

—The Hutchinson family gave one of their characteristic entertainments here, last nights to a fair sized audience. Everybody enjoyed the entertainment.

—This morning's Minneapolis Times says: "P. A. Datko, residing at Delano, Minn., called at police headquarters yesterday to ask assistance in searching for his step-father, Louis Schmidt, aged 40, who mysteriously disappeared in Minneapolis, Tuesday.

—Our Republican Board of Education didn't show much respect for the Republican rally on Monday night. They kept right on with their business in the Council room while overhead in the City Hall, to a small audience the illustrious Tim talked tariff and other taffy.

—U. S. Marshall, J. Adam Bede is to be in Delano soon, and address our citizens on the political issues of the day. We haven't been apprised as to whether or not he will appear in his beautiful birch bark breeches; but can assure our readers that Mr. Bede will entertain his audience and give them some facts from a Democratic standpoint.

—Our minister, Rev. J. W. Powell. was invited by the M. E. Conference to preach a semi-centennial sermon on the completion of his fiftieth year in the ministry, next fall, to each of the Minnesota conferences. He helped organize the Minnesota Conference in 1856, and has been a member ever since. His semi-centennial sermon is to be the greatest effort of his life.

—The dedication of the new school house, on Saturday afternoon, was well attended, and the programme was carried out smoothly. President Vorse, Prof. Leavens, I. Gutzwiller, Jr. C. W. Ingerson, Superintendent Lindsley, Mr. Phllips of St. Paul, and Dr. Catlin made short speeches; Miss Steele read a selection, and Roy Wilder delivered an oration. Everybody seemed to enjoy the occasion.

—Louis Klatt, of Montrose, met with a painful accident yesterday evening as he was preparing to return home after a days duck hunting on Mud Lake. As he was taking his gun from the boat the hammer caught discharging the gun and sending a load of number 5 shot through his right side just below the shoulder. James Hayes and son who were with him got him over to John Matter' place, and surgical assissance was summoned, the wounds dressed and the patient made as comfortable as possible.

The Eagle sails into Rev. Murdock the Populist candidate and Democratic nominee for Senator, for advocating too many reforms unlike in nature. We are not stuck on the two horse act; but have never heard of the Candidate Nominee changing his politics to conform with the majority in his new place of residence: nor have we heard that owing to his having become possessed of spirits in such high degree he could not take care of his personal interests not to mention the interests of a great state like Minnesota.

—Uncle Joseph Van Eman celebrated his 76 birthday last Tuesday.

—See notice of Council meeting tomorrow evening. Be on hand and assist id getting up a celebration.

—While in St. Paul. Saturday evening we took occasion to visit the auditorium and hear the apostle of protection, William McKinley, talk about his tariff theories. Mr. McKinley is a plain, earnest speaker, and doubtless did his best; but we don't seem to see political economy as he says he does.

Personals.

W. E. Culkin was in town Tuesday,

J. C. Nugent and wife drove through town Wednesday.

Uncle Ben Parmeter, of Rockford, was a Gazette caller today.

Dr. E. E. Shrader, of Watertown, visited with his brother here, on Tuesday.

John Thompson, one of Greenwood's sturdy farmers was a Gazette caller on Tuesday.

Miss Sadie Van Eman, of Watertown, was the guest of her father and sister here this week.

Prof. and Mrs Leavens had for a guest on Saturday Mr. Philips, of St. Paul, an old friend of theirs.

Otis L. Billings. of Minneapolis, was up attending fair on Saturday, and looking up politics a little.

C. W. Kerrick and M. A. O'Hare attended a meeting of the Democratic Committee at Buffalo on Tuesday.

Harry Haines, of St. Paul, was in town a few days this week, looking after acquaintances of Auld lang syne.

Rev. William Campbell and wife, of Long Lake came up on Tuesday morning for a visit with Delano friends.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Powell, and Dr. Catlin, of Delano, heard Bishop Foss' eloquent sermon, at Duluth on Sunday.

Miss Hagar, of Monticello, arrived in town in time to take charge of the Grammar department Monday morning.

H. L. Sands, of Stockholm, Populist and Democratic candidate for the Legislature was a Gazette caller Wednesday.

Dr. J. S. Shrader and family accompanied by his brother E. E. of Watertown left Wednesday for a three weeks visit with friends at Buffalo, N. Y.

J. C. Niess, of St. Michaels, Democratic candidate for Auditor, was a Gazette caller this morning. He thinks Mr. Oleson is going to run well in the west part of the county.

The familiar countenances of Charley Carlton, Mose Williams, Joe Burnick, Al Hitsman, J. W. McDonald, I. C. Stewart, and several others that have been away are again seen on our streets,

Frank C. Brooks of Minneapolis, Candidate on the Democratic ticket and endorsed by the Populists and Prohibitionists for District Judge was in town Saturday, and called on the Gazette.

Notice.

All citizens of Delano are requested to meet with the Village Council, at their room at the City Hall, on Saturday evening October 13 to perfect arrangments for the celebration to be held on the completion of the waterworks and the electric light systems.

W. F. Kohler, Pres.

County Cullings.

Until the organ up street began supporting Kerrick and McKnight there was some show of their election; but now it has gone glimmering.

J. E. Madigan, of Maple Lake, the Democratic nominee for Judge of Probate is a graduate of the State University, a lawyer, and fully competent to discharge the duties of the office.

Senator Eaton has gone to the southern part of the state to help hold the wavering in line; and left his political brethren to fight it out among themselves.

A sly old coon is Senator Eaton:
And one seldom or never beaten.

Tim Burus, addressed about three dozen voters several of whom were and still are, Democrats, at the City Hall on Monday evening, Tim said he used to be a farmer's boy in Meeker county; and gave some good advise to boys to remain on the farm and be men, and hold up their heads, (Tim left the farm himself.) and help their parents (Tim says he got the old gentleman to vote several straight Republican tickets).

Politics, this year are awfully mixed up. Instead of voters going proudly up to the polls to cast their votes for their party principles, dear to them since ever they knew anything of the government of this free country they are asked to vote for candidates upon other tickets than their own; they are left without a chance to have a full voice in the selection of United States Senator, even though they elect the entire ticket prepared for them.

The Methodist Conference held at Duluth closed Tuesday noon. Bishop Foss presided. On a vote of over two-thirds the conference divided. We are in the Minnesota Northern Conference, and the Willmar Presiding Elder District. Appointments for our county are: P. R. Atchinson, Elder, Minneapolis; Annandale, G. E. Pickard; Buffalo and North Rockford, D. M. Shannon; Delano and Montrose, J. W. Powell; Howard Lake, Smith Lake and Cokato, W. C. McAlister.

At a meeting of the Democratic candidates of the County of Wright and the 38th Legislative District held at Buffalo, on Tuesday, the following County Committeemen were announced; one from each Commissioner District; making the committee:

1st. W. S. Hunnington, Annandale.
2nd. Theodore F. Tilley, Monticello.
3d. W. F. Kohler, Delano.
4th. James McDonnell, Waverly.
5. Charles Rucker, Howard Lake.
John C. Nugent, Chairman.

Contrary to reports that have been circulated all the candidates are in the field to stay. And a lively campaign is to be carried on.

Democratic County Resolutions.

Be it resolved, that we the Democrats of Wright County assembled, reaffirm the principles enunciated by the National Democratic convention of 1892.

That we heartily approve of the courageous course pursued by President Cleveland and the House of Representatives in endeavoring to secure such tariff reform legislation as would relieve the toiling masses from the burdens heaped upon them by the so-called protective tariff.

And that we pledge to these principles of reform our earnest and untiring support.

Among our Exchanges.

McKinley is booming himself for president by making speeches through the west. He orated in Kansas and Nebraska last week, but we doubt if the people are foolish enough to take stock in his sophistries. McKinley is an office-seeking schemer, who would impoverish the entire west if he could by forcing on the country his tariff monopoly regime. We don't think the people want either McKinley or his tariff.—Litchfield Independent.

Mr. McKinley says the Republican party protects the laboring man by excluding the products of the pauper labor of Europe from our markets. He neglects to state, however, that it has been bringinging the pauper laborers themselves to this country at the rate of a million a year to compete with the American workingman under his own vine and fig tree and that it is this competition that is responsible for the reductions in wages that are constantly taking place.—Morning Call.

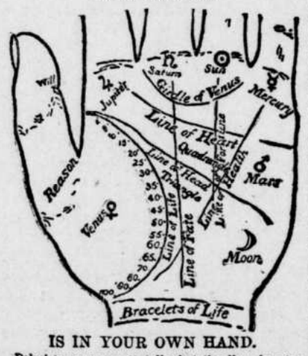
YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE, fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked; keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $300; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

THE SONG OF THE "No. 9."

My dress is of fine polished oak,
As rich as the finest fur cloak,
And for handsome design
You just should see mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I'm beloved by the poor and the rich,
For both I impartially stitch;
In the cabin I shine,
In the mansion I'm fine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I never get surly nor tired,
With zeal I always am fired;
To hard work I incline,
For rest I ne'er pine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I am easily purchased by all,
With instalments that monthly do fall;
And when I am thine,
Then life is benign—
No. 9, No. 9.

To the Paris Exposition I went,
Upon getting the Grand Prize intent:
I left all behind,
The Grand Prize was mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

At the Universal Exposition of 1889, at Paris, France, the best sewing machines of the world, including those of America, were in competition. They were passed upon by a jury composed of the best foreign mechanical experts, two of whom were the leading sewing machine manufacturers of France. This jury, after exhaustive examination and tests, adjudged that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best of all, and awarded that company the highest prize offered—the GRAND PRIZE—giving other companies only gold, silver and bronze medals.

The French government, as a further recognition of superiority, decorated Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler, president of the company, with the Cross of the Legion of Honor—the most prized honor of France.

The No. 9, for family use, and the No. 12, for manufacturing uses, are the best in the world to-day.

And now, when you want a sewing machine, if you do not get the best it will be your own fault. Ask your sewing machine dealer for the No. 9 Wheeler & Wilson machine. If he doesn't keep them, write to us for descriptive catalogue and terms. Agents wanted in all unoccupied territory. WHEELER & WILSON MFG. CO.

THE probability is that there will be more scratching tickets this fall than ever before in the history of the State.

VOTE for George L. Becker, for Governor, he is an old line democrat. A straight clean man, one that our State would be proud to call governor. He is making the cleanest campaign of any man in the business; and deserves the vote of every honest Democrat in the State.

CAPT. REED, has finally at the last moment been suppressed, choked off the race for Congress, as an independent candidate, in the third district; but he would sign no retractions, recantations, etc., etc. This leaves O. M. Hall and Joel Heatwole alone to fight to a finish. Hall seems to have the best chance.

I. DONNELLY seems to have been successful in inducing S. M. Owen to express himself as out of the field for the candidacy for the U. S. Senate, provided he is elected Governar. And as sure to serve out his term as Governor if elected. But what if the Sage fails to get votes enough for Owens to make him Governor; want he then be a lively Candidate for United States Senate, provided Donnelly gets his Pop. Dem. Legislature elected?

DON'T let some one frighten you out of voting for Adolph Bierman, for State Auditor: he is certainly as good a man as his republican opponent, Bob Dunn. The Populist Stromberg we know nothing about. It seemed to us from developments at the democratic convention, and elsewhere, that Mr. Bierman endeavored to discharge his duty according to his own conscience and not according to the dictation of others in osposition to what he deemed his duty; and that's the kind of a man that should receive the vote of every man.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 5, 1894.

The administration will be represented at the Batavia, N. Y., celebration of the centennial of the Holland land office, which was the beginning of the public land system of the United States, by no less than five members of the cabinet. Secretary Carlisle will be the orator of the occasion, his subject being Robert Morris, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, a revolutionary Secretary of the Treasury, and the originator of our public land system. The administration party left here today, accompanied by the ladies of their families, and will return early next week. While there is nothing political about this trip the opportunity that it will give the members of the cabinet to let the prominent New York democrats they will meet understand how deeply interested the administration is in the election of Senator Hill will certainly be fully taken advantage of.

The nomination of an independent democratic candidate for governor of New York has no supporter in the cabinet, and if there is a single democrat in Washington who does not condemn the movement he has kept so quiet that nobody has heard of him. Senator Faulkner, Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign committee, who has just returned from New York says democratic prospects are improving every day in that State and that he now regards Senator Hill's election as a certainty.

The annual renovation of the White House is complete and that portion of the building to which visitors are admitted is open for the first time since the latter part of August. The date for the return of President Cleveland and his family has not been definitely fixed, but it will probably be within the next ten days. Above the roaring of the republican bluffers and calamity howlers is heard the clear notes of democratic predictions of victory. Here's one sovnded by Capt. J. I. Crutcher, U. S. Marshal of Idaho, which indicates the gain of a State and of U. S. Senator: "If Idaho does not swing into the democratic column this year," said Capt. Crutcher now in Washington, "I shall never more essay the role of a political prophet. I believe the State is going democratic all the way through, but as to the election of the democratic candidate for governor there is hardly any doubt. There is more than an even chance that the democrats and populists will control the next legislature, which means a democrat as the successor of Senator Shoup. Ex-Secretary Whitney has always been very popular with democrats and he has become more popular than ever since he wrote that wringing letter in favor of democratic harmony and election of Senator Hill to be governor of New York. At the headquarters of the democratic Congressional committee Mr. Whitney's letter is regarded as a rattling campaign document, not only in New York but everywhere else, as the arguments he uses are in the main equally applicable elsewhere. It is believed that it will exercrse great influence with those democrats who have been making the mistake of allowing their personal animosities to injure the party to which they belong and to which they are still devoted.

There are several reasons for the belief that the recent cablegrams which have been published intimating that Germany intended to retaliate upon the United States because of the discriminating duty that is placed upon German sugar by the new tariff, by restoring the prohibitory regulations concerning the importation of American pork and by other methods, are inspired by the republican managers of the Congressional campaign, solely for present political use. As a matter of fact, the conference committee on the tariff bill agreed without division to strike out the discriminating duty on sugars from countries which pay an export bounty on sugar, and it was only because of the peculiar circumstances which caused the bill as it passed the Senate to become a law that the clause was not struck out in accordance with the committee Agreement. It is generally conceded that the discriminating duty is unjust, both to Austria and to Germany, and as generally believed that it will be repealed at the coming session of Cougress. These things are as well known to the German government as to our own; hence it is folly to suppose that it is thinking of retaliation for what is merely a temporary objection. But the publications show that the republicans are leaving no stone unturned in their efforts to bamboozle the voters.

The news received by the Congressional Campaign committee, this week, has been very favorable, some of it unexpectedly so. The candidates in several districts which for one or another reason hae been considered as certain to be lost, have reported them as certain to be carried by the democrats.

CORRESPONENCE

ST. MICHAEL'S MATTERS.

This community listened to political speeches by three Republican gentlemen. They as usual knew only the bright side of their party although they admitted that their party is not entirely infallible. They were asked a few questions by some of their hearers which puzzled them a little to answer correctly because they were a little too strong for them. We have an idea that they concluded that the voters in this section do their own share of thinking about political affairs and that we do not swallow all that Republican speakers attempt to dish up to us.

Farmers are very busy at plowing and doing other fall work.

Our neighbor, J. C. Niess, the Democratic candidate for auditor, was out last week looking after his fences. We consider him amply compitent to fill the office if elected and hope earnestly he will be.

ROCKFORD RIPPLES.

The A. F. & A. M. Lodge of Rockford, conferred the 3d degree on Chas. Guptil, last Saturday night. Among those from abroad were Doc Huntington, Hon. W. D. McDonald, Geo. A. Magoon and H. K. Kelly from Aunandale; and W. E. Culkin and others from Buffalo.

Among those visiting the city on Wednesday were, F. J. Benner and wife, George Burch, Florence Murphy, Tress Drayne and Mrs. Burch.

W. E. Culkin lost five dollars last Saturday night. Never mind "Billie" you will probably reap the benefit on election day.

Rockford is now supplied with the mail on Sunday makes it very convenient to get Sunday paper.

Rev. Kelly who bought Mr. Hamilton's farm in North Rockford arrived here today and expects to move right on to the farm. He has a very choice farm.

Closing of Distilleries Would Not Affect the Corn Market.

An Illnois farmer, talking with the editor of the Havana Issue, declared that if the prohibitionists closed the distilleres there would be no market for corn.

"How much corn do you think the distilleries of the country use?" was asked him.

"O, I don't know, but a lot of it, and if they didn's use it what kindof a price would us farmers get for corn?"

"Well let me show you how much corn the distilleries use, before you draw any conclusions," was the reply. "You know the government gets 90 cents a gallon for all the whisky manufactured?"

"Yes."

"And the government holds the key to all the grain used in distilling?"

"Yes."

Well, let me show you just how much corn the distilleries of the United States use. The government having in its possession the grain used by the distilleries, weighs it over government tested scales and by a government officer. Every kernal of grain that passes through the distillery is weighed before using, by the government officer. There is no other department that is known more about than the whiskey business, in its making. The government report gives the total number of bushels of corn used for the year 1891 as 18,671-536. Now, my friend, you are a posted man. What is reckoned as the general corn crop of the United States?"

"2,000,000,000 bushels," was the reply.

"What part, then, of 2,000,000,000 bushels is 18,671,536?"

"Less than one hundredth."

"Then if you take away the one hundredth part of your market on corn, how much would it affect the price at 40 cents, say"?

"Not quite half a cent figuring it that way."

"Supposing now these fellows who drink the whisky raised more hogs and less h—l, how much more do you think you would get for your corn? A good deal more than half a cent, don't you?

"Gosh yes I kind of guess I would, about ten times more."

Lest there may be more farmers who think at first the same way as this one did, look what an insignificant thing the distilleries of the counry are in buying corn. Twenty million bushels a year, say. Champaign and McLean counties alone raise more than that. Mason county raises all of one-sixth of that much. Mason, Logan and McLean three adjacent counties raise in one crop two nillion busheles more than all the distilleries of the United States use in a year. There are four counties in Illinois that produse in one year as much corn as the distilleries of the United States use in two years and four months. Those counties from the government crop reports of 1880 are as follows:

|---|---|
| Champaign, | 10,132,000 bus. |
| McLean, | 11,976,000 bus. |
| LaSalle, | 11,148,000 bus |
| Livingstone, | 11,094,990 bus. |
| Total | 44,350,000 bus. |

The corn crop of Illinois in an ordinary year would run all the distilleries ten year, and the crop of Iowa would last them fifteen years.

The distilleries are not a drop in the bucket in furnishing a market for corn to the farmer.

WAR news by cable from China costs the English papers $1.87 a word and from Japan $2.60 a word.

A BOSTON paper welcomes Ada Rehan, "America's talented "young actress," but they do say her hair is gray.

J. E. WINNER, whose "Little Brown Jug" has heightened the conviviality of many a gathering for a generation or so, is a total abstainer.

IT is stated in this country there are now in daily service 600,000 telephones, with 500,000 miles of wire, over which 600,000,000 messages are annually transmitted.

THE Chinese minister to Berlin asserts that China will, if necessary, keep up the war for thirty years. This comes under the head of a figure of speech.

DR. JAMES R. COCKE, a successful Boston physician, is perhaps, the only man in the country who, though blind from infancy, took up the study of medicine and excelled in its practice.

MORE than a million letters were received in 1882 at the dead-letter office of Germany. Of these 700,000 were returned to the writers while 416,000, to which no clew could be found, were burned.

EX-LIEUT.-GOV. BROCKMEYER, of Missouri, advocates the sending of 1,000 mocking birds in cages to the German forests in order that they may catch the nightingale's song and introduce it in this country.

A FINE steel portrait of James Madison, which is to retail at five dollars, is being got out in the government printing office for the post office department. The new issue includes one and two dollar stamps as well.

IT is a very solemn thing to be a professional toper in Norway, where the government controls the liquor traffic. No customer is allowed to spend more than five cents for drink, and any show of exhilaration cuts off the supply.

HOW FAST we make history in this country! Gen. Absalom M. West has just died in Mississippi. Who remembers that he ran for vice president on the greenback ticket? And that was in 1884, just ten years ago. Gen. Benjamin F. Butler was the candidate for president, and now both are dead.

A STRANGE situation came to light at Pitman Grove, N. J., through the sale of a piece of property. William Thomas, 70 years old, when called upon to sign the deed said he and his wife had quarreled twenty years ago and not a word had passed between them since, though they live under the same roof.

JIM ROOT, the engineer who saved the train in the recent forest fires in Minnesota, gained fame by that heroic action, and now he has gained fortune. A New York theatrical manager signed him for $500 per week to take the hero's part in a play called "The Ride for Life," and Jim was playing to packed houses in New York.

THE highest courts in the province of Quebec have decided that trading on margins is a fictitious transaction in the nature of gambling and that debts incurred in that way cannot be collected by a broker. An appeal has been taken to the imperial privy council in England, and the outcome of that appeal will be watched with interest.

AFTER twenty-six years of costly litigation, the will of the late Thaddeus Stevens is sustained by the highest court of Pennsylvania. The contention by the heirs was over a clause bequeathing $50,000 for the founding of an industrial home in Lancaster for boys, regardless of color race or nationality. Lancaster gets the school, and the philanthropic purpose of the great commoner will be fulfilled.

LORD ROSEBERY lost his favorite dog, Mutton, on the steamer going to Dublin some time ago. The dog jumped off the steamer into the sea. "Stop the steamer!" shouted the little lord, but the captain replied that his instructions did not permit him to stop except when a man fell overboard. "That is easily arranged," said Lord Rosebery, and instantly plunged into the sea. The captain then stopped the steamer, and the prime minister and his dog were rescued.

WITH the death of Oliver Wendell Holmes the famous New England school of writers has been formally closed. That he should be the last to pass away was a survival of the most genial and most humorous. He lived so easily, so sweetly, that the world did not wear him out and the world never grew tired of him. The longer he lived the more he was loved. In him there was the blending of all that was most human and so much that was divine. It is hard to say good-by, and yet his passing was into rest; death came as peacefully as a thousand times he had fallen asleep.

PERHAPS every part of this country that saw the infancy of the railway has traditions of men that sat waiting with shotguns to prevent the engineers from surveying on their lands, and many a town of arrested development owes its decrepitude to some such opposition to early railways. The history of that time is now repeating itself in the opposition of country folks here and there to electric railways. The danger of frightening horses and the inconvenience to teamsters in a public road are some of the arguments advanced against this new factor in rural civilization.

NOT many years ago there were several varieties of grapes, each struggling to become the favorite of the public. To-day the trade is chiefly in the Concord and Delaware varieties. Early in the '60s yellow bananas could not compete with the red; to-day the latter have been almost driven out of the market. There used to be a dozen varieties of pears competing with an almost equal demand. Now the Bartlett and Seckel rule supreme. Apples and berries to a less degree have undergone the same process, and now there are one or two varieties of early apples that supersede all the rest.

LABOR PARLIAMENT.

An Important Conference to Be Shortly Held in Chicago.

The Relations of Capital and Labor to Be Discussed from All Standpoints—Prominent Speakers Who Will Participate.

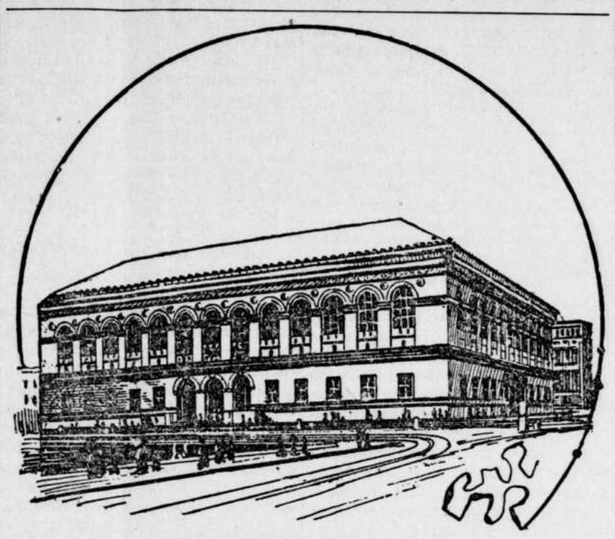
CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The parliament of labor which has been called by the Civic federation to meet in Chicago November 13 promises to be a most notable gathering. Replies to the circular letter of invitation have been received from a great many men of prominence as thinkers on economic subjects, or as employers or leaders of labor. There is a striking consensus of opinion in favor of making the conference as practical as possible. The suggestion comes from all sides that the employers of labor and the representatives of labor, as the ones best knowing the actual conditions to be met, should be brought to the front in such a discussion.

The plan of the parliament is modeled on that of the parliament of religion, so successful last year. There is to be nothing in the nature of controversy. Each speaker is to present his own views, not to antagonize or controvert those of others. There is to be the utmost catholicity of tolerance and every speaker is expected to respect this tolerance. Differences of opinion are not to be allowed to appear as hostilities of thought. Into this parliament is to be poured the result of the thought and investigation of the individual thinkers and investigators of the country. It will form, as it were, a comparative exhibit of all that has been accomplished along the lines of the prevention and settlement of labor troubles and labor disturbances. It will be a collation of the work of many men striving for the same end by different means.

Among others who are expected to discuss various topics are the following:

Prof. E. A. R. Gould, of Johns Hopkins university; A. H. Walcott, of the Massachusetts board of arbitration; D. J. Ryan, of the Ohio board of arbitration; Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor; Mrs. Josephine Shaw Lowell, of New York; Archbishop Ireland, Felix Adler, Washington Gladden, Gov. Peck, Aldace F. Walker, Marvin Hughitt, P. M. Arthur, F. P. Sargent, Congressmen Springer, McGann and Tawney, Chauncey M Depew, T. V. Powderly and Samuel Gompers



THE BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY.

This magnificent structure has just been completed at a cost of something like $2,500,000. Though now second in size, it is still first in rank among the libraries of America. It was established in 1852, though projected in 1841. The library now comprises over 600,000 volumes. Over a million books are taken out every year for home circulation, and over 700,000 periodicals are read in the reading rooms. The new library was begun in 1888. The style of the new edifice is the Roman, and the St. Genevieve, the great library of Paris, was taken as the type. The edifice expresses in its exterior the organic character of the structure as formed by its internal composition and arrangement, as well as its purpose as a great library. The entire building has room for at least 2,000,000 volumes

PROGRESS IS SLOW.

R. G. Dun on the Situation in Trade Circles—Not Very Encouraging.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

"Business is still waiting for the development of retail trade. There is a little better demand in some industries, but not so good in others. Wholesale dealers in nearly all branches are halting because business does not yet show distinctly what it is to be. Lower prices for the great farm staples and lower wages in some establishments, hinder purchases for consumption, while political interest and uncertainty also have some retarding influence. Meanwhile large imports and small exports of merchandise, with inadequate employment for money here, are raising the rates of foreign exchange so that possibilities of gold exports somewhat affect the stock market. The halting attitude for the moment is disturbing to those who have looked for continued gain, though rightly considered it is the natural consequence of conditions which were to be expected at this season.

"The government crop reports are not greatly trusted and yet have an influence and actually exaggerate the tendency toward lower prices because they are supposed to report all the crops too low. Men calmly reckon that if the government report indicates over 400,000,000 bushels of wheat the crop must be over 500,000,000 bushels and the price is slightly lower. Corn has been stronger, for receipts are hardly a quarter and exports barely an eighth of last year, and the question is whether the actual yield, if above the government estimate, may not prove lower than has been supposed.

"The iron industry records larger production in September than in any other month this year, but as prices are gradually weakening because of insufficient demand for finished products, some works are preparing to close or shorten time.

"The woolen mills still have numerous belated orders for fall goods, but the demand for spring does not increase, though in nearly all the lower priced products domestic makers appear able to command most of the business that exists.

"Failures for the week ending October 4 show liabilities of $1,714,276, of which $805,885 are of manufacturing and $892,391 of trading concerns. There have been 231 in the United States, against 393 last year, and 43 in Canada, against 42 last year."

LOST IN THE HURRICANE.

Four Vessels Wrecked and Eleven Persons Perish Off San Domingo.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The hurricane that passed over the island of San Domingo on the night of September 21 did considerable damage, especially at the capital. Many houses were unroofed and the streets and cellars were flooded. The poor suffered greatly. The surrounding sugar estates were much injured by the storm, particularly the plantations La Fe and Francia. The former was damaged to the amount of $25,000. Not a single sugar estate escaped. Several small coasting vessels suffered, four being being lost. On one vessel bound from San Domingo to San Chez eleven persons lost their lives, including a German family of five, mother and four children.

TWO OF A KIND.

A Pair of Bold Train Robberies Net the Thieves $100,000.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 13.—The northbound passenger train on the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac railway which left here at 7 o'clock Friday night was held up near Quantico. The engineer and fireman were forced from their engine and the engine was cut loose and sent ahead. The express car was then entered, the messenger covered with pistols and forced to open the safe. The runaway locomotive was stopped at Quantico by obstructing the track. It is stated here that there was an unusually large amount of money on the train, probably $50,000. The robbers, seven in number, were masked. The railway company has offered $1,000 reward for the arrest of any of the robbers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The bandits who held up a Southern Pacific overland train a few miles west of Sacramento late Thursday night and looted the Wells-Fargo company express car secured over $50,000. They seem to have eluded the officers and escaped with their plunder, which was nearly all in gold coin, and consequently a heavy burden. The astounding success of the hold up was not known until Friday afternoon. Earlier reports of the robbery gave the amount of money taken at $1,500.

The robbery was a daring one. Four sacks of coin were secured from the express car, and Messenger Paige barely escaped with his life. Three hundred pounds of coin were taken. Engineer Bill Scott, of the Oregon Overland, and his fireman were forced at the muzzle of a revolver to carry coin sacks from the express car to the engine. There the robbers uncoupled the engine and rode off with their booty.

ROBBERS IN THE DALLES.

They Loot the Pacific Express Company's Office of $14,000.

THE DALLES, Ore., Oct. 16.—The Pacific Express company's office in this city was robbed Sunday at an early hour of $14,000 or $15,000. The money was sent here from Portland and arrived Saturday night. F. N. Hill, express agent, and two officers took charge of the money as soon as it arrived, taking it to the express office. Details of the robbery are very meager. It is thought that the robbers came here on the train with the treasure box, and knew where it was consigned and its contents. Following it up after it arrived, they made easy work of capturing it. Charles Tibbitts, the company's driver, sleeps in the express office, but on the night of the robbery he was attending a ball and did not return until 1 o'clock. The robbery was evidently between 11:30 and 12:30 while Tibbitts was absent. There is no clew to the robbers.

A MINE DISASTER.

Five Killed and Much Damage Done by a Boiler Explosion.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 13.—Five men were killed, two were fatally injured and several others painfully burned by a disastrous boiler explosion at the Henry Clay colliery at Thursday. The entire steam-supplying plant of the mine, consisting of thirty-six boilers, was totally demolished, and in addition to the monetary loss, which will aggregate $30,000, the Henry Clay, Big Mountain, Sterling and Peerless collieries will be unable to resume operations for at least a month. The explosion is the worst of its kind that has ever occurred in this region, and its cause is a mystery.

WONDERFUL SHOOTING.

Phenomenal Performance by Elliott and Carver—Elliott's World Record.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 15.—Never in the history of pigeon shooting have the lovers of the sport been treated to so wonderful a contest as was given by J. A. R. Elliott and Dr. W. F. Carver at Exposition park Friday. Mr. Elliott won by the remarkable score of 100 out of a possible 100. Dr. Carver got 99. Mr. Elliott has probably established a record with 50-yard boundaries that will never be equaled. The only bird lost out of the 200 was Dr. Carver's fourth, a black straight-away driver. Even this one, which decided the match, fell dead just as it reached the fence.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

Three Lives Are Lost at a Crossing Near Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Dorothy, aged 11, and Emily, aged 5, daughters of John N. Scatchard, president of the Bank of Buffalo and republican state committeeman from the Thirty-third district, and Miss Emily B. S. Woods, aged 30, sister-in-law of Mr. Scathard, were struck and killed Sunday by a freight engine on the New York Central Belt line at the Parkside crossing. The side curtains of the carriage were up, and it is probable that Miss Woods, who was an expert horsewoman, did not see or hear the approach of the train.

HIS JUBILEE FESTIVAL.

Great Honors Shown Herr Strauss, the "Waltz King," at Vienna.

VIENNA, Oct. 17.—The jubilee of Johann Strauss, the "waltz king," was celebrated Monday. The reception and presentations took place in Herr Strauss' house in Segelgasse in the Wieden. As the guests entered all the tables, sideboards and other pieces of furniture were covered with costly presents from all quarters of the globe. Herr Strauss and his wife and his brother, Edouard, greeted the distinguished company.

The actual ceremony of the celebration began with a serenade composed by Robert Fuchs, sung by students, who were accompanied by the Conservatorium orchestra. Then followed the presentation of a little silver table of choice design, ornamented with gold. After this a gold medal from the members of the celebration committee was presented to Herr Strauss. Baron Bezeeny made a speech.

At 10:45 o'clock Burgomaster Gruble arrived from the rathaus. The crowd was then so dense that he found it difficult to reach a position beside the "waltz king." After he had reached Herr Strauss the burgomaster tendered greeting in the name of the city. Addresses were made by the spokesman of a deputation of the Vienna press, presented by Government Counselor Winternit, and Dr. von Spiegel and Dr. Gustav Kohn from a deputation of the Vienna Mannergesang verin. Then Herr Strauss, his voice displaying intense emotion, spoke a few words of thanks. The festivities closed with a banquet, which was attended by the burgomaster, all the world of music and letters and a number of foreigners.

UNCLE SAM'S WARDS.

Synopsis of the Report of the Commissioner of Pensions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The report of Commissioner of Pensions Lochren for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, has been submitted to the secretary of the interior. The report states that the number of pensioners on the rolls June 30, 1893, was 966,012; that during the year 39,085 new pensioners were added to the rolls, 37,951 were dropped for death and other causes and 2,398 previously dropped were restored. The number of pensioners upon the rolls of June 30, 1894, was 969,544. The number of pension certificates issued during the year was 80,213, and 132,873 claims of all classes were rejected. On July 1, 1894, there were undisposed of and in different stages of preparation and advancement claims for pensions and for increase to the amount of 619,027, of which 287,209 claims, originals, widows' and dependents', are on behalf of persons not already on the rolls. These claims, save some recently filed, have been examined more than once and found lacking. The amount paid for pensions during the year was $139,804,461, leaving a balance in the treasury of $25,205,713 of the appropriation.

WORK FOR GOOD ROADS.

A Conference to Be Held at the Atlanta Exposition.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The road parliament to be held in connection with the Atlanta exposition October 16, 17 and 18, 1895, is looked upon by the advocates of the good roads movement as perhaps more important than any meeting held to advance the interest in this cause. An official invitation has been sent to Gen. Roy Stone, in charge of the road inquiry bureau of the agricultural department, to preside. The programme of the parliament, as outlined in the invitation, will include discussions of the construction and maintenance of public highways, employment of engineering skill, utilization of convict labor, use of improved road machinery, and regulation of the width of wagon tires. Preparations are being made to place some practical demonstrations of the various road construction ideas about the public grounds there.

STRICKEN BY APOPLEXY.

Sudden Death of Hon. Daniel C. Taylor at Kankakee, Ill.

KANKAKEE, Ill., Oct. 17.—Daniel C. Taylor, cashier of the First national bank of Kankakee, suffered a fatal stroke of apoplexy Monday forenoon, while attending to his duties at the bank. At the time of his death he was also treasurer of the Illinois Eastern Hospital for the Insane and one of the democratic leaders in eastern Illinois. Mr. Taylor has been a resident of Kankakee for forty-two years and one of its leading citizens. He served in the Illinois house of representatives and through his efforts the great hospital was located at this point. He was about 65 years old and a native of New York.

FISHERMEN PERISH.

Fifteen of Them Lose Their Lives Off the Florida Coast.

APALACHICOLA, Fla., Oct. 17.—In the recent storm fifteen fishermen, all white, were lost on Sand island, 10 miles from Apalachicola. It was known that these men were caught in the gale, but until Saturday it was hoped that they had escaped. Since the gale subsided searching parties have been out, and Saturday three were found dead. Their bodies were swollen and so badly mutilated that they could not be identified and they were buried on Sand island, where they were found. There is no doubt now that all fifteen lost their lives.

Miss Willard on Suffrage.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—At Monday's session of the Woman's Christian Temperance union convention Miss Frances Willard made an address. The big Baptist temple was filled with people and the famous advocate of temperance was greeted with much enthusiasm. Miss Willard said that women should have the right of suffrage, not because the women were better than men, but because they were different. Miss Willard concluded by making an appeal for funds with which to send women to the south for the purpose of organizing the colored women.

For the Greater New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The greater New York commissioners held a meeting Monday in the office of President Andrew H. Green, 214 Broadway. An address to the voters resident in the area of the proposed greater city was adopted and issued. The address recites that the area proposed to be joined under one government comprises 317.77 square miles, all lying within a radius of about 16 miles from the city hall and having a population of more than 3,000,000.

ART IN THE OCCIDENT.

The Kind of a Send-off a Virtuoso Got Out West.

The following is said to be a verbatim account of the introduction of an eminent violinist to a far western audience:

"Ladies and gentlemen, "began Col. Handy Polk, the well-known real-estate agent, stepping to the front of the stage and addressing the audience, "it is my privilege this evening to interduce to you Signor ———, the notorious furrin fiddler, who will endeavor to favor us with some high-class A No. 1 violin playin'. The signor was born and raised in Italy, where fiddlin' is not merely a fad, but as much of a business as politics in this country, and when it comes to handlin' the bow, he emphatically knows whur he is at. He hasn't dropped into our midst by accident, but comes under the auspices of the Literary society, which is payin' his wages and backin' him to the last gasp. So let it be understood that if you happen to have any criticisms to offer, you are to do your kickin' to the society, and not to the signor. I'll jest add that if you expect him to swing the fiddle around his head or play it under his leg, like we used to skip stones across the swimmin'-hole when we were little boys and girls, you may just as well go right now and git your money back from the doorkeeper, for the signor hain't that kind of a player. That's all I have to say at present. Start her up up, signor."—Harper's Magazine.

"PARKER uses a great deal of cologne, it seems to me. Awful bad form!" said Hawkins. "It would be in you," said Hicks, "but it's family pride with Parker. He comes of old colognial stock."—Harper's Bazar.

A FAMOUS TOURNAMENT.

The Splendid Entertainment Given by Lord Eglinton in 1839.

Two episodes in Lord Eglinton's distinguished history invite special attention. The first is the Eglinton tournament, which took place in August, 1839; his second, his brilliant career as twice lord lieutenant of Ireland. At the time of the famous tournament Lord Eglinton was in his twenty-seventh year, and one of the handsomest and most engaging men of his day. His desire was to produce in his own park a modern imitation of such a tournament as that described by Sir Walter Scott in "Ivanhoe," and neither expense nor research was spared to make it a great and unique success. Preparations for it and the festivities which accompanied it cost about £40,000, but the munificent host omitted from his calculations all thought of the English climate, which so marred the enjoyment of the countless guests that the vast expenditure was in great measure thrown away. The arena, or scene of action, covered four acres, and two enormous galleries were erected on either side, the first to accommodate the earl's private guests, and the second for invited spectators, to whom tickets were sent gratuitously by his orders. Nearest the castle two vast canvas saloons were set apart for the banqueting hall and ball room, while each of the knights had his own marquee. The decorations of the lists were of the costliest description, and, at the request of the noble host, most of the visitors came attired in a mediæval costume.

The grand stand was filled with ladies splendidly attired in the costumes of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, to whom on entering the list each knight in succession paid his devoir. At 2 p. m. in the midst of a drenching shower, the procession started from the castle; but the pitiless rain marred all the splendor of the costly preparation. Instead of riding on her palfrey to her throne, the queen of love and beauty and her ladies were forced to take shelter in carriages, and as they approached the jousting ground a spectacle met their eyes which elicited uncontrollable shouts of laughter from the spectators surrounding the lists. There, firmly planted upon his mailed war-charger, sat in unconscious dignity the Marquis of Londonderry, clad from head to foot in burnished armor, for which he had been measured by cunning Milanese artificers, in steel inlaid with gold—the cost of his panoply, being, it is said, at least £1,000. The marquis was a short, stout old man, and above his head he held an enormous gingham umbrella, to protect him from the peltings of the merciless storm.

Despite the weather, several jousting matches took place, and, among others, the Earl of Eglinton, clad in a splendid panoply of brass, got the best of the Marquis of Waterford, upon whose breast he broke two spears. At night it was announced that the banqueting hall and the ball room, constructed out of canvas tents, were so saturated by the heavy rain that it was impossible to enter them. On the afternoon of the second day the weather cleared, but the sports were confined to the ball tent, in which Prince Louis Napoleon (afterwards the Emperor Napoleon III), engaged in a series of mimic combats on foot against Mr. (aftewards Sir) Charles Lamb, both combatants being sheathed in armor. On the third and last day the proceedings ended with a general melee, in which the knights, armed with swords, met their opponents in an amicable fray. It was soon seen, however, that the blows exchanged between the fiery Marquis of Waterford and Viscount Alford were so far from being amicable that the combatants were separated by the intervention of the knight marshal. On the fourth day the rain was so incessant that by universal consent, the mimic conflict was given up.

So ended the great Eglinton tournament, after bringing together a concourse of spectators variously estimated at from 80,000 to 200,000 persons. In addition to the vast sum spent upon it by Lord Eglinton, the tournament attracted eager sightseers from all parts of the United Kingdom, who paid heavily to get there, while the continent, the colonies and the United States were well represented. As if to cover the whole affair with ridicule, a very humorous account of the mock fighting and of the attempted imitation of old-world chivalry was written for an American journal by the late Mr. N. P. Willis, a fitting exponent of such a bazarre scene. To their dying hour many of the southern visitors never forgot what Scotland is capable of in the way of rain during the autumn months.—London Telegraph.

ASSIST NATURE a little now and then in removing offending matter from the stomach and bowels and you thereby avoid a multitude of distressing derangements and diseases, and will have less frequent need of your doctor's service.

Of all known agents for this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best. Once used, they are always in favor. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and their attendant discomfort and manifold derangements. The "Pellets" are purely vegetable and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. No care is required while using them; they do not interfere with the diet, habits or occupation, and produce no pain, griping or shock to the system. They act in a mild, easy and natural way and there is no reaction afterward. Their help lasts.

The Pellets cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation, sour stomach, loss of appetite, coated tongue, indigestion, or dyspepsia, windy belchings, "heartburn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. In proof of their superior excellence, it can be truthfully said, that they are always adopted as a household remedy after the first trial. Put up in sealed, glass vials, therefore always fresh and reliable. One little "Pellet" is a laxative, two are mildly cathartic. As a "dinner pill," to promote digestion, or to relieve distress from overeating, take one after dinner. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules; any child will readily take them.

Accept no substitute that may be recommended to be "just as good." It may be better for the dealer, because of paying him a better profit, but he is not the one who needs help.

STEVENSON'S SPEECH.

The Vice President Talks on Democratic Achievements.

Conditions That Confronted the Cleveland Administration—Benefits Accruing from Democratic Measures.

"FELLOW-CITIZENS: In the presidential contest of 1892, the battle was fought and won by the democratic party, almost upon the single issue of tariff reform. Upon the issue of reduced tariff taxation, upon the necessaries of life, as against high protectionism, Mr. Cleveland was elected and the democracy restored to power. For the first time within a third of a century, the democratic party on March 4, 1893, controlled the presidency and both houses of the congress. Under these conditions, the country had much to expect of the great historic party now restored to power. How has the party kept faith with the people? What steps have been taken along the pathway of tariff reform? Has the democratic party but 'kept the word of promise to the ear and broken it to the hope;' or has it made an earnest effort to make good every promise made in its platform and upon the hustings? This is the question now submitted to the peaceful arbitrament of the ballot.

"Give me your attention, my fellow-citizens, and I shall endeavor to show that the democratic party has kept faith with those who intrusted it with power; that against monopolies, fostered and strengthened by more than a third of a century of republican legislation, long strides have been taken along the line of true tariff reform.

"It must not be forgotten that at the close of President Cleveland's first term on the 4th of March, 1889, the republicans came into power the beneficiaries of four years of wise and economical administration of the government. Business conditions were favorable, the country was prosperous, and the annual revenues were little less than one hundred million dollars in excess of its expenditures. The question, as you will remember, then was: 'What shall we do with the surplus?' All this was the result of the able and economical policy and methods of President Cleveland and his political associates in cabinet and congress. Four years later, when the republicans retired from place and power, they left no such vexatious question as 'What shall be done with the surplus?' to torment the incoming democratic administration. Had the republican administion continued a month longer the necessity for issuing bonds in order to meet the current expenses of the government would have been imperative. There could have been no possible escape from it. As it was, the evil day was only tided over by postponing the payment of matured governmental obligations. The present chairman of the committee of ways and means of the house of representatives has publicly made the statement that the last republican secretary of the treasury stated to that committee just prior to the close of the Harrison administration that additional income of fifty million dollars a year was a necessity.

"I beg you to mark the contrast. The republican party at the inauguration of President Harrison was the heir to all that Cleveland and his party had achieved during four years of successful administration. As I have said, they found business conditions everywhere favorable, the treasury overflowing, the country prosperous. Four years later, on the 4th of March, 1893, the republican administration retired from power, leaving a depleted treasury, governmental obligations undischarged, and the country upon the verge of bankruptcy.

"The all-important question now arises, what was the cause of this? Why surplus revenues and business prosperity at the close of the democratic administration, and a bankrupt treasury and the country staggering upon the verge of financial ruin four years later, when the Harrison administration retired from power? It was, my fellow citizens, the logical, the inevitable result of the enactment of the McKinley tariff law, a law that will take its place in history as the crowning act of 'the billion-dollar congress,' both branches of which, as you know, were under republican control. The McKinley law increased tariff taxes upon the necessaries of life to a point far beyond the highest rate hitherto known to our history. In its effect upon foreign importations, it was, in a large measure, a prohibitory tariff. The intention of its authors was to give the market to the home manufacturer and allow him, at his own sweet will, to increase to the consumer the cost of all the necessities of life. How was this to be accomplished? Simply by so increasing the tariff tax as in many instances to absolutely prevent foreign competition. But this was not all. The McKinley law not only largely increased to the consumer the cost of all articles that enter into daily consumption, but it deprived the government of its accustomed revenues—revenues absolutely necessary to meet the daily and hourly expenses of the government. The importations being cut off, of necessity the revenues were cut off. Is it to be wondered, then, that under the operation of the McKinley law, the surplus left by the Cleveland administration disappeared and a deficit threatened our national treasury? Thus, as you will see, the inevitable effect of the McKinley law was, first, to increase to the purchaser the cost of his goods, and in the second place, to deprive the government of revenues absolutely necessary to meet its current expenses.

"Now, my fellow citizens, it is not difficult to understand why it was that the heritage of the second administration of President Cleveland from its republican predecessor was a depleted treasury. It must not be forgotten that one provision of the McKinley law required the annual payment of a bounty to the sugar planters for a long term of years. This bounty exceeded in its aggregate for the last fiscal year the enormous sum of twelve million dollars. The enormity of this legislation I will not now discuss. It has at the ballot box received the unmistakable condemnation of the American people.

"I have now given in hurried review something of the conditions that confronted the incoming democratic administration on the 4th of March, 1893, and of the ill-advised legislation that brought to this sad condition the treasury and country. You cannot have forgotten how earnestly President Cleveland and his political associates addressed themselves to the task of making good their promises to reduce taxation, nor can you have forgotten the unfortunate conditions prevailing at the time this great work was inaugurated. Business was paralyzed, the workshops were closed, the great army of wage-earners in enforced idleness and poverty and want the common lot. It is no figure of speech to say that, literally, men were 'begging their brothers of the earth to give them leave to toil.'

"Bear in mind, that this was the actual condition while the McKinley law was still in force, and before an arm had been lifted by the democratic congress to change the existing law. These are the stubborn facts with which the republican leaders are now confronted. What is their answer? What explanation do they give you as to this terrible condition of our business industries under the McKinley law, their own darling enactment? They cannot deny the fact that these conditions sprang into existence under the McKinley law, but they tell you they were the result of a want of confidence felt by the country in the democratic party. As this has been the burden of their complaint in the press and upon the stump, let it have careful examination. What is their charge? That the financial depression under which the country was staggering when the democracy came into power, was caused by an apprehension—a fearful foreboding upon the part of the American people—that President Cleveland and his party were incompetent to administer the government, and that all business was to suffer derangement, if not paralysis, by the threatened reduction of tariff taxation. I beg you to reflect upon this assumption for one moment. Who elected Cleveland and solemnly declared that after almost a lifetime of republican misrule, all branches of the government should again pass under democratic control? Have you forgotten that the American people, by a plurality of one hundred and thirty-two in the electoral college, elected Cleveland over his republican competitor? Have you forgotten that his popular vote exceeded that of Harrison three hundred and eighty thousand? And yet, notwithstanding the fact that the people by this unprecedented majority elected Cleveland, you are told that the people at once, and before his inauguration, distrusted him. You are told that the people immediately contemplated with apprehension and alarm what they had themselves achieved at the ballot box. In addition to this you are told that the sad condition existing at the close of the Harrison administration was the result of apprehension upon the part of the American people that the democratic president and congress would endeavor to 'tinker with the tariff.' With the beneficiaries of high protection, any attempt to reduce taxation is always 'tinkering with the tariff.' The object of protection, as you know, is to enable the producer to sell his goods at an increased price over what he would be otherwise able to secure in the open market. The higher the tariff, of necessity, the higher the price charged the consumer. In order to shield themselves from the responsibility of the evils brought upon the country by the enactment of the McKinley law, republican orators and papers declared these evils the result, not of what the republicans had done, but of what the democrats might possibly do. In other words, in order to escape condemnation for the evils resulting from their own vicious legislation, republicans are driven to the assumption that the people shrank with horror from the contemplated tariff reform for which they had so earnestly and emphatically declared at the polls. Can a more monstrous assumption be imagined? It is one that discredits the intelligence of the American people. Both at the elections of 1890 and of 1892, the McKinley law had been condemned. In the light of historic facts, then, does any sane man believe that a depleted treasury, and almost bankrupt country, resulted from a fear that a democratic congress might do exactly what it had been elected to do—reform the tariff and lessen to the people the cost of the necessaries of life? No, my fellow-citizens, I trust you will not be deceived. The enforced idleness which has brought sorrow to so many hearts and hearthstones was the direct result of what a republican congress had done, and not of what it was feared the incoming democratic congress might do. The people were neither taken by surprise nor alarmed by the bold declaration in President Cleveland's inaugural in favor of reduced taxation. Tariff reform had been the shibboleth during the campaign. As I have said, both in the platform and in debate, it was the battle cry of the supporters of Cleveland and the democratic party. The people demanded a reform of the tariff, and the declaration by the president, and the bill passed by the house of representatives at the late session, but voiced the will of the people as declared at the ballot box. Again, my countrymen, I beg of you not to be deceived, but to hold to a just accountability the republican leaders who are solely responsible for the terrible condition from which the country is now happily emerging.

"Bear in mind that from March 4, 1861, until the inauguration of Cleveland on the 4th of March, 1893, there was no single moment that the democratic party controlled the presidency and both houses of congress; never a moment that it could place a single law upon your statute books. For all of the legislation during that period which has brought in its train financial disaster, monopoly, combinations and 'trusts,' the republican party is alone responsible. And yet by republican orators we are condemned in one breath that we have done too much, and in the next that we have not accomplished more. Is it not unreasonable to demand that a democratic congress in a single year repeal all of the ill-advised enactments of a third of a century of republican domination?

"I come now to consider the question as to how far the democratic party has redeemed its promises—how well it has kept faith with the people. It promised a reduction of the expenditures of the government. This promise has been made good by a reduction of the expenditures of twenty-eight millions of dollars over those of the previous year, when the executive and the senate were republican. In this connection, it must be remembered also that the sum appropriated by the present democratic congress for pensions exceeded by twenty millions that appropriated for the same purpose by the republican 'billion-dollar congress.'

"Have you forgotten that the entire extra session of congress, convened soon after President Cleveland's inauguration, was consumed in repealing the Sherman law, passed by a republican congress and approved by a republican president? This ill-advised enactment, which, in a large measure, destroyed silver money as a part of our circulating medium, required the annual purchase of fifty-four million ounces of silver bullion, and this at an annual cost of little less than fifty million dollars, and the bullion thus purchased was, as you know, heaped up as so much merchandise in the vaults of the treasury. The great republican leader, Senator Sherman, the author of the bill, voted for the repeal of the purchasing clause indicated, candidly confessing that the law had not met the expectations of those who enacted it, and that its longer continuance upon the statute books would prove disastrous to the country. Thus you will see that the democratic administration and congress, at the outset, were confronted with the necessity of repealing legislation which, by the confession of republican leaders, had only brought financial disaster.

"What further has the democratic congress accomplished? By its platform and the utterances of its candidates, the democratic party stood pledged to the repeal of the odious federal election laws. These laws, placed upon our statute books when the republican party was in the heyday of power, provided for the interposition of armed deputy United States marshals at the polls. It would be difficult to conceive of legislation more hostile to the spirit of our free institutions or more destructive of the rights of the elector. For years they had stood a constant menace to the freedom of the ballot-box. By the act of the democratic congress, approved by a democratic president, these enactments, like republican force bills and the old federal alien and sedition laws, have become things of the past. It will excite the wonder of those who come after us how laws, so hateful and tyrannical, could ever have received the approval of the American congress.

"The democratic congress has increased the tax from ninety cents to one dollar and ten cents per gallon on distilled spirits. This will increase government revenues annually twenty millions of dollars. Do you in the interest of the whisky trust desire this law repealed? The democratic congress has placed a tax on playing cards, which as you know, were untaxed under the McKinley law. This will bring to the treasury three million dollars per annum. Do you wish this provision of the new law repealed, and the old law restored? If so, your pathway of duty is clear. Vote to return to congress the republican lawmakers who opposed the tariff upon playing-cards and the increased tax upon whisky.

"But again, what has this democratic congress accomplished? You will bear in mind that the 'billion-dollar congress' controlled by the republicans created more than twelve hundred new federal offices at a total annual cost to the people of more than two million dollars. The present democratic congress, by a series of wise and well-considered enactments, greatly simplified and improved administrative methods in the several departments of the government by means of which more than six hundred useless federal offices have been abolished and governmental expenses thereby lessened annually to the extent of near one million dollars.

"One section of the democratic tariff bill just enacted provides for the payment of an income tax. Individual incomes of less than four thousand dollars are wholly exempt from this tax. Savings banks and building and loan associations are exempt from this tax. This wise exemption is in the interest of small investors and depositors. Upon other corporations and upon individual incomes exceeding that amount a tax of two per cent. is to be collected. As this feature of the bill has encountered fierce hostility both from republican legislators and press, it is well to give it consideration. Two questions at once arise: Is this a just enactment? Was it necessary? Its enactment became a necessity because of the bankrupt condition in which the passage of the McKinley law and the extravagance of the republican congress had plunged the country. Its enactment was the logical result of the vicious republican legislation that had brought a deficit instead of a surplus to the treasury.

"The duty of the democratic congress when it came into power, to provide the necessary revenues with which to meet the current expenses of the government, was imperative. How could this be done? Either by continuing or possibly increasing to the people the cost of the necessaries of life by tariff taxation, or by imposing a moderate tax upon the earnings of the wealth of the country. The democratic party was solemnly pledged to the reduction of taxation upon the necessities of life. This pledge could be made good, and sufficient governmental revenues at the same time secured, only by the imposition of the tax I have indicated. Just in proportion as the burdens of taxation were removed from the shoulders of the poor, they were to rest upon those more able to bear them. A democratic congress removed the tax wholly from salt, from lumber, from binding twine, from agricultural implements, and greatly reduced the tax upon cotton and woolen goods, and other articles of daily use. How was this to be made good to the treasury? A democratic congress thought it wise to do so by a tax upon annual incomes exceeding four thousand dollars. This enactment was to remain in force only for the period of five years.

"I submit to you now the question, do you desire the immediate repeal of this law? Did republican senators and members represent your interests when they voted against this law? You must bear in mind that the aggregate wealth of this country exceeds the enormous sum of sixty-five billion dollars. The question I ask you now is, whether it is not just that a portion of the revenues necessary to meet the expenses of the government should be collected from the earnings of the vast sum I have mentioned? In other words, shall governmental expenditures be met in part by a tax upon the earnings of wealth or shall it all spring from taxes imposed upon consumption? It is said this tax is odious—inquisitorial. All taxes are more or less odious and inquisitorial. Public necessity is the only justification for any form of taxation. It has been truly said: 'The necessities of government are the beginning and ending of just taxation.' But you have been told that this tax cannot be collected. This statement rests upon the assumption that men of wealth, the factors in the great marts, are dishonest. It assumes that men of affairs will risk the pains and penalties of perjury, rather than disclose to the proper officer their annual income. This assumption is not only an insult to American manhood, but is disproved by the facts of history. During the period of eight years extending from 1862 to 1870, the revenues derived from incomes alone fell but a trifle short of three hundred and fifty million dollars. I repeat the inquiry, is it not just that some portion of the burdens of taxation should rest upon the accumulations of wealth, and not wholly upon the articles of daily necessity to human existence? The expenditures of the national government are necessarily great, and annually increasing with the growth of the country. The income tax is one of the methods devised by a democratic congress to meet the imperative necessities of government. Do you desire its immediate repeal? If so, elect a republican congress, repeal the income tax, and thereby add thirty million dollars of annual taxation upon the articles of daily consumption.

"I now ask your attention to a consideration of other sections of the tariff bill which has passed both the house and the senate and is now the law of the land. I state to you, in all candor, that it is not all that I desired. There never was a moment that I would not gladly have given the casting vote in the senate in favor of the tariff bill as it passed the house of representatives. From the beginning I have been a firm believer in the doctrine of free raw material. But it must not be forgotten that while the house of representatives contained a democratic majority of near one hundred, our majority was but one in the senate. In fact, with every state fully represented in that body, there would probably have been no democratic majority at all. The senate contained but forty-four democrats, and with the republican senators voting solidly against the bill at every stage, it can easily be seen that in a body so nearly balanced tariff reform had no easy battle to fight. At one critical moment of the struggle the bill was only saved by the casting vote of the presiding officer of the senate. I have thus gone somewhat into details in order that you may realize something of the difficulties under which the present law was enacted. Recalling as I do the hostility of republican senators to the tariff bill from the moment it crossed the threshold of that chamber, I can only wonder that it ever became a law. Firmly believing, as I do, that beneficial results must follow its passage, I rejoice with you in its triumph, and that the McKinley law is no longer upon our statute books. In determining the merits of the present tariff law comparison should be made, not with an ideal tariff bill, but with existing law—the McKinley law then in force. What then are some of the contrasts between the law just enacted and the McKinley law which it has displaced? Let me state a few of them: The McKinley law gave to the sugar planters a bounty of two cents per pound upon their product. This was to extend for a period of fifteen years from the passage of the bill. It was paid out of the treasury of the United States, and amounted during the last year to the enormous sum of twelve millions of dollars. The tariff bill just passed by a democratic congress repealed this sugar bounty, and removed from the statute books this odious class legislation. It was enacted by a republican congress, and every republican senator and representative voted against the bill providing for its repeal. I submit to you now the question, are you in favor of the re-enactment of this bounty? Is it your desire that it again find its place upon the statute book? If so, vote to return to the national congress the republican leaders who struggled so earnestly against its repeal. You have seen in the papers in the past few days an account of a convention of sugar planters in Louisiana, in which they resolved to abandon their former political associates, and henceforth to support the republican party. Why? Simply for the reason that the republican lawmakers favored the sugar bounty which a democratic congress has swept from the statute books. If the new tariff law had no other merit, this provision alone would entitle it to your warmest commendation.

"But this is but the beginning. By the new tariff law more than one hundred articles, highly taxed under the McKinley law, are placed upon the free list. I will detain you to enumerate but a few of them. The tariff tax is now wholly removed from lumber, from salt, from binding twine, from chemicals, oils and paints. Under the McKinley law the tariff tax on coal was seventy-five cents per ton; the new law has reduced the tax to forty cents per ton. Upon iron ore the reduction is the same. While I earnestly desired the entire abolition of tariff taxes upon these necessary articles, yet it is a matter of congratulation that we have been enabled to thus reduce the tariff almost one-half. This is a long stride in the right direction, and it must not be forgotten that bills passed the house of representatives just before the adjournment of the late session of congress placing iron ore and coal upon the free list.

"I will not weary you with further discussion of the details of this bill. I cannot forbear, however, calling the attention of the farmers of Illinois to the fact that agricultural implements are now upon the free list. After a bitter struggle the tariff taxes have been removed and forty millions of dollars saved annually to the American farmers by this provision of the new tariff law alone. Is it your wish that the tariff taxes of the McKinley law be again placed upon agricultural implements and binding twine? Is this what the farmers of Illinois desire? If so, you have but to elect a republican congress and your wishes will be gratified.

"Now, fellow-citizens, you have before you something of what a democratic congress has accomplished—something of the manner in which it has kept faith with the people. Tariff reform has achieved no easy victory. Since the repeal of the corn laws of England, by which the people were permitted to eat untaxed bread, the world has witnessed no such parliamentary struggle against monopoly and privilege. It is your battle that has been fought, and you are the beneficiaries of the victory which has been achieved. It has literally been a struggle of the people against the monopoly and greed fostered and made powerful by more than thirty years of republican legislation. The combinations and 'trusts,' now the curse of our people, have only been made possible by the high protective tariffs which have enriched the few at the expense of the many. Under and solely because of high protection, colossal fortunes have accumulated which are a menace to our free institutions. The men who control the 'trusts' and unlawful combinations against trade have been from the beginning the beneficiaries of high tariff—the determined advocates of the McKinley law. The time had come, and fully come, when such legislation should cease. The people so decreed. By the popular edict, the republican party—under whose evil auspices had sprung class legislation and the trusts and conspiracies which logically follow high protection—passed from power. It was not to be expected that the individual recipients of the benefits of protection would sit idly by when the attempt was being made to reduce the tariff, and lessen the burdens of taxation. The struggle was long and doubtful. It was literally organized privilege, monopoly and greed upon the one side and the unorganized people upon the other. I, repeat, that with the single exception I have mentioned, a more desperate parliamentary struggle has never been known to our English-speaking people.

"The new tariff law is now upon the statute book. He who runs may read, that business conditions are even now more favorable; the fires have been lighted in our workshops; the wage-earner is no longer in enforced idleness, and light is breaking upon our commercial pathway. Under the beneficent operations of low tariff, the evils fostered by McKinleyism will disappear, and our country enter upon a career of unexampled prosperity. The practical question for your determination is, shall this law be administered by its enemies or by its friends? If you believe that for the first time in a third of a century you have been taken into the account in the preparation of a tariff bill, and that your interests lie along the plane of the low taxation I have indicated, then I need hardly remind you of the imperative necessity of holding up the arms and strengthening the hands of those who have wrought out this great reform. History will but repeat itself, and the prosperity that followed the passage of the Walker tariff—the low tariff of 1846—will as surely follow that which has just been enacted."

MAINE is justly proud of the fact that only a native can pronounce the names of her lakes trippingly on the tongue, but the names of Maine are easy beside these and others from the Canadian province of Ontario: Lake Misquabenish, Lake Kashagawigamog and Lake Kahwcambejewagamog.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Regarding Assessors.

The state board of equalization had no end of trouble at its meeting this year on account of a lack of uniformity in the assessments of the various counties, the assessors in a majority of the counties evidently endeavoring to see how low they could place the valuation both on personal and real property. It was on that account that the board passed the resolution asking the legislature to take steps looking to having the assessors better informed in regard to the action of the board of equalization in order that a more uniform assessment might be secured.

State Auditor Bierman has taken the matter up and had enough reports of the board printed to admit of county auditors furnishing each assessor with a copy for his guidance when they meet to make the assessments next April.

An Odd Couple.

Thousands of people in the past few days have been attracted to a window close by the First National bank of Duluth. It contains a maltese cat and with her a young rat. There is quite a story connected with them. The cat became the mother of four kittens which were drowned. The mother was gone for days and was finally discovered in the barn nursing a litter of four young rats. Near by lay a big rat, the mother of the young ones, which the cat had undoubtedly killed. The cat showed as great affection for the little ones as though they were her own. One by one the little rats died until now only one remains, but with good prospect of life. It is indeed a remarkable attachment that exists between the two.

Canal Survey.

Major Clinton B. Sears, the government engineer, sent out an exploring party under charge of John Krey, a local engineer, to get data for use of the surveying parties on the canal routes between Lake Superior and the Mississippi river. They will go up the Brule on the south shore of the lake, in Wisconsin, spend a little time around the head waters of the St. Croix, which connect with the Brule, and then return to Lake Superior via the Aminicon river, also in Wisconsin, but close to Superior. Major Sears says he will not explore the St. Croix, as the government has already surveyed it thoroughly.

M. E. Conference.

Bishop Foss announces that he had decided to divide the two conferences of Minnesota into four districts each. This will give the state eight presiding elders. Dr. W. K. Marshall, of Minneapolis, and Dr. Jennings, who had acted as secretary of the conference, will, it is said, probably be appointed as the extra presiding elders. Faribault was chosen as the first place of meeting for the Minnesota conference. The place of meeting for the North Minnesota conference will be selected by the elders. Fourteen candidates were admitted into the conference on probation.

The G. N. Appeals.

The Great Northern Railway Company has appealed from the order of the Railroad Commission of this state, reducing its grain rates. The order is limited solely to rates local to the state, and the question involved is as to be reasonableness of local rates. The company, on the appeal, and on motion to stay the order, has filed certain affidavits, and among others the affidavit of Vice-President W. P. Clough, as to the earnings, cost of construction and operation, and other matters material to the question.

A Drunken Row.

Two old acqnaintances, Stephen Hicks and Samuel Christy, got into a drunken row at Grand Rapids, and Hicks becoming enraged struck Christy several times, knocking him down, and kicked his insensible form almost into a jelly, breaking his nose and both jaws, and fracturing his skull.

Christy never regained consciousness and died. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death caused by injuries inflicted by Hicks, and he was arrested.

News in Brief.

The Minneapolis & St. Louis road was sold at public auction on the steps of the Hennepin county court house in Minneapolis the 11th, Sheriff Ege officiating. There was only one bidder, L. W. Bull, representing Chairman Olcott, of the New York reorganization committee, and the road was bid in by him for a total figure of $5,010,000.

About 750 men are employed by the railways in operation about St. Cloud. As many as 2,000 cars of freight are being sent through daily now.

Burglars entered Nicolin's store at Jordan, through a rear window, within 10 feet of Dr. McCarthy's residence. They broke open all the money drawers, but left the safe unmolested. They carried off over $200 worth of clothing, silks and jewelry. There is no clew.

The young Minneapolis artist, Edward M. DeMarni, who net with such remarkable success with his work in Paris, has sold his painting, "The Nymph," to a Mr. Noble, proprietor of the New Empire hotel, New York, for $3,000.

Among the papers against which Tyndale Palmer has begun suit for $50,000 damages is the Republican, of this city. A request for the dismissal of the action has been made by the Republican's attorneys on the ground that Palmer, being a non-resident, failed to file a bond for costs.

Ole Peterson, subcontractor for Martin & Ahern, met with a frighful accident at Nininger quarry near Hastings, by a premature plast of dynamite. His face was nearly blown off, the flesh being badly mutilated. He was sent to his home in Red Wing.

Valentine Hoefling was suffocated by gas in a well at Montgomery.

Ed McIlling, was found dead in bed at Sanborn. It was thought that death might have been caused by injuries received in a row, but the coroner's jury brought in a verdict that death was caused by "the excessive use of whisky.

Geo. M. Burrell, a former employe of the Minneapolis Street Railway company, was arrested for bribing a juror in the case of Marie R. Gjertson against the company.

The residence of C. K. Sidle, Minneapolis, was raided by burglars, who took about $800 worth of valuable dresses of Mrs. Sidle's. Jewelry, sealskin sacks, etc., were no temptation.

Length of Dress Skirts.

Evening skirts are made to lie from two to five inches on the floor, and are trimmed with a festooned ruffle of lace or chiffon. Four yards and four yards and a half are the widths for walking skirts. Black and white striped silks are very stylish, and these are frequently cut so that the sides form a succession of V's, which uses up an immense amount of material. French women never lift up their skirts unless it rains, and as they have a gliding walk the skirt simply has every chance to look well. They all have a pocket inserted in the center back, where there is a wide lap that prevents any gaping. If the skirt was draped it was at the left side, where it opened over a panel, but this is not a choice style in Paris, though some modistes here try to convince us of this fact.—Ladies' Home Journal.

—A meeting has been called at the City Hall, Saturday evening to farther discuss the proposed celebration.

--Mr. Towne, of Duluth, candidate on the Republican ticket for congress, is annouced to speak here on Friday evening, the 26th.

—Dr. Bereman, Dr. Niven's associate will be in Rockford, Oct. 20 and 21. Fun to have teeth pulled by the painless method. Low prices and warranted work. adv.

—Paul Datko who had the Minneapolis police force at work assisting him in finding his step father informs us that the missing man came home himself, on foot from St. Bonefacius, on Saturday morning.

—Street Commissioner I. C. Stewart found the streets in very poor condition on his return from the west, and went to work to fix them up. Some of them now begin to look as if they might eventually be like other citie's streets.

—Special childrens services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday at 10:30 A. M. Regular services are Preaching, at 10:30 A. M.; Sabbath School at 12 M; Christian Endeavor 6:45 P. M. every sabbath. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30.

T. DAVIES.

--J. Adam Bede, and Mr. McGinnis of Duluth, spoke to a large audience at the City Hall, last night. And Major Baldwin's record, from a way back, that some have sought to put in bad light was set right before the people. Messers Richie, Tracy and Madigan were present and the two latter gentlemen had a few words to say to the voters. The meeting was by all odds the largest and most enthusiastic yet held this campaign.

—In the Canonsburg Notes, handed us by Joseph Van Eman, we read that "At a public sale near Carrolton, O., a few days since sheep sold as follows: Twenty head of 2 and 3 year-old weathers sold for 48 cents each; 46 head of 2 and 3-year-old ewes for 15 cents per head, while 15 lambs brought 17 cents each." Uncle Joe says: "Them people must be crazy; They are worth more than that to eat. I'd give a dollar and a half a piece for them if they would ship them to me. But they have been having a drought there, probably accounts for it."

—The citizens meeting called by the Village President to arrange for celebrating the completion of the water works and electric plant was held at the City Hall, Saturday evening. W. F. Kohler was chosen Chairman and Charles H. Hawker, Secretary. On motion it was voted to hold a celebration.

Considerable discussion as to the best mode of celebrating was engaged in; the majority seemed to favor having an exhibition of the water works in the forenoon, speaking in the afternoon, and a dance in the City Hall in the evening.

On motion the chair appointed a committee of three, to confer with the fire companies to see about getting them to participate in the exercises. The chairman appointed F. L. Scherer, George Dyer and W. M. Mowatt.

On motion a committee of five, on arrangements, was appointed by the chairman, as follows: George P. Schaffer, J. D. Young, C. H. Green, Andrew Hanseman and A. W. Wittman.

It was decided, to held the celebration on Monday, October 29.

The completion of arrangements was left to the Executive Committee. If the weather is fine an industrial parade is to be a part of the programme.

Meeting adjourned.

—The water was turned into the new water mains the other day and things found to work nicely.

—The polling lists have been posted and are to be corrected on Tuesday. Go to the Council rooms on that day and be sure your name is on the list.

—Dr. Niven will be in Buffalo Oct. 16, 20 and 21. Fine dental work in all branches. When Odontunder is applied to the jaw it's fun to have teeth pulled. adv.

—On Friday evening Louis Grener of Carcoran town, while hauling a load of stalks fell from the wagon dislocating his left shoulder. He came to Delano and had the injury repaired.

—The building for the Standard Oil Companys distributing depot at this place is drawtng near to completion. To those that have shall it be given. No sooner do we have electric lights than preparations, long deferred, are made to provide our citizens with cheap oil.

Mr. Tanner is out in one of his periodical productions on politics. He is still, as he has been for years advocating the cause of Mr. Owen for governor, while claiming himself to be a democrat. It seems to us that every good democrat will do better to stick to his own party nominee, Geo. L. Becker for governor this year. If all the democrats do it is claimed he is sure of an election.

County Cullings.

Ole Mattson Chairman of the board of County Commissioners has resigned, and a new one will have to be chosen.

That watch-dog of the County treasury, Bill Ziebarth threatens to bring the action of the County Commissioners in allowing improperly itemized bill to the notice of the Grand Jury.

Candidates for office are getting as numerous as usual; even more so, but things are woefully mixed; no one seems entirely satisfied with any one ticket, and there is to be a wonderful lot of cutting done this time.

It is quite likely that the fusion mess mixed for Wright County Democrats this season will work a complete cure, Voters can't be expected to vote the straight Democratic ticket unless there is one to vote. The way to have party success is to deserve it. Hoist up pure principles: nominate a clean ticket from top to bottom and have no dead weights, nor trading stock, But have a ticket that pulls together every candidate is not only for himself but for every other candidate on his ticket. There are good men in the field and these should receive the party vote.

It makes a fellow tired to read in most of the many Republican papers in our county and legislative district reports of the peace and harmony prevailing in there ranks; while they tell of the Democrats and Populists being all broken up. We are free to admit that Democrats are demoralized; that Populists are in poor shape; but we think the rank and file of the Republicans have peered behind the curtain a little and know for themselves that when their newspapers try to make the voters think all is serene as a midsummer sky they are simply trying still farther to fool the folks. "You may fool all the people some of the time; you may fool some of the people all the time; but you can't fool all the people all the time.

Democratic County Resolutions.

BE IT RESOLVED, that we the Democrats of Wright County assemble l, reaffirm the principles enunciated by the National Democratic convention of 1892.

That we heartily approve of the courageous course pursued by President Cleveland and the House of Representatives in endeavoring to secure such tariff reform legislation as would relieve the toiling masses from the burdens heaped upon them by the so-called protective tariff.

And that we pledge to these principles of reform our earnest and untiring support.

Get Out and Vote.

It all depends on that. In 1890 when Mr Owen ran for governor he polled 58513 votes, Judge Wilson the Democratic candidate polled 85844, and Merriam 88111. Mr. Owen this year will be certain to poll a greatly increased vote, and the great bulk of his gain over his vote of '92 will come from the Republican ranks. If every Democratic vote is polled, Gen. Becker is elected See that yours is cast, and the whole vote is out.—Aitkin Age.

OBITUARY.

DIED.—At her home in Independence 13th inst., at 8:30 a. m., Mrs. Jane Hoisington, wife of George W. Hoisington, age 65 years.

Mrs. Holsington was born in Canada, in 1829; moved to state of Ohio when 10 years of age; was married to Mr. Hoisington in 1856; and in 1857 came with her husband to Minn., and settled in the south part of Independence Township, where she and her husband hewed out of the primeval forests for themselves a home.

Mrs. Hoisington leaves a husband, two grown up sons, and many friends to mourn her loss. She will be greatly missed by her neighbors and many friends.

Her funeral was preached at Mt. Hermon M. E. Church, Armstrong, by Rev. J. R. Davies, of Brooklyn Center. The text "Im my father's house are many mansions; I go to prepare a place for you." The funeral was largely attended; the house not being able to accommodate all that were present.

Mr. Hoisington and his sons have the sympathy of their friends and neighbors in this the hour of their bereavement. May the cloud of affliction that has overshadowed this household be a warning to the human family that we are but dust; and our stay here is but transient. What is home without a mother?

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE, fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked; keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $750; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

TOM REED, of Maine, was in Minneapolis Wednesday and told his story on the political issues of the day. It was different from that told by McKinley, in St. Paul a short time ago. He is not to speak in St. Paul.

IT appears that the Republican voters of Minneapolis didn't respond to the McKinley kind of politics with alacrity enough to suit the bosses, so they brought "eaut" their thort, stout Reed from Maine to try to whip them into line.

FOR REGISTER OF DEEDS, Isaac Podas, the mate to the treasurer, Frank McKnight, and the other old wheelhorse of the Democratic chariot is about the surest man on the ticket of an election; though his competitor is chasing him pretty closely.

THE Zenith city by the unsalted sea is bound to keep to the front. She has the finest High School building in the state. She nestles on the sunny side of one of the highest and stoniest hills in the state, on the bank of the largest lake in the country. From among her citizens came one of the grandest congressman in the Fifty-third Congress. And now comes the news that her great mill, the Imperial, has broken the worlds record for grinding flour. Duluth is bound to boom in n every line.

CHARLES LINEAU, of St. Paul, is said to be over in Carver county trying to turn voters from O. M. Hall enough to defeat him. Congressman Hall is one of the most influential Congressmen Minnesota ever had; and one of the soundest Democrats. We don't know Mr. Lineau's argument against him but think it would cut a small figure with O. M. on any platform where Charley would dare meet him face to face. It looks to an outsider as if Mr. Lineau would be making more to run his paper in St. Paul than be out on such business; that it would be far more agreeable for him to do so. While our local aspirant to "something" would do better at home, also, than tagging Charley around.

Pick Out Your Ticket.

Election day is coming on, Tuesday November 6th the question of who will be governor and who will fill the other offices of our state, districts and county will be settled for another two years. But one more issue of the GAZETTE appears before that day. The matter rests with you, readers, as to who will be our public servants, who will make our laws and who will administer them. As to what kind of laws we have and how well they are observed. On you devolves the duty of a citizen of the United States to do your best to secure and maintain the best form of government under the sun. Make no mistake. Be careful; use your best judgment in selecting men for each particular place that are the best you can get from those given you on the ticket to select from. Take the ticket on the first page of the GAZETTE, look it over carefully, begin with the name of George L. Becker, Dem. for Governor; make a cross after it. Go on down the list not forgetting to be especially careful to find the name of our present efficient Auditor, Adolph Bierman, Dem. Mark every man you can conscientiously support who has Dem. after his name. If there is one whom you know to be unfit from any cause to fill the position to which he aspires pass him by. After you have got to the bottom go back to the top and count the offices and see that you have marked a man for every place, if you have not, make up your mind as to who you will vote for of those running for the office you have neglected. Mark your man and be sure to leave no Democrat unmarked unless his opponent is a better man.

For most of the offices though four names appear you will observe that but one is markod Democrat, and that you can vote for but one. The exceptions are:

For District judges of the Fourth Judicial District. You can vote for four.

For Chief Justice Supreme Court mark Seagrave Smith.

For Legislators Thirty-eigth Legislative District you can vote for one Senator and for four Representatives.

Three good Democrats are up for the legislature, C. D. Schwab, Willis A. Shaw and C. W. Kerrick.

For County Commissioner be sure to vote for the best man on the ticket in your own district. Come out to the polls and discharge your duty on Nov. 6th, Tuesday. Come to the polls as early as possible before the rush begins and don't get discouraged if you have to wait awhile. It takes some time to mark a ticket after the new style of voting and you have no chance to do so before entering the polls, as the ballot you are to put in the box is given you after you get to the voting place. But if you have followed our advice and know for how many and for what candidates you wish to vote it can be much sooner done than if you have not.

Democratic Couuty Ticket.

FOR AUDITOR, J. C. Niess, a young German, of St. Michaels, is making a thorough canvass of the voters so far as he can get around among them. This end of the county is likely to give him a good vote.

FOR TREASURER, Frank McKnight, of Buffalo, one of the leading wheelhorses of Democracy for two campaigns is swinging around the circle with his usual complacent countenance, indicating that at least he thinks he's all right.

FOR SHERIFF, John Tracy, of Cokato, is hustling. He is a man of fine physique; has a bright and sparkling eye. His experience as a constable, and as deputy sheriff under John C. Nugent for a considerable time will be of great advantage to him in case of his election. John has, in his time, run down and caught several noted characters for whom the law called. His friends are numerous and we wouldn't be surprisee to see John carrying the jail keys around after Jany. 1.

FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE, J. E. Madigan, of Magle Lake, is doing splendid campaign work. He is a young lawyer qualified to keep this important office in proper shape and would take pride in so doing. And wheresoever he goes he is making friends. He has a three cornered fight on his hands but Democrats should not forsake him in his first attempt to become a county officer. Give him your vote.

FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS, A. P. Ritchie, of Annandale, who served as a deputy to F. H. Lindsley, the present incumbent, for some time knows the duties of the office and would give his undivided attention to bring the schools of the county up to a still higher grade than that on which they now stand. He is a young man and will doubtless receive numerous school-maam's votes.

FOR CORONER, Dr. E. A. Shannon, of Buffalo, is one of the most conscientious and painstaking physicians in the county and, with his former experience as coroner of Carver county would make as good a coroner as we could get. Besides, residing as he does, near the center of the county he would be more easily got in case of necessity, and the fees would be materially reduced for mileage and while attending court as the coroner often has to he would be at home and could be called when needed more easily than a man living at the border of the county.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER, Jos. Reems, of Frankfort is a good straight Democrat on the Democratic ticket, has had experience, being now a member of the board, and will doubtless succeed himself in office.

Paul Kennedy, of the 1st district and D. W. Flannigan, of the 4th are riding two horses each and we will have to wait till the close of the race to tell what kind of riders they are.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 19, 1894.

There is a perceptible decrease in the bustle at the headquarters of the Democratic Congressional Campaign committee. The crmpaign has passed the three-quarter post, and is now on the home stretch. The work of the committee reached high-water mark about two weeks ago, and for a time more than a million documents a day were handled. Since then the work has been gradually decreasing, all the documents desired having been sent out, except in near by districts, where documents continue to be sent in small quantities. On the whole members of the committee are fairlr well sttisfied with the work of the campaign, although the lack of money prevented their carrying out the entire programne as it was originally arranged. Chairmaa Faulkner has just completed a revised estimate, based upon the latest information from the Congressinal districts. He doesen't care to make this estimate public, further than to say thst it gives the democrats majority of 20 in the next House, at this time, although he takes pleasure in showing it to democrats who call on him and explaining to them the foundation for each estimate. To make it public might result in the loss of several districts by putting overconfident opponents on their guard.

A little paragraph in the book of appropriation made by the Congress speaks volumes in favor of the democratic party. It is that which shows that the democratic Congress abolished 923 offices, the annual cost of which had been $1.235, 992. That is a bit of practical economy that every voter ought to be able to appreciate.

Whatever else may be said for or against Senator Gorman, no aspersions can with truth be cast upon his lovalty to the democratic party at all times and under all circumstances. Therefore no surprise was felt in Washington when the announcement was made that Senator Gorman would go to New York to help elect Senator Hill, al. though nhe personal relations between the two men have been decidedly unpleasant for some time. In thus laying aside his personal feeling against the head of the ticket and working for the success of the party, Senator Gorman has set an example that might with profit to the party be followed by every democrat who is lukewarm in the support of the ticket because it happens to contain the name of some man whom he personally dislikes, or with whom he is on nnpleasant terms. Ever since the campaign of 1884, when as chairman of tne National Democratic committee he carried New York for Mr. Cleveland and defeated Blaine, Senator Gorman has had great influence in New York, and there is little doubt that his aid will be of great benafit, particularly in New York city, where paaty harmony is so essential at this time.

Army officers are pleased that Secretary Lamont has about made up his mind that they can serve the country better by sticking to the military duties for which they were educated to act as Indian agents, although some othre people are not. It is not expected that there will be any sudden or general change, but that civilians will be gradually appointed Indian agents in place of the army officers now performing that duty until all of the officers have returned to their regiments.

The Chinese minister to this country talks as cheerfully of the war in which his country has up to now been licked as a candidate with a "cinch" does of election day. He remarked complacently to a member of the diplomatic corps, a day or two ago: "Dispite all that Japan has done, despite all the Chinamen killed, we still have an empire of immense size and about 450,000, 000 people left. We have resources of which the world knows nothing. China has not yet raised her hand. When she does she will let it fall npon Japan and crush her as easily as an elephant would crush a rat." To other people it looks as though China were playing the part of the rat.

Secretary Carlisle will certainly make a speech at Louisville before the close of the campaign, and it is probable that he will also make one at Indianapolis and another at New York.

The latest reports from Chairman Wilson's district, brought by those who have carefully gone over the ground, is that he will not only be reelected, but that his majority will exceed that given him in '92. His presence seems to have aroused the enthusiasm of his constituents to an unusual degree.

Postmaster General Bissell returned from his vacation this week and settled down for another long period of work, which he always does with a rush that is wonderful for a man of his size and build.

CORRESPONENCE

The Judgeship.

Communicated.

On the blue colored ballot to be used on election day—Nov. 6th—will appear the names of four persons nominated by the republican party for Judges of District Court of this district and opposite two of the names will appear the words "Republican" "Prohibition" and opposite the other two will appear the word "Republican". Following these four names and separated from them with a heavy line will be the names of four gentlemen, the first of whom will be Joseph H. Wendell with the word "Democrat" after his name and after the names of two of the gentlemen will be the words "People's", "Democrat", "Prohibition", and after the other name of the four will be the words "Peoples", "Democrat". The words after the names show by what party or parties the person has been nominated. After the above names herein above referred to will be printed lengthwise on the ticket "Vote for four". There are but four Judges of the District Court to be elected so no person must vote for more than four of the eight names on the ballot, and should any one chance to vote for more than four of the candidates for that office his entire vote would have to be thrown out and not counted.

Seven of these candidates live in the city of Minneapolis. The district is composed of four counties, Hennepin (in which is situated the city of Minnespolis) Anoka, Isanti and Wright. The other candidate, Mr. Wendell, is and for more than twenty years has been a resident of the last named county, during all of which time he has been actively engaged in the practice of his profession, and is the first candidate ever nominated by any of the parties outside of Hennepin for the office of Judge of the District Court of this District. Shortly after graduating at the law school of Ann Arbor, Michigan, the money for which he had previously earned while working at the carpenter's trade, he came to our county and whether as county attorney or defending the unfortunate, at the trial of a case before the court or addressing the jury, in his office or in social life he has always been found persistent but not overbearing, skillful but not revengeful, firm but not unkind and in all learned in the law. During his long, successful and extensive practice he has gained the lasting friendship of all young attorneys who have either opposed or assisted him in the trial of actions by his just and considerate treatment extended to them. To sum it up Mr. Wendell is a lawyer, a scholar and always a gentleman, having the very makeup of a fair and impartial Judge, and no poor man's liberty or property would suffer by unjust rulings made by him.

We have nothing to say against the other gentlemen nominated and are satisfied that the other three gentlemen named with Mr. Wendell on the ticket are worthy of and should receive your support, bnt as we claim the judiciary should be kept out of politics, and political lines and boundaries in that office should be unnecessary, we would like to urge all voters, whether Democrats, Republicans, People's Party or Prohibitionists to put the cross mark "X" in the proper place after the name of Mr. Wendell and thereby elect him to the office he is so well qualified to fill. Other counties stand by their friends and neighbors, then why should not we? Let us on election day one and all be sure to hunt up the name of Joseph H. Wendell on the blue ballot and give him the benefit of our votes. That is the only way to get recognition for the outside counties, and unless we improve the opportunity when we have it our very inactivity will be used as an argument why recognition should not be given us.

Pronunciation Classes.

THE classes in pronunciation are achieving the noblest work, and were organized to correct the recognized weakness of Americans in this direction. In addition to this mission they instruct in the mother class, which is the guide for all the others, in the proper application and choice of words; where, again, in expressing themselves, Americns are lamentably faulty. In one sitting of the class, a woman of obedient and receptive mind learned that one of the most unforgivable cruelties is to pronounce "Japan," and "mustache" with an accent on the first syllable, since the accent correctly falls on the last; and contrary-wise, in "exquisite" the first syllable, since the accent correctly falls on the last; and, contrary-wise, in "exquisite" the first syllable takes the accent. She was told that such names as "Birmingham," "Rockingham," etc., are properly pronounced as it the final syllable were spelled "em" and not by broadly accenting the "ham." "Patent," according to the most approved laws, is spoken with the a flat, as in "radiant"; while "been" is pronounced just as it is spelled, and not "bin" or "ben," as too many Americans trip it faultily off their tongues. A most grave error is that of pronouncing the letter u as double o; for instance, "duty," "Tuesday" "dew," are often spoken as if writen "dooty," "Toosday," and "doo," while the u and ew should be enunciated as the first u in "furious." Instead of depot, station is given as the proper word; and shop in place of store. All along with this go directions to study moderation in the use of adjectives, which most of us fling like largess through onr conversation, thereby robbing language of half its dignity and impressiveness. The teacher of the class has set her pupils to studying up the correct application of the words "quite," "such," and "as," and lectures roundly on our misuse of "real," when "really" is the proper form. She delivered a small talk on how to address servants, and emphasized the point that members of a family who speak to any servant of the feminine head of the house must call her "your mistress." They must also exact that the servants speak of her as "the mistress." In turn, the masculine head is spoken of as "your master" and "the master." "The young ladies" is the proper designation of the daughters of the house.—FROM "SOCIETY FADS;" DEMOREST'S MAGAZINE FOR NOVEMBER.

A BURSTING can of corn at a Maine "packery" is one of the latest menaces to human life.

A NEW college at Minco, O. T., has a college yell already. It was furnished ready made by an entering class of Comanches and Apaches.

THE most curious paper weight in the world belongs to the prince of Wales. It is the mummified hand of one of the daughters of Pharaoh.

IF the people of Mars have as much trouble over politics as the people of this weary old planet have they certainly can spare no time for signaling to other worlds.

HENRY BAKER, of Passaic, N. J., wants $1,000 damages from the farmer who employed him, and in whose barn he recently got caught in a spring trap. He struck a snap, but didn't like it.

THE first embezzlement case has been reported from far away Alaska. Adelphus Meyer, deputy marshal at Sitka, was arrested for embezzlement of public funds amounting to $2,000. At last Alaska is on the high road towards modern civilization.

THE West Point military academy is making strenuous efforts to do away with hazing. Cadet Corporal William S. Valentine, of the third class, was recently sentenced to dismissal for harassing new cadets by requiring them to execute the leg exercise in their tents in the evening.

SINCE the death of Oliver Wendell Holmes there are only four surviving members of the class of 1829 of Harvard, namely: Dr. Edward L. Cunningham, of Newport, R. I.; Rev. Samuel May (the class secretary), of Leicester; Rev. Samuel F. Smith, of Newton, the author of "America," and Charles S. Storrow, of Boston.

OUTSIDE of tribal and religious differences there is abundance of excitement in India. During 1892 21,988 human beings and 8,668 head of cattle were killed by snakes and wild beasts, the chief human mortality—19,025—being due to snake bites. Tigers claimed 947 human victims; leopards, 260; wolves, 182; bears, 145, and elephants, 72.

THE dread of appendicitis has caused a decreased demand for grapes in the east, the impression having gotten out that grape seeds swallowed produce this inflammation or whatever appendicitis is, and it seems more a fad than anything else. Leading doctors have, however, come to the rescue of the grape and declared it is innocent of any offense in the matter.

FOR the first time in many years a gold quarter of a dollar was redeemed at the subtreasury in Baltimore. The coin was presented by a young man who doubted its validity, but Cashier Goodrich informed him it was good and passed over a bright new silver quarter in exchange. The last issue of gold quarters was in 1870, and coin collectors are offering a premium for them.

THE souvenir half dollar issued in honor of the world's fair is now a current half dollar. A demand having recently sprung up for them Secretary Carlisle issued an order to the subtreasuries directing them to pay out on demand the souvenir coins at the same ratio as the legalized half dollar of the United States, namely, at par with gold. There will be $1,795,980 worth of these pieces afloat.

MRS. JESSIE BENTON FREMONT has been elected president of a new chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution which has been formed in Los Angeles, Cal. The fourteen charter members of the chapter represent many famous colonial patriots. At the opening session tea was brewed in camp kettles that are heirlooms in the Darsey family, and were used by Washington and Lafayette in the revolutionary war.

IT is not generally recalled that Thomas Dunn English, the author of the world-famous song "Ben Bolt," is a native of Philadelphia and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. Just now, at the age of 75, he is enjoying a renewal of his early laurels in the prominence given to his song in the pages of "Trilby," the popular novel. He is a member of congress from the Newark (N. J.) district, is still hearty and well preserved.

A FIGURE moving by electricity, measuring 6 feet in height and singing songs, has been perambulating the streets of New York. The electric man moves his head, arms and legs as though instinct with life, and can walk about 12 miles an hour. The figure is attired in evening dress, with a white necktie, the boots are made of iron, with soles of very strong and durable leather. The motion of the arms and legs is performed with the greatest regularity, so that the automaton never loses its balance. When singing its mouth opens and closes as occasion requires.

THE late Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes was the man who perfected the stereoscope, and he also made improvements in the microscope. These matters he referred to as mere incidents of his life. The Springfield (Mass.) Republican recalls that he was not ardent in the early anti-slavery cause and was never in accord with the abolitionists, but when the war cloud fell he became one of the most enthusiastic patriots of the times and wrote many poems which are not surpassed in that era of great feeling and greater deeds. His life work will never be forgotten.

IT is interesting to note how the maps issued by our great railroad lines pervert the truth of geography for the companies' own ends. A map of the United States made up of railway maps pieced together would be a geographical crazy quilt that would present a grotesque caricature of this great country and represent it as a tract for which no fitting place could be found on the face of the globe. At the same time there are parts of the country that have never been minutely laid down on any widely circulated map save those issued by railway companies.

AT FRIGHTFUL COST.

A Mob Repulsed and the Law Vindicated in Bloodshed.

Would-Be Lynchers Attempt to Secure Possession of a Colored Brute—Three Are Killed and Twelve Wounded.

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O., Oct. 19.—Three men were killed and almost a dozen injured, some fatally, by the militia here Wednesday evening in the endeavor to keep mobs from lynching William Dolby, colored.

Dolby was brought here on Tuesday, and Tuesday night the first mob rumors took shape. The local militia was ordered out, and later two companies from Columbus reached here. Much indignation was manifested at the action of the officials in thus putting a bar between the mob and their prey, and on all sides denunciations were frequent. All classes were represented among those who took this view of the situation, though many deplored the lawless spirit manifested.

Later in the day a special grand jury was impannelled and the negro was indicted. The militia companies formed at the west side of the court house while the sheriff and Deputy James Busick went to the jail for the prisoner.

Struck Down by a Soldier.

The sheriff and his deputies had hardly emerged from the jail door when the acknowledged leader of the crowd, Henry Kirk, who married Mrs. Boyd's sister, rushed toward the trembling wretch, protected by the sworn officers of the law, and breaking the thin ranks of the stalwart guard seized the culprit with a hand of iron. Quick as a flash the musket of a soldier was swung with great force and Mr. Kirk was dealt a blow in the face. The angry crowd rushed madly forward and in the rush swept one gallant boy around the corner and away from his company but he quickly returned to his post.

The curses and imprecations of the thoroughly maddened crowd grew in volume and the wretched prisoner trembled like an aspen. His saddle color became purple and he had to be supported. Col. Coit rallied his men for a supreme effort and the prisoner was almost carried up the steps and into the courthouse. There was then a scene of intense excitement, men armed with staves and any form of weapon rushed blindly almost onto the bayonets of the soldiery and some so far forgot themselves as to rush almost on the troops.

Warned the Mob.

Col. Coit, commanding the troops, stopped on the steps of the courthouse to warn the excited people to disperse, and after his earnest warning had fallen on deaf ears, he shouted: "Load," and there was a uniform clicking of hammers and every soldier prepared his piece for trouble, if trouble must come.

Pleaded Guilty.

Once up to the third floor of the courthouse and into the room where the trial is held, Dolby was soon legally declared a criminal. At exactly 3:52 he was led into the courtroom, pleaded guilty, and in three minutes he was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment, ten days in each year in solitary confinement.

Meanwhile the mob was clamoring for admission. The crowd grew in numbers and the accessions proved an inspiration to the tired leaders, who had exhausted themselves.

Called for Reinforcements.

Col. Coit at this juncture telephoned the adjutant general at Columbus for 200 additional troops. "If you want me to bring the man to Columbus," said Col. Coit, with characteristic emphasis, "I will do it, but it will cost blood." Col. Coit then made a speech to the crowd.

"It looks very much," said he, "as if you intend to make an attack on the legal authorities. There will be trouble if you do. I call on law-abiding citizens to disperse and go to their homes."

Attacked the Courthouse.

This was received as other warnings had been. The prisoner had been taken to a back room in the sheriff's office on the third floor. At 6:10 the crowd, largely augmented, surrounded the building and with huge improvised battering rams battered the doors in rapid succession. The troops were hastened together in the courthouse at all entrances. The doors were barricaded from within and furniture piled against them. The soldiers stood with pieces cocked and bayonets fixed and waited till the doors would yield. Huge stones were thrown against the doors and the noise was deafening. All the time loud and angry yells came from the crowd. Col. Coit went into the crowd and said: "If any man of you hit one of my men I will direct him to aim directly at that man's heart."

Fired on the Mob.

At 7:55 the south doors were broken and immediately there was a deafening and continuous volley from two score of muskets. A pandemonium of yells and curses and a dense smoke filled the corridors. The law had been vindicated at frightful cost, for this was the list of dead and of wounded:

The Victims.

KILLED—James Judy, aged 25; Smith Welch, aged 19, and Mack Johnson, of Williamsburg, Clermont county.

WOUNDED—Hugh Ammerman, shot through the hips, dangerous; F. L. Nitterhouse, shot through both ankles, one foot almost severed, since amputated; Rial Parrott, shot in foot; John McCune, shot in leg; John Korn, shot in foot; Emert Ellis, thumb shot off; George Keating, 14 years old, shot in both legs and groin; William Sams, fatally shot through the bowels; Frank Smith, flesh wound in face; DeWitt Dale, shot in arm; William Laum, shot in abdomen; Ellis Webster, shot in body.

It was reported at midnight that three attempts had been made to place dynamite under the courthouse. It was said that a large quantity of the explosive was wheeled to the building in a hand cart, and that the dynamiters were frustrated by the militia in each attempt.

The leaders stated at midnight that the plan to lynch Dolby would probably be abandoned but that he would be riddled with bullets when led from the courthouse to the railroad train. Fully two-thirds of the active members of the crowd were armed with revolvers.

Dolby Taken to the Penitentiary.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 20.—Dolby, the assaulter of Mrs. Mary C. Boyd, was successfully taken from the county jail at Washington Court House early Thursday morning and brought to the penitentiary under escort of four companies of the Fourteenth regiment.

Two More Victims.

William Sams and Hugh Ammerman, wounded in the riot, have since died. This increases the death list to five.

DAGMAR MARIE FEODOROVNA, EMPRESS OF RUSSIA.

Recent reports are to the effect that the Czarina will be the virtual ruler of the Russian empire until her husband's recovery from his present serious illness, or his death. The empress is forty-seven years of age, a daughter of the King of Denmark and sister of the Princess of Wales. She is said to be a woman of remarkable executive ability and almost marvelous tact, and has always shown a keen interest in the welfare of the Russian people.

A DISASTER IN RIO JANEIRO.

Three Score Persons Killed by Careless Handling of Dynamite.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 24.—Capt. Hudgins, of the coffee bark Dom Pedro II., now in port, gives a graphic description of a dynamite explosion that occurred in Rio Janeiro a few days prior to September 6, when his vessel sailed for Baltimore, whereby sixty persons were killed. A Brazilian soldier discovered, near the English cemetery, a subterranean magazine, in which the insurgents of the recent rebellion had concealed a large quantity of gunpowder, cartridges and dynamite shells, which they evidently intended using against the government. The soldier reported his find to the general commanding, and a rough cart, drawn by two mules, was sent to the scene to remove the contents of the hidden magazine to a place of safety.

A detachment of soldiers accompanied the cart and a curious crowd of citizens followed it to the little hill which had been dug out to hold the explosives. A quantity of the shells had been placed in the cart and a pile of others had been passed out close behind it, when one of the soldiers while in the act of handling a shell dropped it among the others. The same second an explosion shook the earth. A sheet of flame shot upward, and a cloud of whitish smoke hid everything from view. The vessels in the harbor rocked at their moorings, and the entire city was thrown into wild excitement. More than a ton of dynamite had exploded from the dropping of the shell. The soldiers and mules were blown into fragments, and only the iron tires of the cart wheels were found.

MARKED MEN.

Chinese Highbinders Seek the Death of Chicago Officials.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—The Chinese of this city are excited and the fire department worried over the fact that a Celestial bulletin has been issued offering $500 reward for the death of Inspector Conway or Inspector Cowie of the city fire department. Some time ago a Chinese witness in an arson case disappeared. The police authorities looked high and low for the man, but the power of the Six Companies was great. Then, to break the spirit of the heathen, the police began a system of raids that landed from thirty to fifty Mongols in the station house each night for playing fan-tan or opium smoking. This disconcerted the Chinese, and a yellow unfortunate told the detectives that circulars had been distributed among the faithful offering the above reward for the death of either of the two inspectors who had been so active in pursuing Hip Lung, the errant witness. The informant said that negotiations have been conducted with New York highbinders looking toward having an eastern thug come west and end Conway and Cowie's existence.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

Employes in the Carter County Mining District Attacked by Strikers.

ASHLAND, Ky., Oct. 20.—The outbreak that has been expected for some days in the Carter county mining district, came Thursday morning in the ambushing of the miners of the Straight Creek Coal company by the strikers. The miners were fired upon from the bushes along the hills as they were enroute to the mine and a number were wounded. Jack Marcum and John Morris were fatally shot, while Bob Evans, John Adams and several whose names were not secured, were also reported as badly injured. The bullets in each case came from Winchester rifles. During the balance of the day the appearance of a miner at the pit mouth or the tippie was a signal for renewed firing. Word was sent to Grayson, the county seat, and the sheriff and a posse of deputies were quickly summoned. They spent the day scouring the hills and succeeded in capturing George Tyree, James Coburn, Bob and John Taylor, Will Sneed and two others, but these men were unarmed when found and protested innocence. They were removed, however, to Grayson for safe keeping and will be held for further developments. The excitement is intense and extra guards are out, as further trouble is expected.

COOK'S GANG.

The Noted Band of Desperadoes Attack a Train—They Secure Little.

PARSONS, Kan., Oct. 22.—The Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 223, on the Kansas and Arkansas Valley branch, was held up by four or five masked men at Coretta siding, 7 miles east of Wagoner, I. T., at 10 o'clock Saturday night. An empty car was placed on the main track and the train struck it. The robbers commenced a terrible onslaught and two men are reported shot. But little money is said to have been secured. All the cars excepting the sleeper were shot full of holes and not a whole window remained.

Express officials say that their loss would not exceed $1,000. The train carried a small amount in the local safe and the robbers were unable to break into the through safe. While two of the robbers were at work in the express car the others went through the train demanding the money and valuables of the passengers. Before they had completed their work a freight train drew in sight and Cook ordered his followers out of the train. Firing a parting volley at the train they rode off in a northerly direction.

FURIOUS STORMS.

The British Coast Swept Leaving Death and Destruction Behind.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—A fierce gale raged along the British coast Saturday and Sunday, causing many casualties. The wind was so strong and the seas so high that the channel boats were greatly delayed. The Warner lightship, while being towed from Spithead to her station, broke away from the tugboat when near New Haven and was driven shoreward. A boat was lowered to replace the towline, but a heavy sea capsized it and four of its occupants were drowned. The lightship made leeway rapidly and was soon driven ashore.

The loss to the owners of fishing vessels is large, many of their boats having been destroyed. At Sunderland a life brigadesman, who had volunteered to assist in the rescue of the crew of a bark which had been driven ashore near there, tripped upon a rope which had been suddenly tautened by the pressure of the onlookers upon it and fell into the sea and was drowned. A man who was fixing a sign in front of a theater in Sunderland was blown into the street and killed. Much damage was done on land by the storm.

FROUDE IS DEAD.

Great Historian and Religious Writer Passes Away at London.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—James Anthony Froude, LL. D., the celebrated religious writer and historian, died at 6:30 a. m. Saturday, aged 76 years.

[James Anthony Froude, LL. D., youngest son of the late venerable R. H. Froude, archdeacon of Totnes, was born at Darlington, Devonshire, April 23, 1818, was educated at Westminster and at Oriel college, Oxford, where he was graduated in 1840. In 1842 he became a fellow of Exeter college. He was ordained a deacon in the Church of England in 1844. His theological writings were condemned by the university authorities and he accepted an appointment which he had received to a teachership in Tasmania.

It was in 1856 that he published the first two volumes of his "History of England From the Fall of Wolsey to the Defeat of the Spanish Armada." The twelfth and final volume appeared in 1870. In the autumn of 1872 Mr. Froude visited the United States and delivered a series of lectures on the relations between Great Britain and Ireland, taking the position that the Irish were themselves to blame for a large proportion of the difficulties in which their country has been involved, because of their own internal jealousies. During the last year of his life, he devoted most of his time and attention to the writing of books, acting as the editor of several magazines. His health had been gradually failing until he was able to move about his house and garden no longer.]

PINE LAND FRAUDS.

Four Persons in Wisconsin Indicted on Several Counts.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 23.—Some of the results of the recent session of the federal grand jury were seen Saturday when four individuals were arraigned before Judge Bunn to answer the various charges in connection with alleged pine land frauds in the Ashland region. The arraignments were as follows:

Warren E. McCord, of Chippewa Falls, for conspiracy to defraud the United States of public lands and for perjury; Robert C. Heydlauff, receiver of the Ashland land office during the Harrison administration, for conspiracy, perjury, forgery, embezzlement and presenting false claims against the government; Arthur R. Osborne, of Ashland, for conspiracy; Mrs. Gussie L. Andrews, of Iron River, for conspiracy.

The indictments are numerous and bulky, with many counts.

The Business Situation.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Bradstreet's says:

"With few exceptions the leading features of the business situation this week have been those of continued moderate improvement, although the total volume of business, so far as indicated by bank clearings throughout the country, will require considerable expansion to compare favorably with corresponding totals two years ago. Nearly all the more important business centers west and northwest report moderate activity, but few of them announce new features.

Struck by a Train.

FARGO, N. D., Oct. 23.—The incoming passenger train on the Great Northern, about 6:15 Monday evening, ran into Ole K. Sherman at the first crossing east of Moorehead, killing both horses and wounding Sherman, although not fatally.
